This Order is issued in response to the memorandum decision issued by the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit on Plaintiff's appeal. (Doc. # 92.)¹

I. BACKGROUND

District Judge Robert C. Jones issued a screening order (Doc. # 9) on Plaintiff's Amended Complaint (Doc. # 10) on January 14, 2011, allowing certain claims to proceed, dismissing certain claims with and without prejudice, and dismissing certain defendants. Specifically, all claims against the State of Nevada, Nevada Department of Corrections, Ely State Prison (ESP), High Desert State Prison (HDSP), and other defendants sued in their official capacities were dismissed with prejudice. (Doc. # 9 at 15.) In addition, defendants K. Mellinger, R. Daniels, and L.C. Adams were dismissed. (Id.) Substantively, the court dismissed all of

1 Plaintiff's claims with prejudice except that: (1) Count I was dismissed with leave to amend to
2 plead a First Amendment free exercise and RLUIPA claim; and (2) the Eighth Amendment
3 claims in Counts VI and VII were allowed to proceed. (Id. at 16.)
4

5 Plaintiff did not file an amended complaint with respect to the First Amendment free
6 exercise and RLUIPA claim in Count I. In Count VI, Plaintiff alleges that his Eighth 7 Amendment rights were violated when certain defendants were deliberately indifferent to his 8 serious medical need when they caused him to wait sixty-five days for treatment for an abscess
9 that resulted from a decayed tooth. (Doc. # 10 at 31-32.) In Count VII, Plaintiff alleges that 10 certain defendants were deliberately indifferent to his serious medical need when they failed to 11 provide proper treatment for an ear infection in his left ear. (Doc. # 10 at 34-37.)
12

13 On October 11, 2011, Defendants filed a Motion to Dismiss. (Doc. # 48.) They argued:
14 (1) Plaintiff failed to exhaust his administrative remedies with respect to Count VI; and 15 (2) Plaintiff has not alleged defendants Baca, Bannister, Cox, Graham, Hartman, Morrow,
16 Neven, and Skolnik violated the Constitution through their own actions in Count VII. (Id.)
17

18 After the matter was fully briefed, the undersigned issued a report and recommendation
19 that the motion be granted in part and denied in part. (Doc. # 55.) The undersigned recommended
20 that the motion to dismiss be denied insofar as Defendants argued Plaintiff failed to exhaust his 21 administrative remedies as to Count VI. (Id. at 7.) With respect to Count VII, the court
22 determined that Plaintiff had not properly plead a supervisory liability claim as to defendants
23 Bannister, Hartman, Morrow, Baca, Neven, Cox, and Skolnik; however, the court recommended
24 that Plaintiff be permitted to amend his complaint to correct these deficiencies. (Id. at 11.)
25 Additionally, the undersigned recommended that the motion to dismiss be granted, without leave
26 to amend, as to defendant Graham. (Id.)
27
28

1 On June 14, 2012, District Judge Robert C. Jones issued an order adopting and accepting
2 the report and recommendation. (Doc. # 66.)

3 As a result, the action proceeded as to Count VI against defendant Dr. Hanson (the 4 dentist) and defendants Baca, Bannister, Cox, Hartman, Neven, and Skolnik (on a theory of 5 supervisory liability) and as to Count VII against defendant Clark.
6

7 Defendants then filed a motion for summary judgment on May 9, 2012 (Doc. # 58), and 8 Plaintiff filed a cross-motion for summary judgment on May 29, 2012 (Doc. # 62). When the 9 motions were fully briefed, the undersigned issued a report and recommendation recommending 10 that Defendants' motion for summary judgment be granted and that Plaintiff's cross-motion for 11 summary judgment be denied. (Doc. # 79.)
12

13 On December 10, 2012, District Judge Robert C. Jones issued an order adopting and 14 accepting the report and recommendation. (Doc. # 83.) Judgment was entered the following day.
15 (Doc. # 84.) Plaintiff appealed. (Doc. # 85.) In his notice of appeal, Plaintiff identified the 16 following as the principal issues to be raised on appeal: (1) the failure to appoint counsel;
17 (2) the failure to permit Plaintiff to amend Counts I-V and VIII-X (which were dismissed on 18 screening); (3) the granting of Defendants' motion for summary judgment and denial of 19 Plaintiff's cross-motion for summary judgment; and (4) the refusal to permit discovery. (Id.)
20
21

22 The United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit issued its memorandum
23 decision on March 19, 2014, affirming in part, reversing in part, and remanding the action. (Doc.
24 # 92.) The Ninth Circuit affirmed the grant of summary judgment in favor of defendant Clark in 25 Count VII. (Id. at 2.) Next, the Ninth Circuit determined the court did not abuse its discretion in 26 denying Plaintiff's motion for appointment of counsel. (Id.)
27
28

1 As to Count VI, the Ninth Circuit reversed the grant of summary judgment to defendant
2 Hanson, and remanded the claim, finding that Hanson did not provide evidence explaining the 3 delay in treatment of Plaintiff's dental problem such that a triable dispute remained as to whether 4 he acted with deliberate indifference. (Id.) Because the decision to grant summary judgment as to 5 supervisory defendants Baca, Bannister, Cox, Hartman, Morrow, and Neven was based on the 6 conclusion that Hanson did not act with deliberate indifference, the Ninth Circuit reversed the 7 grant of summary judgment as to these defendants as well, and remanded for further
8 proceedings. (Id. at 3.) As a result of the reversal and remand, the Ninth Circuit did not consider 9 whether the court abused its discretion in denying Plaintiff's request for discovery included in his 10 opposition to summary judgment. (Id.)

11
12
13 Finally, the Ninth Circuit found that the court prematurely dismissed, without leave to 14 amend, claims in its order filed on January 14, 2011, stating that "it is not 'absolutely clear' that 15 the deficiencies cannot be cured by amendment." (Id.) As such, the Ninth Circuit reversed and 16 remanded for the court to provide Plaintiff with notice of the deficiencies in the complaint and to 17 allow him to amend. (Id.)

18 II. DISCUSSION

19
20 In view of the Ninth Circuit's decision, the court has taken the initial step of reviewing 21 the claims in Counts I-V and VIII-X, that were originally dismissed with prejudice on screening.
22 As set forth in detail below, and in accordance with the decision of the Ninth Circuit, the court
23 will allow certain of Plaintiff's claims to proceed, and advises Plaintiff as to the deficiencies with 24 respect to others, instructing him to amend, if possible. Once the status of the operative 25 complaint (or any amended complaint) is settled, the court will issue further necessary orders or 26 conduct a status conference to address how the action will proceed.
27
28

1 A. COUNT I

2 1. Fourteenth Amendment

3 a. Allegations

4
5 In the First Amended Complaint, Plaintiff alleges that his rights under the Fourteenth
6 Amendment were violated by defendants Baca, Morrow, Garcia, Graham, Nash, Deal, Wuest,
7 Baker and Drain when they, as classification committee members, deprived Plaintiff of due
8 process related to his placement in administrative segregation. (Doc. # 10 at 11 ¶ 1.) He further 9 asserts that defendants Neven, Scillia, McDaniel and Cox indirectly violated his rights because 10 he made them aware of the due process deprivation and they did nothing to remedy the situation.
11 (Id. ¶ 2.)

13 Plaintiff alleges that as a result of their action, he was subject to conditions of 14 confinement that imposed an "atypical and significant hardship in relation to the ordinary 15 incidents of prison life." (Id. at 12 ¶ 3.) Plaintiff asserts his confinement to segregation was 16 indefinite. (Id.)

17
18 Plaintiff contends that on July 1, 2009, he was served with a notice that he was being 19 placed in administrative segregation and would receive a hearing within three days. (Id. ¶ 5.)
20 Plaintiff then listed the names of the witnesses he wished to call and sought the production of 21 video evidence. (Id.) Plaintiff claims, however, that the hearing was not held by defendants Baca,
22 Morrow and Garcia within three days, and he was then placed in segregated housing. (Id. at 12-23 13 ¶ 6.) Plaintiff filed an emergency grievance stating that he had not received his hearing and 24 asked to be released from segregation, but received no response. (Id. at 13 ¶ 7.) After 25 approximately fifty days, on August 19, 2009, Plaintiff was released from segregation, only to be 26 returned there on September 11, 2009. (Id. ¶ 8.) Plaintiff acknowledges he received a notice he 27
28

1 would be placed in segregated housing this second time, but once again, he did not receive a
2 hearing before the committee before he was retained in segregated housing. (Id.) He says the 3 defendants responsible for this were Baca, Morrow and Graham. (Id.)
4

5 Then, fifty-eight days later, on November 7, 2009, Plaintiff alleges he attended a
6 disciplinary hearing. (Id. at 13 ¶ 9.) Plaintiff was convicted and received time in disciplinary 7 segregation, but appears to complain that the time he already spent in administrative segregation,
8 which he contends was the same as disciplinary segregation, should have been applied to that
9 punishment. (Id.)
10

11 Next, Plaintiff alleges that between November 7, 2009, and December 15, 2009, he was 12 arbitrarily classified and transferred from a medium custody facility to a maximum custody
13 facility, but did not receive the requisite forty-eight hour written notice or a hearing before a 14 three member panel. (Id. at 14 ¶ 10.) He implicates defendant Nash in connection with this 15 allegation. (Id.) On December 15, 2009, Plaintiff arrived at ESP's segregated housing unit, and 16 without notice or a hearing, Plaintiff's disciplinary segregation time was suspended and he was 17 placed in administrative segregation. (Id. ¶ 11.)
18

19 On January 7, 2010, Plaintiff was returned to HDSP's segregation unit. (Id.) He asserts
20 this was also without notice or a hearing, as a result of the conduct of defendants Baca, Morrow,
21 and Wuest. (Id.) 156 days later, Plaintiff was returned to ESP and was placed in administrative 22 segregation by defendants Drain and Baker. (Id. ¶ 12.) Despite his requests to them, these 23 defendants told him he would not receive a hearing and would remain in administrative 24 segregation indefinitely. (Id.) Plaintiff advised defendant Skolnik of this, to no avail. (Id. at 15 ¶ 25 13.)
26
27
28

1 Plaintiff alleges that in these segregated housing units he has been denied participation in 2 the inmate food or clothing package program while general population inmates receive up to four 3 packages through this program per year. (Id. ¶ 14.) Plaintiff asserts he is denied access to his 4 personal clothing, while general population inmates receive their clothing. (Id. ¶ 15.) He is only 5 allowed to shower every seventy-two hours, and is escorted to and from the showers in only his 6 underwear and in hand and ankle shackles, placing his health in danger because he is forced to 7 kneel on his bare knees in dirt, hair, waste, fecal matter, urine, lint, bacterial and soap scum,
8 while general population inmates walk to the showers every day, unshackled, in a bathrobe or 9 other clothing, and shower in a sanitary manner. (Id.)
10

12 He further avers that he does not have a personal coat to wear outside in cold weather and 13 must wear the same unsanitary coat that forty-eight other inmates wear or be denied outdoor 14 exercise, while general population inmates can wear their own coats. (Id. ¶ 16.) He is not 15 permitted to wear gloves or take water outside while general population inmates have access to 16 water, soda, coffee, or cocoa, and gloves. (Id. at 15-16 ¶ 16.)
17

18 Plaintiff is confined to his cell twenty-four hours a day and is isolated from contact with 19 other inmates. (Id. at 16 ¶ 7.) He cannot converse with staff, and cannot view other people. (Id.)
20 If inmates in the unit want to talk to another, they must shout loudly which also deprives inmates
21 of sleep. (Id.)
22

23 Plaintiff claims he is housed with mentally ill inmates who constantly bang on items in 24 their cells, flood their cells, light fires, scream obscenities, and flush their toilets, which causes
25 officers to spray mace in the units. (Id. ¶ 18.)
26

27 Plaintiff contends that unlike general population inmates, he has been denied access to 28 religious services and rehabilitative programs. (Id. ¶ 19.)

1 b. Analysis

2 The Fourteenth Amendment provides, “[n]o State shall...deprive any person of life,
3 liberty, or property, without due process of law.” U.S. Const. amend XIV, § 1. To invoke its 4 protections, an inmate “must establish that one of these interests is at stake.” Wilkinson v.
5 Astrue, 545 U.S. 209, 221 (2005); see also Wolff v. McDonnell, 418 U.S. 539, 558 (1974);
6 Chappell v. Mandeville, 706 F.3d 1052, 1062 (9th Cir. 2013). Once the plaintiff has established
7 that one of these interests is at stake, the court’s analysis turns to whether the inmate suffered a
8 denial of adequate procedural protections. See Biggs v. Terhune, 334 F.3d 910, 913 (9th Cir.
9 2003) (citations omitted).

10
12 “A liberty interest may arise from the Constitution itself, by reason of guarantees implicit 13 in the word ‘liberty,’ ...or it may arise from an expectation or interest created by state laws or 14 policies[.]” Wilkinson, 545 U.S. at 221 (citing Vitek v. Jones, 445 U.S. 480, 493-94 (1980) 15 (finding a liberty interest in avoiding involuntary psychiatric treatment and transfer to mental 16 institution under Due Process Clause itself) and Wolff v. McDonnell, 418 U.S. 539, 556-558 17 (1974) (finding a liberty interest in avoiding withdrawal of state-created system of good-time
18 credits)); see also Chappell, 706 F.3d at 1062 (citing Mendoza v. Blodgett, 960 F.2d 1425, 1428 19 (9th Cir. 1992)).

20
22 First, under the Constitution itself, a liberty interest is implicated when the conditions of 23 confinement “[exceed] the sentence in such an unexpected manner as to give rise to protection 24 by the Due Process Clause of its own force.” Mitchell v. Dupnik, 75 F.3d 517, 523 (9th Cir.
25 1996) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted); see also Chappel, 706 F.3d at 1062-63 26 (citations and internal quotation marks omitted) (“[a]s long as the conditions or degree of 27 confinement to which the prisoner is subjected is within the sentence imposed upon him and is 28

1 not otherwise violative of the Constitution, the Due Process Clause does not in itself subject an
2 inmate’s treatment by prison authorities to judicial oversight.”) (holding that “investigative 3 contraband watch is the type of condition of confinement that is ordinarily contemplated by the 4 sentence imposed.”). The Ninth Circuit has recognized that “only the most extreme changes in 5 the conditions of confinement” such as “involuntary commitment to a mental institution” and 6 “forced administration of psychotropic drugs” have been found to “directly invoke the 7 protections of the Due Process Clause.” Chappell, 706 F.3d at 1063 (citing Vitek v. Jones, 445
8 U.S. 480, 493-94 (1980) and Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210, 221-22 (1990)). Other
9 circumstances where a liberty interest has been found as arising from the Due Process Clause
10 itself include: revocation of probation, Gagnon v. Scarpelli, 411 U.S. 778 (1973); revocation of 11 parole status (not just mere denial of parole), Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471 (1972); and 12 labeling an inmate as a sex offender, Neal v. Shimoda, 131 F.3d 818 (9th Cir. 1997).

13
15
16 Second, “[a] state may create a liberty interest through statutes, prison regulations, and 17 policies.” Chappell, 706 F.3d at 1063 (citing Wilkinson v. Austin, 545 U.S. 209, 222 (2005) and 18 Neal v. Shimoda, 131 F.3d 818, 827 (9th Cir. 1997).

19 In Meachum v. Fano, the Supreme Court held that “the Constitution itself does not give 20 rise to a liberty interest in avoiding transfer to more adverse conditions of confinement.”
21 Wilkinson, 545 U.S. at 221-22 (citing Meachum v. Fano, 427 U.S. 215, 225 (1976) (confinement
22 in any of state’s institutions is within normal limits or range of custody which the conviction
23 authorized state to impose)). However, as indicated above, “a liberty interest in avoiding 24 particular conditions of confinement may arise from state policies or regulations, subject to the 25 important limitations set forth in Sandin v. Conner[.]” Wilkinson, 545 U.S. at 222 (citing 26 Sandin). Sandin rejected the previously employed approach for evaluating whether there was a 27
28

1 state-created liberty interest which looked at the mandatory language of prison regulations. See
2 id. (citing Sandin, 515 U.S. at 481). Instead, Sandin directed that it was more important to look at 3 the “nature of the deprivation.” Id. (citing Sandin, 515 U.S. at 481).

4
5 Sandin held that liberty interests created by the state are generally limited to “freedom
6 from restraints which, while not exceeding the sentence in such an unexpected manner as to give 7 rise to protection by the Due Process Clause of its own force, nonetheless imposes atypical and 8 significant hardship on the inmate in relation to the ordinary incidents of prison life.” Sandin,
9 515 U.S. at 483-84; see also Wilkinson, 545 U.S. at 222-23 (quoting Sandin); Chappell, 706 F.3d
10 at 1063-64 (recognizing the same).

11
12 The Supreme Court has thus far declined to establish a “baseline from which to measure
13 what is atypical and significant in any particular prison system.” Wilkinson, 545 U.S. at 223
14 (noting inconsistent conclusions among the circuits, but concluding that assignment to Ohio’s 15 “Supermax” facility satisfied this standard “under any plausible baseline”). However, the Ninth 16 Circuit has concluded that in order to determine whether a restraint imposes “atypical and 17 significant hardship,” a court considers a condition or combination of conditions or factors on a
18 case by case basis, rather than invoking a single standard. See Chappell, 706 F.3d at 1064
19 (quoting Keenan v. Hall, 83 F.3d 1083, 1089 (9th Cir. 1996) (confirming that the inquiry is 20 “context-dependent” and requires “fact by fact consideration”); see also Serrano v. Francis, 345 21 F.3d 1071, 1078 (9th Cir. 2003); Ramirez v. Galaza, 334 F.3d 850, 861 (9th Cir. 2003) (“[t]here 22 is no single standard for determining whether a prison hardship is atypical and significant” and 23 each analysis requires “case by case, fact by fact consideration.”).

24
25 At least three factors have been used to guide this inquiry: (1) “whether the conditions of 26 confinement ‘mirrored those conditions imposed upon inmates in analogous discretionary
27
28

1 confinement settings, namely administrative segregation and protective custody;” (2) “the 2 duration and intensity of the conditions of confinement;” and (3) “whether the change in
3 confinement would ‘inevitably affect the duration of [the prisoner’s] sentence.’” Chappell, 706
4 F.3d at 1064-65 (italics and alteration in original) (quoting Pifer v. Marshall, 139 F.3d 907 (9th
5 Cir. Feb. 24, 1998) (unpublished)); see also Serrano, 345 F.3d at 1078 (citing Sandin, 515 U.S.
6 at 486-87); Keenan, 84 F.3d at 1089. Thus, “Sandin requires a factual comparison between 7 conditions in general population or administrative segregation (whichever is applicable) and 8 disciplinary segregation, examining the hardship caused by the prisoner’s challenged action in 9 relation to the basic conditions of life as a prisoner.” Jackson v. Carey, 353 F.3d 750, 755 (9th
10 Cir. 2003).

13 If a liberty interest is implicated, when an inmate is placed in segregated housing, he 14 must be provided, within a reasonable time after such placement, with an informal, non-15 adversary review of the evidence justifying the decision to segregate the inmate. See Hewitt v.
16 Helms, 459 U.S. 460, 476 (1983), abrogated in part on other grounds by Sandin v. Conner, 515
17 U.S. 472 (1995). After being placed in segregation, prison officials must periodically review the 18 initial placement. See Hewitt, 459 U.S. at 477 n. 9.

21 By contrast, when an inmate faces disciplinary charges, due process requires that he 22 receive: (1) written notice of charges; (2) at least twenty-four hours between the time the 23 prisoner receives the written notice and the time of the hearing, so that the prisoner may prepare 24 his defense; (3) a written statement by the hearing officer of the evidence relied upon and the 25 reasons for taking disciplinary action; (4) the right to call witnesses in his defense, when 26 permitting him to do so would not be unduly hazardous to institutional safety or correctional 27

1 goals; and (5) legal assistance if the prisoner is illiterate or the issues presented are legally
2 complex. Wolff v. McDonnell, 418 U.S. 539, 556 (1974).²

3
4 Upon further review of Plaintiff's allegations, and in light of the Ninth Circuit's decision,
5 the court finds Plaintiff states a colorable claim for denial of his due process rights under the 6 Fourteenth Amendment in Count I. Plaintiff has alleged facts that the conditions of confinement
7 in segregation, whether administrative or disciplinary segregation, do not mirror those in general
8 population. While not all of the facts alleged are indicative of the type of "atypical and 9 significant hardship" required by Sandin, he includes averments that plausibly suggest the denial
10 of a protected liberty interest, including that unlike general population inmates, he is in his cell
11 twenty-four hours a day, isolated from all contact with others; he is housed with mentally ill
12 inmates who create disturbances at all hours; he is denied access to religious and rehabilitative
13 programs; and that his showers are limited in number and take place under much more restrictive
14 conditions than general population inmates. Coupled with the allegation that his confinement to 15 segregation is indefinite, Plaintiff has sufficiently alleged the deprivation of a liberty interest. He 16 further contends he was not afforded the requisite due process in connection with his placement
17 in segregation. Accordingly, Plaintiff may proceed with this claim against defendants Baca, 18 Morrow, Garcia, Graham, Nash, Deal, Wuest, Baker, Drain, Neven, Scillia, McDaniel and Cox.
19
20
21

22 2. Equal Protection

23 Plaintiff also alleges that the facts asserted in Count I give rise to an equal protection 24 claim.

25 The Fourteenth Amendment prohibits the denial of "the equal protection of the laws."
26 U.S. Const. amend XIV, § 1. "Prisoners are protected under the Equal Protection Clause of the 27

28 ² Inmates are not entitled to the aid of trained legal counsel. Wolff, 418 U.S. at 591-92, n. 2.

1 Fourteenth Amendment from invidious discrimination based on race.” Wolff v. McDonnell, 418
2 U.S. 539, 556 (1974). “The Equal Protection Clause requires the State to treat all similarly
3 situated people equally.” Furnace v. Sullivan, 705 F.3d 1021, 1030 (9th Cir. 2013) (quoting
4 Shakur v. Schriro, 514 F.3d 878, 891 (9th Cir. 2008) (internal quotation marks omitted)).
5
6 “Although the Equal Protection Clause ensures similarly situated persons are treated alike, it
7 does not ensure absolute equality.” Bruce v. Ylst, 351 F.3d 1283, 1288 (9th Cir. 2003) (citation
8 omitted). “To state a claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for a violation of the Equal Protection Clause
9 of the Fourteenth Amendment a plaintiff must show that the defendants acted with an intent or 10 purpose to discriminate against the plaintiff based upon membership in a protected class.”
11 Furnace, 705 F.3d at 1030 (quoting Barren v. Harrington, 152 F.3d 1193, 1194 (9th Cir. 1998)).
12

13 Plaintiff’s allegations still fail to state an equal protection claim; however, he has leave to 14 amend to include facts that plausibly show that defendants acted with intent to discriminate
15 against him based on his membership in a protected class. Plaintiff must specifically identify the 16 particular defendant(s) to which this claim applies and state facts that implicate that defendant in 17 the claim.
18

19 3. First Amendment Free Exercise/RLUIPA

20 To clarify, Plaintiff does not have leave to amend with respect to any possible First 21 Amendment free exercise/RLUIPA claim in Count I because he was previously given an 22 opportunity to amend that claim and failed to do so.
23

24 B. COUNT II

25 1. Allegations

26 Plaintiff alleges that his Eighth Amendment right to be free from cruel and unusual
27 punishment was violated by defendants Skolnik, Cox, Neven, Scillia, McDaniel, Baca, Morrow, 28

1 Nash, Patterson, Brooks, Deal, Graham, Garcia, Wuest, and Drain, when they allowed a policy,
2 custom or procedure to exist that punishes inmates by placing administrative segregation inmates
3 in the overly restrictive disciplinary segregation units, without due process. (Doc. # 10 at 18 ¶
4 23.)

5
6 He asserts that the placement in administrative segregation denied him of the opportunity
7 to engage in meaningful human contact, health and hygiene and adequate outdoor exercise. (Id.
8 ¶24.) He alleges that in either administrative or disciplinary segregation at HDSP, inmates are 9 locked in their cells twenty-four hours a day; only allowed to use the phone once a week; are 10 isolated from all human contact; deprived of religious, educational and rehabilitative 11 programming; only allowed to shower once every seventy-two hours; denied adequate access to 12 a law clerk; denied access to all of their personal property; denied access to the food and clothing
13 package program; are housed in a unit with mentally ill inmates who create disturbances. (Id. at 14 19 ¶ 27.)

17 2. Analysis

18 Insofar as Plaintiff repeats some of the allegations contained in Count I regarding the 19 alleged due process violation, those averments are repetitive and were addressed in connection
20 with Count I.

21
22 The court will now address whether Plaintiff states an Eighth Amendment claim based on 23 the additional allegations described above.

24 The Eighth Amendment prohibits the imposition of cruel and unusual punishment. U.S.
25 Const. amend. VIII. Although conditions of confinement may be restrictive and harsh, they may 26 not deprive inmates of “the minimal civilized measures of life’s necessities.” Rhodes v.
27 Chapman, 452 U.S. 337, 347 (1981). Prison officials must provide prisoners with “food, 28

1 clothing, shelter, sanitation, medical care, and personal safety.” Toussaint v. McCarthy, 801
2 F.2d 1080, 1107 (9th Cir. 1986), abrogated in part on other grounds by Sandin v. Conner, 515
3 U.S. 472 (1995); see also Johnson v. Lewis, 217 F.3d 726, 731 (9th Cir. 2000); Hoptowit v.
4 Ray, 682 F.2d 1237, 1246 (9th Cir. 1982). “The circumstances, nature, and duration of a
5 deprivation of [] necessities must be considered in determining whether a constitutional
6 violation has occurred.” Johnson, 217 F.3d at 731. As the Supreme Court recently stated:

8 To incarcerate, society takes from prisoners the means to provide for their own
9 needs. Prisoners are dependent on the State for food, clothing, and necessary
10 medical care. A prisoner’s failure to provide sustenance for inmates may actually 11 produce physical torture or lingering death.
12 Brown v. Plata, 131 S.Ct. 1910, 1929 (2011) (quoting Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97, 103 (1976) (internal citation and quotation marks omitted)).

13 Where a prisoner alleges injuries stemming from unsafe conditions of confinement,
14 prison officials may be held liable only if they acted with “deliberate indifference to a substantial
15 risk of serious harm.” Frost v. Agnos, 152 F.3d 1124, 1128 (9th Cir. 1998). The deliberate
16 indifference standard involves an objective and subjective component. First, the alleged 17 deprivation must be, in objective terms, “sufficiently serious.” Farmer, 511 U.S. at 834 (citation
18 omitted). Second, the prison official must “know of and disregard an excessive risk to inmate
19 health or safety.” Id. at 837. Thus, “a prison official may be held liable under the Eighth
20 Amendment for denying humane conditions of confinement only if he knows that inmates face a 21 substantial risk of harm and disregards that risk by failing to take reasonable measures to abate
22 it.” Farmer, 511 U.S. at 835.

25 As stated above, the Eighth Amendment is implicated when an inmate is deprived of 26 “food, clothing, shelter, sanitation, medical care, and personal safety.” Rhodes, 452 U.S. at 347.

28 ///

1 e. Outdoor Exercise

2 To the extent he references a denial of adequate outdoor exercise, this claim is addressed
3 in connection with Count X, where Plaintiff includes additional substantive facts.
4

5 f. Access to a Law Clerk

6 The denial of access to a law clerk is not a violation of the Eighth Amendment; however,
7 Plaintiff does include additional facts regarding a claim for denial of access to the courts,
8 including denial of access to a law clerk, in Count VIII. Therefore, the court will address the 9 sufficiency of Plaintiff's allegations on this topic in connection with Count VIII.
10

11 C. COUNT III

12 Plaintiff alleges that defendants Baker, McDaniel, Cox, Skolnik, and John and Jane Does 13 # 1-4 have violated his rights under the Eighth Amendment by forcing him to submit to 14 unsanitary and unhygienic conditions of confinement. (Doc. # 10 at 21 ¶ 33.)
15

16 Once again, Plaintiff alleges that while he was housed in segregation at ESP, he was only 17 permitted to shower every seventy-two hours, under the same conditions he described in Count I,
18 and includes additional details regarding this experience. (See id. ¶¶ 35-41.) As the court stated
19 above, upon further review, it finds Plaintiff states a plausible claim under the Eighth
20 Amendment related to these factual allegations.
21

22 D. COUNT IV

23 Plaintiff alleges that his rights under the Eighth and Fourteenth Amendments were 24 violated when defendants, whom Plaintiff initially identified as Does but then identified as 25 defendants Acevedo, Allen, Provencial, Johnson, Pender, and Volkert, searched Plaintiff's cell
26 and destroyed or discarded Plaintiff's personal property without documenting it in accordance 27 with Administrative Regulation (AR) 422. (Doc. # 10 at 24 ¶ 43.) He contends that defendants
28

1 Scillia, Patterson, Nash, and Rainone were informed of these violations but did nothing to
2 remedy the situation. (Id. ¶ 44.) He claims these defendants all allowed Plaintiff's property to be 3 confiscated and then prevented it from being returned or having Plaintiff be reimbursed. (Id.) He 4 goes on to describe the particulars of the various incidents when this occurred.
5

6 As the court originally stated, these allegations do not give rise to an Eighth Amendment
7 violation, but are more aptly analyzed under the Fourteenth Amendment as Plaintiff is asserting 8 the denial of due process in connection with the confiscation of his property.
9

10 Where a prisoner alleges a deprivation of a property interest caused by the unauthorized 11 negligent or intentional action of a prison official, he does not state a constitutional claim where 12 the state provides an adequate post-deprivation remedy. See Zinermon v. Burch, 494 U.S. 113,
13 129-32 (1990); Hudson v. Palmer, 468 U.S. 517, 533; Barnett v. Centoni, 3 F.3d 813, 816 (9th 14 Cir. 1994) (per curiam). Nevada provides a meaningful post deprivation remedy for the loss of 15 personal property. See Nev. Rev. Stat. § 41.041, § 41.0322.
16

17 However, if a prisoner is challenging conduct taken pursuant to an established or 18 authorized state procedure, rule or regulation, the existence of an adequate post-deprivation
19 remedy is irrelevant. See Logan v. Zimmerman Brush Co., 455 U.S. 422, 435-36 (1982).
20 “[W]here the state provides a meaningful postdeprivation remedy, only authorized, intentional
21 deprivations constitute actionable violations of the Due Process Clause. An authorized 22 deprivation is one carried out pursuant to established state procedures, regulations, or statutes.”
23 See Piatt v. McDougall, 773 F.2d 1032, 1036 (9th Cir. 1985). “The underlying rationale...is 24 that when deprivations of property are effected through random and unauthorized conduct of a
25 state employee, predeprivation procedures are simply ‘impracticable’ since the state cannot know
26 when such deprivations occur.” Hudson, 468 U.S. at 533.
27
28

1 It is not entirely clear from Plaintiff's allegations whether he is alleging the unauthorized
2 negligent or intentional deprivation of property by these defendants, in which case he would not
3 state a claim, or that the search and destruction of his property took place pursuant to established
4 or authorized state procedures, rules or regulations, in which case he would state a claim.
5 Plaintiff may amend this claim to assert, if possible, facts that plausibly suggest that the 6 destruction of his property was the result of an established or authorized state procedure, rule or 7 regulation.
8

9 E. COUNT V

10 In Count V, Plaintiff alleges additional deprivations of his personal property against 11 defendants Cool, Kim, Quiros, Rigney, Neven, Morrow, Cox, Baker, and Brooks. (Doc. # 10 at 12 27-30.) As with Count IV, Plaintiff does not allege whether these deprivations of his property 13 were unauthorized negligent or intentional deprivations of property, or were pursuant to 14 authorized state procedures, rules or regulations. Like Count IV, Plaintiff may amend Count V to 15 state, if possible, facts that plausibly suggest that the destruction of his property was the result of 16 an established or authorized state procedure, rule or regulation.
17

18 F. COUNT VIII

19 1. Allegations

20 In Count VIII, Plaintiff alleges that his First Amendment right of access to the courts,
21 right to privacy and his right to equal protection under the laws were violated by defendants
22 Skolnik, Cox, Neven, Baca, Pharris and Clarkson when they: (1) deprived him of access to a law 23 clerk, research materials, a law library to conduct research, and books citing case law newer than 24 2001; (2) deprived him of confidentiality by allowing his legal pleadings to be reviewed by other 25 inmates, non-law library staff, and by the defendants or respondents in this case; and 26
27
28

1 (3) deprived him of timely acquisition of the research materials he did have access to. (Doc. # 10
2 at 38 ¶ 88.)

3 Plaintiff claims defendants Cox, Neven and Baca instituted a policy which prohibits law
4 clerks from entering the segregated housing units to assist inmates in obtaining research
5 materials or to assist in preparing legal pleadings, and instead, these inmates can only
6 communicate with ill-trained and ineffective "law library supervisors." (Id. ¶ 89.) He further 7 alleges that defendants Pharris and Clarkson have an unofficial policy of denying inmates the 8 ability to check out materials which cite to case law newer than 2001, denying all effective
9 means of research or participating in litigation. (Id. at 39 ¶ 90.) He states that inmates can check
10 out case law but must know the case name and citation and are limited to five cases per week.
11 (Id.) Inmates must then wait days or weeks to receive these materials. (Id. ¶ 91.) Inmates must 12 then return the cases through the inmate mail system, and many times they get lost or misplaced,
13 and this denies the inmate the ability to check out additional cases. (Id. ¶ 92.)

14 Plaintiff complains about the fact that others can see his legal pleadings when they are 15 sent for copying. (Id. ¶ 91.)

16 He claims that this conduct precluded him from being able to effectively research or 17 litigate his pending case, case number A538390 in the Eighth Judicial District Court. (Id. ¶ 93.)

18 Finally, he generally asserts that he was treated differently than other similarly situated
19 inmates. (Id. ¶ 94.)

20 2. Access to Courts

21 Prisoners have a constitutional right of access to the courts. Lewis v. Casey, 518 U.S. 343, 22 346 (1996). Plaintiff is advised that as a jurisdictional requirement, he must establish that he 23 suffered actual injury. Id. at 348. "Actual injury" is defined as "actual prejudice with respect to 24
25
26
27
28

1 contemplated or existing litigation, such as the inability to meet a filing deadline or present a
2 claim." Id. In addition, the right of access to the courts is limited to non-frivolous direct criminal
3 appeals, habeas corpus proceedings, and actions brought pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Id. at 353
4 n. 3, 354-55. In Casey, the United States Supreme Court held that the right is only to bring
5 complaints to the federal court and not a right to discover such claims or to litigate them
6 effectively once filed with a court. Id. at 354-55.

8 This right “requires prison authorities to assist inmates in the preparation and filing of 9 meaningful legal papers by providing prisoners with adequate law libraries or adequate
10 assistance from persons trained in the law.” Bounds v. Smith, 430 U.S. 817, 828 (1977), limited
11 in part on other grounds in Lewis, 518 U.S. at 354; see also Phillips v. Hust, 588 F.3d 652, 655
12 (9th Cir. 2009); Madrid v. Gomez, 190 F.3d 990, 995 (9th Cir. 1999). The right, however, 13 “guarantees no particular methodology but rather the conferral of a capability—the capability of 14 bringing contemplated challenges to sentences or conditions of confinement before the 15 courts...[It is this capability] rather than the capability of turning pages in a law library, that is the 16 touchstone” of the right of access to the courts. Lewis, 518 U.S. at 356-57. Prison officials may 17 select the best method to ensure that prisoners will have the capability to file suit. See id. at 356.
18 Prisons “might replace libraries with some minimal access to legal advice and a system of court-
19 provided forms...that asked the inmates to provide only the facts and not to attempt any legal 20 analysis.” Id. at 352.

24 While Plaintiff claims that he was precluded from being able to effectively research or 25 litigate his pending case, case number A538390 in the Eighth Judicial District Court, he does not
26 specifically allege the inability to meet a filing deadline or present a claim in that case. Plaintiff
27 may amend to try to cure this deficiency.
28

1 3. Privacy

2 Plaintiff alleges that his right to privacy was violated when others were able to see his
3 legal pleadings. Legal pleadings by their very nature are public documents because they are filed
4 with the court and any of the member of the public has the ability to view them (unless an order
5 sealing a particular document has been issued). See, e.g., Keenan v. Hall, 83 F.3d 1083, 1094
6 (9th Cir. 1996). Plaintiff may amend, if possible, to allege that individuals were permitted to see
7 documents submitted to the court that were not otherwise available to the public, which may state
8 a privacy claim.
9

10 4. Equal Protection

11 Plaintiff has leave to amend to allege facts that plausibly demonstrate defendants acted 12 with an intent or purpose to discriminate against him based upon his membership in a protected 13 class.
14

15 G. COUNT IX

16 Plaintiff alleges that his rights under the First, Eighth, and Fourteenth Amendments to be 17 free from retaliation, discrimination and harassment were violated by defendants Dooley, 18 Fowler, Lamprich, Baca and Wuest, when they punished Plaintiff for exercising his right to the 19 redress of grievances. (Doc. # 10 at 41 ¶ 96.) In addition, he claims defendants Cox, Neven and 20 Morrow were aware of the retaliatory action taken by their employees and failed to do anything
21 to resolve the situation. (Id. ¶ 97.) Count IX involves two incidents, which will be described in 22 further detail below.
23

24 ///
25

26 ///
27

28 ///
29

1 1. First Incident-Defendants Baca, Dooley, Fowler, Lamprich

2 a. Allegations

3 First, Plaintiff contends that defendants Baca, Dooley, Fowler and Lamprich prepared a
4 falsified government document charging Plaintiff with a violation of the penal disciplinary code
5 for preparing and assisting another inmate with the grievance procedure, and for refusing to cell
6 with an inmate with whom he did not get along. (Id. at 41-42 ¶¶ 98-99.) He claims that 7 defendants Dooley, Fowler and Lamprich did nothing to acknowledge the risk of harm this
8 posed, and refused to take measures to protect either inmate from potential danger. (Id. at 42 ¶ 9 100.)
10

11
12 Plaintiff goes on to allege that the inmates sent in an emergency grievance (they were 13 only provided with one form, so it appears they sent it in jointly). (Id. ¶ 102.) As a result of the 14 filing of the grievance, Plaintiff asserts that defendants Baca, Dooley and Fowler separated the 15 inmates; however, because they had filed a grievance, Plaintiff avers that the defendants
16 conspired to falsify a document to retaliate and harass Plaintiff by accusing him of threatening
17 the other inmate. (Id.) The document was a notice of charges that Plaintiff contends contained
18 the false statement that the other inmate told an officer that Plaintiff was going to stab him if he 19 did not leave Plaintiff's cell. (Id. at 43-44 ¶ 103.) Plaintiff alleges that the officer secretly told
20 Plaintiff that the other inmate never actually made that statement and later testified the report
21 was false. (Id.)
22

23 b. Analysis

24 i. Eighth Amendment Deliberate Indifference to Safety

25 Plaintiff attempts to state an Eighth Amendment claim for deliberate indifference to his 26 safety based on the fact that defendants Dooley, Fowler and Lamprich did nothing to 27
28

1 acknowledge a risk of harm faced by Plaintiff by being celled with the other inmate with whom
2 he did not get along. Prison officials "must 'take reasonable measures to guarantee the safety of 3 the inmates.'" Farmer v. Brennan, 511 U.S. 825, 932 (1994) (quoting Hudson v. Palmer, 486
4 U.S. 517, 526-27 (1984)). However, Plaintiff must allege facts demonstrating that prison
5 officials were deliberately indifferent to a serious threat to his safety. Farmer, 511 U.S. at 834.
6 When a plaintiff claims prison officials failed to take reasonable steps to protect him, he must 7 show that "he is incarcerated under conditions posing a substantial risk of serious harm." Id.
8 (citations omitted). In addition, Plaintiff must allege that the prison official knew of and 9 disregarded an excessive risk to his safety. Id. at 837.

12 Plaintiff merely alleges that he and this other inmate did not get along. He includes no
13 facts that demonstrate he faced a "substantial risk of serious harm" when he had to share a cell
14 with this inmate. Moreover, he alleges that as soon as he filed a grievance, the two inmates were 15 separated. He does not claim that during the short period of time they were forced to be in a cell
16 together he faced a substantial risk of serious harm. Plaintiff may amend this claim, if possible, 17 to include allegations demonstrating that he faced a substantial risk of serious harm as a result of 18 his having to cell with this inmate and that the particular defendants knew of and disregarded this 19 risk.
20

21 ii. Retaliation

23 The fact that the notice of charges contained a statement Plaintiff claims to be false does 24 not give rise to a claim. See, e.g., Sprouse v. Babcock, 870 F.2d 450, 452 (8th Cir. 1989);
25 Freeman v. Rideout, 808 F.2d 949, 951-52 (2d. Cir. 1986), cert. denied, 485 U.S. 982 (1988)
26 (allegation that false evidence was planted by a prison guard does not state a constitutional claim
27 where procedural process protections are provided); see also York v. Hernandez, No. C 09-6080
28

1 LHK (PR), 2011 WL2650243, at * n. 3 (N.D. Cal. 2011) (where plaintiff alleged violation of 2 due process rights by filing false charges against him, court stated, “without more, a prisoner has 3 no constitutionally guaranteed immunity from being falsely or wrongly accused of conduct
4 which may result in the deprivation of a protected liberty interest.”); Tafiele v. Harrington, No.
5 1:10-cv-01493-GBC (PC), 2011 WL2462750, at *7 (E.D. Cal. 2011).
6

7 Plaintiff does, however, include sufficient allegations that defendants Dooley, Fowler and 8 Lamprich retaliated against him for filing a grievance by filing a notice of charges that he claims
9 was false. Therefore, his retaliation claim may proceed.
10

11 1. Second Incident-Defendants Baca, Neven and Wuest

12 a. Allegations

13 Second, Plaintiff claims that defendants Baca, Neven and Wuest violated his rights by 14 retaliating and discriminating against him and harassing him for grieving defendant Baca's
15 practices regarding the hiring of unit porters. (Id. at 43 ¶ 105.) Plaintiff alleges that on March 22,
16 2010, he and two Hispanic inmates were eligible for the unit porter position in Unit 3A, but the 17 Hispanic inmates did not want the job and Plaintiff was already temporarily filling in for the 18 position. (Id. ¶ 106.) Plaintiff avers that defendant Baca is Hispanic, and refused to hire Plaintiff
19 because he was not Hispanic (Plaintiff is African American). (Id.) Plaintiff complained to 20 Lieutenant Stroud and requested that he contact the warden regarding defendant Baca's
21 discriminatory practices. (Id. ¶ 107.) Plaintiff claims that the unit staff determined no one else
22 wanted the job and requested that defendant Baca hire Plaintiff. (Id. at 44 ¶ 108.) Instead of 23 hiring him, Plaintiff contends defendant Baca moved Plaintiff to another housing unit so he 24 would not be hired for the position in Unit 3A. (Id. ¶ 109.)
25
26
27

28 ///

1 2. Analysis

2 Plaintiff states colorable retaliation and equal protection claims against defendant Baca.
3
4 The retaliation is based on the fact that defendant Baca moved Plaintiff to another unit after he
5 complained about defendant Baca's alleged discriminatory practices. The equal protection claim
6 is based on the allegation that Plaintiff, an African American inmate, was treated differently than 7 similarly situated Hispanic inmates in relation to the hiring for the unit porter position in Unit
8 3A.

9 Plaintiff provides no factual allegations, however, that in any way implicate defendants
10 Neven and Wuest in this claim even though he names them as such. Plaintiff may amend his 11 complaint to add allegations to implicate these defendants, if possible.
12

13 H. COUNT X

14 Plaintiff claims that his right to be free from cruel and unusual punishment under the 15 Eighth Amendment and right to equal protection of the laws under the Fourteenth Amendment
16 were violated by defendants Skolnik, Cox, Neven, Baca, Morrow, and Wuest when they 17 deprived him of adequate outdoor exercise and recreation for ninety days, while other inmates
18 housed in another unit received daily outdoor recreation privileges. (Doc. # 10 at 45 ¶ 112.)
19

20 Specifically, Plaintiff claims that when he arrived at HDSP on January 13, 2010, he was 21 housed in Unit 3A, and was told the inmates in the unit were not receiving any outdoor yard
22 time, so Plaintiff was forced to sit in his cell twenty-four hours a day. (Id. ¶114.) He avers that 23 after he complained he received one hour of solitary yard time on January 29, 2010. (Id.)
24 Thereafter, Plaintiff only received one hour of yard time on February 6, 11, 15, 19, 22, 25 and 25 28. (Id. at 46 ¶ 115.) Plaintiff complained further, and received one hour of yard time on March 26 3, 6, 9, 10, 12, 15, 18, 21, 24 and 27. (Id. ¶ 116.) He contends he never received five hours of 27
28

1 yard time per week. (Id. ¶ 117.) Plaintiff claims that denial of adequate outdoor exercise resulted
2 in his muscle tissue and stamina deteriorating, and deprived him of fresh oxygen which resulted
3 in headaches, cabin fever, dizziness, fatigue, and depression. (Id. ¶ 118.)
4

5 Plaintiff references both the Eighth Amendment's prohibition against cruel and unusual
6 punishment and the Fourteenth Amendment's Equal Protection Clause, but this claim is grounded
7 in the Eighth Amendment and not the Fourteenth Amendment. "Deprivation of outdoor exercise
8 violates the Eighth Amendment rights of inmates confined to continuous and long-term
9 segregation." Keenan v. Hall, 83 F.3d 1083, 1089 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing Spain v. Proconier, 600
10 F.2d 189, 199 (9th Cir. 1979)), amended by 135 F.3d 1318 (9th Cir. 1998).
11

12 Plaintiff alleges that from January 13 to January 29, 2010, he received only one hour of 13 outdoor exercise time. In the month of February, he received seven hours of outdoor exercise
14 time. In the month of March, he received 10 hours of outdoor exercise time. He claims he should 15 be entitled to a minimum of five hours per week. Plaintiff states a plausible Eighth Amendment 16 conditions of confinement claim related to the denial of outdoor exercise, and this claim may 17 proceed.
18

19 20 III. CONCLUSION

21
22 Upon review of the Ninth Circuit's decision remanding a portion of this case, the court
23 issues this order, allowing certain claims to proceed and advising Plaintiff that he may amend to 24 correct deficiencies noted in other claims, as follows:

25 (1) Plaintiff may proceed with his Fourteenth Amendment due process claim in Count I
26 against defendants Baca, Morrow, Garcia, Graham, Nash, Deal, Wuest, Baker, Drain, Neven, 27 Scillia, McDaniel and Cox;
28

1 (2) Plaintiff may amend to allege facts showing the defendants implicated in Count I
2 acted with an intent to discriminate against Plaintiff based upon his membership in a protected
3 class in violation of the Equal Protection Clause;
4

5 (3) Plaintiff is not permitted to amend with respect to any First Amendment Free Exercise
6 Clause or RLUIPA claim in Count I as he was previously granted leave to amend and failed to 7 file an amended complaint;

8 (4) The court's prior ruling dismissing the Eighth Amendment claim in Count II related to 9 isolation and access to telephones stands;
10

11 (5) Plaintiff may amend to allege facts demonstrating he was denied adequate clothing in 12 violation of the Eighth Amendment in Count II;

13 (6) Plaintiff may proceed with his Eighth Amendment conditions of confinement claim in 14 Count II related to the shower conditions he faced in segregation;

15 (7) Plaintiff may amend to include facts to state an Eighth Amendment claim related to 16 his housing with mentally ill inmates in Count II;

17 (8) Count III is duplicative of Plaintiff's claim in Count II regarding the shower
18 conditions;
19

20 (9) Plaintiff may amend, if possible, to allege in Count IV that the deprivation of his 21 property was pursuant to an established or authorized procedure, rule or regulation;
22

23 (10) Plaintiff may amend, if possible, to allege in Count V that the deprivation of his 24 property was pursuant to an established or authorized procedure, rule or regulation;

25 (11) Plaintiff may amend his access to courts claim in Count VIII to allege actual injury,
26 e.g., that he was unable to meet a filing deadline or otherwise present a claim as a result of the 27 conduct described in that count;
28

1 (12) Plaintiff may amend, if possible, Count VIII to state a colorable privacy claim;

2 (13) Plaintiff may amend, if possible, Count VIII to allege intentional discrimination
3 based on his membership in a protected class in violation of the Equal Protection Clause;
4

5 (14) Plaintiff may amend his Eighth Amendment deliberate indifference claim against 6 defendants Dooley, Fowler, and Lamprich in Count IX to include facts that demonstrate he faced
7 a substantial risk of serious harm and that these defendants knew of and disregarded that risk;

8 (15) Plaintiff may proceed with his retaliation claim in Count IX against defendants
9 Dooley, Fowler and Lamprich;
10

11 (16) Plaintiff may proceed with his retaliation and equal protection claims in Count IX
12 against defendant Baca;

13 (17) Plaintiff may amend to include facts implicating defendants Neven and Wuest in 14 Count IX;
15

16 (18) Plaintiff may proceed with his Eighth Amendment claim in Count X related to the 17 deprivation of outdoor exercise.

1 Any amendment must be filed and served within THIRTY DAYS of the date of this
2 order and must be clearly marked the "Second Amended Complaint" and must be complete in 3 and of itself, without reference to any prior pleading. Any allegations, parties or requests for 4 relief not carried over from the previous complaint will no longer be before the court. Plaintiff is 5 cautioned that if he fails to file an amended complaint within the specified time period, the 6 complaint will proceed only on those claims permitted in this order and on the Eighth
7 Amendment claim in Count VI for deliberate indifference related to his dental treatment.
