RENEE BAKER, et al.,)

This action is on a petition for writ of habeas corpus pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 in which petitioner, a state prisoner, is proceeding pro se. Before the Court is respondents’ motion to dismiss the petition (ECF No. 8), petitioner’s response (ECF No. 12), respondents’ reply (ECF No. 13) and an unauthorized surreply filed by petitioner (ECF No. 14). Respondents move to strike the surreply (ECF No. 15), which is unopposed. The motion to strike shall be granted.

I. Procedural Background

Petitioner has a complicated procedural background related to his direct and collateral review of the conviction which is the subject of attack herein. However, relevant to this action, the procedural history is as follows.

A judgment of conviction finding petitioner guilty of burglary while possessing a deadly weapon, conspiracy to commit robbery, and robbery with the use of a deadly weapon was entered on

1 October 3, 2003. Exhibit 3.¹ While the conviction was affirmed on direct appeal, the Nevada Supreme 2 Court remanded the matter on May 18, 2004, for a new sentencing hearing, finding that the trial court 3 had erred in its order regarding the concurrent or consecutive nature of the sentences and that the court 4 failed to sentence petitioner for the deadly weapon enhancement for the robbery with a deadly weapon.
5 Exhibit 4. An amended judgment of conviction was entered on July 15, 2004. Exhibit 5.
6 Petitioner once again appealed and the Nevada Supreme Court affirmed.

7 According to respondents, petitioner filed “numerous appeals and state and federal habeas 8 petitions” between the filing of the amended judgment of conviction on July 15, 2004, and a 2008 post-9 conviction petition, which was denied on September 30, 2008.² Exhibit 1, Register of Actions, entry 10 dated 9/30/2008. At this point, on appeal from the denial of the 2008 petition, the Nevada Supreme 11 Court discovered a clerical error in the Amended Judgment of Conviction and directed the trial court 12 to correct the error. Exhibit 6. The clerical correction was made by order of the trial court. Exhibit 1, 13 Register of Actions, entry dated 8/27/2009. The Second Amended Judgment of Conviction was filed 14 on September 3, 2009. Exhibit 7. Petitioner apparently did not seek a direct appeal of this judgment 15 and the time for petitioner to seek such a review expired on October 5, 2009.

16 On February 18, 2010, petitioner filed a new state post-conviction petition, which was 17 denied by the trial court and appealed to the Nevada Supreme Court as case number 56013. Exhibits 18 8, 11, and 12. On May 13, 2010, petitioner filed another state post-conviction petition, which the trial 19 court denied and petitioner appealed as case number 56546. Exhibits 15, 20, and 22. The Nevada 20 Supreme Court affirmed the trial court’s decisions in a consolidated opinion on November 8, 2010.
21 Exhibit 24. The Nevada Supreme Court found both petitions to be untimely and successive pursuant

22
23 ¹ The exhibits referenced in this order were submitted by respondents in support of their motion to dismiss and are found in the Court’s record at ECF No. 9.

24 ² The Court notes from its own case files that petitioner has filed at least four other petitions 25 pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2254 since the original amended judgment of conviction. See 3:09-cv-00601-ECR-VPC, which also attacks the second amended judgment; and 2:07-cv-0092-LRH-LRL; 2:06-cv-26 00402-RLH-LRL; and 2:06-cv-01009-RCJ-RJJ which pre-date the second amended judgment.

1 to state law and determined that petitioner was unable to overcome these procedural bars through a 2 showing of good cause for the delay or for failing to bring his new claims in a previous petition. Id. See 3 Nevada Revised Statutes § 34.726 and § 34. 810. Remittitur issued on these appeals on December 3, 4 2010. Exhibit 25. The instant federal petition was commenced on November 17, 2011. ECF No. 1.

5 II. Discussion

6 Respondents argue the petition is untimely, that the single claim for relief is unexhausted 7 and that it should be procedurally barred. Petitioner argues that the petition should be considered timely 8 because his previous attempts to bring the claim were in an improper format, which should be excused 9 because of his pro se status, and that the pendency of his latest state petition should be taken into 10 account.

11 A. Timeliness

12 The Antiterrorism and Effective Death Penalty Act (AEDPA) amended the statutes 13 controlling federal habeas corpus practice to include a one-year statute of limitations on the filing of 14 federal habeas corpus petitions. With respect to the statute of limitations, the habeas corpus statute 15 provides:

16 (d)(1) A 1-year period of limitation shall apply to an application for a 17 writ of habeas corpus by a person in custody pursuant to the judgment of a State court. The limitation period shall run from the latest of-18 (A) the date on which the judgment became final by the 19 conclusion of direct review or the expiration of the time for seeking such review;

20 (B) the date on which the impediment to filing an application 21 created by State action in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States is removed, if the applicant was prevented from filing by such State action;

22 (C) the date on which the constitutional right asserted was 23 initially recognized by the Supreme Court, if the right has been newly recognized by the Supreme Court and made retroactively applicable to cases on collateral review; or 24 (D) the date on which the factual predicate of the claim or 25 claims presented could have been discovered through the exercise of due diligence.

26 (2) The time during which a properly filed application for State

1 post-conviction or other collateral review with respect to the pertinent 2 judgment or claim is pending shall not be counted toward any period of limitations under this subsection.

3 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d).

4 The United States Supreme Court has held that the “time for seeking direct review” under 5 28 U.S.C. §2244(d)(1)(A) includes the ninety-day period within which a petitioner who was 6 unsuccessful on direct appeal can file a petition for a writ of certiorari from the United States Supreme 7 Court under Supreme Court Rule 13, whether or not the petitioner actually files such a petition.
8 Gonzalez v. Thaler, 132 S.Ct. 641, 653 -654 (U.S.2012); see also Bowen v. Roe, 188 F.3d 1157, 1159 9 (9th Cir. 1999).

10 As outlined above, the statute of limitations for § 2254 petitions offers a number of 11 triggering dates. See 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d)(1) (A)-(D). The date on which the judgment becomes final 12 by the conclusion of direct review is the pertinent date in the majority of cases. See United States v.
13 Schwartz, 274 F.3d 1220, 1223 (9th Cir. 2001). In petitioner’s case, even though his original judgment 14 of conviction became final in December 2005, the filing of a second amended judgment of conviction 15 triggered a new opportunity for review. See Magwood v. Patterson, — U.S. —, 130 S.Ct. 2788, 2796-16 2797 (2010) (discussing whether a new petition for writ of habeas corpus, filed after a new sentencing 17 and judgment of conviction is considered a second or successive petition and determining that such a 18 new judgment started the review process anew); see also Burton v. Stewart, 549 U.S. 147, 155, 127 S.Ct.
19 793, 798 (2007) (where there is no new judgment intervening between two habeas petitions, a second 20 habeas petition could be improper under 28 U.S.C. § 2244(b)).³ The conclusion of direct review of that 21 new judgment of conviction or the time allowed to seek such review, is the date that his conviction 22 became final for a second time and the one-year limitation period began anew. Id.; see also Tillema v.

23
24 ³ The Court recognizes that these preceding cases analyze second or successive petitions.
25 However, the analysis address the issue of whether a new judgment triggers a new opportunity for 26 review. The Court can infer from the analysis that a new judgment also starts the statute of limitations anew.

1 Long, 253 F.3d 494, 500 n. 8 (9th Cir.2001) (defining the “pertinent judgment” as “the judgment of 2 conviction and sentence in the state court that is being contested in the federal habeas proceeding”).

3 B. Statutory Tolling

4 Because petitioner did not directly appeal the new judgment, petitioner’s second amended 5 judgment of conviction became final thirty days after it issued, on October 5, 2009. Petitioner had one 6 year to file his federal petition. He did not file it until November 17, 2011, which is more than two years 7 after that date. Only if petitioner had a “properly filed application for State post-conviction or other 8 collateral review with respect to the pertinent judgment or claim” would that period of time be statutorily 9 tolled.

10 Petitioner offers a vague argument that his latest state petition’s pendency should be taken 11 into account, because that petition was finally decided during “the pendency of this instant petition.” 12 Opposition to Motion to Dismiss, p. 5. He also argues that the way the state court implemented his 13 second amended judgment, “without his presence or knowledge,” brings the petition within the statute 14 of limitations. Unfortunately, petitioner fails to provide the Court with a date certain when he became 15 aware of the new judgment and he also fails to identify the latest state petition which he claims tolls the 16 limitation period.

17 Respondents point out that the two state court petitions challenging the second amended 18 judgment were finally decided on December 3, 2010, when the Nevada Supreme Court issued the 19 remittitur on the appeals from denial of these petitions. Exhibit 25. They note the current petition was 20 not filed until November 14, 2011. Thus, petitioner’s assertion that his latest state “petition received its 21 final denial during the pendency of this instant petition” is false. Moreover, the Nevada Supreme Court 22 found the petitions to be untimely. Exhibit 24. Under Pace v. DiGuglielo, 544 U.S. at 412-413, an 23 untimely filed petition is not properly filed for purposes of tolling the statute of limitations. This federal 24 petition was filed more than two years after the September 3, 2009, entry of the second amended 25 judgment of conviction. See Exhibit 7. It is untimely and petitioner is not entitled to statutory tolling.

1 C. Equitable Tolling

2 While he is not entitled to statutory tolling, petitioner may qualify for equitable tolling 3 of the statute of limitations. Tillema v. Long, contains a clear statement of the basic law governing 4 equitable tolling of the AEDPA statute of limitations:

5 As we have previously held, “[w]hen external forces, rather than 6 a petitioner’s lack of diligence, account for the failure to file a timely 7 claim, equitable tolling of the statute may be appropriate.” Miles v.
8 Prunty, 187 F.3d 1104, 1107 (9th Cir. 1999); see also Calderon v. United 9 States Dist. Court (Kelly), 128 F.3d 1283, 1288-89 (9th Cir. 1997), 10 overruled on other grounds by Calderon v. United States Dist. Court, 163 11 F.3d 530 (9th Cir. 1998) (en banc) (petitioner entitled to equitable tolling where petitioner’s counsel withdrew and left replacement counsel with unusable work product that made timely filing impossible); Kelly, 163 F.3d at 541-42 (petitioner entitled to equitable tolling because the district court ordered a stay preventing petitioner’s counsel from filing a timely habeas petition and because petitioner was allegedly mentally incompetent).

12 Tillema, 253 F.3d at 504.

13 The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has also made clear that equitable tolling is 14 unavailable in most cases. Miranda v. Castro, 292 F.3d 1063, 1066 (9th Cir. 2002); Miles v. Prunty, 15 187 F.3d 1104, 1107 (9th Cir. 1999). Equitable tolling is only appropriate “if extraordinary 16 circumstances beyond a prisoner’s control make it impossible to file a petition on time.” Miranda, 292 17 F.3d at 1066 (quoting Calderon v. United States Dist. Court (Beeler), 1289 F.3d 1283, 1288 (9th Cir.
18 1997), overruled in part on other grounds by Calderon v. United States Dist. Court (Kelly), 163 F.3d 19 530 (9th Cir. 1998)(en banc))(emphasis in original). “Indeed, ‘the threshold necessary to trigger 20 equitable tolling [under AEDPA] is very high, lest the exceptions swallow the rule.’” Miranda, 292 F.3d 21 at 1066 (quoting United States v. Marcello, 212 F.3d 1005, 1010 (7th Cir.), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 878 22 (2000)).

23 Petitioner is not entitled to equitable tolling as he has not presented any evidence that 24 extraordinary circumstances beyond his control interfered with his ability to file a timely federal petition.
25 His argument that the court took improper actions when it resentenced him without his presence does 26

1 not meet the high standard set by the courts. In affirming the state trial court's dismissal of the petitions 2 attacking the Second Amended Judgment, the Nevada Supreme Court found, after determining the 3 petitions were untimely, that the new judgment was not a resentencing which would entitle petitioner 4 to be present. See Exhibit 24. Rather, the court found it was merely a correction of a clerical error 5 which, under state law, could be made at any time. Id. citing NRS 176.565. Thus, there were no 6 improper state court actions which inhibited petitioner's ability to discover, with due diligence, the claim 7 asserted in this petition. Moreover, petitioner obviously became aware of the second amended petition 8 well before February 18, 2010, when he filed his post-conviction petition attacking the judgment. Exhibit 9 8. Petitioner offers nothing else to warrant equitable tolling and, as a result, the petition must be found 10 to be untimely.

11 D. Surreply

12 Because the additional response filed by petitioner (ECF No. 14) after respondents' reply 13 is unauthorized by the Rules of Civil Procedure or the Local Rules of Civil Practice, it has not be 14 considered by the Court and shall be stricken from the record on respondents' motion. See e.g., LR 7-15 2(c).

16 III. Conclusion

17 This petition is untimely filed. Petitioner has offered no convincing evidence or 18 arguments to suggest he is entitled to either statutory or equitable tolling of the statute of limitations 19 imposed by 28 U.S.C. § 2244(d). Because it is untimely, the Court need not consider the respondents' 20 remaining arguments regarding a lack of exhaustion of state court remedies or the anticipated procedural 21 default.

22 Should petitioner wish to appeal this decision, he must receive a certificate of 23 appealability. 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(1); Fed. R. App. P. 22; 9th Cir. R. 22-1; Allen v. Ornoski, 435 F.3d 24 946, 950-951 (9th Cir. 2006); see also United States v. Mikels, 236 F.3d 550, 551-52 (9th Cir. 2001).
25 Generally, a petitioner must make "a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right" to 26

1 warrant a certificate of appealability. Id.; 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2); Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473, 2 483-84 (2000). “The petitioner must demonstrate that reasonable jurists would find the district court’s 3 assessment of the constitutional claims debatable or wrong.” Id. (quoting Slack, 529 U.S. at 484). In 4 order to meet this threshold inquiry, the petitioner has the burden of demonstrating that the issues are 5 debatable among jurists of reason; that a court could resolve the issues differently; or that the questions 6 are adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further. Id.

7 Pursuant to the December 1, 2009 amendment to Rule 11 of the Rules Governing Section 8 2254 and 2255 Cases, district courts are required to rule on the certificate of appealability in the order 9 disposing of a proceeding adversely to the petitioner or movant, rather than waiting for a notice of appeal 10 and request for certificate of appealability to be filed. Rule 11(a). This Court has considered the issues 11 raised by petitioner, with respect to whether they satisfy the standard for issuance of a certificate of 12 appealability, and determines that none meet that standard. The Court will therefore deny petitioner a 13 certificate of appealability.

14 IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that the Motion to Dismiss (ECF No. 8) is 15 GRANTED. The petition is DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

16 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the Motion to Strike (ECF No. 15) is GRANTED.
17 The Clerk shall strike petitioner’s Response to Motion to Dismiss (ECF No. 14) from the record.

18 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that no certificate of appealability shall issue. The Clerk 19 shall enter judgment accordingly.

20 Dated this 3rd day of August, 2012.
