

1 Fed. R. Civ. P. 45 Advisory Comm. Notes (1970 Amendments). The Advisory Committee
2 explained that a privilege log “must ... provide sufficient information to enable other parties to 3 evaluate the applicability of the claimed privilege or protection.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26 Advisory 4 Comm. Note (1993 Amendments). This requires a “description of responsive material withheld, the 5 identity and position of its author, the date it was written, the identity and position of all addresses
6 and recipients, the material’s present location, and specific reasons for its being withheld, including
7 the privilege invoked and grounds thereof.” U.S. Union Pacific R. Co., No. Civ. 06-1740 FCD KJM,
8 2007 WL 1500551, at * 3 (E.D. Cal. May 2, 2007). “Failure to provide sufficient information may 9 constitute a waiver of the privilege.” Ramirez v. Cty. of Los Angeles, 231 F.R.D. 407, 410 (C.D. Cal
10 2005). A person who claims a privilege or protection but “fails to provide adequate information
11 about the privilege or protection claim to the party seeking the information is subject to an order to 12 show cause why the person should not be held in contempt” Fed. R. Civ. P. 45 Advisory Comm.
13 Note (1991 Amendments).

16 The court observed at the hearing that although it was inclined to agree that the NRA had, in 17 fact, failed to provide sufficient information to enable others to evaluate the claims of privilege or 18 protection, it would err on the side of caution and review the documents in camera. The NRA
19 produced, in camera, all documents corresponding with the privilege log (#364), and this order 20 follows.
21

22 The court undertook three document reviews. First, the court reviewed the binder –
23 document-by-document – without reference to the parties’ discussions in their briefs. Next, the court
24 relied on Chartwell’s classification of the documents as outlined in its motion to compel (#338). This 25 categorization of documents was particularly helpful in sorting through the documents, although 26 neither the NRA nor other plaintiffs/counterdefendants responded with arguments in kind. However,
27

1 the court also reviewed those arguments in response to Chartwell's. Finally, the court reviewed the
2 documents a third time to determine whether documents not cited in Chartwell's brief were subject
3 to a privilege or work product protection. For purposes of this order, the court relies, in part, on 4 Chartwell's classification of documents for its analysis.

5 I. Analysis of the Documents Produced In Camera

6 A. Documents sent internally among non-lawyers at the NRA

8 The documents in this category are bates-numbered 40, 256-57, 452, 453-54, 455, 456, 178,
9 179, 180-81, 209, 210-214, 217-19, and 220-23. These documents are not subject to the attorney-
10 client privilege or work product protection; therefore, they shall be produced.

11 B. Documents exchanged between the NRA and R&R Partners

12 The documents in this category are bates-numbers 25-26, 182-85, 244, 245-52, 283, 284,
13 285-87, 292-93, 294-300, 301, 302-05, 312, 313-29, 330, 331-36, 337-42, 49, 50, 144, 145-65, 166-
14 67, 168-69, 170, 171-72, 258-60, and 261-66. These documents are not subject to the attorney-client
15 privilege or work-product protection; therefore, they shall be produced.

16 C. Documents exchanged between the NRA and Ferraro Group

17 The documents in this category are bates-numbered 140, 189, 190-94, 253, and 254-55.
18 These documents are not subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection;
19 therefore, they shall be produced.

20 D. Documents exchanged between the NRA and non-lawyer employees of gaming
21 companies

22 The documents in this category are bates-numbered 1, 2-7, 8-15, 29-31, 56-57, 58-60, 61, 62-
23 63, 126, 130, 131-34, 195, 196-200, 201-02, 203, 204-06, 207-08, 280-81, 282, 306, 432, 433, 434-
24 35, 32-35, 85-86, and 108-09. With the exceptions of the three documents listed below, none of 25 these documents is subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection and shall be 26
27

1 produced. The three documents that the NRA shall not be required to disclose and/or shall redact
2 and produce as follows:

- 3 1. Doc. 29-31: The NRA shall produce the email from Andy Abboud to 4 Virginia Valentine, but the remainder of the email string shall 5 not be produced.
- 6 2. Doc. 32-35: The NRA shall produce the entire email string on pages 32-33,
7 except for the email from John Bartlett to Virginia Valentine,
8 which begins on page 33 and concludes on page 35.
- 9 3. Doc. 85-86: The NRA shall produce this email string, but shall redact
10 paragraph two in its entirety and the third, fourth and fifth
11 sentences in the third paragraph of the email from Virginia
12 Valentine at Doc. 85.

11 E. Documents exchanged between the NRA and in-house counsel for gaming
12 companies

13 The documents in this category are bates-numbered 19-21, 53-55, 289-91, 309-11,
14 436, 97-98, 345-48, 349-53, 354-70, 371-77, 378-79, 101-02, 103-07, 116-17, 399, and 400-31.

15 With the exceptions listed below, none of these documents is subject to the attorney-client privilege
16 or work product protection and shall be produced. There are two documents the NRA shall not be 17 required to disclose and/or shall redact and produce as follows:

- 18 1. Doc. 53-55: The NRA shall produce this email string, but shall redact on 19 page 54 the second sentence of the first paragraph of the email
20 addressed to "Members."
21 The NRA shall redact the email string between John Bartlett
22 and Virginia Valentine on pages 54-55.
- 23 2. Doc. 97-98: The NRA shall produce this email strong, but shall redact the 24 second paragraph of the email on page 98 to "Members" from 25 Virginia Valentine.

24 F. Mass emails that the NRA sent

25 The documents in this category are bates-numbered 41-42, 72-73, 74-81, 87-88, 89-96, 114,
26 115, 186, 187-88, 226-27, 228-34, 267, 268-73, 274-79. With the exceptions listed below, none of
27 these documents is subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection and shall be

1 produced. There are four documents the NRA shall not be required to disclose and/or shall redact
2 and produce as follows:

- 3 1. Doc. 41-42: The NRA shall produce this email string, but shall redact
4 paragraph one of the email to “Members” from Virginia
5 Valentine and the last sentence of paragraph two of that same
6 email. The NRA shall not produce the email from John 7 Bartlett to Virginia Valentine on page 42.
- 8 2. Doc. 72-73: The NRA shall produce Virginia Valentine’s March 22, 2012 9 email, but shall redact the second and third sentences of the 10 first paragraph. John Bartlett’s email of March 24, 2012 is 11 privileged and shall not be produced.
- 12 3. Doc. 74-81: This document is subject to work product protection and shall 13 not be produced.
- 14 4. Doc. 89-96: This document is subject to work product protection and shall 15 not be produced.

16 G. Emails between the NRA and other third parties

17 The documents in this category are bates-numbered 45, 46, 47-48, 110, 173. None of these 18 documents is subject to attorney-client privilege or work product protection. In addition, the NRA
19 failed to include a copy of Doc. Nos. 46 and 47-48 for the court’s in camera review. These 20 documents shall be produced.

21 H. Documents contained in the privilege log, but not identified by Chartwell.

22 In its review of the parties’ briefing about specific documents identified in the privilege log,
23 there are some that Chartwell did not identify. The court undertook, as best it could, to identify 24 these documents to decide whether they should be produced. What follows is the court’s decision
25 regarding these documents:

- 26 1. Doc. 27-28: This document is privileged and shall not be produced.
- 27 2. Doc. 32-35: Doc. 32 is not subject to the attorney-client privilege or work product protection and shall be produced. Doc. 33-35 is subject to the attorney-client privilege and shall not be produced.

- 29. Doc. 584-87: Doc. 584-87 is not subject to attorney-client privilege or work product protection and shall be produced.

To the extent there are any remaining documents disclosed in the privilege log that are not identified in this analysis, the privilege is deemed waived, and those documents shall be produced.

1 II. Discussion

2 The briefing on Chartwell’s motion to compel by the parties totaled 104 pages of points and
3 authorities and 351 pages of exhibits. The NRA’s privilege log contained 587 pages of documents.
4 This makes a grand total of 1,042 pages of legal arguments, exhibits, and documents, which by 5 today’s litigation standards, is not especially voluminous. However, of the 587 pages of documents
6 the NRA deemed privileged or otherwise protected, the court found that only forty-five pages are 7 protected from disclosure. This amounts to 7.6 percent of the pages presented for in camera review.
8 Of that same 587 pages, only nine pages were subject to redactions. Looking at it another way, of 9 the ninety documents the NRA considered privileged, the court found only twelve were privileged or 10 subject to work product protection. The court finds the amount of time, money, and effort devoted 11 to resolution of this particular dispute in relation to the outcome is disproportionate.
12

13 The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure were amended in December 2015, in part, to address
14 the challenges facing attorneys, their clients, and the court in managing electronic discovery in the 15 twenty-first century. One overarching principle of the amendments is for “the court and parties to 16 secure the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action and proceeding.”
17 Fed.R.Civ.P. 1. The foundation of the amended rules embody four very basic principles:
18 competence, preparation, reasonableness, and cooperation. See generally The Federal Judges’
19 Guide to Discovery 16-21 (Robert D. Owen, et al. eds., 2d. ed. 2015). It is imperative that attorneys 20 and their clients recognize that without close attention to these principles, complex litigation will 21 only take more time, cost more money, and completely frustrate the “just, speedy, and inexpensive
22 resolution of every action and proceeding.”
23
24

25 Discovery in this case ends July 15, 2016 (#238), and the District Court recently confirmed
26 this deadline will not be extended (#367). That leaves the parties fifteen weeks to complete written 27

1 discovery, deposition discovery, as well as expert discovery. The court expects that at the April 18,
2 2016 case management conference, counsel for the parties will report resolution on all outstanding
3 written discovery discussed at the March 14, 2016 case management conference, and that they will
4 provide a thorough and comprehensive schedule for deposition discovery (#364). Counsel are 5 advised that if discovery disputes cannot be reasonably and promptly resolved, all lead counsel for 6 the parties shall be required to attend all future case management conferences in person.
7 Furthermore, the court may consider weekly or bi-weekly case management conferences to assure
8 discovery is completed by July 16, 2016.

10 III. Conclusion

11 Based upon the foregoing Chartwell's motion to compel (#338) is GRANTED IN PART
12 AND DENIED IN PART as set forth herein. The NRA shall produce the documents to Chartwell
13 in accordance with this order no later than the close of business on Wednesday, April 6, 2016,
14 Pacific Time.

16 The Nevada Resort Association shall make arrangements to pick up the documents submitted
17 in camera on or before Wednesday, April 6, 2016 or they shall be destroyed by the court.

18 IT IS SO ORDERED.

19 DATED: Friday, April 01, 2016.
