OPINION AND ORDER

This is an appeal of an order of the Bankruptcy Court setting aside a previous order upon motion of the Appellee. For the reasons given herein, the Court dismisses the appeal for lack of jurisdiction.

I. FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

Appellant Peter Szanto filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy protection in this District on June 25, 2013. On November 11, 2013, Appellant filed a Motion for Court Confirmation of Debt Compromise and Novation as to Secured Creditor JP Morgan Chase Bank, pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 (the "Motion"). The Motion noted that Appellant and Appellee JP Morgan Chase Bank, N.A. disputed the amount owed by Appellant on his mortgage of real

1 property at 11 Shore Pine Drive, Newport Beach, CA 92657 (the “Property”). The motion
2 represented that the parties agreed the unpaid principal balance was $953,182.17; Appellant
3 would begin making 360 monthly payments of $3865.58 as of December 1, 2013, as well as 4 monthly escrow payments of $1511.10 for taxes and insurance, for a total of $5376.68 per 5 month; the notice of default and the notice of trustee’s sale recorded against the Property would 6 be expunged; and the Court would review the agreement on December 1, 2014 (the 7 “Agreement”). (See Motion 3–4, ECF No. 98 in Bankr. No. 13-51261). Attached to the Motion
8 as support was a October 17, 2013 letter to Appellant from Appellee informing Appellant of an 9 impending adjustment of his monthly payments on his adjustable-rate mortgage (the “Letter”).
10 (See Letter, ECF No. 98 in Bankr. No. 13-51261, at 9). As of December 1, 2013, Appellant’s 11 monthly payment for principal and interest would be $3865.58, and the total with escrow would 12 be $5376.68. (Id.). The Letter recounted the monthly adjustments to the interest rate that had 13 occurred over the prior year and noted that the next “scheduled payment review date” was a year
14 from the date of the Letter, October 17, 2014. (See id.).

15 Appellant filed a notice of hearing for December 18, 2013. On January 1, 2014,
16 Appellant filed a declaration indicating that at the December 18, 2013 hearing Judge Beesley 17 indicated he would grant the motion if a representative of Appellee signed the Agreement but 18 that Appellant believed the order was not contingent on such a signature. On January 8, 2014,
19 Judge Beesley approved Appellant’s proposed order granting the Motion (the “Settlement
20 Order”), (see Settlement Order, ECF No. 149 in Bankr. No. 13-51261), although there was yet no
21 evidence a representative of Appellee had ever signed the Agreement.

22 On March 14, 2014, Appellee filed a motion asking the Bankruptcy Court to set aside the 23 Settlement Order, because Appellee had not approved any compromise and the Motion had not 24 been properly served on Appellee. (See Motion to Set Aside, ECF No. 165 in Bankr. No. 13-25 51261). The Bankruptcy Court granted Appellee’s motion on June 16, 2014 (the “Set Aside

1 Order”) after holding a hearing on May 22, 2014. (See Set Aside Order, ECF No. 261 in Bankr.
2 No. 13-51261). The Bankruptcy Court ruled that the Motion had been a contested matter under 3 Bankruptcy Rule 9014 that was not properly served upon Appellee. The Settlement Order was 4 therefore void under Civil Rule 60(b)(4). Furthermore, the Letter was not a compromise
5 agreement under Bankruptcy Rule 9019. Finally, the Settlement Order was entered as a result of 6 mistake, inadvertence, surprise, or excusable neglect under Civil Rule 60(b)(1). Appellant
7 appealed the Set Aside Order to the Bankruptcy Appellate Panel, and Appellee elected to have 8 the appeal heard in this Court.

9 II. STANDARD OF REVIEW

10 A bankruptcy court’s conclusions of law, including its interpretations of the bankruptcy
11 code, are reviewed de novo, and its factual findings are reviewed for clear error. See Blausey v.
12 U.S. Trustee, 552 F.3d 1124, 1132 (9th Cir. 2009). A reviewing court must accept the 13 bankruptcy court’s findings of fact unless it is left with the definite and firm conviction that a 14 mistake has been committed. See In re Straightline Invs., Inc., 525 F.3d 870, 876 (9th Cir. 2008).

15 III. ANALYSIS

16 A. Jurisdiction

17 Appellee first argues that the Court lacks jurisdiction over the appeal under 28 U.S.C.
18 § 158(a). Appellee argues that the Set Aside Order is at most an interlocutory order, not a final 19 order, and that interlocutory appeal under § 1292(a) is not appropriate, both because the dispute 20 concerns no controlling question of law as to which there is substantial ground for difference of 21 opinion and because an immediate appeal will not materially advance the termination of the 22 litigation. Appellee notes that the bankruptcy action was dismissed the day after the Set Aside
23 Order issued. In any case, Appellee notes, the Bankruptcy Court has never certified the present 24 matter for interlocutory review, as required under § 1292(b).

25 The Court agrees it has no jurisdiction under § 1292, the required certification not

1 appearing, even assuming the other requirements could be satisfied. The Court also agrees it has 2 no jurisdiction under § 158(a). Issuance of an order approving a settlement under Bankruptcy
3 Rule 9019 is a final order for the purposes of § 158(a) if it ends the litigation between the parties
4 to the settlement. See Ades–Berg Investors v. Breeden (In re The Bennett Funding Grp., Inc.),
5 439 F.3d 155, 160 (9th Cir. 2006) (citing Adam v. Itech Oil Co. (In re Gibraltar Resources, Inc.),
6 210 F.3d 573, 576 (5th Cir. 2000)). But although the Court would have had jurisdiction over a
7 putative appeal by Appellee as to the Settlement Order (had the Bankruptcy Court denied
8 Appellee’s motion to set the Settlement Order aside), the Set Aside Order is an order setting 9 aside a 9019 order, not an order granting one. It did not end any litigation between the parties.
10 To the contrary, it revived it. The order that ended the litigation between the parties to this 11 appeal was the dismissal order the Bankruptcy Court issued the next day. (See Dismissal Order, 12 ECF No. 268 in Bankr. No. 13-51261). Appellant has separately appealed that order in Case No.
13 3:14-cv-355.

14 B. The Merits

15 Even if the Court had jurisdiction over the present appeal, it would affirm the Bankruptcy 16 Court. Not only was the Set Aside Order not in error, but its denial would have been error. The 17 Letter was not an offer of compromise but an informational letter indicating the status of 18 Appellant’s mortgage. There is no language of compromise whatsoever in the Letter, or even 19 any acknowledgment of any dispute to be compromised. If there were jurisdiction, the Court 20 could affirm for this reason alone. The Court could also affirm on the alternative basis that 21 Appellant never properly served Appellee with the Motion before the hearing. Appellant has 22 made no showing of error of fact or law in this regard.

23 Appellant argues that the Court should reverse because the Bankruptcy Court made no
24 factual findings on the record and did not issue a written opinion. That is incorrect. The Set 25 Aside Order is a written order that includes factual findings and conclusions of law, even if not

1 explicitly so labeled, as the Court has recounted, supra. Next, Appellant argues that the 2 Bankruptcy Judge failed to recuse. But Plaintiff has not via the present appeal challenged a 3 denial of any motion for recusal, and as Appellee notes, Appellant filed his recusal motion after 4 the Bankruptcy Judge entered the Set Aside Order. Next, Appellant argues that the Bankruptcy
5 Judge wrongly overruled Appellant’s evidentiary objections at the hearing. But the only alleged 6 evidentiary error is that the Bankruptcy Court refused to declare that Appellee had been served
7 with the Motion simply because Appellee had actual notice of the Motion. That was not a 8 potential evidentiary error, but a potential error concerning the law of service of process.
9 Anyway, it was no error. Although actual knowledge may alleviate due process concerns, it does 10 not excuse the separate requirement of service of process. A waiver of service under Civil Rule 11 4(d)—which Appellant argues applies here because counsel at the hearing admitted having 12 knowledge of the lawsuit before the hearing—requires more than acknowledgment of actual 13 notice, otherwise there could be no such thing as a motion to dismiss for insufficient service of 14 process, because a person making such a challenge necessarily has actual notice. Under Civil 15 Rule 4(d), a waiver of service of process requires a defendant to agree in writing to a plaintiff’s 16 written request to waive service under the strictures of that rule. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(d).
17 Appellant makes no claim that this ever occurred in this case. A review of the transcript of the 18 hearing indicates no error as to the Bankruptcy Court’s factual determination that Appellant
19 failed to serve Appellee with the Motion under Bankruptcy Rule 7004(h).

20 Finally, Appellant has requested an additional 30 days to file his reply brief. Appellant 21 previously requested an additional 30 days to file the reply brief based on his argument that his 22 medical condition made research and briefing difficult. In that motion, Appellant also asked the 23 Court for guidance as to what to do with a compact disc (“CD”) provided to him by Appellee that 24 had not been filed with the Court. The Court did not previously address this request, and 25 Appellant has made the request again. The Court notes that discovery materials not only need

1 not be filed with the Court but may not be. Only evidence in support of motions is filed with the 2 Court. The Court cannot give Appellant legal advice as to “what to do with this new potential
3 evidence.” His request for the Court to do so is denied.

4       The first basis proffered for Appellant’s request for another 30-day extension of time is 5 that he has been unable to figure out what to do with the CD. The Court finds this is not good 6 cause for an extension. Appellant does not allege, for example, that he lacks access to the record, 7 that the CD is the only method by which he might access it, and that he cannot figure out how to 8 operate the CD. Rather, he alleges—along with his unsubstantiated suspicions that the CD might 9 contain malware and his frankly incredible allegations that a private firm he paid to analyze the 10 CD found pornography on it—that he is concerned the CD may contain privileged documents.
11 That is no basis to extend time. Second, neither are the issues particularly complex in this case.
12 Third, neither does the Court find good cause to further extend the deadline based on Appellant’s 13 alleged medical problems. Appellant’s medical problems have not prevented him from 14 researching, authoring, and filing the present 11-page motion listing and arguing several bases for 15 an extension. Fourth, neither is Appellant’s pro se status good cause for an additional extension
16 in this case. Appellant has prosecuted half a dozen cases pro se in this Court and has had no
17 problem filing many briefs and motions in those cases. Indeed, he filed his opening brief in a 18 timely manner in this appeal. Fifth, neither do the interests of justice or the policy of deciding 19 cases on the merits rather than technicalities provide good cause for an extension, because the 20 Court has herein adjudicated the case based on the opening and answering briefs, not based on 21 any technicalities, e.g., failure to file the reply brief within the time ordered, and the case is not a
22 difficult one. There are no close legal or factual issues. Finally, the time limits under Rule 60(c)
23 are irrelevant. The present motion is not in the nature of a Rule 60(b) motion. It is a timely filed 24 motion to extend time that requires no basis under Rule 60(b). In summary, there is no reason to 25 extend the time to reply but delay.
