

1 eligibility for Supplemental Nutrition Assistant Program (“SNAP”) benefits. This Court
2 adopts the more detailed summary of the complaint’s allegations in the R&R (ECF No. 3 3 at 3-4).

4 III. LEGAL STANDARD

5 This Court “may accept, reject, or modify, in whole or in part, the findings or 6 recommendations made by the magistrate judge.” 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(C). Where a 7 party timely objects to a magistrate judge’s report and recommendation, then the court is 8 required to “make a de novo determination of those portions of the [report and 9 recommendation] to which objection is made.” 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). Where a party fails 10 to object, however, the court is not required to conduct “any review at all . . . of any issue 11 that is not the subject of an objection.” Thomas v. Arn, 474 U.S. 140, 149 (1985).
12 Indeed, the Ninth Circuit has recognized that a district court is not required to review a 13 magistrate judge’s report and recommendation where no objections have been filed. See 14 United States v. Reyna-Tapia, 328 F.3d 1114, 1122 (9th Cir. 2003) (disregarding the 15 standard of review employed by the district court when reviewing a report and 16 recommendation to which no objections were made); see also Schmidt v. Johnstone, 17 263 F. Supp. 2d 1219, 1226 (D. Ariz. 2003) (reading the Ninth Circuit’s decision in 18 Reyna-Tapia as adopting the view that district courts are not required to review “any 19 issue that is not the subject of an objection.”). Thus, if there is no objection to a 20 magistrate judge’s recommendation, then the court may accept the recommendation 21 without review. See, e.g., Johnstone, 263 F. Supp. 2d at 1226 (accepting, without 22 review, a magistrate judge’s recommendation to which no objection was filed).

23 In light of Plaintiff’s objection to the R&R, the Court conducts a de novo review to 24 determine whether to adopt the R&R.

25 IV. DISCUSSION

26 The Magistrate Judge recommends granting Plaintiff’s IFP Application. Plaintiff 27 does not object to this recommendation. (ECF No. 3 at 1.) Accordingly, the Court will 28 accept the recommendation.

1 The Magistrate Judge further recommends that the complaint be dismissed with 2 prejudice in its entirety based on the doctrine of Burford abstention.¹ (ECF No. 3 at 6.)
3 After performing a de novo review, the Court rejects the Magistrate Judge’s findings in 4 whole but accepts the Magistrate Judge’s recommendations in part.

5 A. Claims in the Complaint

6 While the complaint identifies seven distinct claims for relief, three of the claims 7 appear to be redundant.

8 Plaintiff’s first claim is entitled “14th Amendment of the United States Constitution” 9 and states that Plaintiff was denied adequate notice under the Due Process Clause by 10 “[n]ot having rules on evidence exchange and not receiving information in a timely 11 manner.” (ECF No. 1-1 at 4.) The Court construes this claim as a claim for violation of 12 Plaintiff’s procedural due process rights under the Fourteenth Amendment brought 13 pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

14 Plaintiff’s second claim is entitled “Constitutional [sic] Article VI” and states that 15 “[c]alculations [of SNAP benefits] given by the Federal government is [sic] considered to 16 be the Supreme Law of the Land” and “[d]eviations in state calculations deprive Plaintiff 17 of the property interest in receiving benefits.” (ECF No. 1-1 at 4.) The Court construes 18 this as an attempt to bring an independent claim for relief under the United States 19 Constitution’s Supremacy Clause, U.S. CONST. art. VI, § 1, and/or a claim that the state 20 agency officer’s calculations of her eligibility for SNAP are preempted by federal law.

21 Plaintiff’s third claim is entitled “Regulations of the Department of Agriculture 7 22 C.F.R [sic] 273” and lists a variety of Department of Agriculture (“USDA”) regulations 23 relating to SNAP eligibility determination and the process by which a state agency 24

25 ¹The R&R construes the denial of Plaintiff’s application to be the basis for her 26 constitutional and statutory claims (see ECF No. 3 at 4), but the complaint identifies the 27 process by which the benefits hearing was conducted to be the basis for these claims 28 and the failure of the state agency to employ federal regulations as the basis for her Supremacy Clause claim. Moreover, nowhere in the complaint does Plaintiff unequivocally ask this Court to review the state agency’s denial or ask this Court to order that her SNAP benefits be reinstated.

1 conducts hearings to determine SNAP eligibility. (ECF No. 1-1 at 5-9 (citing 7 C.F.R. §§ 2 273.2, 273.8, 273.9, 273.10, 273.15).) The Court construes this claim as being 3 redundant with Plaintiff's second claim although the Court incorporates the federal 4 regulations cited to by Plaintiff as part of that claim.

5 Plaintiff's fourth claim is entitled "42 USC 1983" and states that "there is a private 6 right of action under section 1983 to enforce the fair hearings requirement of the 7 Medicaid Act."² (ECF No. 1-1 at 9.) The Court construes this claim as being redundant 8 with Plaintiff's first claim.

9 Plaintiff's fifth claim is entitled "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA)" and 10 states that "Plaintiff has ADHD"³ and contends that the agency did not communicate 11 effectively with her before or at the hearing in light of this alleged disability. (ECF No. 1-1 12 at 9-10.) The Court construes this as a claim for violation of the ADA under Title II. See 13 United States v. Georgia, 546 U.S. 151, 154 (2006) ("Title II authorizes suits by private 14 citizens for money damages against public entities that violate § 12132.")

15 Plaintiff's sixth claim is entitled "Deliberate Indifference" and states "[a]fter 16 knowing that my right to have information before the hearing was being violated the 17 Hearing Officer states that [sic] the way it is always done." (ECF No. 1-1 at 11.) Because 18 Plaintiff cites to case law dealing with the Eighth Amendment under the heading of 19 "Deliberate Indifference" (see id. at 10-11), the Court construes this as an Eighth 20 Amendment claim brought pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

21 Plaintiff's seventh claim is entitled "Breach of Contract" and states that Plaintiff's 22 right to be heard was denied at the hearing "[b]y not being able to exchange evidence 23 before the hearing in a reasonable time frame" and that "being able to exchange 24 evidence should have been afforded . . . prior to the hearing." (ECF No. 1-1 at 11-12.)
25 Plaintiff further contends that because of this failure by Defendants the conclusion

26 ²It is unclear why Plaintiff mentions the Medicaid Act as SNAP arises under the 27 Food Stamp Act, 7 U.S.C. § 2001.

28 ³"ADHD" stands for Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder.

1 reached about her household income was not right. (Id. at 12.) Plaintiff does not identify 2 a contract that has been breached, and the cases cited relate to procedural due process.
3 (Id. at 11-12 (citing to Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 31 (1976)).⁴ Thus, the Court 4 construes this claim as being redundant with Plaintiff’s first claim.

5 As a result, the Court construes the complaint as alleging a claim for relief under 6 the ADA and three independent claims for relief under 42 U.S.C. § 1983—violation of the 7 Fourteenth Amendment, violation of the Supremacy Clause, and violation of the Eighth 8 Amendment.

9 B. Burford Abstention

10 Plaintiff’s objection focuses exclusively on the doctrine of Burford abstention and 11 derivative arguments made against application of this doctrine to her case, as this is the 12 sole basis upon which the Magistrate Judge recommends dismissal. While the objection 13 is difficult to parse, Plaintiff appears to object to the applicability of Burford abstention on 14 five grounds:⁵ (1) federal regulations vest jurisdiction in federal courts such that this 15 Court has federal question jurisdiction over Plaintiff’s constitutional claims; (2) the state
16 court is no better equipped than this Court to handle the issues Plaintiff has raised; (3)
17 Article III of the United States Constitution requires this Court to exercise jurisdiction; (4) 18 refusing to hear this now will result in the state court proceeding on this matter barring 19 consideration by a federal court of the issues raised in this action; and (5) state policy 20 regarding SNAP benefits determination is preempted by conflicting federal law. (See 21 ECF No. 4 at 1-6.) The Court finds that the allegations in the complaint do not meet the 22 requirements for abstention under Burford v. Sun Oil Co., 319 U.S. 315 (1943).

23 _____
24 ⁴To the extent Plaintiff cites to 7 C.F.R. § 273.15 (see ECF No. 1-1 at 11), which 25 requires “fair hearings” by state agencies implementing SNAP, the Court construes this 26 as redundant with Plaintiff’s second claim.

27 ⁵To the extent Plaintiff contends that the “dismissal was due to personal feelings 28 from another case . . . currently before the same judges and this prejudice is affecting the plaintiff [sic] ability to get justice” (ECF No. 4 at 4), the Court clarifies that a magistrate judge’s R&R does not dismiss a plaintiff’s action. The R&R merely makes findings and recommendations to the district judge for her consideration, with which the district judge may then agree or disagree.

1 “Because the federal courts’ obligation to adjudicate claims within their jurisdiction 2 is virtually unflagging, abstention is permissible only in a few carefully defined situations
3 with set requirements.” United States v. Morros, 268 F.3d 695, 703 (9th Cir. 2001) 4 (internal quotation marks and footnotes omitted). Burford abstention permits courts to 5 “decline to rule on an essentially local issue arising out of a complicated state regulatory 6 scheme.” Knudsen Corp. v. Nevada State Dairy Comm’n, 676 F.2d 374, 376 (9th Cir.
7 1982). Application of Burford requires three things: (1) “that the state has chosen to 8 concentrate suits challenging the actions of the agency involved in a particular court”; (2) 9 “that federal issues could not be separated easily from complex state law issues with 10 respect to which state courts might have special competence”; and (3) “federal review 11 might disrupt state efforts to establish a coherent policy.” Id. at 377. Under Burford 12 abstention, a federal court has discretion to “decline to exercise its jurisdiction when it is 13 asked to employ its historic powers as a court of equity” and may apply “abstention 14 principles to actions at law only to . . . enter a stay order that postpones adjudication of 15 the dispute, not to dismiss the federal suit altogether.” Quackenbush v. Allstate Ins. Co., 16 517 U.S. 706, 717, 719 (1996) (internal quotation marks omitted) (emphasis in original).

17 As an initial matter, this is an action in both equity and at law; Plaintiff requests 18 declaratory relief that her rights were violated, damages of $1.9 million, and vaguely 19 states a prayer for “injunctive, punitive, and emotional distress due to unfair treatment 20 and loss of SNAP benefits” pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a)(3). (ECF No. 1-1 at 12-13.)
21 Because the requested relief here includes claims at law and requires consideration of 22 whether a stay is appropriate, the Court finds that an order entering a stay is inapplicable 23 as there is no pending state action addressing the issues raised in the complaint or 24 appealing the determination of Plaintiff’s SNAP eligibility.⁶ Moreover, nowhere in the 25 ///

26 ⁶Moreover, it is unclear whether, if the Court stayed this action to permit Plaintiff 27 to file an appeal, that she would be able to do so as the ninety-day period to appeal the 28 hearing officer’s final decision has expired. See NRS § 422A.295(2) (stating that an applicant for public services may within 90 days after the date on which written notice of

1 complaint does Plaintiff either directly or indirectly ask this Court to review and change 2 the state agency's determination of her SNAP eligibility.

3 To the extent Plaintiff requests equitable relief, the relief requested does not 4 implicate state law issues that require adjudication by a Nevada state court. The crux of 5 Plaintiff's complaint is two-fold: (1) her rights under the Fourteenth and Eighth 6 Amendments as well as under the ADA were violated by conduct occurring around and 7 during her hearing; and (2) the state agency's calculations of her SNAP eligibility violated 8 the Supremacy Clause and/or are preempted by federal law governing calculation of 9 SNAP eligibility. See Pimentel v. Dreyfus, 670 F.3d 1096, 1099 (9th Cir. 2012) (stating 10 that the federal government "determines uniform program-eligibility criteria and benefit-11 calculation formulae" for SNAP but that "individual participating states are responsible for 12 certifying qualifying households and issuing benefits" and must "comply with applicable 13 federal laws and regulations").

14 As to Plaintiff's claims that her rights were violated, long-standing Supreme Court 15 precedent makes clear that Plaintiff's contentions that the state agency's actions at and 16 surrounding her hearing violated her constitutional rights "authorize immediate resort to 17 federal court" under section 1983 regardless of whether that conduct is legal under state 18 law. See Fair Assessment in Real Estate Ass'n, Inc. v. McNary, 454 U.S. 100, 104
19 (1981) (citing to Monroe v. Pape, 365 U.S. 167 (1961), and McNeese v. Bd. of Educ., 20 373 U.S. 668 (1963)). Moreover, the contention that the state agency failed to 21 communicate effectively with her before or at her hearing does not necessarily implicate 22 the state's determination of her SNAP eligibility, and Title II of the ADA provides a private 23 right of action against states where a "qualified individual with a disability"⁷ is "excluded 24 from participation in or denied the benefits of the services, programs, or activities of a

26 the decision is mailed petition the state district court of the judicial district in which the 27 applicant resides to review the decision).

28 ⁷The ADA defines "qualified individual with a disability" as "an individual with a disability who, with or without reasonable modifications to rules, policies, or practices,
(fn. cont...)

1 public entity, or is subjected to discrimination by any such entity” by reason of her 2 disability. United States v. Georgia, 546 U.S. at 153 (quoting 42 U.S.C. § 12132); see 3 also Duvall v. Cty. of Kitsap, 260 F.3d 1124, 1135 (9th Cir. 2001).

4 As to Plaintiff’s contention that the state agency violated the Supremacy Clause 5 and/or that its state policy is preempted by federal regulations, the Ninth Circuit has 6 found that Burford abstention is inappropriate when a claim is based on preemption, as it 7 is not plainly an issue “with respect to which state courts might have special 8 competence” and “because abstaining under Burford would be an implicit ruling on the 9 merits.” Morros, 268 F.3d at 705 (quoting Knudsen, 676 F.2d at 377).

10 The Court therefore rejects the Magistrate Judge’s finding that Burford abstention 11 applies and proceeds to screening under 28 U.S.C. § 1915.

12 C. Screening of Claims under 28 U.S.C. § 1915

13 In proceeding to screening under 28 U.S.C. § 1915, the Court adopts the 14 standard set forth in the R&R. (See ECF No. 3 at 2.) Applying this pleading standard, the 15 Court dismisses Plaintiff’s ADA claim without prejudice and with leave to amend based 16 on the deficiencies identified below. The Court dismisses Plaintiff’s remaining claims 17 against DWSS and AAO with prejudice. The Court also grants Plaintiff leave to file a 18 Fourteenth Amendment claim consistent with the requirements set forth below.

19 1. Fourteenth Amendment Procedural Due Process Claim

20 “The requirements of procedural due process apply only to the deprivation of 21 interests encompassed by the Fourteenth Amendment’s protection of liberty and 22 property.” Bd. Of Regents of State Colls. v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564, 569 (1972). Therefore, 23 “[t]he first inquiry in every due process challenge is whether the plaintiff has been 24 deprived of a protected interest in ‘property’ or ‘liberty.’” Am. Mfrs. Mut. Ins. Co. v.

27 the removal of architectural, communication, or transportation barriers, or the provision 28 of auxiliary aids and services, meets the essential eligibility requirements for the receipt of services or the participation in programs or activities provided by a public entity.” 42 U.S.C. § 12131(2).

1 Sullivan, 526 U.S. 40, 59 (1999). A person can have a property interest in continuing to 2 receive government benefits. See, e.g., Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254, 261-263
3 (1970). But to have a property interest in a benefit, the person must “have a legitimate 4 claim of entitlement to it,” not just an abstract need or desire for it. K.W. ex rel. D.W. v.
5 Armstrong, 789 F.3d 962, 972 (9th Cir. 2015) (citing Roth, 408 U.S. at 577).

6 However, the Supreme Court has explicitly barred suit against state agencies 7 under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, including those claims against state agencies for violation of 8 due process. See Will v. Michigan Dep’t of State Police, 491 U.S. 58, 66 (1989) (“Section 9 1983 provides a federal forum to remedy many deprivations of civil liberties, but it does 10 not provide a federal forum for litigants who seek a remedy against a State for alleged 11 deprivations of civil liberties.”); see also Taylor v. List, 880 F.2d 1040, 1045 (9th Cir.
12 1989) (Eleventh Amendment immunity applies to state agencies). Under the Eleventh 13 Amendment to the United States Constitution, states enjoy sovereign immunity from suit 14 brought by a state’s own citizens. Hans v. Louisiana, 134 U.S. 1, 14-15 (1890); see also 15 Idaho v. Coeur d’Alene Tribe of Idaho, 521 U.S. 261, 268 (1997) (“suits invoking the 16 federal-question jurisdiction of Article III courts may [] be barred by the [Eleventh] 17 Amendment”). One exception to the sovereign immunity of states has been recognized 18 for suits suing individual state officers in their individual capacities. See Ex parte Young, 19 209 U.S. 123, 159-160 (1908); cf. Flint v. Dennison, 488 F.3d 816, 824-25 (9th Cir.
20 2007) (Eleventh Amendment bars section 1983 damages claims against state officials in 21 their official capacity). Here, Plaintiff is suing a state agency and is seeking both a 22 declaration that the agency violated her due process rights and damages from the 23 alleged violation of her due process rights. Because she is not seeking prospective relief 24 from the agency,⁸ her Fourteenth Amendment claim against DWSS and AAO is 25

26 ⁸Plaintiff cites to K.W. ex rel. D.W. v. Armstrong, 789 F.3d 962 (9th Cir. 2015), but 27 that case permitted a Fourteenth Amendment claim against Idaho’s Department of 28 Health and Welfare because the relief requested by the plaintiffs was prospective injunctive relief to reinstate certain social assistance benefits. 789 F.3d at 974. Here, Plaintiff makes mention of injunctive relief but vaguely asks for “injunctive [sic] . . . due to 1 dismissed with prejudice. The Court will permit Plaintiff leave to amend this claim so that 2 she may attempt to allege a Fourteenth Amendment claim against the agency individuals 3 of DWSS and/or AAO that she contends violated her due process rights while acting in 4 their individual capacities.

5 2. Supremacy Clause Claim

6 Plaintiff's Supremacy Clause or preemption claim is problematic for two reasons.
7 First, the Supreme Court has held that the Supremacy Clause on its own does not confer 8 a right of action for which an individual may bring suit, and it is not a mechanism by 9 which a party may get a state to comply with federal law. See Armstrong v. Exceptional 10 Child Center, Inc., 135 S. Ct. 1378, 1381, 1384 (2015) (finding that the Supremacy 11 Clause only instructs courts to give federal law priority when state and federal law clash 12 and that the Court's preemption jurisprudence does not demonstrate that the Supremacy 13 Clause creates a cause of action for its violation). Second, to the extent Plaintiff brings a 14 preemption claim, she fails to identify what state laws or regulations, if any, are 15 preempted by the federal regulations she cites to in her complaint and fails to specify 16 any relief that would redress this claim in the complaint, i.e., a declaration that state law 17 is preempted by federal law or injunctive relief that requires that the state not apply its 18 law going forward. Moreover, the Court finds that amendment of this claim would be 19 futile; the doctrine of preemption does not apply here because Nevada does not have 20 any state laws or regulations on SNAP calculations. The formula for calculating SNAP 21 benefits is set by the federal government, and the state merely creates a plan of 22 operation to carry out the SNAP program—specifically the manner in which it certifies 23 household eligibility and distributes SNAP benefits—that is then approved by the 24 Secretary of the USDA. See 7 U.S.C. §§ 2014, 2020(a)(1) & (d). Therefore, Plaintiff's 25 Supremacy Clause claim is dismissed with prejudice.

26 _____

27 unfair treatment and loss of SNAP benefits.” The Court is unsure what Plaintiff means 28 and is unable to construe this as a request for prospective injunctive relief. (ECF No. 1-1 at 12.)

1 3. ADA Claim

2 “To prove that a public program or service violated Title II of the ADA, a plaintiff 3 must show: (1) [s]he is a qualified individual with a disability;⁹ (2) [s]he was either 4 excluded from participation in or denied the benefits of a public entity’s services, 5 programs, or activities, or was otherwise discriminated against by the public entity; and 6 (3) such exclusion, denial, or benefits, or discrimination was by reason of [her] disability.”
7 Duvall, 260 F.3d at 1135 (internal quotation marks omitted). Plaintiff avers that she has 8 ADHD and that the agency failed to communicate with her effectively. (ECF No. 1-1 at 9 10.) However, these allegations fail to meet the requirements to plead a claim under Title 10 II of the ADA. First, the Court is unclear how failure to communicate effectively falls 11 within any of the activities identified in the second prong. Second, Plaintiff fails to make 12 clear whether she is a “qualified individual with a disability,” as in the section of this claim 13 she only references ADHD,¹⁰ which the Ninth Circuit has held may not qualify as a 14 disability under the ADA unless it is shown to substantially limit the ability of an individual 15 to perform a major life activity—such as working or interacting with others—as compared 16 to most people in the general population. See Weaving v. City of Hillsboro, 763 F.3d 17 1106, 1111-1112 (9th Cir. 2014). An individual may also fall within the definition of a 18 “qualified individual with a disability” if she has a record of a mental or physical 19 impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities or if she is “regarded 20 as having such an impairment.” See 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(k) & (l). Third, Plaintiff does not 21 state that DWSS and/or AAO were aware that she had a disability—although she notes 22 that she is “considered to be disabled for SNAP purposes”—such that the failure to 23 communicate or any other such action consistent with the second prong was because of 24 her disability. (ECF No. 1-1 at 2.)

25 _____
26 ⁹*See supra* n.7.

27 ¹⁰Plaintiff notes at the outset of the complaint that she was diagnosed with bipolar 28 depression and obesity in 2011 and is considered disabled for SNAP purposes. (ECF No. 1-1 at 2.) However, it is unclear to the Court whether any of these qualify as disabilities under the ADA. See 29 C.F.R. § 1630.2(g) et seq.

1 The Court therefore dismisses this claim. However, because it is unclear whether 2 amendment may cure the deficiencies identified here, the Court gives Plaintiff leave to 3 amend this claim.

4 4. Eighth Amendment Deliberate Indifference Claim

5 The Court finds Plaintiff's Eighth Amendment claim to be a legally unrecognizable 6 claim as the standard of "deliberate indifference" under the Eighth Amendment is wholly 7 inapplicable to the factual circumstances that Plaintiff has alleged in the complaint. The 8 "deliberate indifference" standard ensues from the Eighth Amendment's prohibition 9 against "cruel and unusual [physical] punishments inflicted" upon prison inmates.¹¹ U.S.
10 CONST. amend. VIII. Moreover, section 1983 generally does not apply to state agencies.
11 See discussion supra Sec. IV(C)(i).

12 This claim is therefore dismissed with prejudice.

13 V. CONCLUSION

14 It is therefore ordered, adjudged and decreed that the Report and 15 Recommendation of Magistrate Judge Valerie P. Cooke (ECF No. 3) is accepted and 16 adopted in part.

17 It is ordered that Plaintiff's application to proceed in forma pauperis (ECF No. 1) 18 without having to prepay the full filing fee is granted.

19 It is further ordered that the Clerk detach and file the complaint (ECF No. 1-1).

20 It is further ordered that Plaintiff's complaint is dismissed without prejudice as to 21 the ADA claim and with leave to amend to cure the deficiencies with respect to this 22 claim; Plaintiff's remaining claims against DWSS and AAO are dismissed with prejudice.
23 However, Plaintiff is given leave to amend her Fourteenth Amendment claim to bring 24

25 ¹¹To the extent contentions of deliberate indifference may be brought under the 26 Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. see Byrd v. Maricopa Cty. of 27 Supervisors, 845 F.3d 919, 924 (9th Cir. 2017), this is wholly inapplicable here. There is 28 no contention that Plaintiff was detained during this administrative hearing—she appears to have appeared by phone (see ECF No. 1-1 at 3)—nor is it plausible that a person would be physically detained during the regular course of a state agency hearing to determine SNAP benefit eligibility.

1 such a claim against individual defendants of DWSS and/or AAO acting in their individual 2 capacities if she so chooses. Plaintiff must file an amended complaint within thirty (30)
3 days of this order addressing the deficiencies identified herein. The amended complaint 4 must be complete in itself. That is, it may not incorporate by reference the original 5 complaint and should include facts relevant only to Plaintiff's ADA claim and Fourteenth 6 Amendment claim against individual state officials if she chooses to bring it. Failure to 7 file an amended complaint within this thirty-day deadline will result in dismissal of the 8 ADA claim with prejudice.
