UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEW JERSEY

LOUISA L REYES,

Plaintiff,

v.

WASHINGTON MUTUAL BANK, F.A., et al.,

Defendants.

Civil Action No.: 2:18-cv-02638

MEMORANDUM OPINION
AND ORDER

CECCHI, District Judge.

WHEREAS on February 23, 2018, Plaintiff filed a complaint against Defendants with this Court, (ECF No. 1), and a motion for temporary restraining order and injunction (“TRO”) (ECF No. 2); and

WHEREAS Plaintiff’s TRO asks this Court to prevent “Defendants from proceeding with eviction or any other proceedings to enforce their state court judgment against the Plaintiff or her home.” (Id. at 1); and

WHEREAS the home at issue is subject to a default judgment that was issued in the state foreclosure action. See JPMorgan Chase Bank v. Reyes Heirs Jose, No. F-014972-09 (N.J. Super. Ct. Ch. Div.) (default judgment entered August 19, 2016); see also (ECF No. 1 at 2 (Plaintiff explaining that Defendants were “granted summary judgment against Plaintiff for foreclosure in a state court proceeding in the Superior Court of Passaic County, New Jersey, case number F014972”); ECF No. 2 at 1 (Plaintiff asking this Court to prevent “Defendants from proceeding with eviction or any other proceedings to enforce their state court judgment against the Plaintiff or her home”)); and

WHEREAS adjudicating the claims in Plaintiff's complaint or granting Plaintiff's TRO would be barred by the Rooker-Feldman doctrine, because Plaintiff is seeking to avoid the default judgment that was issued in the state foreclosure action by bringing this federal action. See D.C. Court of Appeals v. Feldman, 460 U.S. 462, 482 (1983); Rooker v. Fid. Trust Co., 263 U.S. 413, 414-16 (1923); see also Colahar v. Wells Fargo Bank N.A., 56 F. Supp. 3d 603, 607 (D. Del. 2014) ("In addition, the Rooker-Feldman doctrine prohibits this court from maintaining subject matter jurisdiction over [Plaintiff's] motion [for a preliminary injunction and temporary restraining order,] which effectively seeks to vacate orders of the Superior Court."). The Rooker-Feldman doctrine bars this Court from adjudicating the claims in Plaintiff's complaint or granting Plaintiff's TRO because: (1) Plaintiff was unsuccessful in state court and is complaining of injuries caused by the default judgment; (2) the default judgment was rendered in 2016, before Plaintiff initially sought relief in federal court in February 2018; and (3) Plaintiff invites this Court to review and reject the default judgment. See Bierley v. Abate, 661 F. App'x 208, 209 (3d Cir. 2016) (affirming the district court's dismissal of claims based upon Rooker-Feldman grounds); Colahar, 56 F. Supp. 3d at 607 (denying motion for preliminary injunction and temporary restraining order based upon Rooker-Feldman grounds); and

WHEREAS it is now well-settled law that the proper way for Plaintiff to proceed concerning her alleged injuries caused by the default judgment would be to seek review and relief through the state appellate process, and then to seek certiorari directly to the United States Supreme Court. This Court is prohibited from providing relief that would effectively reverse the decisions, directly or indirectly invalidate the determinations, prevent the enforcement of the default judgment, or void the rulings issued by the state court in the state foreclosure action. See Francis v. TD Bank, N.A., 597 F. App'x 58, 60-61 (3d Cir. 2014) (affirming a district court's dismissal of the claims that were brought in connection with a state foreclosure action as being barred by the Rooker-Feldman doctrine, because the plaintiff sought redress from a state court judgment); see also Shipley v. New Castle Cty., No. 08-554, 2008 WL 4330424, at *2 n.2 (D. Del. Sept. 19, 2008) (denying motion for injunctive relief and temporary restraining order based on Rooker-Feldman where “Plaintiffs allege[d] injury based upon the actions taken by Superior Court judges and the Sheriff with regard to the sale of his real estate at a sheriff’s sa[l]e”); and

WHEREAS a final determination in the form of a default judgment has been entered in the state foreclosure action. However, to the extent that the state foreclosure action may be considered to be ongoing, and to the extent that Plaintiff requests that this Court intervene in the state foreclosure action, that relief is barred by the Younger abstention doctrine. See Middlesex Cty. Ethics Comm. v. Garden State Bar Ass’n, 457 U.S. 423, 435 (1982); Younger v. Harris, 401 U.S. 37, 43-54 (1971). This Court simply has no authority to interfere with the state foreclosure action if it is indeed ongoing, because important state interests are implicated therein, and because there is an adequate opportunity to raise federal claims therein. See Cunningham v. Mortg. Contracting Servs. LLC, 634 F. App’x 361, 362 (3d Cir. 2016) (affirming a district court’s dismissal of claims brought in connection with a state foreclosure action for being barred by Younger abstention); Shipley, 2008 WL 4330424, at *2-3 (denying motion for injunctive relief and temporary restraining order under Younger abstention doctrine where “there [we]re prior pending state court proceedings that directly relate[d] to Plaintiff’s dispute,” the state “ha[d] an important interest in resolving real estate tax and lien issues,” a “ruling in the Superior Court proceeding implicate[d] the important interest of preserving the authority of the state’s judicial system,” and there was “an adequate opportunity to raise . . . due process claims in state court”).

Accordingly, IT IS on this 27 day of February, 2018, in the interests of justice and for good cause shown:

ORDERED that Plaintiff's TRO, (ECF No. 2), is hereby DENIED; it is further

ORDERED that Plaintiff's complaint, (ECF No. 1), is hereby DISMISSED WITHOUT PREJUDICE; it is further

ORDERED that to the extent the pleading deficiencies identified by the Court in this Memorandum Opinion and Order can be cured by way of amendment, Plaintiff is hereby GRANTED thirty (30) days to file an amended pleading; and it is further ORDERED that the Clerk of Court shall send a copy of this Order to Plaintiff by regular mail and shall CLOSE the file.

SO ORDERED.

CLAIRE C. CECCHI, U.S.D.J.
