RE: STC.UNM v. Intel Corporation, CIV 10-1077 RB/WDS

Dear Counsel:

Given the complexity of the issues involved, I invite counsel to present a technology tutorial explaining the applicable scientific terms and principles involved in this dispute.

Although the Court anticipates the parties may wish to present information independently, the parties should also consider whether a joint tutorial, not exceeding two hours in length, with agreed-upon facts is appropriate. Should the parties choose to go forward independently, each will be allotted a maximum of one hour. For this presentation, your respective experts are welcome, but not required, to join us.

Counsel should further be prepared to discuss the potential use of a special master, technological advisor, or rule 706 court-appointed expert witness in this case.

The tutorial will be held at 10:30 a.m. on January 27, 2012, in the Guadalupe Courtroom (North Tower) of the United States District Courthouse in Las Cruces, New Mexico.

Sincerely,
