Re: *The Authors Guild, Inc., et al. v. Google, Inc., No. 05 Civ. 8136 (S.D.N.Y.) (DC)

Dear Mr. McMahon:
The Author's Guild et al v. Google Inc.

Doc. 379

We represent Dr. Seuss Enterprises, L.P. ("DSE"), the owner of the copyright to hundreds of books written by, or derived from books written by, Theodor S. Geisel, under his own name as well as under two pseudonyms, Dr. Seuss and Theo LeSieg, which are implicated in the Google Book Settlement. DSE and its counsel have given careful consideration to the options available to it under the terms of the Settlement. After thoughtful deliberation, DSE asks the Court to grant the plaintiffs' motion for final settlement approval.

We are pleased that the Settlement, by not displaying in-print books unless the rightsholders of those books direct Google to do so, protects our client's interests yet also offers us the opportunity to try new marketing tools such as snippet and preview use, which could spur further sales of Dr. Seuss books.

The Settlement may offer a new opportunity for authors of out-of-print books to find new audiences and new sources of income for their works. We believe this is likely to be an important benefit for the authors' community, for readers and for researchers.

We have concluded that the Settlement is good for authors and for the reading public, and we support it.

Very truly yours,
