Robert Roth

After three years of hard work and obsessive inspiration, former Truly (Sub Pop, Capricorn) member Robert Roth has finished mixing his eagerly anticipated debut solo record and Pattern 25 can't wait to hear the lush masterwork out this Spring. Devil in the Woods magazine recently previewed it "a truly timeless creation. It echoes nearly every great blast of sound from the past in the order of its chords, but in its ability to shake listeners from complacency." With this deeply personal solo outing, Roth has brought to bear the sum total of his experience as a poet icon Jim Carroll, Seattle indie favorites Built to Spill and -- of course -- his work with international cult favorites Truly. Every year a handful of releases succeed in an immense ambition and even greater achievement that differentiates itself in a subsaturated market from the fields of imitators. This is one such release. You'll have to wait until May 11 to

The Worship Project

With straight-forward lyrical content and passionate expression, there is no guessing the message behind this album. The Worship Project is a contemporary, modern-rock album of original songs written and performed by Gary Humble and Seth Whorton. Gary and Seth are college graduates and worship leaders in local churches. The Worship Project is simply to release fresh songs of worship into the church to inspire and cultivate a deeper relationship with God.
