Paul:

After taking initial steps with the intention of complying with Judge Freeman's Order, it has become clear to iMesh and MusicLab (collectively, "iMesh") that such compliance would impose great burden and expense on iMesh and yield many thousands of documents of highly questionable relevance. As such, I wanted to give you a heads up that iMesh intends later today to file objections to the Order.

Jeff

Paul:

We are working diligently to make that happen. I should be able to give you a more definitive answer by Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Let's stay in touch re: status.

Dear Jeff:

In your most recent email, you mentioned that you anticipated that some production from your clients could be made as early as Friday, February 18. I wanted to touch base and see if that continued to be your expectation. Thanks.
