Let's be perfectly clear. I want us to find the maximum volume of clips we possibly can.
It's critical this week not be wasted effort.

I am sorry that I am losing my temper here but we are several weeks in and I am very displeased that I am finding so many ongoing problems.

So that we are clear, you when you say "drop" you mean to remove from the list an asset and the possibility of protection/enforcement? Or do you mean "drop" as in no longer actively search for that asset. Our goal is to assist you and MTVN is anyway we can, and clear communication is the best way to accomplish this task.

We should drop some of the earlier assets that have not yielded any results. After tonight's report we will provide you with a list that should be de-prioritized.

Thanks

Michelena,

Following up on instructions from the MTVN phone call and subsequent email, we have added an additional 27 assets. These have been grouped under the title Artist. We are using this group to find additional MTVN property rights violations using the current guidelines:

It must be identifiable as and MTVN Asset by show affiliation, or Screen Bug (visible logo belonging to MTVN). If it can not be clearly identified, the YouTube link is placed in an "unsure" or "declined" category for further review by Adam's team.

Asset count breakdown by order of creation:

203 Assets from the original MTVN set
11 Assets from BET for the YouTube Project

6/23/2008

8 Assets from the Channels (BET, CMT, Comedy Central, Generic, MTV, Music Videos, Nick, VH1)
27 Assets from the Artist List (See Below)

251 Total Assets
