

From: YouTube Service <service@youtube.com>
Sent: Monday, February 6, 2006 9:01 AM
To: tinkerer42 <[REDACTED]>
Subject: jawed sent you a video!
Attach: Message Text.txt

---

Hello tinkerer42,

jawed wants to share the following video with you:

Video description:

60 Minutes interview with Aubrey de Grey, Ph.D. (Cambridge University) and Jay Olshansky, Ph.D. (University of Illinois in Chicago) studying anti-aging and whether treatments may be available in 20-30 years to reverse the aging process. Related websites:

<http://www.cbsnews.com/stories/2005/12/28/60minutes/main1168852.shtml> <http://www.Mprize.org>

<http://www.ImmInst.org> <http://www.gen.cam.ac.uk/sens/AdGbio.htm> Related topics include: Cryonics

(cryogenics), anti-aging, caloric restriction, transhumanism, nanotechnology, technology, nanobots, immortality, Methuselah Mouse Prize, scientific conquest of death, longevity, fitness, health, population control, birth rate, death rate, rejuvenation therapies, aging reversal, Aubrey de Grey, live forever, cancer research, technology, nanobots, research, gene therapies, disease, transplants, physics, chemistry, computers, computing, bioscience, nutrition, exercise, philosophy, sociology, politics, history, elixir, drugs, singularity, Ray Kurzweil, matrix, supplements, suspended animation, cryo sleep, scientific debate, MIT, Technology Review, Cambridge conference sponsored by Larry Ellison, overpopulation, 1000 year lifespan, thousand year lifespan, infant mortality, science breakthroughs, futurist, future, war on aging, medical, youthful, retirement, computer engineer, genetics, research, SENS.

Personal message:

This video is awesome!

To respond to jawed, click here.

Thanks,
jawed

YouTube - Broadcast yourself. Watch and share your videos worldwide!

---

Copyright © 2006 YouTube, LLC