Kevin and Maryrose,

→ We removed the queue because there wasn't enough time to review them all and the director accounts program began at that same time so there were many authorized clips over the 10 minutes limit. Kevin, we would need to talk about this tool and whether it would make sense. I think it would be smarter to have a queue that has the words 'part' or 'episode' somewhere in the video title rather than by time. But, there is also the issue of whether it is really worth the admin time due to how many are really out there to be found.

Let's talk more about it,

Heather

I think we already have this filter (called 'length too long'), right Heather?

Guys,

A couple of the studios asked about this type of problem - users uploading a full length movie into 10 minute clips. Can we do an automatic search/filter uploads of approx 10 min. into a queue for Heather's team to review?

Thx,

KD

This user has broken up United 93 into multiple parts...

Thanks,

Doug

Dear Neil,

The 2 users (one from the search results links) and all of their videos have been removed. Please let me know if I missed a user somewhere in that second search link. I searched through and didn't see another.

Thank you for pointing this out!

Heather

Kevin/Micah/Heather,

We just noticed that Slither and The Break-up are posted on YouTube in multiple parts:

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=S95OtezMjJk> - 10 parts

http://youtube.com/results?search_type=search_videos&search_query=Slither&search_sort=video_date_uploaded&search_category=0 - multiple parts

Can you have these removed asap?

Thanks,

Doug

P.S. - Looking forward to continuing our discussions on ideas for "Let's Go to Prison"...
