Acacia A Kreeetic or A-seed-like Summoning Charm ("acacia" / I. vena / for summum) Causes an object to fly to the caster. Even over quite some distance, the target object is said to have been Summoned. It would seem that the easier music know at least the general location of the object. Summoned Harry first learned the Summoning Charm for the First Task of the Triwizard Tournament, when he Summoned his Firebolt to him so he could fly around and past the Ichorian Ironclad (GF20). An object can be placed under counter-enchantment to prevent it being summoned magically. The stone basin in the Lorrax cave had Hufflepuff's cup in Gringotts had both been placed under such counter-enchantments (O316, DH26).

The propagation of this spell has been delayed by fines. The "buffoon" pronunciation from Scholastic & Co.-which "This is the pronunciation used in the audio version of the books."

Accountant Molly Weasley's second cousin is not a wizard but an accountant. This mundane profession is strength to embearness the rest of the family. Ron says that they never talk about him (TSS). In early flights of shock, this second cousin was the father of Malfoya, a male Slytherin. Housing describes her as "a roundish woman." Her website, referring to him as a wizard who married a Muggle, she writes that he was very much to the Weasleys. When he discovered his half daughter was a witch, he was, for a time, at the Burrow for the summer after her first year at Hogwarts. This part of the story was eventually dropped (UK1).

testing her the day before their Theory of Charms O.W.L. (OP51).

Acid Pops Magical sweets, sold at Honeydukes, which will burn a hole right through your tongue (PA10). One of the passwords for admittance to Dumbledore's office (HBP10)

Ackerley, Stewart (Ravenclaw, 1994) Longwards student (KF12).

Acetery Town Hall This town hall was the site of a concert which included the final performance of the unfinished "Wizarding Sun" composed by Minerva Parchment. The exploding tuba featured in this concert blew the roof off the Acerity Town Hall in 1902, and the piece has been banned from performance ever since (LW).

Acetomyxine poison Almost impossible to collect (from a living Acromantula because this highly useful venom dries out too long after an Acromantula's death. As a result, the venom may fetch as much as one hundred Galleons a pint (LJ1P22).

Acetomyxine poison At the Quidditch World Cup, Ron brought a small model of Viktor Krum, the famous Bulgarian Seeker, which walked around and scowled (GF7) and even mimicked the real Viktor Krum's posture and way of walking (GF9). After Viktor Krum took Harrowing to the Yule Ball, Harry found the arm of the statue model lying on the floor of the boys' dormitory. Ron had apparently broken it (L124). Bill and Fleur's wedding cake was topped with two model phoenixes that rook flight when the cake was cut (DH8).

Advanced Potions-Making by Albusius Dumbledore [The N.E.W.T.-level textbook for Potions during Harry's sixth year] (HB19), which cost nine Galleons brand-new (HB11). The book was written around the year 1946 (HBP15). The book contains instructions for making the Draught of Living Death starting at page 10 (HB79). The copy Harry borrowed had once belonged to someone calling himself 'the Half-Blood Prince' and was filled with scribbled notes (HBP9, 11.)

Advanced Potions Translation Hermione was reading a copy of this after her pre-symp year trip to Diagon Alley, presumably it is one of the N.E.W.T.-level Ancient Runes textbooks (LIPB).

"The Adventures of Martin Miggins, the Mad Muggle" A comic book Ron has in his bedcrown at the Potters the first time Harry visits (C22).

Aeaea In ancient Greece, the legendary island of Aeaea was the home of the famous sorceress Circe (FW).

Aethonion A breed of winged horse, chestnut in colour, which lives mainly in Britain (FB)

Aging Potion Causes the person drinking it to grow older. The more Aging Potion one drinks, the more unattractive. Fred Weasley, George Weasley, Lee Jordan took a few drops of Aging Potion in an attempt to fool the Age Line around the Goblet of Fire into thinking that they were a few months older. The Line wasn't fooled. They were thrown back out of the circle, after which they sprouted full beards (GF16).

Age Line A thin golden line drawn on a door, which affects anyone who crosses it if they are too young. Albus Dumbledore drew an Age Line around the Goblet of Fire to keep anyone who was not yet seventeen years old (GF16).

Agape Patient in the James Thickey ward for permanent spell damages at St Mungo's Hospital. Agape's entire head is covered with her hand and she backs instead of speaking. The Healer told her that her son would soon visit and had sent her several Christensen gifts (OoT23).

Agricola, Cornelius (1486-1535) Full name Heinrich Cornelius Agricola. Native German. Agricola appears on a Chocolate Frog trading card, which reads "Celebrated Wizard and Inventor of Arduc Adictus's Kwik-Repair Shop" for magical items (HSC).

Alpe, Great Uncle Alpe tried to trick Neville into showing some magical ability as a child. Pushed him off the end of Blackpool Pier once and nearly drowned him. Alpe held Neville out of an upstairs window when he was eight and accidentally dropped him. Until to see the boy bounce all the way down the garden and into the road; this was cause for great rejoicing in the Longbottom family. Alpe bought Trevor the Toad (D112, V1)

Ainingchein An Irish broom game (QA2).

Albania A small European country along the Adriatic Sea. Shortly after the founding of Hogwarts, Leila Raverdave, the daughter of Rowena Ravenclaw, stole her mother's diadem and hid it in a hollow tree in the forests of Albania. A thousand years later, the ghost of Leila revealed the hiding place to Tom Riddle, who recovered the diadem and turned it into a Phoenix (H13). As Voldemort's Riddle Peacock in Albania, when he lost his body in 1981 (GTF3).

Alderton, Albusius (1568-1621) accused of "stealing magic" and sent to Alaskam by the Ministry-hunt Regulation Committee. Claimed to be the son of Arius Alderton, a wizard (H113).

Alderton, Archibald (1568-1621) Famous for blowing up the hand of Little Drooping in Hampshire while attempting to magically mix a birthday cake (FW).

Alderton, Arlie Well-known baconstick designer (H117). Probably the current proprietor (or his namesake) of "Arloc Alderton's Kwik-Repair Shop" for magical items (HSC).

Alley Behind the Leaky Cauldron Though nondescript, this alley is one of the primary gateways to Britain from the Muggle world into the wizarding world. Tapping the right combination of bricks in the wall opens a magical portal into Diagon Alley (PS9). alley between Wisteria Walk and Magnolia Crescent Located in Little Whinging, a block or two from (PS7) and a Mimbulus muscicarinus (OP10) for Neville.

Alpuff the Awful Foul-smelling Goblin hunchback who is well-known throughout the goblin world for trying to sell vials of his sweat to a Trumbeek manufacturer (FW).

Alithoty Magical plant, eating the leaves causes hysteria (PS1).

All-Africa Cup The top trophy among African Quidditch teams. It has been won twice by the Grimbi Gian-Slayers (YAS).

All-England Breast-Kop Suburban Lawn Competition 1: In order to get the Dursleys out of the house, so they could rescue Harry, the Order of the Phoenix sent a letter to Vernon telling him that he was on the short list to win a national All-England Breast-Kop.

All-England Wizarding Dueling Competition Alberta Threepwood won the All-England competition in 1430 with a Blasting Charm. She defeated Savnon Whinlin, who was favorite to win (FW).

number four, Privet Drive, this alley has been the scene of two of the biggest collisions between Harry's Muggle home and the wizarding world. In August 1992, Harry fled down this alley after blowing up Aunt Marge. Here he saw Sirius in his Animagus form, and accidentally hailed the Knight Bus. Two years later, in July 1995, two Dementors sent by Dolores Umbridge attacked Harry and Dudley in the alley (HBP1).

Alohomora (Al-o-ho-MOR-oh- / "ah-loh'-oh" Haw, formuff + "open" L. obstace- Charma that causes a locked door to open. Some doors are charmed in a way that makes them impervious to this spell (LPS4).

Amortentia "“tame” I. love I. “un-pot” I. to cry in response; or unge Ambortentia is the most powerful love potion in the world (P11P7), recognizable by its distinctive mother-of-pearl sheen and by the fact that it seems to act on the characteristic smells. The potion smells differently to different people according to what attracts them (HBP9).

Amulets Lockhart claimed to have dealt with a case of Transfiguration Failure in Chogwydwyau by giving the two students versions of amulets (LPS4). When the students realized that a monster was attacking, Moogly-born, a boozing trade in magical remedies and defences was carried on in secret, including protective amulets. Most if not all of the items for sale were fake (CS1).

Anapmton (ah-NAM-puh-noy-oh- / "anape-ro" / "BooF") Spell that clears the target's airway if blocked. Can be used when someone is choking (HBP7).

ancient magic. The old magic, also referred to as ancient magic, is magic which is not cast by wizards with wands. It is part of the "magical-area" of the universe. This ancient magic cannot be altered or blocked by the actions of wizards. Rather, it must be taken into account and accepted as part of the way the world functions. In some cases, this magic can be invoked, but usually it simply exists within certain conditions are present particularly as the intentions and attitudes of wizards. Some examples of ancient magic include:

Complete self-sacrificial love gives magical protection, as we see with in the protection that Lily gave her son by dying for him (esp. GF53) and the protective Harry gave to the rest of the Wizarding world by willingly giving to his death for them (DH14, Tr).

Saving another person's life creates a life debt. Snape saved James from meeting Lupin in werewolf form (PS17), a debt compounded by the fact that Snape caused the death of James years later. Snape turned to the side of Voldemort because of this debt (DH15). Voldemort owed Harry a life debt because the boy spared him in the Shrieking Shack (PA19). Seven years later, Voldemort hesitated instead of killing Harry and died as a result (DH23).

Dragons are protected by ancient magic that禁ishes their thick hides (GF20).

Wandlore is a complicated and mysterious form of magic which draws on ancient magic that few understand. (DH24).

Ancient Runes Magical symbols and hieroglyphs used for writing some old texts (H17) and for other magical writing. Students at Hogwarts can take an elective class in Ancient Runes which is taught by Bathsheba Batilda. The textbooks for this class include various rune dictionaries, Ancient Runes Made Easy (CS1-2), JKR's Magical Hieroglyphs and Logograms, and Professor Sibyll's Animagics and Potions.

(OP26) Runes symbols are carved around the edge of Bombastus's Brews (CS10). K OWN RUNES Denimuse (zero) (JKR) Urimon (one) (JKR) Graphorn (two) (JKR) Runespoor (three) (JKR) Pewoper (four) (JKR) Qualisopod (five) (JKR) Salamander (six) (JKR) Acromantula (eight) (JKR) Hyda (nine) (JKR) Ebwaz - partnership (OP9) Elhwaz - defense (CS11)

Ancient Runes Made Easy Hermione began reading this during her second year, not long after signing up to take Ancient Runes the following year (LPS1). One page of this book shows a collection of magical creature-related runos which stand for the numbers zero through nine. Interestingly, the symbol for the number seven is not identified because it has yet to be discovered (JKR).

Andorra Located in the mountains between Spain and France, tiny Andorra is one of the smallest countries in the world. However, it has a Ministry of Magic (GF28) and participates in international affairs.

Andros the Invincible This ancient Greek warlord is alleged to have produced a Patronus the size of a giant (FW).

Anglesey Anglesey is an island off the west coast of Wales, off the coast of the Minster (GF7). There are only six names across the Irish Sea from Dublin. It is one of the places the Knight Bus visited the first time Harry rode it (PA5) though the Knight Bus then moved abruptly to Aberdeen on the other side of Britain (OP26).

Animagi / Animagus A homogae (anc.-MAF-juh-OR-uh-MAY-pax) "natural" L. animus + "magus" Fros. magis; user friend. Animagus. An Animagus is a witch or wizard who has the ability to transform herself/himself into an animal as will while retaining the ability to think as a human. Complex and difficult magic is required for this transformation. The magic is performed without a wand (e.g. PA19) or incantation. An Animagus' physical condition and appearance as an animal reflects his or her physical condition in human shape. For example, Peter Pettigrew's rat Animagus form lacked a tail, one of his front paws because he had lost a finger (PA19). McGonagall's cat form has square markings around its eyes like her spectacles (PS1). The Imperator Use of Magic Office maintains a register of all known Animagi (PA19).

Animagi rosters The Imperator Use of Magic Office maintains a register of all known Animagi. The register is a matter of public record. Imperator Granger at age thirteen could consult it for the information therein, including the names of registered persons (PA19). For each known Animagus the Ministry records the kind of animal and distinguishing markings (GF2). The penalties for failing to register with the Imperator Use of Magic Office are rather severe, as the threat of exposure as an unregistered Animagus was enough to persuade Rita Skeeter to take a year off from her job as a scandal-mongering reporter (GF7). There are only six names on the last from the twelfth century (PA10).

Animagus Transformation

"Anima" L. "soul" + "magus" Persian magicians. The Transfiguration by which an Animagus changes between human and animal form. The animal form is sometimes referred to as the watch or wizard's Animagus form.

Anti-Cheating Spell

Cast to stop spells at Hogwarts by cheaters (PS16). Anti-Dark Forces Spell Whatever spell Quirrell cast to protect the Philosopher's Stone, Ron assumed it would be an Anti-Dark Forces spell of some kind. As it turned out, Quirrell had set a trap on Quidditch because he was particularly good at detecting them (PS2).

Anti-Disapparition Jinx

Prevents someone from Apparating. Most wizarding dwellings are magically protected against unwanted Apparitions, according to Albus Dumbledore who confirmed that "you can't Apparate anywhere inside the buildings or grounds" of Hogwarts (HBP4). However,

Annual International Wizarding Gardening Competition

Includes many interesting divisions including the Charming Cereals competition (O1μ1). Antechamber An antechamber is a small chamber adjacent to a larger room. There is an antechamber connected to the Great Hall, through a door behind the teachers' table, with a fireplace and many portraits (including that of the Fat Lady's friend Violet) (GF17, 31). After the Battle of Hogwarts, Voldemort's body was placed in a chamber off the Great Hall rather than let it lie with the bodies of those who died defending the castle (O1T7a).

Anthology of Eighteenth-Century Chaises, An

One of the books that Harry, Ron, and Hermione examined while preparing for the second task (GF26).

Anti-Burglar Buzzer

Possibly this magical device or charm buzzes

when anyone tries to steal the item it's attached to (GF8).

Anti-Cheating Spell

Cast to stop spells at Hogwarts by cheaters (PS16). Anti-Dark Forces Spell Whatever spell Quirrell cast to protect the Philosopher's Stone, Ron assumed it would be an Anti-Dark Forces spell of some kind. As it turned out, Quirrell had set a trap on Quidditch because he was particularly good at detecting them (PS2).

Anti-Disapparition Jinx

Prevents someone from Apparating. Most wizarding dwellings are magically protected against unwanted Apparitions, according to Albus Dumbledore who confirmed that "you can't Apparate anywhere inside the buildings or grounds" of Hogwarts (HBP4). However, the Headmaster or Headmistress can temporarily lift the restriction from a specific area of the school for short periods, so that someone already within that area can Apparate to another place within the same area, although they cannot leave the area by Apparition (HBP18).

Antidotes

There are antidotes for many poisons and for potion effects. Perhaps the most effective is a bezoar, which will act as an antidote to most persons (PS1, HBP18, 19). Mandrakes are an ingredient in most antidotes (CS6).

anti-gravity mist An innocent-looking magical mist which hovers above the ground. A person stepping into this mist immediately finds their up and down have reversed and they are hanging from the ground over the endless sky. Harry encountered this "mist in the middle of the third task (GF11).

anti-jinx

Any of a variety of spells which are cast to reverse or block the effects of a jinx (PA12, OPO, HBP51). Antipodes Another name for the south Pacific region that includes Australia and New Zealand, the home of the Antipodian Opaleye dragon (R18).

Antipodean Opaleye

Species of dragon native to New Zealand (and Australia). The Opaleye has indigo, purple scales and glittering, multi-colored eyes with no pupils. The flame of an Opaleye is bright red.

antler jinx

Creates the vacuo ("spiritual antica") Tatty Parkinson was hit with this spell and had to miss some classes (OP50).

Apperception

(uh-pur-see-uhnt) / "appear" / To appear. Makes invisible ink become visible. It remains in its original form, but it had no effect (CS13).

A shop selling potion ingredients in Diagon Alley (PS5).

Apparition /uh-puh-reyshuhn/ "appear" / -do appear/ Apparition is a advanced spell used by fully trained wizards and witches to disappear from one place and appear almost instantly somewhere else. A person who uses this spell is said to Apparate, and they are referred to as an Apparitor. The scillation of Apparating is like being squeezed through a thick rubber tube (HBP4). Apparition is difficult magic, and some wizards choose to stick with using brooms. ForbIDDEN incorrectly. Apparition can result in the caster being "siphoned off" leaving part of one's body behind (GF5, DH14, DH19). According to Harry's Apparition instructor, Willac Twycross, this happens when the caster is insinuously determined (HBP18).

Apparition becomes more difficult as distance increases. Only highly trained wizards would try intercontinental Apparition (QA9). Even Voldemort didn't try it (DH25). Wizards must pass a test to obtain a license to Apparate. To take the test, the applicant must be of age in the wizarding world (at least seventeen) (HBP19). Wilkie Twycross taught a twelve-week class for sixth year students at Hogwarts in Apparition. He explained that there are three C's in performing Apparition, destination, determination, and deliberation (HBP18).

Most wizarding dwellings are not magically protected from unwanted Apparitions, but Apparating directly into a wizarding house is considered just as rude as knocking down the front door (HBP17). According to Remus Lupin, it's impossible to track anyone who Apparates. If, however, a person grabs hold of a wizard as they Apparate, that person is taken along to the destination by Side-Along Apparition (Q111).

Apparition, Side-Along A form of Apparition in which the Apparator touches someone else such as a child too young to Apparate, and Apparates with that person in his "passenger" (HBP3, 4, 25, DH3 11).

Apparition Test Center The legally

Arrows & 1942-1995. A male Acromantula, acquired as an egg c. 1942 by Hagrid from a traveller. Hagrid hid Aragog in a cupboard in the castle and saved him from being trapped until Aragog's 19th birthday was celebrated by Tom Riddle. At that point Hagrid was expelled, but he managed to release Aragog into the forest, where the Acromantula spent the rest of his life. Hagrid later found a manticore for Aragog named Moosqu, and they had many offspring. The entire colony remained deep in the forest. Harry and Ron first encountered Aragog and his family in May of 1993, and barely escaped with their lives, although out of respect for Hagrid Aragog neither sought out humans as prey nor permitted his family to do so (CS15). At the end of his life, Aragog was the size of a small elephant. His coloration was mixed with grey and he had one blind, evidently due to cataracts (CS15). Aragog died of old age in the spring of 1997 (HP22).

"are "from "arrows" L. spiculae + "gloss" from "log", a legendary gloss." "Log", a legendary gloss'".
Arbreath A town on the east coast of Scotland. In 1107, Guthrie Lothian suffered much loss and death after flying a splinterly broomstick from Montrose to Arbreath (QA1).

Archie Old wizard with a penchant for flavoured jelliflows when he has to dress as a Muggle. Archie refused to wear trousers at the World Cup competition, saying that he liked "a healthy breeze around his privates" (GF7).

age and must successfully pass a test to acquire a license. To pass the test, the candidate must successfully Apparate to a specified destination without splitting himself or herself (K16, HBT22). The Ministry of Magic offers a twelve-week series of Appearance lessons from a Ministry of Magic instructor, presumably each year. The cost for these lessons in Harry's sixth year was twelve Galleons. The lessons begin in January and are open to all students who will be of age on or before 31 August (that is, before the next school year begins). The lessons take place every Saturday, extra, heavily supervised practice sessions can be arranged (HBP17). The test centre is located on level six of the Ministry of Magic, part of the Department of Magical Transportation (OP1).

Appleby Arrows Quidditch team from the small town of Appleby in northeast England, southeast of York. The team was founded in 1612. Their robes are pale blue with a silver arrow on the chest. The Arrows defeated the then-champion Vassal Vikings in aвенчаный upset match in 1932. The team's supporters used to fire arrows into the air from their stands to celebrate goals, but this practice was banned in 1894. The Arrows are fierce rivals of the Wimbourne Wasps (QA7).

Arcus One of two wizards thought to have taken the Elder Wand from Luxuria (D12).

Argentina Argentina is the second largest country in South America and features a little bit of everything from mountains to coastline. Its national Quidditch team reached the World Cup quarterfinals within the last century (QA8).

Argyllshire A map of Argyllshire, a county in western Scotland, hangs on the second floor of Hogwarts. This map is where the Fat Lady hid after Sirius Black attacked her (PA9).

Arithmancy Arithmancy is a branch of magic that is concerned with the magical properties of numbers; someone who practices Arithmancy is called an Arithmancer. There have been famous Arithmancers in history who have added to magical knowledge. For example, in the 1200s, Bridger Wenclish, a famous Arithmancer, discovered the magical properties of the number seven (FW). An O.W.L. in Arithmancy is required to apply for a curse-breaker's job at Gringotts (COP19). Arithmancy at Hogwarts is taught by Professor Vector. In her class, students are expected to write essays and is able to understand and complicated number charts, which are part of their homework (PA12). Hermione Granger appears to be the only Gryffindor in her year who attempted an O.W.L. in this subject (which is her favorite) (PA12, PA16).

Arjeplog A small city in the foothills of the mountains in northern Sweden. Arjeplog has for over a millennium been the location of the finishing line for the annual reindeer race of Sweden (QA2). It is also less than three hundred miles away from a Swedish Short-Short dragon reservation, which is most likely in the higher parts of the mountains.

arm or armour Loyworts contains many enchanted suits of armor, some of which stand on plinths around the castle (PA12). While others are in an armor gallery. They move on their own, muttering and creaking and watching as people pass by (e.g. CS5, GF15). At Christmas time mysterious lights (everlasting candles, crackling) shoot from inside every suit of armor in the castle (PA11, HP15). During some years they are bewitched to sing Christmas carols as well (HP22). The armor in the castle was summoned to fight against the Death Eaters in the Battle of Hogwarts (DH10).

arm, goblin-made Some armor in the war-torn world is made by goblins, and is quite valuable. (e.g. HBP20). According to Phineas Nigellus, goblin-made armor does not require cleaning, because goblins' silver repels mundane dirt, including only that which strengthens it, such as basilisk venom. In his universe, "armor" also includes blades such as swords (D11, D15).

armor-bewitching charm Bawiches a suit of armor to sing Christmas carols. This charm was used as part of the Christmas decorations in 1994. Unfortunately, a suit of armor so enchanted is still not a particularly clever thing, so many of them didn't know all the words to the songs. Fieres took to hiding inside the armor and filling in the
