HISTORY

EVERYTHING YOU WISH YOU KNEW ABOUT THE GREATEST PERIOD IN AMERICAN HISTORY IS HERE!

Here is the exciting account of how the United States, reeling from a devastating civil war, built itself into the richest, most powerful, and most influential nation in the world. It is the story of heroes and geniuses, rogues and renegades, of proud moments and shameful times, of invention, achievement, and success beyond imagination. It's a story rich with the facts you knew growing up and are at the tip of your tongue today—if only you could remember them!

For instance, do you remember:

- Which presidential candidate was a Federal prisoner at the time he was running for office?
- What commodity in the West is more valuable than gold?
- How did Prohibition soak the nation instead of drying it out?
- Which famous artist was told, "You furnish the pictures and I'll furnish the war"?
- Why was "Little Boy" the most frightening thing this side of "Fat Man"?
- What famous inventor was labeled as a child "too stupid to learn" by his teacher?
- What famous woman journalist spoke out against the feminist and women's suffrage movements?
- Which automobile would have its price drop in a few years from $825 to $290?

The answers to these questions are inside! In addition, American History 101 is also crammed with special features, including fascinating lists of who's who, biographies and little-known facts, and a host of photos, cartoons, and vintage illustrations to make this greatest period in American history come alive.
