Dale -

I have told all the firms that we are speaking with that the trial is set for October 22nd and that our expert reports will likely be due at the end of April. I am happy to "work toward" that being the date (April 27th, not the 20th) but I cannot yet commit to that in black and white. If for some reason the new firm and the expert financing is not yet in place by the end of March, that date would simply not work. I can see various things that we could do to solve the problem if that arises, such as allowing you to take our experts depositions before your own reports are filed or asking the judge for an extra week or two to complete expert (but not fact) depositions. I hope that this will become a moot issue and that we can indeed have the reports by the end of April - I just can't fully commit to that at this point.

Regards, Tom

I understand Tom, but as the Judge said she was not moving the end dates we do not have a lot of choice. Can we work to these dates with your reservation noted?

Bonnie, Claudia and Dale -

Until we know that new counsel are in place and that financing is available to pay the experts, we cannot commit to this schedule. If everything falls into place in a couple of weeks this schedule could work; but we cannot commit to a schedule that would not work if it takes longer to get everything in place. We will be happy to get back to you on this proposal once we know where things stand.

Regards, Tom

Dear Counsel:

We would like to propose dates for expert disclosures in this case. While we understand that your client is in the process of retaining new counsel, given that the deadlines in this case will not change, we do not see any reason to put off finalizing these dates.

Affirmative Expert Disclosures: April 20, 2012
Rebuttal Expert Disclosures: Friday, May 25, 2012

This schedule allows three weeks for depositions of experts before the June 15, 2012 discovery deadline.

Please let us know as soon as possible whether the foregoing is acceptable.

Regards,
Bonnie
