MEMORANDUM DECISION AND ORDER

11 Civ. 8667 (GBD)(JLC)

GEORGE B. DANIELS, District Judge:

Defendant moves for judgment on the pleadings pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(c) asserting that the alleged conduct does not constitute a constitutional violation. This Court referred the matter to Magistrate Judge James L. Cott for his Report and Recommendation

<sup>1</sup> Andy Ramos and Terreck LaGrand were also originally plaintiffs in this case. However, their claims were dismissed in this Court’s order adopting the Report and Recommendation of James L. Cott on February 27, 2013.

("Report"). Magistrate Judge Cott recommended that Defendant's motion for judgment on the pleadings be granted.

The Court may accept, reject or modify, in whole or in part, the findings and recommendations set forth within the Report. 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1). When there are objections to the Report, the Court must make a de novo determination of those portions of the Report to which objections are made. Id.; see also Rivera v. Barnhart, 423 F.Supp. 2d 271, 273 (S.D.N.Y. 2006). The district judge may also receive further evidence or recommit the matter to the magistrate judge with instructions. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b); 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(c). It is not required, however, that the Court conduct a de novo hearing on the matter. See United States v. Raddatz, 447 U.S. 667, 676 (1980). Rather, it is sufficient that the Court "arrive at its own, independent conclusions" regarding those portions to which objections were made. Nelson v. Smith, 618 F. Supp. 1186, 1189-90 (S.D.N.Y.1985) (quoting Hernandez v. Estelle, 711 F.2d 619, 620 (5th Cir.1983)). When no objections to a Report are made, the Court may adopt the Report if "there is no clear error on the face of the record." Adee Motor Cars, LLC v. Amato, 388 F.Supp. 2d 250, 253 (S.D.N.Y.2005) (citation omitted). In his report, Magistrate Judge Cott advised the parties that failure to file timely objections to the Report would constitute a waiver of those objections. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b). Plaintiff filed a "pro se answer to the defendant Williams motion dated 9/27/2012" which this Court construes as an objection to the Report. In that "pro se answer," Plaintiff did not specifically object to any aspect of the Report but re-alleged the facts pled in support of his Complaint. The Report is adopted in its entirety.

Magistrate Judge Cott properly found that Plaintiff has not alleged facts sufficient to state an Eighth Amendment claim. To plead an Eighth Amendment claim based on sexual abuse by a corrections officer, the alleged abuse must be “objectively, sufficiently serious” given “contemporary standards of decency.” Boddie v. Schneider, 105 F.3d 857, 861 (2d Cir. 1997). Plaintiff’s allegations that Defendant fondled him on a single occasion during a pat-down frisk do not meet this objective requirement. The Second Circuit Court of Appeals held in Boddie that assertions by a plaintiff that a prison guard touched his penis on one occasion, made several inappropriate comments to him, and pressed him up against a wall without his consent, were despicable if true, but were insufficient to state an Eighth Amendment claim. Id. at 861. Additionally, courts within this Circuit have applied the holding in Boddie to determine that “isolated instances of allegations of fondling and groping” are “insufficient to sustain an Eighth Amendment claim.” Garcia v. Watts, No. 08 Civ. 7778 (JSR)(HBP), 2009 WL 2777085, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. Sept 1, 2009); Harry v. Suarez, No. 10 Civ. 6756 (NRB), 2012 WL 2053533, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. June 4, 2012).

CONCLUSION

Defendant’s motion to dismiss the complaint is GRANTED. The Clerk of the Court is directed to close this case.
