Grunberg	g 77 LLC v. B.R. Guest Parent Holdings, LLC UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK		USDC SDNY DOCUMENT ELECTRONICALLY FILED DOC #:
	GRUNBERG 77 LLC,	:	DATE FILED: 2/12/2020
	Plain	tiff,	DISCOVERY ORDER
	-against-	:	17 Civ. 5627 (AKH)
	B.R. GUEST PARENT HOLDINGS, LLC, and 359 COLUMBUS AVENUE, L.L.C. (d/b/a ISABELLA'S), Defendants.

ALVIN K. HELLERSTEIN, U.S.D.J.:

The parties move by joint letter to resolve three discovery disputes:

(a) Plaintiff's refusal to proceed with a Rule 30(b)(6) deposition noticed by Defendants; (b) Defendants' identification of Ernest A. Badway, Esq., as a new witness and their refusal to produce him for deposition; and (c) Plaintiff's refusal to produce Edward J. Phillips, Esq., its lead counsel in this action, for deposition.

ECF No. 139, at 1. I find for Defendants on point (a); and partially for each party on points (b) and (c). As to (a), damages are a critical issue in this case and a deposition tailored to the topics listed in Defendants' Rule 30(b)(6) Deposition Notice, see id. at 13, will streamline the trial.¹ As to (b), Defendants are correct that Plaintiff's claim on the inadmissibility of Badway's testimony is better left to Plaintiff's motions in limine. On the other hand, I do not find Plaintiff to have waived its right to depose Badway, though deny Plaintiff's request for Defendants to bear the costs of this deposition. Thus, Defendants may call Badway at trial, subject to any rulings on motions in limine, and Plaintiff, at its own cost, may depose Badway before trial. Finally, as to ¹ I note that Plaintiff's reliance on Presse v. Morel, 10-cv-2730, 2011 WL 5129716 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 28, 2011) is misplaced. There, unlike here, the magistrate judge denied a request to depose two individuals on precisely the same topics, once in their individual capacities, and again as 30(b)(6) witnesses. Here, Defendants seek a 30(b)(6) deposition on damages because prior depositions did not fully explore damages. See ECF No. 139, at 2-3.

(c), I find—consistent with my comment at the September 27, 2019 status conference—that Defendants are not permitted to depose Phillips. However, as I also stated at that conference, Plaintiff must designate another 30(b)(6) witness competent to testify on the reasonableness of the disputed fees.

SO ORDERED.
