Doc. 303

APPEARANCES:

For the plaintiffs: Saxena White P.A. Steven B. Singer Kyla Grant Joshua H. Saltzman 10 Bank Street, Suite 882 White Plains, NY 10606

Maya Saxena
Joseph E. White, III
Lester R. Hooker
Brandon T. Grzandziel
7777 Glades Road, Suite 300
Boca Raton, FL 33434

Klausner Kaufman Jensen & Levinson Robert D. Klausner 7080 Northwest 4th Street Plantation, FL 33317

For defendant Perrigo Company PLC:
Fried, Frank, Harris, Shriver & Jacobson LLP
Samuel P. Groner
Samuel M. Light
One New York Plaza
New York, NY 10004

James D. Wareham James E. Anklam Katherine L. St. Romain 801 17th Street, NW Washington, DC 20006

For defendant Murray S. Kessler: Simpson Thacher & Bartlett LLP

Joseph M. McLaughlin Amy L. Dawson 425 Lexington Avenue New York, NY 10017

For defendant Ronald L. Winowiecki: Dechert LLP Hector Gonzalez Three Bryant Park 1095 Avenue of the Americas New York, NY 10036

Angelia Liu 35 West Wacker Drive Suite 3400 Chicago, IL 60601

DENISE COTE, District Judge:

Investors in Perrigo Company PLC ("Perrigo") bring this class action for securities fraud. They assert that Perrigo was required to disclose in its November 8, 2018 Form 10-Q that the taxing authority in Ireland ("Irish Revenue"), in an Audit Findings Letter of October 30, 2018, took the position that Perrigo owed approximately $1.9 billion in taxes. According to Irish Revenue, Perrigo had failed in 2013 to apply a "capital treatment" to certain proceeds of a corporate transaction. An Opinion of July 11, 2021 excluded Perrigo's accounting expert from testifying at the trial scheduled for this Fall because he argued that Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") 740 and not 450 provided the relevant accounting standard for the disclosure in the Form 10-Q. In re Perrigo Company PLC Securities Litigation, No. 19CV70 (DLC), 2021 WL 2935027

(S.D.N.Y. July 11, 2021) ("Daubert Opinion"). An Opinion of July 15 granted summary judgment to plaintiffs on two of the issues in this securities fraud case: falsity and materiality.

In re Perrigo Company PLC Securities Litigation, No. 19CV70

(DLC), 2021 WL 3005657 (S.D.N.Y. July 15, 2021) ("Summary Judgment Opinion"). The Daubert and Summary Judgment Opinions are incorporated by reference, and familiarity with the Opinions is assumed.

On July 26, the defendants moved for partial reconsideration. The motion became fully submitted on August 16. The defendants seek reconsideration of the grant of summary judgment as to falsity. That motion is denied. They also seek reinstatement of Perrigo's expert as a witness at trial, including for testimony regarding the correct application of ASC 450. The parties will be given a further opportunity to address, under the standards outlined below, whether and to what extent either expert witness may address the jury on the application of ASC 450.

Discussion

The standard for granting a motion for reconsideration is "strict." Cho v. Blackberry Ltd., 991 F.3d 155, 170 (2d Cir. 2021) (citation omitted). A motion for reconsideration is "not a vehicle for relitigating old issues, presenting the case under new theories, securing a rehearing on the merits, or otherwise Tonga Partners, L.P., 684 F.3d 36, 52 (2d Cir. 2012) (citation omitted). "[R]econsideration will generally be denied unless the moving party can point to controlling decisions or data that the court overlooked." Cho, 991 F.3d at 170 (citation omitted). "A party may . . . obtain relief only when the party identifies an intervening change of controlling law, the availability of new evidence, or the need to correct a clear error or prevent manifest injustice." Id. (citation omitted).

The defendants principally argue that the Summary Judgment and Daubert Opinions erred in concluding that ASC 450 and not ASC 740 applies here. They have not satisfied the standard for a motion for reconsideration. The defendants largely rely on a misconstruction of the two rulings or repeat arguments that have already been presented and rejected. Notably, they fail to address the full set of reasons in the two Opinions given in support of the determination that ASC 450 provides the relevant standard.

Defendants emphasize that the Daubert Opinion explained that ASC 450 is a topic within that section of the ASC devoted to Liabilities. The defendants argue that guidance from the Financial Accounting Standards Board explains that the location of a particular ASC within the larger framework cannot be used to exclude application of an otherwise applicable standard. The defendants' argument misconstrues the Daubert Opinion. The Opinion did not conclude either that ASC 450 applied or ASC 740 did not apply simply because of its location within the ASC framework. Those descriptions of the framework were simply part of a larger discussion of the substance of each standard. The substance of each standard, applied to the context in which the Form 10-Q was issued, drove the rulings.

To the extent that the defendants point out errors in the Opinions' analysis (e.g., misconstruction of accounting firm guidance and confusion of a tax on capital with income taxed at a capital gains rate; failure to acknowledge that ASC 740 applies as well to previously filed tax returns), the purported errors exist at the margin of the analysis. The core analysis contained in the Opinions remains valid. Once the Audit Findings Letter was issued, Perrigo's disclosure of its contingent liability was governed by the standards set out in ASC 450. The exception within ASC 450 for "uncertainty in income taxes" does not apply to the disclosure of contingent

 $^{^{1}}$ See Financial Accounting Standards Board, "How to Use the Codification" at 5 (Nov. 2, 2019), https://asc.fasb.org/cs/ContentServer?c=Document C&cid=117580512 1281&d=&pagename=FAF%2FDocument C%2FCodDocumentPage&sitepfx=FAF.

^{(&}quot;The higher levels in the Codification's hierarchical structure exist merely to contain and organize Section-level content and do not add anything to what is in the Sections.").

liabilities and does not direct a disclosing party to ASC 740. Thus, the defendants have not succeeded in showing that ASC 740 rather than ASC 450 governed Perrigo's disclosure obligations in the Form 10-Q.

The defendants next request that this Court reconsider the grant of summary judgment on the issue of falsity. The Summary Judgment Opinion found that "the defendants d[id] not argue that the disclosure in the November 2018 Form 10-Q complied with ASC 450." In re Perrigo Company PLC Securities Litigation, No. 19CV70 (DLC), 2021 WL 3005657, at *7 (S.D.N.Y. July 15, 2021). Instead, as the Opinion notes, the defendants argued in opposition to the plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment that ASC 450 did not govern their disclosure requirements. Id. Since there is no basis to revisit the ruling that ASC 450 is the governing standard, the grant of summary judgment on the issue of falsity will not be revisited.

In moving for reconsideration, the defendants do not point to any portion of their brief in opposition to the plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment that the Summary Judgment Opinion overlooked. Nor do they assert that the statement in that Opinion which is cited above was in error. Instead, they ask the Court to look to three different documents. They ask the Court to consider those portions of their expert's report that discusses ASC 450 and certain testimony from Jay Preston that the defendants cited in support of their own motion for summary judgment. A motion for reconsideration is not an opportunity for a second bite at the apple. If either of these documents raised a question of fact regarding Perrigo's compliance with ASC 450 then Perrigo was obligated to point to those materials when it opposed the plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment. Having failed to do so, they may not now rely on them.²

As a third item, the defendants point out that on July 13 it publicly disclosed that Irish Revenue had reduced its tax assessment by over $700 million. ASC 450 required Perrigo to disclose "an estimate of the possible loss or range of loss or a statement that such an estimate cannot be made." ASC-450-20-50-4. The fact that Irish Revenue may today seek a different amount of money from Perrigo does not govern Perrigo's disclosure obligations in 2018. Nor does it alter the fact that the Audit Findings Letter gave Perrigo a basis to provide an estimate of its "possible" loss. Therefore, any recent determination by Irish Revenue to seek only about $1 billion but not $1.9 billion in unpaid taxes does not provide a basis to revisit the summary judgment ruling regarding falsity.

_

In any event, neither document raises a question of fact as to whether Perrigo complied with ASC 450. While the expert report does contain a discussion of ASC 450, much of that discussion is in support of Perrigo's argument that ASC 450 does not mean what it says and does not apply, that Perrigo's initial tax treatment of the transaction proceeds was correct, or that the plaintiffs' expert report contains errors or omissions. As for Perrigo's memorandum in support of its own motion for summary judgment, its citation to Preston's testimony relates to Perrigo's good faith reliance on Preston and others and not to an argument that it actually complied with ASC 450. Similarly, the Preston deposition testimony to which that memorandum cites does not raise a question of fact as to Perrigo's compliance with ASC 450.

Finally, Perrigo asks that its expert be permitted to testify about ASC 450 to the extent his report addressed the application of that standard. It makes this request when it seeks reconsideration of summary judgment on the issue of falsity, but that request raises a separate issue as well. Even though the summary judgment ruling will not be disturbed, there is a question of the extent to which the testimony of any expert at trial regarding ASC 450 is admissible.

An expert's testimony is relevant if it will "help the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue." Fed. R. Evid. 702; see Daubert v. Merrell Dow Pharms., Inc. 509 U.S. 579, 591 (1993). Expert testimony that usurps the role of the court in instructing the jury as to the applicable law or invades the prerogative of the jury to apply that law to the facts established at trial, however, must be excluded. See Choi v. Tower Rsch. Cap. LLC, 2 F.4th 10, 20 (2d Cir. 2021); United States v. Lumpkin, 192 F.3d 280, 289 (2d Cir. 1999). In particular, an expert may not simply parrot for a jury a party's legal arguments. Choi, 2 F.4th at 20.

The issues remaining for trial include, most prominently, the issues of scienter, economic loss and loss causation. The Court will instruct the jury on ASC 450 and define the terms contained within that standard. The parties' requests to charge may include proposed instructions relevant to ASC 450 and its provisions.

The parties shall identify to each other by September 3 any portion of their own expert's report(s) that they contend remain the appropriate basis for expert testimony at trial in light of the rulings that ASC 450 is the governing accounting standard and the Form 10-Q contained a false statement and/or material omission when measured by that standard. Any testimony from an expert must be relevant and may not invade either the province of the Court in instructing the jury on the governing legal standard or the jury's perogative to find the facts.

Conclusion

Defendants' July 26, 2021 motion for reconsideration is denied.

Dated: New York, New York August 24, 2021

United States District Judge