Judge Caproni

MOTION TO VACATE OR SET ASIDE ORDER

Dear Judge Caproni:

I write as a follow up to two recent Orders from your chambers attacking my credibility denying one motion Dkt. 293 and attacking my credibility again yet approving the extension of time in part to May 10 versus May 17 as requested stating that you are skeptical of my assertions but you allowed the second request due to my pro se status. I respectfully request your honor to vacate these two orders and restore my credibility with a new order that you find just and proper based on material facts presented to your chambers.

MEMORANDUM OF POINT AND AUTHORITIES

Your honor, you have the most power set of tools that a common mortal does not have: (1) Fact Findings Power, and (2) Evidentiary Hearing Power. When presented with a conflicting account of some event, you have the power to seek out the truth and extract facts by which you will issue a ruling from the bench. In this current matter, I find it dangerous that you repeatedly attacked my credibility instead of using your powerful tools, in fact destroying my ability to present any further arguments without a heightened disbelief. Your honor have chosen to use your beliefs instead of facts, thus siding with the regulators versus the materials before you. I am not a legal scholar, however I am sure that to be using beliefs and not facts is a prejudicial act. I would argue that a judge is required to use the facts before them and set feelings and beliefs aside. I may be wrong, this is not my expertise by any length, yet this is what we the people are led to believe.

The default standard rule in most types of cases is that the complainant has the burden of proof to prove the allegations made in his complaint. The complainant must prove each element of the claim. And the Supreme Court applied this rule as the default rule. This is a rule that applies broadly unless there are special circumstances to allocate the burden of proof to the other party. Justice O'Connor said that "absent some reason to believe that Congress intended Otherwise," the burden of proof should be "where it usually falls, upon the party seeking relief." See Schaffer v. Weast, 546 U.S. 49 (2005). If you believe I am lying, you have the power to extract the facts and rule accordingly but not summarily declare skepticism attacking my credibility based on conjectures and not the material facts before you your honor.

Your honor accused me of using delay tactic, or one of my delay tactics, while I am incarcerated in prison, am no longer able to use the luxury of using delay tactics. ALL I want is to find a fair and just judge as decision-maker to be the trier of facts and a jury of my peers to sort this mess out and expeditiously face the CFTC in trial. I have "absolutely" no desire to stall nor to delay any proceeding. I want a speedy trial and a prompt resolution for many reasons that are obvious to everyone involved at this Juncture. I want to close that chapter in my life AND I want the investors to be made whole. They suffered enough from this CFTC-made debacle. I am "ready" for a speedy trial but I must ensure my due process rights are not violated because virtually any decisions can be attacked on the basis that the process by which it was made was somehow defective, including providing insufficient opportunity for a party to be heard.

In this action, to summarily attack my credibility with conjectures, in lieu of using material facts to issue an order stating how skeptical the court is about the Defendant's assertions, is very damaging and contrary to the rigorous process through which the Judge must reach a conclusion of law. I could have selected to let bygones be bygones, as the court said it was not enough to "disturb" the premature order, as if it would be too much disturbance to revisit the issue which is now "old." However, if there is one thing we have learned is that "credibility" counts in law and in life. In many legal situations, the goal is to persuade a third-party decision-maker in connection with a dispute between two parties. In the context of a civil trial, any reasonable person or defendant in context will never lose sight of the crucial importance of maintaining the judge's trust in credibility. If a decision-maker concludes that the defendant is not to be believed with regard to one matter, as we have witnessed in multiple orders from this bench, then human nature being what it is, the judge will view the remainder of the defendant's testimony, requests, arguments, etc., through a lens of heightened skepticism, if not insurmontable disbelief.

If a lawyer loses the trust of a Judge in one dispute, the lawyer's ability to persuade that judge in subsequent disputes will be compromised. The same goes for a pro se defendant. This is the lesson of the time—tested story of "The Boy Who Cried Wolf." Ethical considerations aside, if one hopes to be a persuasive advocate of his own interests or even the interests of others, there is no telling the extent of the damage losing credibility will do to his reputation for lack of truthfulness. Importantly, there is an iterative, interdependent, relationship between law and facts. The facts that we identify tell us what legal rules are likely to be applicable, and the legal rules tell us what facts are salient. Again, once we know some of the facts, we know where to look. Therefore, starting with an inference not based on the material facts will inevitably most likely lead to an erroneous conclusion or cause of action.

There simply is no accepted Archimedeam point from which to measure justice. Instead, individuals in a rule-of-law-based society have implicitly agreed to accept the outcomes of the constitutional and legal process, because they have come to believe that this system provides as well as possible a compromise among varying individual visions of justice. Once we lose that trust in the legal system, we venture into arbitrary. This is why the procedural justice and the substantive coexist. The liberal perspective suggests that the procedural justice reflected in adherence to the system outweighs a particular vision of substantive justice. This is also why when Supreme Court nominees traditionally testify at their confirmation hearings in congress that they will apply the law as written and will not engage in "judicial legislation," they are actually pledging allegiance to these procedural justice values and foreswearing the application of their "own vision of substantive Justice."

Justice Felix said and I quote "Fragile as reason is and limited as law is as the expression of the institutionalized medium of reason, that's all we have standing between us and the tyrany of mere will and the cruelty of unbridled, unprincipled, undisciplined feeling." Justice Felix Frankfurter, 1962.

The concept of "procedure" is paramount to arguments that are founded in a legal system. Process and substance are intertwined, and often inseparable. This is the basis under constitutional and human rights heading of "due process." At this point your honor has done more damages than my adversary in successfully attacking my credibility in ways that the Regulators was not able to do nor even attempted to do. There is no tradeoff valuable enough for me between maximizing my interests and maintaining my credibility in this instant action brought by the CFTC. After all, the benefit in the current dispute from credibility will impact the credibility in future matters before the court. When you are Defendant, truthfulness goes a long way. A good example is this instant action, and the key in my Motion to Dismiss is paramount to the lack of credibility of the CFTC in raising some allegations to the judge on the morning of May 11, 2022 that I assert to be untruthful and baseless when placed on the morning of May 11, 2022. All I have been asking for was enough time to develop the record to show that the CFTC On the morning of May 11, 2022 did not have the legal basis, authority and Jurisdiction to get the judge to grant them so much power to cause extensive damages in my company and to the investors of EminiFX. What I am hearing back from the CFTC is the tales of what happened in my sentencing almost two years later. And they do not address the event as occurred on the morning of May 11, 2022 which is the essence of my contention. My response to their objections will focus on their lack of truthfulness with the court. Therefore, multiple attacks on my Own credibility when the materials facts are clearly and unequivocally saying the opposite on records, is unfair and unjust and must be corrected.

I have the time to draw a table (M.1) recounting the events and slowing time to show the occurences and the reason why I requested the extensions. Although the honorable judge Caproni GRANTED the extension for a response to the Objection to the Motion to Dismiss, it was done after excoriating the Defendant with a skeptical warning. This is unfair and unjust. The facts are clear. Unless the court is relying on email messages from the Receiver to effectuate service, stepping "also" into the shoes of the Clerk of Court, the clerk of Court's MAIL service is the only form of service allowed and recognized in the legal process in context since I am NOT an electronic filing participant. The Receiver's email reminding a party of an upcoming deadline does not constitute service. Even though we know for sure he is an agent of this court acting behind the scene, this is just a courtesy party to party conversation without the burden of effectuating service satisfied. In context, the Defendant pro-actively informed the Court of that conversation (not the delivery) and waited for the Clerk of Court's document to be served. The Court's response was to express doubt and skepticism against the Defendant whereas the proofs are clear.

Also, the court saying that I did not respect the court's deadline is inappropriate and the rules and cases cited inadequate because the Defendant's filing is considered "filed" as of the date placed in the prison's mailbox for pro se inmate based on the prison's mailbox rules. I am not sure I need to cite the prison mailbox rules again for the court as it is uncontested and established knowledge. My motion therefore should have been considered filed and timely. For the record, let me reprint the prison mailbox rule in this motion. The 2nd Circuit and the Supreme Court both held the same view in the past stating in whole and in part, [A] prisoner appearing pro se satisfies the time limit for filing an appeal if he delivers the notice to prison officials within the time specified; this "prison mailbox rule" is justified by the litigant's dependence on the prison mail system and lack of counsel to assure timely filing with the court. See Noble v. Kelly, 246 F3d 93 (2nd Cir. 2001) and Houston v. Lack, 487 U.S. 266, 101 LEd2d 245, 108 S.Ct. 2379 (1988).

Therefore, I was not disturbing the court order which was premature in essence, and a qualified candidate for re-adjudication after ripeness or normally subjected to a motion to reopen that I plan on filing when I am done with the response to the objections to the motion to dismiss. My Due process was not upheld allowing the Receiver to negotiate behind the scene while at the same time I filed a notice of appearance pro se on the record, request granted by the Judge. For about 45 days while I was pro se receiving all kinds of legal mails from the same Receiver, Mr. David Castleman, I received "nothing" concerning that very matter. Was it a mistake? His legal team forgot? I maintain that this was done on purpose to avoid allowing me a say in the matter and using the baseless excuse not wanting to use investors funds to address the guarantor of that very contract the Receiver breached. I would have argued these claims on the merits had I was afforded the due process I am entitled to, instead of being blindsided by the Receiver. This is not the end of that process.

The MAIL delivery table (M.1) attached shows occurences for Clerk of Court mails sent to the Defendant and their corresponding delivery time after the expiration of the Court Order or right before expiration, and also the related party making service via the U.S. Postal mail system for the matter in dispute. The data shows how many times the court orders are reaching the Defendant "after" the deadline has already expired. This is "fact."

The Bureau of Prisons (BOPs) stamped properly addressed mail as legal mail and scanned the other mails with an automatic date stamp for all instance purposes. That table shows you the difference between the properly labeled legal mail correspondence and the ones that simply state "legal mail" without the stamp "open only in the presence of the inmate" that would trigger the manual verification and force the hand delivery to the inamte with confirmed signature receipt. Binding Precedent: This court has been favorable to pro se Defendant in the past holding that pro se litigant is allowed some degree of flexibility in pleading his action. I hardly see why it would be different for my case. See Boguslavky v. Kaplan, 159 F3d 715 (2nd Cir. 1988).

WHEREFORE, I hereby request the court to vacate or set aside the orders Dkts 290 & 300; and restore my credibility on the record using the material facts on the records proffered as Exhibit—A, issuing a new Order the court deems just and proper. This is a critical component in advancing any future arguments in front of the court or sending any pleadings to honorable judge Caproni's chambers.

Respectfully submitted,

MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN OPPOSITION TO ALEXANDRE'S MOTION TO DISMISS

In a scattershot motion, Defendant Eddy Alexandre asks the Court to dismiss or compel arbitration of the CFTC's complaint, which seeks to impose civil liability for the very same conduct for which Alexandre has already pled guilty to in a criminal proceeding. Motion to Dismiss (Dkt. 291). Each of Alexandre's arguments should be rejected. The Court has subject-matter jurisdiction over this action, the CFTC's complaint states a valid claim for relief, the claims are not subject to arbitration, and Alexandre has been afforded due process. The Court should deny Alexandre's motion to dismiss and allow this lawsuit to proceed so that the remaining assets can ultimately be distributed to the victims of Alexandre's fraud.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

To survive a motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, "a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to 'state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face." Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). 6. This motion is made in good faith, and for good cause in the interest of justice, and not meant to delay the proceeding. The United States will not be prejudiced by a thirty (30) day delay.

WHEREFORE, based on the above, Mr. Alexandre, urges this Honorable Court to grant him a thirty (30) day extension of time to file his reply to the CFTC's response to Movant's Motion to Dismiss by May 17, 2024, inter alia, fourteen (14) days extra from the court's May 3, 2024 date.

Respectfully submitted on this 18th day of April, 2024

The Court is skeptical of Mr. Alexandre's claim that he did not receive the Court's Order setting the reply deadline in this matter. Mr. Alexandre indicates that he is aware that the CFTC's response was due April 23, 2024, and the same Order that set the CFTC's response deadline set Mr. Alexandre's reply deadline. Order, Dkt. 292. Mr. Alexandre could not have learned of that deadline based on the actual filing of the CFTC's response, because that was response was filed a day early, on April 22, 2024. Response, Dkt. 296. Nevertheless, in recognition of Mr. Alexandre's pro se status, the Court will grant Mr. Alexandre a one-week extension of time, to May 10. 2024. This provides Mr. Alexandre with more than ample time to respond to the straightforward issues raised in the pending motion to dismiss. This is a firm deadline, and the Court is extremely unlikely to grant any further extension requests.

The Receiver is ordered to copy and paste this endorsement in an email to Mr. Alexandre via CorrLinks. The Clerk of Court is directed to mail a copy of this endorsed order to Mr. Alexandre and to note the mailing on the docket.

Re:

CFTC v. Alexandre and EminiFX, Inc., No. 22 Civ. 3822 (VEC)

Application for Approval of Settlement Agreement with 34th Street Suites LLC

Dear Judge Caproni:

The Receiver respectfully submits this application (the "Application") seeking approval of a settlement agreement (the "Settlement Agreement"), attached as Exhibit A, between the Receiver and 34th Street Suites LLC ("Suites") resolving Suites's proof of claim.\(^1\) Suites submitted a proof of claim in the Receivership (the "Proof of Claim") in the amount of $220,288.08 as expenses alleged to have been incurred by Suites in connection with an office space lease by EminiFX. The Settlement Agreement provides for, among other things, a reduction in the amount asserted in the Proof of Claim to an allowed claim amount of $90,376.06 (the "Settlement Payment"), a reduction of more than 59% of the requested amount, to be characterized as a post-Receivership administrative expense (the "Allowed Claim"), which the Receiver seeks authority to pay if the Settlement Agreement is approved by the Court.

The Proof of Claim arises from a May 4, 2022, License Agreement (the "Agreement") pursuant to which EminiFX was granted the exclusive right to use over 30 office suites on the 8th floor of a building located at 31 West 34th Street, New York, NY 10001 (the "Premises"). Specifically, the Allowed Claim represents a compromise of expenses allegedly incurred by Suites pre- and post-Receivership, including expenses incurred in connection with the build-out of the Premises, later remediation and locksmith expenses incurred following the Receiver's rejection of the Agreement, and commissions. Suites did not seek in its claim any alleged losses incurred as a result of the Receiver's rejection of the Agreement. Notably, the amount of the Allowed Claim is only 29.5% of the security deposit of $306,000 (the "Deposit") that Suites turned over to the Receiver in accordance with an Order of the Court [Dkt. 86]. As explained below, the Receiver

¹ Although the Receiver intends that most claimants (especially EminiFX users) will be anonymized, given that Suites has appeared in this Action by name, and that any description of the claim at issue will plainly identify Suites, the Receiver refers to Suites by name in this Application.
