Deanie:

Recently, we committed to hold transfer pricing at $X.XX as long as possible in the face of significant coffee cost increases. As I communicated then, we intended to hold that price as long as possible. Given the continued run up of green coffee prices (more than $1.00 higher than last year at $2.40 per pound as of January 12, 2011), we are reluctantly increasing the transfer price of Starbucks and Seattle's Best Coffee effective Monday, January 17, 2011 as outlined below. While list price to trade is at your discretion, these increases do not fully reflect the impact of green cost, but rather only pass through an amount that should translate to a $1.00 per 12oz bag increase on Starbucks and 50 cents per 12oz bag on Seattle's Best Coffee at the shelf.

Transfer price increase amount per pound

Starbucks	XX cents per pound
Seattle's Best Coffee	XX cents per pound

Thank you for sending Sivonne and I am sorry i did not see earlier in the day; I was out. I have no issue with the flavor splits my question is around the split between spread and full page being 50/50. If this question has already been discussed please let me know, but do we know if these layouts are working hard for us in different ways and if so how (in the way of stopping power not messaging)? Testing suggested that impacted, if I recall correctly, may have been slightly diminished vs. the full page vanilla (I will review in the morning). I would love your insight as I have not worked much with spreads in the past.

Tara,

Here's my recommendation on how the splits for SNF ads are handled each month. Of course, this is just a directional reco since we cannot get very far until we know exact number of insertions per month.

Notes:

- Caramel & Vanilla are equally balanced throughout the 4 months, however, in Nov/Dec Holiday timing, Cinnamon becomes a bigger portion of the mix vs it's position in Sept/Oct
- I'm trying to give presence, but not dominance of Cinnamon so I used the half pages to accomplish this

I'm going to be out and about today, but if you "reply all" I'll get your note either on Kraft or personal account. I'm hoping we can be aligned on a POV by EOD for our meeting tomorrow.

Thanks,
Sivonne

BBDO is cost prohibitive, I'm not really comfortable asking them to explore this. Maybe Catapult?

I think Sunset creative team is another option too, perhaps a better option as they know their readers, and we have the creative from which they can adapt?

Sivonne-

Starbucks is now aligned for the advertorial so I'd like to build out options and timelines in consideration of their guidelines below. Can you help me understand the original thinking behind who would work on this creative? Will it be feasible to work with BBDO? I'm concerned about utilizing Sunset to develop the creative because it will require the slug and may not meet the SBUX expectations.

Option 1: Engage BBDO to develop creative

- Need to determine costs and turnaround times.

Option 2: Utilize Sunset to develop creative

- Will have timelines by end of day today.

Considerations:

- Other possible sources to leverage newly developed creative. (Consider 1 page or 2)
- Leverage existing creative brief for All You with revisions to account for Sunset reader and alignment with October issue theme.

My recommendation would be to utilize BBDO to meet the creative objectives but I want to understand the costs and ensure that we feel this will be an efficient and effective way to utilize those dollars. I'd really like your thoughts on this when you have a few minutes.

Thanks,

Kathryn

Hi team,

We will be able to proceed with a full page spread if that is the direction we'd like to go. Here are some key points we need to be aware of with the advertorial type value added space. Please let me know if your thinking of including a spokesperson – I'd prefer to avoid this for this execution as there are other major hurdles we would need to work through.

1. The content needs to appear to be from Starbucks, in a way only Starbucks could do.
 - a. This should mean that we can bypass the "Special Advertising Feature" similar to the Washington tourism spread. While the company is not averse to using the "advertorial" slug, this guideline makes it feel like we should avoid it unless necessary.
2. Content and creative needs to hold to normal brand guidelines, with a particular emphasis on authentic and genuine content.
3. Content must be magazine audience and content relevant.
4. A higher bar is set for Starbucks packaged coffee vs other Starbucks products as we have a different target consumer

Our advertising team feels that the Washington state advertorial is the Gold Standard of what we should be striving towards.

Please let me know if you have any questions or if any points are unclear.

Thank you,

Monique

Thanks Mani -- well wishes to you.

Ladies, we really need to progress this and while we aren't pressured to make deadlines right now, we will be if the guardrails conversation isn't closed next week. If we get the permissions that Frappe had in the People Advertorial, it means we need to create a brief, align/approve it and then get going on more involved creative which will take time.

Creative is due 8/6 which feels far away, but really is not!

Please let us know how we can help on this effort, for now we will assume that Tara/Monique own gaining "permission" by Wednesday, June 30th -- this timeline will still be pretty tight, but maybe manageable.

Thanks,

SD

Kathryn,

We are in the process of discussing some of the guardrails on advertorials on the Starbucks side. I spoke to Sivonne about this. Tara and Monique from the Starbucks side are on point on the Sunset advertorial moving forward. They will be following up and letting you know where we stand. This is my last day on Walden marketing plan execution, so please follow up with them directly. It was great working with you, hope your summer goes well.

Mani-

Can we put some time on the calendar to discuss this on Monday if possible? I want to be sure we keep moving forward because we will need to determine what relationship we will pursue with Safeway and create the BRC. Those deadlines will start to sneak up on us pretty quickly even for the October issue!

Have you had a chance to take a look at this? I want to see if you have any questions or concerns so we can talk through them. I'd like to work on a brief for the BRC and put together final costs if you are okay with this recommendation. Please let me know if you'd like to discuss it further and we can put some time on the calendar.

Thanks!

Subject: Sunset Advertorial Options

Hi all-

We have further information and understanding of Sunset magazine so I want to share more information on how we could use this tool.

Key points for Safeway:

- In order to leverage the ad with the customer we will need to have a reference to Safeway and a coupon as well
- o Please note that the Safeway logo cannot be on the same side of the page as the coupon so the work around has traditionally been to use a BRC and include the brand and coupon on one side and a Safeway message on the other
- o Safeway is not concerned with the advertorial or its content. Their main interest is the BRC coupon with the Safeway logo/message on the other side.
- There may be an opportunity to work with Safeway bakery and to gain display in the bakery section. Otherwise, we could use a general Safeway message.

Key points for Sunset:

- Attached are a few samples of executions of other advertorials done that Sunset has shared with us.
- The October issue of the magazine is all about colors (color in every aspect, from home decorating to gardening, to colorful foods and best places to travel for color in nature). The Fusions colorful packaging will be a nice fit.
- Avoiding the slug:
 - o We have to drive all content.
 - o The attached "WA" advertorial for Washington State tourism was the example Sunset provided to me of an advertorial piece that did not require the slug because it was a spread with one look and feel.
 - o Unfortunately, there are no specific rules about this but the general idea is that as long as the reader would not be confused about the source of the content then the slug is not required.

· Creative due date for the October issue is 8/2. Once we confirm how we want to move forward then I will build out a timeline and finalize costs.

· The look and feel of the magazine is a very premium life and style approach. They want all advertising to fit within this. The Starbucks brand and image are a natural fit here so leveraging existing creative pieces will be effective.

My recommendation is that we place a full page advertisement (utilizing existing creative) and include the BRC with a coupon and Safeway reference. I believe this is the best way to most efficiently use resources while achieving our objectives.

I look forward to talking to you all about this in further detail very soon.

Thanks,

Kathryn

Ladies,

For our 2pm today, I've sent you both a YouSendIt file of a skeleton Marketing Plan Deck.

The pages are placeholders for our updated content and are reflective of the list of elements that we've been discussing. We seemed a bit stalled on this so I wanted to progress us and give something visual to react to... Way too many pages in my opinion, but feels like the right information for us to start thinking about and figuring what the strategic overview is and then how to put it all together.

Look forward to speaking in a few hours.

Thanks,
Sivonne

Hi Tara –

Below please find the breakdown of March – June PPR spending that you are looking for. Please let me know if you have any questions.

PPR March - June spending

Spend Classification	$ Spent (MM)
Mar - June media spend
Consumer Promotions
Customer Marketing - PPR specific
Total Mar-June CDT base (inclusive of PPR)
Total

Please note that there is also trade spend in the market that spans across the total business (which would include PPR) - however we can't separate out one item and will not have the actualized trade numbers for quite some time.

Thanks,

Josh

Hey Tara,

I forwarded to Josh as he manages budget now and can help you with your request.

Also, FYI the campaign was in H1 of this year. Are you looking just for Q2 (Kraft) spend or for the full first half of the year? Wasn't sure what you meant by spring campaign.

Sivonne,

Per my voicemail, I am writing to request the advertising spend associated with the Spring campaign on Pike Place Roast. I am asking that we receive this information by COB Tuesday. Thank you so much for your prompt turn around.

Thank you,
Tara

Wanted to share Adam's nice feedback on the new shipment tracker!

I haven't heard any other feedback but I will collect any notes and make changes that will be reflected in next week's tracker (which will also be for a new month and quarter).

Wow, very nice work!!!! Thank you so much for including this information.

If you prefer, I can extend the SBUX numbers to be the whole number and not rounded off at the thousand. That way, the two sets of numbers will be formatted the same.

Please let me know, and have a great week!!!

Hello all-

This is a new shipment tracker tool we have put together to look specifically at the shipments of SNF on a weekly basis. It will be sent out each Monday and has been set up to look at shipment by flavor as well as by channel. We would like this information to be very useful to everyone so feedback on the layout and information included is welcomed and we will make adjustments accordingly moving forward.

Hi All,

I just wanted to circle back on the purpose of this call as I had gotten a question with regards. The goal of this meeting is for our team to connect on the marketing objective of penetration. While the majority of our CPG team is aligned on this being the CPG objective, Greg has not been part of these conversations and there is concern that he would more advocate our pursuance of buy-rate instead (tying to the larger café objectives).

We think that in pursuing penetration we may overlap with café such that the larger TM may both reach similar audiences, but still CPG would be penetration.

So, meeting tomorrow should review the thinking that led the group to penetration. Karyn would lead this conversation with the documents she had previously put together.

If there is schedule conflicts, we should resolve quickly so that we can quickly progress Marketing Planning (please note I'm out of the office tomorrow, but if this time holds, I will try to dial in remotely).

Thanks,
Sivonne

Lori, Lorraine and Team,
Thanks for the follow up from our meeting last week. I also wanted to thank the entire team from both Kraft and Starbucks for a great meeting and more importantly for all of your efforts to get our packaged coffee business back on a positive growth track. It is great to see that your efforts and focus on the business are having a positive effect on our base business, and for the first time in two years we have seen share growth for the month of October. It goes without saying that we still have a great deal of work to do and that we must stay focused on the task at hand given the competition. Thanks and I look forward to seeing the positive trends continue throughout 2010!
All the best,
John
