Subject: Discovery related to Motion to Dismiss for Statute of Limitations

Alex:

I have reviewed your letter.

You are past your due date to provide these responses to us. We graciously gave you until Friday of this week to respond. And, that delay in time was merely for you to draft a letter finding that Plaintiff has not constructed a single interrogatory or document request that complies with the court's order, which is your opinion.

You have refused to comply with any of the interrogatories or requests for production of documents related to our right of discovery responding to Defendants' statute of limitations motion to dismiss.

Each of these interrogatories were carefully crafted to obtain information related to the court's discovery order:

"Plaintiff is thus permitted discovery under Rule 56(d), limited to serving, within 60 days, interrogatories and document requests directly concerning (1) assuming, arguendo, the Work for Hire contract dated August 28, 2003 is authentic, what were Plaintiff's intellectual property rights and other ownership interests under the contract's language providing that Plaintiff, in exchange for helping fund Zuckerberg's development of FaceBook, would own "a half interest (50%) in the software, programming language and business interests derived from the expansion of that service to a larger audience...."

We expect answers to each of our interrogatories by Friday as well as the production of documents requested. Thank you.

Dean Boland.
