

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

KAREN A. FROST,

Plaintiff,

DECISION AND ORDER

1:19-cv-00422-JJM

v.

COMMISSIONER OF SOCIAL SECURITY,¹

Defendant.

Plaintiff commenced this action on April 2, 2019, arguing that the Commissioner's denial of her claims for Social Security Disability and Supplemental Security Income Benefits was not supported by substantial evidence and was contrary to law and regulation. Complaint [1].² On July 28, 2020, I granted plaintiff's motion for judgment on the pleadings and remanded the case to the Commissioner for further proceedings consistent with my Decision and Order [13]. Following the entry of a Judgment [14], plaintiff filed a motion for an award of attorney's fees in the amount of $7,396.42 under the Equal Access to Justice Act ("EAJA"), 28 U.S.C. §2412, and filing fee costs in the amount of $400.00 [15]. The Commissioner then filed a response to plaintiff's motion [18] stating he has no objection to plaintiff's request for attorney's fees and costs.

ANALYSIS

28 U.S.C. §2412(b) authorizes an award of “reasonable fees and expenses of attorneys, in addition to the costs which may be awarded pursuant to subsection (a), to the prevailing party in any civil action brought by or against the United States or any agency or any official of the United States acting in his or her official capacity.” The amount of costs awarded “shall . . . be limited to reimbursing in whole or in part the prevailing party for the costs incurred by such party in the litigation.” 28 U.S.C. § 2412(a)(1). By obtaining a remand under the circumstances present in this case, plaintiff is the “prevailing party” for purposes of the EAJA. Shalala v. Schaefer, 509 U.S. 292, 300-02 (1993).

The fact that the Commissioner does not oppose the amount of the award does not relieve this court of the obligation to determine whether that amount is reasonable. See Pribek v. Secretary, Department of Health & Human Services, 717 F. Supp. 73, 75 (W.D.N.Y. 1989) (“the determination of a reasonable fee under the EAJA is for the court rather than the parties by way of stipulation”); Lockwood v. Colvin, 2016 WL 6902341, *1 (D. Conn. 2016) (“[a]lthough the parties have reached an agreement as to the appropriate award of fees in this matter, the Court is obligated to review the fee application and determine whether the proposed fee award is reasonable”).

A fee award is appropriate “unless the court finds that the position of the United States was substantially justified or that special circumstances make an award unjust”. 28 U.S.C. §2412(d)(1)(A). “The burden is on the Government to show that its position was substantially justified.” Eames v. Bowen, 864 F.2d 251, 252 (2d Cir. 1988). The government has not attempted to satisfy that burden, nor do I find any “special circumstances” which would make an award unjust.

28 U.S.C. §2412(d)(2)(A) states that “attorney fees shall not be awarded in excess of $125 per hour unless the court determines that an increase in the cost of living or a special factor, such as the limited availability of qualified attorneys for the proceedings involved, justifies a higher fee”. The hourly rate may be adjusted to account for inflation as determined by the Consumer Price Index (“CPI”). See Isaacs v. Astrue, 2009 WL 1748706, *3 (W.D.N.Y. 2009) (“[t]he current statutory cap of $125 per hour took effect in 1996 . . . and the Court may revise it upward to reflect inflation as determined by the [CPI]”). Plaintiff seeks fees at an effective hourly rate of $205.46.³ This adjustment is appropriate. Moreover, I find the number of hours devoted to this case, as detailed in counsel’s Declaration ([15-2], ¶3) to be reasonable. Therefore, I find no reason to second guess the fee amount requested. In addition, the docket reflects that plaintiff paid a filing fee in the amount of $400.00 upon filing the complaint. See Docket Text [1] (“COMPLAINT against Commissioner of Social Security $400 receipt number 0209-3407470”).

Under her Fee Agreement with the Law Offices of Kenneth R. Hiller, PLLC [15-3], plaintiff assigned her right to any fee award to her counsel. In his response, the Commissioner recognized that plaintiff “assigned her right to EAJA fees to her attorney”. The Commissioner further agrees that, “[i]f, after receiving the Court’s EAJA fee order, the Commissioner (1) determines that Plaintiff does not owe a debt that is subject to offset under the Treasury Offset Program; and (2) agrees to waive the requirements of the Anti-Assignment Act, then the EAJA fees will be made payable to Plaintiff’s attorney”. [18], p. 2. “EAJA fees are payable to litigants and are thus subject to offset where a litigant has outstanding federal debts.” Astrue v. Ratliff, 560 U.S. 586, 594 (2010). While fee awards under the EAJA are payable to the plaintiff, the plaintiff has the right to assign the EAJA fee award to his/her lawyer, and where the Commissioner does not oppose the assignment, it can be honored under the Anti-Assignment Act. See Kerr for Kerr v. Commissioner of Social Security, 874 F.3d 926, 937 (6th Cir. 2017) (“[u]nless the government waives application of the [Anti-Assignment Act] in EAJA cases, fee awards must be paid to the prevailing party, not to the party’s lawyer”).

CONCLUSION

Plaintiff’s unopposed motion [15] for attorney fees under the EAJA is granted as follows: the court awards plaintiff attorney’s fees in the amount of $7,396.42 and costs in the amount of $400.00 payable to plaintiff’s counsel, unless the government declines to waive application of the Anti-Assignment Act, in which case the award shall be payable to plaintiff, but delivered to plaintiff’s counsel.

SO ORDERED.
