Dog's Breakfast

From commentary on local politics to critiques of art and culture to random philosophical musings, my occasional observations are a Dog's Breakfast of media criticism that is sometimes surprising, sometimes unappetizing, but always colorful.

Greater Downtown - Local Heroes

While I've certainly been quite critical of the state of downtown's sidewalks, I should point out that some people are taking a proactive approach, and deserve recognition for their efforts.

John Kennedy
John recently relocated his commercial real estate practice in downtown, which is a refreshing contrast to the many commercial real estate firms who market and manage downtown properties, but are not located there. The other day I caught him hosing down the sidewalk in front of the Beach Hut Deli, and asked him if he was involved in the business. Turns out he was just doing something that needed to be done, with no financial interest at stake.

It's probably also worth mentioning that he was instrumental in addressing once of the "missing teeth" I pointed out recently; he was the agent responsible for signed the new lessee for the old Moxie's location. It's to be a "mediterranean restaurant and grocery" and is expected to open by this September. Great job, John!

John Barroso and Justin Bowman

A new pressure washing service has opened up in Chico, offering sidewalk maintenance services to downtown businesses. The new company, North Valley Renovations, also services to downtown businesses. The new company, North Valley Restorations, also repairs fences, decks, concrete, houses, and can be reached by calling 592-9773, or via email at nvrestore@sbcglobal.net. They already have one downtown merchant client, and are eager to find more. Good going, guys, for recognizing a market opportunity.

Nancy and Hal Carlson

The proprietors of the enormously popular new candy store, Powell's Sweet Shoppe, have engaged North Valley Restorations to clean the sidewalk in front of their store on Third Street twice per month. It's great when a new business in downtown recognizes the competitive advantage of maintaining a clean and inviting facade. Well done, Carlson's.

David Halimi

A lot of people like to criticize downtown's "absentee property owners" who don't take an interest in their properties, but David, owner of Diamond W Western Wear, is a local property owner who takes pride in his storefront, and of the other properties he owns in downtown. He's an outstanding example of someone who has made a significant investment in the city center, has gone to great expense to maintain his properties, and to provide good jobs. Just another good citizen, doing the right thing.

I'm actively seeking additional examples of "Local Heroes" who step up and make a difference in the quality of the downtown experience. Please send you nominations to axon@axonometrix.com

COMMENTS

Alan,

I like that the owners/operators of Upper Crust (a real success story in itself), Plutos, and Pete's have provided popular outdoor seating. That has really changed the dynamic of 2nd and Main.

Gregg Payne for producing many of the popular business logos and a number of murals we find downtown, and for helping with COBA back when it was popular and well managed.

Steve Gonsalves for the newest Main Street building.

Tom Hall for getting engaged in local issues and being a downtown property owner.

And of course you, Alan, for focusing on the microcosm of Chico's downtown. It's a great place to work and shop, even on the days that it smells like puke.

Lon

Posted by: Lon | July 29, 2007 07:04 AM

Alan,

Wayne Cook, for investing millions of dollars in turning the Pigeon Palace into the Hotel Diamond.

Debra and Colleen Cannon for locating three of Chico's coolest stores, Lulu's, Gigi's and Trucker, downtown. They seem to know what works.

Scott Teeple, obviously, for his many murals, including the Bidwells.

Betty Jane Roth, for holding out for quality tenants in her buildings, businesses that benefit rather than degrade downtown.

Posted by: Robert Speer | August 15, 2007 12:23 PM

Robert--

Thanks again for your observations. Those are all great nominations. You're right, Debra Cannon has built up a great apparel business, and in doing so, generates plenty of foot traffic for her neighbors. That's one of the interesting things about retail; competition isn't just healthy, it's essential for generating a critical mass of demand for a shopping center, whether on main street or in a mall.

Downtown is fortunate to have a number of retailers in each of these categories; apparel, jewelry, decor (including art/framing), sporting goods, and giftware. That's why the loss of businesses like Sports LTD, Clifford's Jewelry, or To Market To Market to other retail corridors is so alarming; an erosion of any critical category hurts everyone in that segment, and by extension, the entire district.
