ORDER

This matter comes before the court on motions to dismiss, pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), filed by defendants Ford Motor Company (“Ford”) (DE 84) and Kawasaki Motors Corp., U.S.A. (“Kawasaki”) (DE 86).¹ Plaintiffs have not responded within the deadline set by the court, and issues raised are ripe for ruling. For reasons that follow, the court grants the motions to dismiss.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Plaintiffs, residents of Wake County, North Carolina, bring this action alleging a number of claims related to personal injury and loss of consortium. Plaintiff Larry Winslowe Lee (“Larry Lee”) was diagnosed with mesothelioma on September 13, 2013. Plaintiffs allege that his condition resulted from exposure to asbestos during his employment as mechanics’ helper, maintenance laborer, inspector, construction worker, and salesman, in addition to automotive maintenance work performed on his own personal vehicles and those of his family.

In complaint filed December 2, 2013, plaintiffs assert claims against a multitude of defendants: 1) AK Steel Corp. (“AK Steel”); 2) Briggs & Stratton Corporation (“Briggs & Stratton”); 3) Certainteed Corporation; 4) Clow Valve Company (“Clow Valve”); 5) Dana Companies LLC; 6) Deere & Company; 7) Eckler’s Corvette; 8) Ford; 9) Formosa Plastics Corporation U.S.A. (“Formosa”); 10) Genuine Parts Company; 11) Grinnell LLC; 12) Hajoca Corporation; 13) Hammer & Steel, Inc. (“Hammer & Steel”); 14) Honeywell International, Inc.; 15) J-M Manufacturing Company, Inc. (“J-M Manufacturing”); 16) Kawasaki 17) McWane Inc. (“McWane”); 18) Metropolitan Life Insurance Company (“MetLife”); 19) Pfizer Inc.; 20) Pneumo Abex LLC; 21) Special Electric Company, Inc. (“Special Electric Company”); 22) Union Carbide Corporation; and 23) Yamaha Motor Corporation, U.S.A.

¹ The court has constructively amended the case caption to reflect the earlier dismissal of defendants, as discussed further below.

All defendants are alleged to have acted negligently in putting asbestos or asbestos-containing products into interstate commerce (First Cause), to have breached implied warranties that asbestos materials were of good and merchantable quality and fit for their intended use (Second Cause), to have acted willfully and wantonly in exposing plaintiff Larry Lee to asbestos (Third Cause), to have committed false representation and fraud regarding the dangers of asbestos exposure to plaintiff Larry Lee (Fourth Cause), and to have failed to warn plaintiff Larry Lee of the dangers associated with asbestos exposure (Fifth Cause). Defendant MetLife is alleged to have engaged in a conspiracy and to be liable for punitive damages, where it is asserted that Metlife aided and abetted the negligence and marketing of asbestos-containing products (Sixth Cause). Conspiracy and punitive damages liability are also alleged against defendants Formosa and J-M Manufacturing for the manufacture and sale of asbestos-containing products (Seventh Cause).

Defendants AK Steel, Briggs & Stratton, Clow Valve, Eckler's Corvette, Hammer & Steel, McWane, and Special Electric Company have been dismissed from the action. All sixteen (16) remaining defendants have filed answers, generally denying plaintiff's allegations and raising a myriad of defenses, including, without limitation, failure to state a claim; superseding, intervening and contributory negligence; assumption of risk; compliance with state of the art; industry practice; statutes of limitations and repose; res judicata; and failure to join necessary parties.

On March 28, 2014, the court issued its initial order on planning and scheduling, giving the parties twenty-one (21) days to hold a conference pursuant to Rule 26(f) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and setting other deadlines.

Defendants Ford and Kawasaki filed the instant motions to dismiss on March 11, 2014 seeking to dismiss plaintiffs' claims against them arising out of false representation/fraud (Fourth Cause). Deadlines to respond expired April 4, 2014, without plaintiffs filing response to either motion. These are the only two motions to dismiss currently pending in this case.

COURT'S DISCUSSION

A. Standard of Review

The purpose of a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted is to eliminate claims that are factually or legally insufficient. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6); Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009); Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). To survive a motion to dismiss, a pleading must contain “sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to ‘state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’” Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 678 (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570). In evaluating whether a claim is stated, “a court accepts all well-pled facts as true and construes these facts in the light most favorable” to the plaintiff, but does not consider “legal conclusions, elements of a cause of action, and bare assertions devoid of further factual enhancement.” Nemet Chevrolet, Ltd. v. Consumeraffairs.com, Inc., 591 F.3d 250, 255 (4th Cir. 2009). Nor must the court accept “unwarranted inferences, unreasonable conclusions, or arguments.” Id.

B. Analysis

Ford and Kawasaki challenge plaintiffs’ claim for false representation/fraud, arguing that plaintiffs have failed to meet requirements to plead fraud with adequate specificity. Federal courts sitting in diversity apply federal procedural law and state substantive law. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v. Harleysville Mut. Ins. Co., 736 F.3d 255, 261 n.3 (4th Cir. 2013). Plaintiffs in diversity cases asserting a claim of fraud must meet the heightened pleading standard of Rule 9(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b); see Anderson v. Sara Lee Corp., 508 F.3d 181, 189 (4th Cir. 2007).

Under ordinary principles of federal pleading practice, a party is required only to make “a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(a). However, Rule 9(b) requires parties pleading fraud or mistake to “state with particularity the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 9(b). The Fourth Circuit has noted that such circumstances include “the time, place, and contents of the false representations, as well as the identity of the person making the misrepresentation and what he obtained thereby.” Harrison v. Westinghouse Savannah River Co., 176 F.3d 776, 784 (4th Cir. 1999). A court should hesitate to dismiss a complaint under Rule 9(b) if the defendant has been made aware of the particular circumstances for which she will have to prepare a defense at trial, and the plaintiff has substantial prediscovery evidence of those facts. Id. However, failure to meet the particularity rule may be cause for dismissal. United States ex rel. Goldstein v. Fabricare Draperies, Inc., 84 F. App’x 341, 344-45 (4th Cir. 2004). Lack of compliance with Rule 9(b)’s pleading requirements is treated as a failure to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(6). Harrison, 176 F.3d 776, 782 n. 4.

Plaintiffs’ complaint does not include any of the details necessary to reach the heightened pleading standard of Rule 9(b). There is no allegation of specific time, place or contents of any specific misrepresentation by either defendant Ford or defendant Kawasaki. Defendants cannot determine from this pleading the particular circumstances they will need to respond to at trial.

Accordingly, dismissal of plaintiffs' false representation/fraud cause of action (Fourth Cause) against these two defendants is necessary for failure to state a claim.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth above, the court GRANTS the motions to dismiss filed by defendants Ford (DE 84) and Kawasaki (DE 86).
