Welcome to Market Street Press

MARKET STREET

◆ P R E S S ◆

The Playground is Open at Market Street Press, and we embrace this concept of cooperation and imagination. We apply this theme to our products and the manner in which we do business. This is achieved by crafting products that are themselves fun, imaginative, interactive, innovative, and informative; and by building business relationships based on cooperation, friendship and collaboration.

And our playground does not stop in the backyard but spans the world; from our North Carolina headquarters to our nationwide distribution centers and international facilities in Europe and Asia.

Join our design team in working together to make new promotional items; we feature exclusive patented and pending items found nowhere else to ensure that you have the latest toys on the block. We will work with you toward designing, engineering & prototyping products that put our experience and creativity toward your goals.

We have a huge array of tools to work with on our playground but instead of see-saws and sandboxes we offer a complete line of state-of-the-art printing services including: offset, screen, pad, large format digital and much more. We also offer cutting edge finishing resources such as lamination, laser engraving and die-cutting; in addition to warehousing at our North Carolina headquarters.

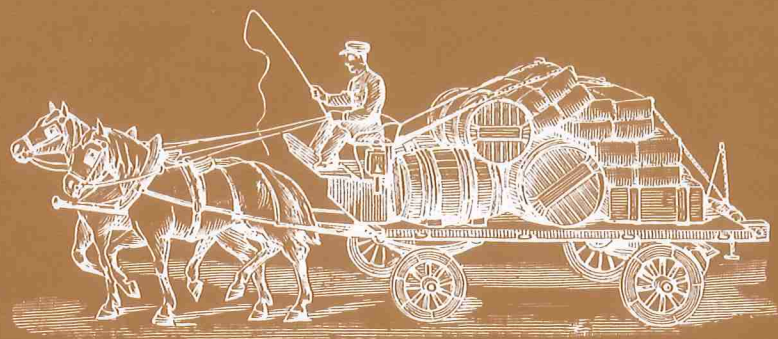

Market Street Press believes that human potential is a community's most powerful asset. MSP applies this philosophy through the employment of differently-abled individuals to complete fulfillment tasks at local workshops, and through its financial and in-kind support of Pinetree Community Services, Sandhills Conductive Education Foundation and the Arc of Moore County.

Market Street Press is always on the lookout for ways to involve these special community members as we focus on our four I's - "imagination", "interaction", "innovation", and "information" to create promotional products that are fun and inexpensive. With our community outreach we add a fifth I - "inclusion" and celebrate that indeed the playground is open for all!

For our team, doing our part to protect the environment is just as important as helping the people around us. Our planned new facilities will incorporate our commitment to staying green. The LEED certified building will utilize solar and alternative energy sources in conjunction with energy-efficient appliances and items throughout the office and factory.

The responsible and caring attitudes at Market Street Press don't stop when the work day ends and we are proud to extend this outlook to both our customers and our community.
