HARLEY G. LAPPIN, et al. ,)

Respondents.)

On June 16, 2008, pro se petitioner Jose Marcellu Hernandez filed the above-captioned habeas corpus action under 28 U.S.C. § 2241 against Harley G. Lappin, Director of the Bureau of Prisons (BOP), Corrections Corporation of America (“CCA”) President John D. Ferguson, and Warden Joseph D. Gunja at the Northeast Ohio Correctional Center (N.E.O.C.C.) Mr. Hernandez alleges that his segregation to a CCA facility based on national origin is a violation of his Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment rights under the Constitution, as well as 18

U.S.C. § 242 and 18 U.S.C. § 4001.¹ He seeks an order from this court declaring the contractual arrangement between CCA and the BOP null and void, immediately transferring him to a low security BOP facility and directing the BOP to provide all inmates the same benefits and privileges regardless of their national origin.

Background

Mr. Hernandez was indicted in the United States District Court for Middle District of Florida. United States v. Hernandez, No. 96-cr-ORL-22 (M.D. Fl. 1996). He pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to 265 months in prison on November 22, 1996. Initially, petitioner was imprisoned at F.C.I. Pekin and assigned a medium security level classification.

The BOP subsequently reclassified petitioner as a low security custody level inmate and transferred him to F.C.I. Elkton. An immigration detainer was also placed on him at that time. Later, Mr. Hernandez was “reclassified and transferred” to N.E.O.C.C. He states that he was advised that his transfer was prompted by the fact that he is not a citizen of the United States. Mr. Hernandez claims he was told that there is a contractual agreement between CCA and the BOP wherein immigrant prisoners with a low security classification are transferred to a CCA facility. This arrangement, petitioner asserts, is a violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments of the Constitution because it impermissibly classifies prisoners based on national origin.

¹These statutes address criminal offenses which can be prosecuted only by the proper United States authorities and which do not permit private causes of action. See, e.g., Purk v. United States, 747 F. Supp. 1243 (S.D. Ohio 1989); Lovelace v. Whitney, 684 F. Supp. 1438 (N.D. Ill. 1988).

Mr. Hernandez argues that he meets the regulatory definition of an “inmate,” as that term is defined in 28 C.F.R. Part 500.1(c). As such, he claims he is entitled to be treated the same as all other similarly situated low security inmates. While he does not specify how he is being treated less favorably at a CCA facility, petitioner asserts that any arrangement that treats low security inmates differently based on their national origin violates the Constitution.

28 U.S.C. § 2241

Habeas corpus proceedings are the proper mechanism for a prisoner to challenge the “legality or duration” of confinement. Preiser v. Rodriguez, 411 U.S. 475, 484 (1973). It is clear from the remedy Mr. Hernandez seeks, that he is neither challenging the length or duration of his confinement. Instead, it is the manner in which he is serving his sentence that he seeks to change. Specifically, he claims that his civil rights, pursuant to the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, are being violated by the respondents. It is through a civil rights action, however, that a prisoner may challenge the “conditions of ... confinement.” Id. at 498-99; see Badea v. Cox, 931 F.2d 573, 574 (9th Cir.1991); Okoro v. Scibana, No. 99-1322, 1999 WL 1252871, at *2 (6th Cir. Dec. 15,1999), cert dismissed, 530 U.S. 1227 (2000)

There is no dispute petitioner is complaining that the conditions under which he resides are a violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, for which he seeks injunctive relief. Because habeas relief is designed to test the fact or duration of confinement, Thomas v. Eby, 481 F.3d 434, 438 (6th Cir.2007), this court cannot grant the relief petitioner seeks pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 2241. To the extent petitioner seeks relief other than release, the appropriate action would be to file a civil rights complaint. Id.

Based on the foregoing, the petition is denied pursuant 28 U.S.C. § 2243. Further, the court certifies that an appeal from this decision could not be taken in good faith.²

IT IS SO ORDERED.
