The Court is fully advised and enters the following Findings, Conclusions, and Order:

I. FINDINGS OF FACT

1. In Docket No. 66, the Court previously entered an order determining that a class action could be maintained, certifying the class, preliminarily approving the Settlement, approving the form of the notice and setting a fairness hearing. The findings in Docket No. 66 are incorporated by reference and to the extent such findings were previously made on a preliminary basis, the Court endorses them as part of this disposition. Except for terms defined herein, the Court adopts and incorporates the definitions in the Settlement and the Court's Order Determining that Class Action May be Maintained (Dkt. 66) for purposes of this Order.
2. The notice requirements included in the Court's order (Dkt. No. 66) have been satisfied.

Fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the class action settlement

3. Because this action settled before substantive motions were filed here, this Court has not had an opportunity to fully consider the merits. While plaintiffs believe their claims have merit, plaintiffs concede that they faced liability hurdles and that defendants have raised defenses based on the involvement of the issuer and the disclosure documents received and signed by investors.
4. The case is complex, would require substantial expense to bring to a verdict, would take a substantial amount of time, and there is a risk that the action would not succeed. Defendants have indicated they intend to vigorously defend the claims.

There are substantial risks that defendants would be unable to pay a judgment, and

- additionally the risk that if the Settlement is not approved, a small number of individual claimants will get most or all of the available funds. The two insurance policies are wasting policies and the amount available to satisfy claims will be reduced by costs of defending this action (or multiple actions).
5. There is a risk that defendants would defeat class status by arguing that suitability claims being pursued by individual investors lack commonality.
 6. The amount offered in settlement, $6,100,000, is composed of the remaining insurance proceeds applicable to the claims, plus amounts contributed by various defendants. $4,900,000 will be paid by the defendants Douglas R. Bean and Megan Suzanne Bean; S. Christopher Bean and Jodi J. Bean, Jonathan Bishopp and Monica Bishopp, and Bean Holdings LLC, and their insurance carrier, Liberty Surplus Insurance Corporation. A settlement of $1,200,000 will be paid by Norman Gary Price and Christina Price, Ronald J. Robertson and Kathryn Robertson, Timothy Feehan, Jr. and Kimberly A. Feehan, Antonio Ramirez and Wendy Ramirez; Aaron Maurer and Laura Maurer; RP Capital, LLC; Strategic Capital Alternatives, LLC and SCA Holdings, and RP Capital's Insurance carrier, Certain Underwriters at Lloyd's, London.
 7. Members of the class have claims against a fund (composed of the insurance and personal assets of defendants) that will likely prove insufficient to satisfy all of them. Individual suits would likely exhaust the fund before all members were able to protect their interests. Without a class action settlement, litigation against these defendants would likely become a race to the courthouse door with some winners and many class

- members unable to recover. Only a Rule 23(b)(1)(B) non-opt out class would prevent individuals from disproportionately depleting defendants' assets (and insurance) by prosecuting separate cases. The risk that available funds would be inadequate to pay all claims constitutes a risk of substantial impairment.
8. Claimants will continue to own their respective investments, with the prospect of recovery of additional amounts being pursued in other actions and/or from the Receivership estate.
 9. The Settlement will financially benefit individual investor class members on an equitable or pro rata basis (relative to their respective net out of pocket loss) and there is a substantial risk that absent approval of the Settlement, many class members will recover less or nothing from these defendants.
 10. Plaintiffs filed a very detailed Complaint in King County, Washington, indicating a substantial amount of research into the issues, parties, and legal claims. The Settlement was reached before the parties engaged in discovery, but after the parties participated in a two-day mediation, and negotiated over several months. Multiple defendants provided plaintiffs' counsel with sworn financial statements to allow plaintiffs' counsel to evaluate the ability of defendants to make individual contributions to the Settlement. Multiple defendants have submitted sworn testimony that their financial wherewithal has not materially changed since the plaintiffs first initiated the lawsuit in King County.
 11. The experience and views of counsel for all parties support approval of the Settlement. The experience and views of the Receiver (and his counsel) in the Aequitas Receivership supports approval of the Settlement.

12. The Settlement is the result of good faith arms-length negotiations and there is no evidence of fraud or collusion. The parties' decision to settle was fully informed.
13. The total class contains more than 370 members. As discussed below, only one class member filed an objection.

Objections to the settlement

14. Mr. Gilmore/Ms. Cottrell are the only class member that objected to the proposed settlement; William Gilmore/Victoria Cottrell have a single claim. The objection is limited to the methodology used to calculate the loss; there is no objection by any class member to the amount of the proposed settlement, the inability to opt out, or the proposed award of attorney fees, expenses, or costs.
15. The method utilized to calculate loss, a net out of pocket calculation, treats all class members equitably, is fair to class members, and is easy to understand and apply.
16. A non-party, Enviso Capital Group LLC also filed an opposition to approval. (Dkt. 88). Enviso is not a party to this proceeding, is not a class member, and lacks standing to object to the Settlement. Enviso has not established any right to a share of insurance proceeds from the Liberty Surplus Insurance Policy. Nothing in this Settlement or the Court's orders in this proceeding limit Enviso's future scope of action, or releases any claim brought by Enviso. Enviso has not established any legal prejudice it will suffer from the Settlement.

Attorney Fees, Expenses, and Class Representative Incentive Awards

17. This class action is a common fund case and the Settlement will create a common fund of $6,100,000.00.

18. The class of beneficiaries are the class members, the benefits are traceable to class members, and it is possible to shift the fee to those benefitting with some exactitude. Each member of the class has an undisputed and mathematically ascertainable claim to part of the lump-sum settlement recovered.
19. A percentage method for determining an attorney fee award is appropriate, given litigation risks, defendants' inability to pay judgments, contingent fee agreements between class counsel and many class members, likely delay in being paid (if a recovery was effectuated), insurance coverage risks, complexity of the issues, conversion to a class action, competing claims and lawsuits, the stay imposed in the Receivership Action, and the absence of any objection by any class member. Co-Lead Counsel for the class provided quality representation in a complex proceeding, obtained a benefit for the class, and had a high risk of partial payment or nonpayment.
20. Taking into account all of the circumstances, Plaintiffs' Class Counsel's request for 20% of the settlement amount is reasonable and an attorney fee award of $1,220,000 to Co-Lead Counsel is reasonable.
21. The lodestar amount for Plaintiffs' Class Counsel's fees, as of August 31, 2017, is $491,256.75. The hourly rates usually charged by Co-Lead Counsel are fair and reasonable for attorneys with similar experience. Robert Banks has 35 years of experience as a litigation attorney in securities cases and charges $495 per hour. Lawrence Cock has more than 23 years of experience as a litigation attorney in securities cases and charges $410 per hour. The multiplier for the lodestar is 2.48 as of August 31, 2017 based upon those rates. Co-Lead Counsel has continued to perform services for the class following August 31, 2017. The multiplier is actually lower, and likely 2.3 as a result of the additional time spent by Co-Lead Counsel since August 31, 2017. Given the complexity of the case and the risks, a lodestar multiplier of 2.3 is reasonable and a “lodestar check” confirms the appropriateness of an attorney fee award of 20% of the settlement amount.

22. Co-Lead Counsel paid expenses of $40,193.87. These expenses were reasonably incurred. Co-Lead Counsel will reasonably incur further costs of the Claims Administrator to further administer the Settlement.
23. Certain class representatives agreed to travel to and attend a two-day mediation in Seattle, Washington at their own expense and for the benefit of the class. They incurred expenses in doing so and are entitled to an incentive award from the settlement fund to partially reimburse them for their services.
24. The class representatives assumed responsibilities on behalf of and for the benefit of the class, and are entitled to an incentive award for their services.

Responding Defendants’ Request for Permanent Injunction

25. On September 29, 2017, Defendants Norman Gary Price, Christina Price, Ronald J. Robertson, Kathryn Robertson, RP Capital LLC, Timothy J. Feehan, Jr., Kimberly A. Feehan, Strategic Capital Alternatives LLC, and SCA Holdings LLC (“Responding Defendant”) filed a Request for Permanent Injunction (Dkt. 89). The injunction is requested on behalf of parties identified in the Stipulation of Settlement (Dkt. 62): Norman Gary Price, Christina Price, Ronald J. Robertson, Kathryn Robertson,

RP Capital LLC, Timothy J. Feehan, Jr., Kimberly A. Feehan, Strategic Capital Alternatives LLC, and SCA Holdings LLC, Strategic Capital Group, LLC, Craig D. Johnsen, Antonio Ramirez, Wendy Ramirez, Aaron Maurer, Laura Maurer, Kenneth Peterson, and Patricia Peterson (collectively hereafter called the “RPC Settling Parties”).

26. On July 26, 2017, this Court granted a preliminary injunction (Dkt. 60). The Court incorporates the reasoning and findings from its previous order by reference.
27. The benefits of the Settlement would be lost to the Defendants if members of a non-opt out class were allowed to proceed with pending FINRA Cases or to initiate new arbitrations of lawsuits against the RPC Settling Parties based on the recommendations or sales of Aequitas Investments.
28. Responding Defendants have been named as respondents in various arbitrations filed with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (“FINRA”). The arbitrations allege that Responding Defendants offered investments in various Aequitas entities (“Aequitas investments”), which failed in late 2015 and early 2016. The arbitrations generally allege that Responding Defendants failed to advise clients of the risks of investments issued by Aequitas, and that the Aequitas investments were not suitable for the Claimants. Claimants also asserted claims against certain Responding Defendants for failing to supervise the actions of registered representatives in connection with the offering of Aequitas investments. These claims, in part or in whole, are pled in the following FINRA arbitrations:

- Nassar, et al. v. RP Capital, et al., Case No. 16-00943 (FINRA) (filed in April 2016, and seeking at least $600,000) (“Nassar”);
 - Reiss, et al. v. RP Capital, et al., Case No. 16-01610 (FINRA) (filed in June 2016, and seeking at least $1.81 million) (“Reiss”);
 - Fluegel, et al. v. RP Capital, et al., Case No. 16-01967 (FINRA) (filed in July 2016, and seeking at least $158,491) (“Fluegel”);
 - Martens v. RP Capital, et al., Case No. 16-03187 (FINRA) (filed in October 2016, and seeking at least $700,000) (“Martens”); and
- Wu v. RP Capital, et al.*, Case No. 17-00594 (FINRA) (filed March 7, 2017 and seeking at least $578,000) (“Wu”) (collectively, “Pending FINRA Cases”).
29. The FINRA claimants will not suffer unfair prejudice by the issuance of a permanent injunction. As class members, the claimants will be entitled to submit claims.
30. The public interest favors a permanent injunction because the Settlement preserves funds for all class members, a larger group of investors. In the absence of a permanent injunction and a non-opt out class, the limited funds available to settle or pay awards or judgments would be eroded.

II. CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

1. A balancing of all factors relating to fairness, reasonableness, and adequacy of the Settlement weighs heavily in favor of approving the Settlement. The Settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate.
2. An attorney fee award of $1,220,000 (20% of the Settlement) out of the common fund is reasonable.
3. Reimbursement out of the common fund of $40,193.87 in expenses is reasonable.

4. Incentive awards out of the common fund of $2,000.00 for each Class Representative and $1,000 per day to each Class Member who attended the two-day mediation in Seattle is reasonable.
5. In the absence of injunctive relief, the RPC Settling Defendants will suffer irreparable harm, a balance of the equities tips in favor of granting the RPC Settling Defendants a permanent injunction, and an injunction serves the public interest.

- identified by Co-Lead Counsel.
