DEFENDANT’S OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFF’S PETITION FOR REMAND TO THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS OF PHILADELPHIA
COUNTY AND STAY DEFENDANT’S PENDING MOTION TO DISMISS

Pursuant to the Court’s May 3, 2006 Order, defendant Tucker Max, by and through his undersigned counsel Montgomery, McCracken, Walker & Rhoads, LLP, respectfully submits this opposition to plaintiff’s petition to remand this matter to the Court of Common Pleas of Philadelphia County (the “Petition”).

I. INTRODUCTION AND SUMMARY OF ARGUMENT

Plaintiff seeks to have this matter remanded to state court because defendant did not file timely his Notice of Removal. See Petition at ¶¶ 4, 6. Plaintiff’s argument is based entirely on the fact that a reporter contacted defendant and informed him that he had been sued by plaintiff. Id. at ¶ 2. That argument directly contradicts cases decided by the United States Supreme Court, United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit and United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

In fact, immediately upon receiving the Petition, defendant’s counsel advised plaintiff’s counsel of the well-established case law that defeats plaintiff’s argument for remand. See Exhibit 1, April 27, 2006 letter from Michael K. Twersky to Matthew B. Weisberg. In that letter, defendant’s counsel identified the relevant case law and requested that plaintiff withdraw his Petition. Id. Plaintiff has refused to do so, even though there is absolutely no basis to support his position. Because defendant has been forced to respond to the Petition, he requests that the Court Order plaintiff and his counsel to reimburse all attorney's fees, costs and expenses incurred in connection with responding to the Petition.

II. STATEMENT OF RELEVANT FACTS

On or about March 10, 2006, plaintiff filed a Civil Action Complaint in the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania against defendant.¹ See Exhibit 2, Notice of Removal at ¶ 1. At no time prior to March 23, 2006 did plaintiff serve on defendant either the Complaint or Summons, and plaintiff does not state otherwise in his Petition.

On March 10, 2006, a local newspaper published an article about the filing of this lawsuit. See Petition at Exhibit A, March 10, 2006 Metro article, "DiMeo Sues Web site owner." The article reports that the newspaper contacted defendant by e-mail and informed him about the filing of the Complaint. Id. It is obvious from the comments attributed to defendant in the article that he had not yet seen, let alone been served with, the Complaint. Id. Indeed, in response to being told that he had been sued by plaintiff, defendant is reported to have said the following: "Please give [plaintiff] my address, so as to expedite delivery of a document I anticipate to be of the highest comedy." Id.

On March 22, 2006, after being retained as counsel by defendant, Michael Twersky contacted plaintiff's counsel, Matthew Weisberg, and agreed to accept service of the Complaint on defendant's behalf. Exhibit 2, Notice of Removal, at ¶ 2. On March 23, 2006, plaintiff's counsel forwarded the Complaint, by electronic mail, to Mr. Twersky. Id. at ¶ 3. On April 12, 2006, less than thirty days after receiving the Complaint, defendant filed his Notice of Removal. Thus, defendant's Notice of Removal was timely filed under 28 U.S.C. § 1446(b), as it was filed within thirty (30) days of service of the Complaint.

III. LEGAL ARGUMENT

A. Defendant's Notice of Removal was Filed Timely.

A defendant may remove a civil action filed in state court if the federal court in the district where the action is pending would have had original jurisdiction over the matter. 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a). Where a cause of action involves a federal question – that is, where it arises “under the Constitution, laws or treaties of the United States” – or involves citizens from different states and an amount in controversy in excess of $75,000, the District Court has original jurisdiction over those claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1332.² Both federal question and diversity are present in this case, so removal is permissible pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1441.

There is, however, only a narrow window of opportunity during which removal is timely.

In relevant part, 28 U.S.C. § 1446 (b) provides that a defendant must file a notice of removal:

within thirty days after the receipt by the defendant, through service or otherwise, of a copy of the initial pleading setting forth the claim for relief upon which such action or proceeding is based, or within thirty days after the service of summons upon the defendant if such initial pleading has then been filed in court and is not required to be served on the defendant, whichever period is shorter.

28 U.S.C. § 1446(b).

² The grounds for removal were based on both diversity of citizenship (28 U.S.C. § 1332) and federal question jurisdiction (28 U.S.C. § 1331). Exhibit 2, Notice of Removal, at ¶¶ 4-10. Plaintiff does not contest the substantive basis for removal.

The United States Supreme Court, in Murphy Brothers, Inc. v. Michetti Pipe Stringing, Inc., 526 U.S. 344 (1999), addressed the issue of whether a defendant had to be properly served before the removal period begins to run: “The question presented is whether the named defendant must be officially summoned to appear in the action before the time to remove begins to run.” Id. at 347.

The Supreme Court answered this question by holding that a defendant “is not obliged to engage in litigation unless notified of the action and brought under a court’s authority by formal process.” Id. at 347. Accordingly, the Court held that “a named defendant’s time to remove is triggered by simultaneous service of summons and complaint, or receipt of the complaint, ‘through service or otherwise,’ after and apart from service of summons, but not by mere receipt of the complaint unattended by formal service.” Id. at 347-48; see also Sikirica v. Nationwide Ins. Co., 416 F.3d 214, 220-23 (3d Cir. 2005); Sprague v. American Bar Ass’n, 166 F. Supp. 2d 206, 208 (E.D. Pa. 2001); Steff v. Township of Salisbury, No. 99-2931, 1999 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 14966 (E.D. Pa. Sept. 20, 1999).

There is no question that defendant was not served with the Complaint until March 23, 2006 at the very earliest. Plaintiff does not contest that fact. Instead, plaintiff states, without any supporting case law,³ that defendant “publicly acknowledged receipt of notice of this lawsuit” on March 10, 2006, and that is sufficient to trigger removal. Petition at ¶ 2 (emphasis added). Mere knowledge that a lawsuit has been filed, however, is not the same as “service of summons and complaint.” Murphy Brothers, Inc., 526 U.S. at 347-48.

³ The local rules for the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania require that all contested motions be “accompanied by a brief containing a concise statement of the legal contentions and authorities relied upon in support of the motion.” Local Rule of Civil Procedure 7.1(c). The “Petition,” however, contains no “brief” or any supporting memorandum of law.

Because defendant filed his Notice of Removal less than thirty days after being served with the Complaint, plaintiff's Petition should be denied.

B. Defendant is Entitled to Sanctions for Having to Respond to the Petition.

Immediately upon receiving plaintiff's Petition, counsel for defendant sent a letter to plaintiff's counsel advising him that the Petition was improper, that it had no basis in law or fact, and demanding that it be withdrawn within four days. Exhibit 1, April 27, 2006 letter from Michael K. Twersky to Matthew B. Weisberg. The letter quoted the Supreme Court's holding in Murphy Brothers and provided the citation so that plaintiff could verify it. Id.

In response to the letter, plaintiff's counsel agreed to "research [the issue] prior to our likely upcoming hearing in this matter with a view to withdrawing this motion at our hearing if your contentions prove correct." Exhibit 3, April 27, 2006 e-mail from Matthew B. Weisberg to Michael K. Twersky. The Petition was not withdrawn and defendant was forced to file this response.

Both the inherent powers of the Court and federal statute allow the imposition of sanctions against a party or his attorney where they have acted in bad faith. See, e.g., In re Prudential Ins. Co. Sales Prac. Litig., 218 F. 3d 175 (3d Cir. 2002); 28 U.S.C. § 1927.⁴

The Third Circuit has described the circumstances under which sanctions may be awarded:

Before a court can order the imposition of attorneys' fees . . . it must find willful bad conduct on the part of the offending attorney. Indications of ⁴ 28 U.S.C. § 1927, entitled "Counsel's liability for excessive costs," provides as follows:

Any attorney or other person admitted to conduct cases in any court of the United States or any Territory thereof who so multiplies the proceedings in any case unreasonably and vexatiously may be required by the court to satisfy personally the excess costs, expenses, and attorneys' fees reasonably incurred because of such conduct.

this bad faith are findings that the claims advanced were meritless, that counsel knew or should have known this, and that the motive for filing . . . was an improper purpose such as harassment.

In re Prudential, 278 F.3d at 188 (internal citations omitted).

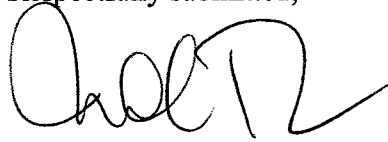

All of the elements identified by the Third Circuit are present here. In this case, plaintiff's counsel was informed of the well-established, precedential case law against the argument that the removal time-period is triggered merely by "notice" of the filing of a complaint. See Exhibit 1, April 27, 2006 letter. He agreed to research the issue and withdraw the Petition if plaintiff's position was not supportable. See Exhibit 3, April 27, 2006 e-mail. Thus, plaintiff's counsel "knew or should have known" that his claims were meritless. In re Prudential, 278 F.3d at 188. Rather than voluntarily withdrawing the Petition, however, he forced defendant to respond to it and the Court to rule on it. Such conduct demonstrates that plaintiff's refusal to withdraw the Petition was not legitimate but rather was for "an improper purpose such as harassment." Id.

Because plaintiff's counsel was on notice that his position was without merit and he refused to withdraw his Petition, defendant requests reimbursement of all attorney's fees, costs and expenses that have been incurred in responding to the Petition.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth herein, defendant respectfully urges the Court to deny plaintiff's Petition to Remand and to Order plaintiff and his counsel to reimburse defendant for all fees, costs and expenses incurred in connection with responding to the Petition.

Respectfully submitted,

MT 829

Re: DiMeo v. Max, Civil Action No. 06-1544
United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Today we received plaintiff's "Petition for Remand" filed in the above-matter. This letter concerns the impropriety of that filing and our demand that plaintiff immediately withdraw it. Should plaintiff refuse to withdraw the "Petition," defendant shall seek all fees and costs incurred in responding to it, as provided under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and United States statute.

First, the copy of the "Petition" we received is unsigned. As you are aware, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11(a) requires all pleadings to be "signed by at least one attorney of record in the attorney's individual name." Any unsigned pleading "shall be stricken unless omission of the signature is corrected promptly after being called to the attention of the attorney or party." Id.

Second, the local rules for the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania require that all contested motions be "accompanied by a brief containing a concise statement of the legal contentions and authorities relied upon in support of the motion." Local Rule of Civil Procedure 7.1(c). The "Petition," which will certainly be contested, contains no "brief" or any supporting memorandum of law.

Your failure to file a "brief containing ... legal contentions and authorities" leads directly to the third and final reason why plaintiff's "Petition" is improper. Had plaintiff filed such brief,

MONTGOMERY, McCracken, Walker & Rhoads, LLP

Matthew B. Weisberg, Esquire
April 27, 2006

and researched the relevant case law as is required pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11, he would have realized that the "Petition" is contrary to well-established law. Specifically, in Murphy Brothers, Inc. v. Michetti Pipe Stringing, Inc., 526 U.S. 344, 347 (1999), the United States Supreme Court held that a defendant "is not obliged to engage in litigation unless notified of the action and brought under a court's authority by formal process." Accordingly, the Court held that "a named defendant's time to remove is triggered by simultaneous service of summons and complaint, or receipt of the complaint, 'through service or otherwise,' after and apart from service of summons, but not by mere receipt of the complaint unattended by formal service." Id. at 347-48 (emphasis added). That holding is consistent with the Third Circuit's holding in Foster v. Mutual Fire Marine & Inland Ins. Co., 986 F.2d 48 (3d Cir. 1993), as well as numerous decisions by the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

As you know, defendant never received "the complaint, through service or otherwise, after and apart from service of summons." In fact, until March 23, 2006 – when this law firm accepted service of the complaint on behalf of defendant – nothing was served on defendant. Indeed, you must know this since you represent plaintiff, purportedly signed the Complaint, and were responsible for serving it on defendant.

Nevertheless, the "Petition" argues that the removal clock is triggered whenever, and however, a defendant first learns about the filing of a complaint, whether or not defendant is served with the complaint or has even seen the complaint. There is no case law to support that contention; in fact, the law is clear that such is not the case.

Unfortunately, the failure to follow legal precedent has been a recurring theme in this case in regard to plaintiff's pleadings. As explained in my March 28, 2006 letter, to which you never responded, as well as defendant's motion to dismiss, plaintiff's complaint fails to state any legally viable cause of action. In fact, plaintiff's claims directly contradict the law in this circuit, as well as virtually every other circuit. Now, plaintiff has filed a "Petition to Remand" that is equally (if not more) deficient than the Complaint.

MONTGOMERY, McCracken, Walker & Rhoads, LLP

Matthew B. Weisberg, Esquire
April 27, 2006

Unless plaintiff withdraws the "Petition for Remand" by Monday, May 1, 2006, defendant will be forced to prepare a response to it. If that occurs, defendant will seek its fees and costs, as well as other sanctions provided by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11 and 28 U.S.C. § 1927.

Sincerely,

DEPUTY CLERK, UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
EASTERN DISTRICT OF PENNSYLVANIA

NOTICE OF REMOVAL

Defendant Tucker Max hereby gives Notice of Removal of this action from the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania, in which it is now pending, to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

The grounds for removal are as follows:

1. On or about March 10, 2006 plaintiff Anthony DiMeco, III filed a Civil Action Complaint in the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania naming Mr. Max as the sole defendant. See Exhibit A, Complaint.
2. On March 22, 2006, Mr. Max's counsel agreed to accept service of the Complaint on his behalf.
3. On March 23, 2006, plaintiff's counsel forwarded the Complaint, by electronic mail, to Mr. Max's counsel. Thus, this Notice of Removal is timely filed under 28 U.S.C. § 1446(b), as it is filed within thirty (30) days of service of the Complaint.
4. In his Complaint, plaintiff avers that he is a resident citizen of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Exhibit A, Complaint at ¶1.
5. Mr. Max is a resident citizen of New York County, New York. Id. at ¶2.
6. Therefore, plaintiff and defendant are citizens of different states.

7. Plaintiff's Complaint contains three separate Counts, the second of which is for alleged violations of the "Communications Act of 1943 (47 U.S.C. § 223(a)(1)(c))." Id. at ¶¶13-14.

8. Plaintiff further alleges that the amount in controversy is "in excess of $75,000," and he is seeking $1 million in punitive damages. Id. at ¶¶12, 14 and 18 ("WHEREFORE" clauses).

9. Because the parties are of completely diverse citizenship, and the amount in controversy is in excess of $75,000, this Court has original jurisdiction of this action under the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a), and the action is removable pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a).

10. In addition, because plaintiff has alleged violations of the Communications Act of 1943, as amended, 47 U.S.C. § 223(a)(1)(c)), removal of this case also is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331, and this court should exercise supplemental jurisdiction over plaintiffs' state law tort claims, as they form part of the same case or controversy as the federal claim. See 28 U.S.C. § 1367.

WHEREFORE, defendant Tucker Max hereby gives notice of removal of this action from the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia County, Pennsylvania to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

CIVIL ACTION COMPLAINT
2L - LIBEL

1. Plaintiff, Anthony DiMeo, III (hereinafter "DiMeo"), is an individual currently residing at the above captioned address.
2. Defendant, Tucker Max ("Max"), is an individual maintaining a principal place of business at the above captioned address.
3. Defendant does business, advertises and publishes a web site directed towards the City and County of Philadelphia and/or residents therein, including Defendant, which is hereinafter more fully described.
4. At all times material, Defendant maintained, hosted and published a web-site: www.tuckermx.com ("Site"), more fully described at length herein.
5. Defendant through his Site publishes defamatory statements aimed at Plaintiff, including, but not limited to:

- a. "Maybe you should find your validation elsewhere...preferably at the end of a magnum"
 - b. "I just wanted to let you know that I think that you are the biggest piece of shit I have ever heard of and I hope that you die soon";
 - c. "Now I know why Arlen Specter got invited to all those Renamity Http://www.renamity.com/galary/birthdaybash/escf0009 parties! Could it be...bribery of your local politician";
 - d. "He's got a neat, nice little page there from which we can harass him";
 - e. "I can't believe no one has killed him yet";
 - f. "You threw an absolutely disastrous party on New Year's Eve precipitated by false advertising and possible fraud"; and
 - g. Such other and further libelous statements published on the Site and will likely be published on said site, which are herewith incorporated by reference as if fully set forth at length herein as if originally pleaded herein, as may be discovered throughout ongoing discovery and/or at trial.
6. At all times material, Defendant negligently, carelessly, recklessly and/or intentionally published said libelous statements with a view towards:
- a. Reducing and/or impeding Plaintiff's commercial success and profitability;
 - b. Harassing, threatening, and annoying Plaintiff;
 - c. Personally and financially injuring Plaintiff;
 - d. Inciting violence and criminal misconduct toward Plaintiff and Plaintiff's companies, firms, and businesses: DiMeo Farms, LLC., Renamity, Inc., and Wealth Management; and
 - e. Otherwise defaming Plaintiff.
7. At all times material, Plaintiff is a private person and not a public figure and is entitled to heightened protection from defamatory publications.

COUNT I-DEFAMATION

8. Paragraphs 1-7 above are incorporated by reference as if more fully set forth at length herein.
9. Defendant's Site constitutes a defamatory publication, actionable per se as libel per se and was and/or is published with express and actual malice with an intent to defame and/or libel Plaintiff.
10. The defamatory conduct of Defendant includes, but is not limited to:
 - a) Accusing Plaintiff of criminal conduct without investigating the truth or veracity thereof and with express malice and reckless disregard for the truth;
 - b) The continuing failure of Defendant to substantiate the published baseless allegations;
 - c) Knowing or should have known of the lack of veracity of the Site's aforementioned defamatory substance;
 - d) Publishing said defamatory accusations;

Thank you for your informative correspondence of April 27, 2006.

As for my signature, this document was electronically filed and signed (you received a copy). Please advise if this does not cure my deficiency in this regard.

As for the balance, I will research same prior to our likely upcoming hearing in this matter with a view to withdrawing this motion at our hearing if your contentions prove correct.

Can I assume then that if I do withdraw this motion at our hearing that you will refrain from seeking sanctions?

Thank you again for the courtesies of your correspondences.
