LIMITED EDITION PHOTOGRAPHIC PRINTS

The Associated Press Collection

The Associated Press is the world's oldest and largest newsgathering organization, and its photo archive is the largest and most comprehensive of 20th Century news and historical photography, comprised of over 60 million images. The Associated Press has been honored with the Pulitzer Prize for Photography 28 times since the inception of this award, including perhaps the most recognizable image in American photojournalism history, Flag Raising at Iwo Jima.

IPHOTOART publishes The Associated Press Collection photographs as open edition and limited edition photographic prints.

The Associated Press was born on an early morning in May 1848, when 10 men, representing six New York City newspapers, sat around an office table of the New York Sun. They had been in session for more than an hour and all that time they had been in stubborn argument. At issue was the costly collection of news by telegraphy. The newly invented telegraph made transmission of news possible by wire but at costs so high that the resources of any single paper would be strained.

David Hale of the Journal of Commerce argued that only a joint effort between New York's papers could make telegraphy affordable and effectively prevent telegraph companies from interfering in the newsgathering process. To get news from the west and from abroad, Hale argued, newspapers had to work together if the public was to be served with increasingly wider coverage of the United States and the world. Although reluctant at first, the six highly competitive papers agreed to the historic plan, and The Associated Press was born.

About The Photographs

IPHOTOART proudly offers select historic images from The Associated Press as Limited Edition photographic prints. The Associated Press limited editions published by IPHOTOART are silver gelatin photographs printed by hand in a custom photo-darkroom in New York City. Black and white photographs are archivally printed on double-weight, fiber-based paper. Color photographs are hand-printed on resin-coated (RC) paper. Limited edition photographs are printed directly from the original camera negative, when available, or when the original negative doesn't exist or is damaged, from a dupe or copy negative housed in The Associated Press archive.

Occasionally, when only a digital file is available, we utilize the latest model of LightJet printer, a laser film recorder, which renders prints that have no dots - only continuous tone pixels. These digital prints are printed on Fuji Crystal Archive® photographic paper, which is rated for longevity at 61 years or more. The result is a true photographic print on a paper that also could have been exposed in a traditional enlarger.

Limited edition photographs are printed with not less than a 3/4" border top and sides and not less than a 1 1/2" border at the bottom. Each limited edition photographic print is hand-numbered and embossed with The Associated Press or Pulitzer Prize-winner limited edition seal and comes with a hand-numbered Certificate of Authenticity. Select limited edition photographs are signed by the photographer. Typical edition size is 250 plus artist's proof and publisher's proof editions, although many of the Pulitzer Prize Collection photographs feature a much smaller edition size. Click any thumbnail to see the size a particular limited edition photograph is printed and other details of the edition.
