

Docket No. 145, which Plaintiffs opposed at Docket No. 157. After reviewing these submissions and the pertinent law, the court GRANTS Defendants' motion for summary judgment at Docket No. 145 as it pertains to Berlingeri.

I. Standard of Review

Summary judgment is appropriate when “the pleadings, depositions, answers to interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to a judgment as a matter of law.” Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 322 (1986). See FED.R.CIV.P. 56(a). “An issue is genuine if ‘it may reasonably be resolved in favor of either party’ at trial, and material if it ‘possess[es] the capacity to sway the outcome of the litigation under the applicable law.’” Iverson v. City of Boston, 452 F.3d 94, 98 (1st Cir. 2006) (alteration in original) (citations omitted). The moving party bears the initial burden of demonstrating the lack of evidence to support the non-moving party’s case. Celotex, 477 U.S. at 325. “The movant must aver an absence of evidence to support the nonmoving party’s case.

The burden then shifts to the nonmovant to establish the existence of at least one fact issue which is both genuine and material.” Maldonado-Denis v. Castillo-Rodriguez, 23 F.3d 576, 581 (1st Cir. 1994). The nonmovant may establish a fact is genuinely in dispute by citing particular evidence in the record or showing that either the materials cited by the movant “do not establish the absence or presence of a genuine dispute, or that an adverse party cannot produce admissible evidence to support the fact.” FED.R.CIV.P. 56(c)(1)(B). If the court finds that some genuine factual issue remains, the resolution of which could affect the outcome of the case, then the court must deny summary judgment. See Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986).

When considering a motion for summary judgment, the court must view the evidence in the light most favorable to the non-moving party and give that party the benefit of any and all reasonable inferences. Id. at 255. Moreover, at the summary judgment stage, the court does not make credibility determinations or weigh the evidence. Id. Summary judgment may be appropriate, however, if the non-moving party’s case rests merely upon “conclusory allegations, improbable

2 inferences, and unsupported speculation.” Forestier Fradera v. Municipality of Mayaguez, 440 F.3d
3 17, 21 (1st Cir. 2006) (quoting Benoit v. Technical Mfg. Corp., 331 F.3d 166, 173 (1st Cir. 2003)).

4 II. Relevant Factual Background

5 After Fortuño was elected, Berlingeri took office as the Administrator of the Office of the 6 Governor. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 1(e); 158 at ¶ 1(e). Fortuño issued a series of executive orders
7 implementing a number of fiscal controls on government spending. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 1(h-8 i).) Among these executive orders was 2009-002, which delegates to Berlingeri the power “to take 9 any necessary actions and sign any necessary official documents related to the administration of the 10 Office of the Governor.” (Docket No. 156-2.) Pursuant to this order, Berlingeri was in charge of 11 the administration of La Fortaleza. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 1(p); 158 at ¶ 1(p).)

12 Working with Berlingeri were Plaintiffs’ supervisors: Beatriz Garcia (“Garcia”), and her
13 subordinates Erica Candelaria (“Candelaria”) and Medeline Toro (“Toro”). (See Docket Nos. 143
14 at ¶ 1(cc); 158 at ¶ 1(cc); 143-9 at 133.) Garcia was the Director of the Executive Mansion. (See 15 Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 1(cc); 158 at ¶ 1(cc).) Berlingeri states she terminated Plaintiffs upon 16 recommendations from Garcia, Candelaria, and Toro. (See Docket No. 143-9.) However, no written 17 recommendations or reports have been submitted into evidence. (See id.)

18 Plaintiffs held trust positions at La Fortaleza, a type of employment that allows Defendants
19 to terminate Plaintiffs employment without cause. Plaintiffs received a document titled “Regulation 20 for Human Resources Administration in the Trust Service” upon commencing their duties –a 21 document which explains the terms of trust employment. (See e.g., Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 2(b); 158 22 at ¶ 2(b).) Further, it is uncontested that Plaintiffs were terminated by way of letters signed by 23 Berlingeri and dated February 27, 2009 or March 11, 2009. (See e.g., Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 2(f); 158 24 at ¶ 2(f).) Approximately two weeks before Plaintiffs’ termination, Figueroa overheard Vela and 25 Berlingeri speaking in a tea room. (See Docket No. 169-4.) Figueroa states Vela said, “We have 26 to clean the kitchen,” to which Berlingeri responded, “But, there are so many.” (See id.)

27 Also working at La Fortaleza was Cesar Batine (“Batine”), who supervised the Governor’s 28

2 residence under the previous administration and was highly recommended by Former Governor
3 Acevedo and his wife. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ hh; 158 at hh.) Batine was not terminated from 4 his position when Governor Fortuño's administration took control. (See id.)

5 A. Facts Specific to Carlos Santos Rivera.

6 Garcia monitored and gave oral feedback to Santos regarding his work. (See Docket Nos.
7 143 at ¶ hh; 158 at ¶ 2(hh).) Primarily, Garcia directed the activities of Rivera and those working 8 in the Governor's Mansion. (See Docket No. 156-6 at 14.) At times, Toro would substitute for 9 Garcia. (See Docket No. 156-6 at 14.) Santos informed Garcia as to the work accomplished and 10 Garcia verified that information through observation. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 2(hh); 158 at ¶ 11 2(hh).) The parties agree that the entrance to the Governor's Mansion was dirty; however, they 12 disagree over the reasons why the staff failed to clean the area. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 2(kk); 158 13 at ¶ 2(kk).)

14 B. Facts Specific as to Ivan Rivera Canales.

15 Rivera received his appointment through the wife of an NPP representative. (See Docket 16 Nos. 143 at ¶ 3(b); 158 ¶ 3(b).) From the time Rivera began working at La Fortaleza until his 17 termination on February 27, 2009, Rivera was a member of the NPP. (See Docket Nos. 143 ¶ 3(n); 18 158 ¶ 3(n).) Rivera admits he voted for Fortuño. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 3(t); 158 at ¶ 3(t).) No
19 defendant asked Rivera what political party he was affiliated with or when he began working at La
20 Fortaleza. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 3(hh); 158 at ¶ 3(hh).)

21 C. Facts Specific to Gerardo Pizarro Pizarro.

22 Pizarro began working at La Fortaleza on September 18, 2000. (See Docket No. 156-16 at 23 18.) At that time, he identified with the NPP, but by 2004 he affiliated himself with the PDP. (See 24 Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 4(v, cc); 158 at ¶ 4(v, cc).) The only coworker Pizarro spoke to regarding 25 politics was Guerrero, and that occurred outside of the workplace. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 4(t, 26 u); 158 at ¶¶ 4(t, u).) Pizarro never heard rumors about a list of PDP employees who were going to 27 be terminated. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 4(x); 158 at ¶ 4(x).)

2 D. Facts Specific to Juan Carrasquillo Lopez.

3 Carrasquillo began working at the Executive Mansion on May 1, 2002. (See Docket Nos.
4 143 at ¶ 5(a); 158 at ¶ 5(a).) After Fortuño took office, Carrasquillo never saw any political 5 propaganda for any party in La Fortaleza. (See Docket No. 156-19 at 10-11.) Berlingeri and 6 Carrasquillo did not speak about politics and politics were not discussed at work with other
7 employees. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 5(r, s); 158 at ¶ 5(r, s).) While a member of the PDP party,
8 Carrasquillo was not an activist and his political participation was limited to voting on Election Day.
9 (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 5(w); 158 at ¶ 5(w).) Carrasquillo admits that ticks were found in a rug
10 within the Governor's Mansion. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 5(y); 158 at ¶ 5(y).)

11 E. Facts Specific to Hector Guerrero Frau.

12 Guerrero began working at La Fortaleza on December 13, 1999. (See Docket No. 156-23 13 at 3.) He attended some PIP meetings in the early 1990's; however, he has not been politically
14 active since that time. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 6(i); 158 at ¶ 6(i).) Garcia initially supervised 15 Guerrero. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 6(k); 158 at ¶ 6(k).) Guerrero did not see any political 16 propaganda within La Fortaleza and he never spoke about politics with any Defendant. (See Docket 17 Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 6(m, p); 158 at ¶¶ 6(m, p).) Guerrero never heard of a list of employees that were 18 going to be terminated. (143 at ¶ 6(s); 158 at ¶ 6(s).)

19 F. Facts Specific to Jorge Rodriguez Figueroa.

20 Rodriguez began working at La Fortaleza on September 1, 1988. (See Docket No. 156-26.)
21 Rodriguez did not see any political propaganda in La Fortaleza after the new administration took 22 over in 2009. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 7(m); 158 at ¶ 7(m).) Rodriguez never spoke with 23 Berlingeri. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 7(m, n); 158 at ¶¶ 7(m, n).) Rodriguez never heard
24 Berlingeri or any Defendants make any negative comments regarding the prior PDP administration, 25 nor did he hear any Defendant say those terminated were affiliated with the PDP. (See Docket Nos.
26 143 at ¶¶ 7(u, v); 158 at ¶¶ 7(u, v).) Politics were not discussed at La Fortaleza or the Executive 27 Mansion and Rodriguez did not share his political affiliation with any other employee. (See Docket 28 Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 7(w-y); 158 at ¶¶ 7(w-y).) Rodriguez's political participation in the 2008 election

2 was limited to voting. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 7(ff); 158 at ¶ 7(ff).)

3 G. Facts Specific to Carmen Ocasio Hernandez.

4 Ocasio began working on July 1, 2004. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 8(a); 158 at ¶ 8(a).)
5 Ocasio did not see any political propaganda displayed within La Fortaleza. (See Docket Nos. 143
6 at ¶ 8(l); 158 at ¶ 8(l).) She never spoke to any Defendant from the time the new administration took 7 control of La Fortaleza to her termination. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 8(m); 158 at ¶ 8(m).) Garcia
8 supervised Ocasio. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 8(o); 158 at ¶ 8(o).) Ocasio did not discuss politics
9 with Garcia or Candelaria. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 8(p, r); 158 at ¶¶ 8(p, r).) Ocasio never heard 10 any disparaging comments regarding the past administration, nor any justification for her
11 termination. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 8(y, aa); 158 at ¶¶ 8(y, aa).) She is a member of the PDP, 12 but did not campaign on behalf of the party. Her only activity was voting. (See Docket Nos. 143 13 at ¶ 8(bb); 158 at ¶ 8(bb).)

14 H. Facts Specific to Angel Baez Torres.

15 Baez began working at La Fortaleza on February 5, 2008. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 9(a); 16 158 at ¶ 9(a).) Baez was never asked political questions and he never heard anyone speak about 17 politics. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 9(f, g); 158 at ¶¶ 9(f, g).) Baez's only communication with 18 Berlingeri was short greetings. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 9(s); 158 at ¶ 9(s).) Baez was informed 19 through a coworker that Berlingeri had complaints as to the cleanliness of her office and windows.
20 (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 9(gg); 158 at ¶ 9(gg).)

21 I. Facts Specific to William Burgos Castellano.

22 Burgos began working at La Fortaleza on November 30, 2006. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 23 10(a); 158 at ¶ 10(a).) Burgos was the only employee assigned to Jajome, the country home of the 24 Governor. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 10(k); 158 at ¶ 10(k).) No supervisor was stationed at Jajome
25 with Burgos. (See id.) Santos was Burgos' supervisor and would go to Jajome roughly once a
26 month, but sometimes a month would go by without a site visit. (See Docket No. 156-36 at 7-8.)
27 The home was not kept in a clean state. (See Docket No. 143-9 at 2.) From the time Governor 28 Fortuño's administration took over, Burgos did not visit La Fortaleza. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶

2 10(o); 158 at ¶ 10(o).) Burgos did not see political propaganda either inside or outside La Fortaleza.
3 (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 10(q); 158 at ¶ 10(q).)

4 Burgos handed out leaflets supporting two mayoral candidates in 2008, but did not publicly
5 support the PDP candidate for governor. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 10(u); 158 at ¶ 10(u).) Burgos
6 did not discuss his political affiliation with other employees. Burgos never heard Defendants make 7 any derogatory remarks towards the PDP. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 10(t, z); 158 at ¶ 10(t, z).)

8 J. Facts Specific to Victor Camacho Pizarro.

9 Camacho began working at La Fortaleza on March 16, 2004. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 10 11(a); 158 at ¶ 11(a).) Figueroa was in charge of the warehouse, while Camacho was his assistant.
11 (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 11(q, r); 158 at ¶¶ 11(q, r).) Both were in charge of the food supply 12 inventory. (See id.) Camacho knew Berlingeri by sight, but the two had not been formally 13 introduced. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 11(p); 158 at ¶ 11(p).) Camacho never saw any political 14 propaganda within La Fortaleza. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 11(m); 158 at ¶ 11(m).) Camacho never 15 heard Defendants speak negatively about the prior administration, or Defendants attempting to link
16 the staff to the prior administration. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 11(v-x); 158 at ¶¶ 11(v-x).)
17 Berlingeri complained about Camacho's job performance on two occasions. (See Docket No. 156-18 40 at 11, 15-16.) Camacho cannot identify the political affiliations of those who work at the 19 Governor's Mansion or his co-Plaintiffs in this case. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 11(dd-ee); 158 at 20 ¶¶ 11(dd-ee).) Camacho was not politically active, other than casting his vote. (See Docket Nos.
21 143 at ¶ 11(jj); 158 at ¶ 11(jj).)

22 K. Facts Specific to Angel Figueroa Rolon.

23 Figueroa began working at La Fortaleza on August 5, 1991. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 12(a); 24 158 at ¶ 12(a).) Figueroa never spoke with Berlingeri. (See Docket No. 156-44 at 17.) None of 25 Figueroa's supervisors or coworkers made any comments regarding the previous administration or 26 political comments in general. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 12(t-v); 158 at ¶¶ 12(t-v).) Garcia was 27 Figueroa's immediate supervisor. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 12(ff); 158 at ¶ 12(ff).) Figueroa does 28 not know whether Defendants know his political affiliation. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 12(bb); 158

2 at ¶ 12(bb.) Figueroa knows some of the staff hired by previous administrations remained at La
3 Fortaleza after his termination, and he knows some of those staff members are members of the PDP.
4 (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 12(cc, ee); 158 at ¶ 12(cc, ee).)

5 L. Facts Specific to Nydia Diaz Francisco.

6 Diaz began working at La Fortaleza on February 1, 2001. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 13(a);
7 158 at ¶ 13(a).) Diaz washed and ironed the laundry. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 13(b); 158 at ¶ 8 13(b).) Diaz did not see any political propaganda during the time of the NPP administration. (See 9 Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 13(l); 158 at ¶ 13(l).) Diaz was not politically active in the last five
10 gubernatorial elections. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 13(m); 158 at ¶ 13(m).) Diaz never heard
11 Berlingeri make any political comments. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 13(n); 158 at ¶ 13(n).) Diaz
12 never spoke or met with Berlingeri, nor did she hear those terminated were affiliated with the PDP.
13 (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 13(o, r); 158 at ¶¶ 13(o, r).) Diaz did not discuss politics with her
14 coworkers. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 13(v); 158 at ¶ 13(v).)

15 M. Facts Specific to Felicita Rivera Baez.

16 Rivera Baez began working in the laundry room at La Fortaleza on February 1, 2008. (See 17 Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 14(a); 158 at ¶ 14(a).) She missed fourteen work days in February 2009. (See
18 Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 14(d); 158 at ¶ 14(d).) Garcia was Rivera Baez's supervisor. (See Docket
19 Nos. 143 at ¶ 14(z); 158 at ¶ 14(z).) Rivera Baez never met or spoke with Defendants. (See Docket
20 Nos. 143 at ¶¶ 14(h-i); 158 at ¶¶ 14(h-i).) Rivera Baez never saw political propaganda in La
21 Fortaleza. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 14(m); 158 at ¶ 14(m).) She cannot identify the political 22 parties of any maintenance staff. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 14(p); 158 at ¶ 14(p).) Rivera Baez
23 never spoke about politics while at work. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 14(r); 158 at ¶ 14(r).) Rivera 24 Baez knows there were staff members affiliated with the PDP that remained on staff after she was 25 terminated. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 14(y); 158 at ¶ 14(y).)

26 N. Facts Specific to Diana Rodriguez Vicente.

27 Rodriguez Vicente also worked in the laundry room, beginning on September 11, 1989.
28 (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 15(a); 158 at ¶ 15(a).) Garcia was her supervisor at the time of her

2 termination. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 15(bb); 158 at ¶ 15(bb).) Rodriguez Vicente did not see any
3 political propaganda in La Fortaleza after the new administration took over. (See Docket Nos. 143
4 at ¶ 15(m); 158 at ¶ 15(m).) She never met or spoke with Defendants. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 5 15(n); 158 at ¶ 15(n).) She never heard Defendants make any derogatory comments pertaining to 6 the previous administration. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 15(r); 158 at ¶ 15(r).) The only person at 7 La Fortaleza to whom Rodriguez Vicente told her political affiliation was Rivera Baez. (See Docket
8 Nos. 143 at ¶ 15(s); 158 at ¶ 15(s).) Rodriguez Vicente only knew the political affiliation of two 9 employees at La Fortaleza. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 15(u); 158 at ¶ 15(u).) She did not hear
10 rumors that those terminated were affiliated with the PDP. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 15(w); 158 11 at ¶ 15(w).)

12 III. Legal Analysis

13 A. Section 1983 Claims

14 Plaintiffs bring their claims under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 alleging violations of the First 15 Amendment to the United States Constitution. Section 1983 creates a remedy for those who are 16 deprived of the rights, privileges, or immunities granted to them by the Constitution or laws of the 17 United States. See Rodriguez Garcia v. Municipality of Caguas, 354 F.3d 91, 99 (1st Cir. 2004)
18 (citing Baker v. McCollan, 443 U.S. 137, 144 n.3, (1979)). To succeed on a Section 1983 claim, 19 Plaintiffs must prove that someone has deprived them of a right protected by the Constitution or the 20 laws of the United States and the perpetrator acted under color of state law. Cruz-Erazo v. Rivera-
21 Montañez, 212 F.3d 617, 621 (1st Cir. 2000).

22 B. First Amendment Political Discrimination

23 The First Amendment protects non-policymaking public employees from adverse 24 employment actions based on their political affiliation. See Rutan v. Republican Party of Ill., 497
25 U.S. 62, 75-76 (1990); Padilla-Garcia v. Guillermo Rodriguez, 212 F.3d 69, 74 (1st Cir. 2000). A 26 prima facie case of political discrimination requires evidence that: (1) the plaintiff and the defendant 27 belong to opposing political affiliations; (2) the defendant has knowledge of the plaintiff's opposing 28 political affiliation; (3) a challenged employment action occurred; and; (4) political affiliation was

2 a substantial or motivating factor behind the challenged employment action. See Martinez-Velez
3 v. Rey-Hernandez, 506 F.3d 32, 39 (1st Cir. 2007); Peguero-Moronta v. Santiago, 464 F.3d 29, 48
4 (1st Cir. 2006). Plaintiff “must point ‘to evidence on the record which, if credited, would permit a 5 rational fact-finder to conclude that the challenged personnel action occurred and stemmed from a
6 politically based discriminatory animus.’” Gonzalez-de-Blasini v. Family Dept., 377 F.3d 81, 85 (1st
7 Cir. 2004) (quoting LaRou v. Ridlon, 98 F.3d 659, 661 (1st Cir. 1996)). Additionally, the plaintiff
8 “must make a fact-specific showing that a causal connection exists between the adverse treatment
9 and the plaintiff’s political affiliation.” Aviles-Martinez v. Monroig, 963 F.2d 2, 5 (1st Cir. 1992)
10 (citing Correa-Martinez v. Arrillaga-Belendez, 903 F.2d 49, 58 (1st Cir. 1990)).

11 If the plaintiff proves his prima facie case, the burden shifts to the defendant to articulate a 12 nondiscriminatory ground for the adverse employment action and establish, by a preponderance of 13 the evidence, that the same action would have been taken regardless of the plaintiff’s political 14 beliefs. Mt. Healthy City School Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle, 429 U.S. 274, 287 (1977) (“Mt.
15 Healthy Defense”). In response, “the plaintiff may discredit the proffered nondiscriminatory reason, 16 either circumstantially or directly, by adducing evidence that discrimination was more likely than 17 not a motivating factor.” Padilla-Garcia, 212 F.3d at 77 (internal citations omitted). In the end, 18 “[s]ummary judgment is warranted ‘only if defendants’ evidentiary proffer compelled the finding 19 that political discrimination did not constitute a ‘but for’ cause for the adverse employment action.’” 20 Mendez-Aponte v. Puerto Rico, 656 F. Supp. 2d 277, 285 (D.P.R. 2009) (quoting Jirau-Bernal v.
21 Agrait, 37 F.3d 1, 4 (1st Cir. 1994)).

22 In their motion for summary judgment, Defendants contend Plaintiffs failed to establish a 23 prima facie case of political discrimination. (See Docket No. 145 at 6, 15.) They argue that 24 Plaintiffs’ claims of political discrimination are not supported by the evidence. (See id.) As to 25 Plaintiff Rivera, Defendants claim he has failed to demonstrate the first element of the prima facie
26 case. As to the remaining Plaintiffs, Defendants aver that they failed to demonstrate the second and 27 fourth elements.

28 1. Ivan Rivera Canales

2 Defendants isolate Rivera from the rest of Plaintiffs because he was a member of the NPP
3 for the duration of his employment at La Fortaleza. Additionally, he admits to having voted for 4 Governor Fortuño in the 2008 election. There is no evidence that Rivera was thought to be a
5 member of the PDP or was treated as a member of the PDP. Nor is this is a case where Rivera was 6 a member of a different faction of the same political party. See Padilla-Garcia, 212 F.3d at 76. The 7 first element of the prima facie case requires Rivera to show that he belonged to an opposing 8 political affiliation. Rivera's claim fails because he was member of the same political party as 9 Defendants and voted for Governor Fortuño.

10 Therefore, the court GRANTS Defendants motion for summary judgment as to Rivera 11 (Docket No. 145).

12 2. Remaining Plaintiffs

13 Defendants claim the remaining Plaintiffs failed to establish that Berlinger had knowledge
14 of Plaintiffs' political affiliations and that Plaintiffs failed to establish their terminations stemmed 15 from political animus. (See Docket No. 145 at 6, 15.) The parties disagree whether Berlinger had 16 knowledge of Plaintiffs' political affiliations. However, because the court dismisses Plaintiffs'
17 claims on alternative grounds, the court refrains from passing judgment on the knowledge 18 requirement.

19 The fourth prong of the prima facie case requires Plaintiffs to demonstrate that their 20 terminations stemmed from politically based discriminatory animus. See Gonzalez-de-Blasini, 377
21 F.3d at 85. Plaintiffs conclude the prima facie case has been demonstrated, but fail to cite facts on 22 the record that would allow the court to agree. (See Docket No. 157 at 13-15.) Plaintiffs describe
23 the atmosphere at La Fortaleza as politically divisive and rife with animosity towards the past PDP
24 administration. (See id. at 157 at 12.) Plaintiffs ask the court to view their claims through this lens
25 of extreme partisanship. However, the uncontested facts paint a different picture. Plaintiffs testified,
26 in their respective depositions, that they did not see political propaganda displayed at La Fortaleza.
27 (See e.g., 156-19 at 10-11.) Plaintiffs were never asked their political affiliation or for whom they 28 voted. Plaintiffs claim a political atmosphere existed mainly based on one employee's cell phone

2 cover and ringtone (Docket No. 157 at 12); however, that fact does not support the hyper-partisan
3 atmosphere Plaintiffs allege existed.

4 In order to show political animus, Plaintiffs point to one conversation overheard between 5 Vela and Berlingeri regarding the cleaning of the kitchen. At best, this conversation is ambiguous
6 as to whether it refers to terminating the kitchen staff. But even if read in that light, it makes no
7 reference to politics whatsoever. The conversation never mentions political parties or the political 8 affiliation of those employed in the kitchen. This conversation does not establish political animus
9 against those affiliated with the PDP. Further, whatever inference can be drawn as to political 10 animus is contradicted by the retention of Batine and other non-NPP staff members. Batine was in 11 charge of the Governor's residence, affiliates with the PDP and was recommended by former 12 Governor Acevedo. (See Docket Nos. 143 at ¶ 1(hh); 158 at ¶ 1(hh).)

13 Next, Plaintiffs attack the process implemented by Berlingeri to hire new workers at La 14 Fortaleza as inherently discriminatory. (See Docket No. 157 at 10.) Here, Berlingeri, along with 15 roughly ten to twenty others, reviewed applications for positions within La Fortaleza. Berlingeri 16 states some of these applications were forwarded to her from politicians belonging to all the political 17 parties on the island. (See Docket No. 158-2 at 17.) Plaintiffs conclude, without pointing to 18 evidence, that this process was designed to ensure those hired were affiliated with the NPP.
19 However, the testimony does not create the inference that this process was partisan. The evidence 20 demonstrates that politicians from all political parties submitted resumes and those hired were not 21 exclusively members of the NPP. The evidence does not support Plaintiffs' assertion that the hiring 22 process was politically motivated.

23 This is important to Plaintiffs assertion that they were terminated due to political animus
24 because, as Plaintiffs' argue, all hiring and firing decisions were made in an effort to hire those 25 affiliates of the NPP and to terminate those affiliates of the PDP. It is uncontested that Berlingeri
26 was the one who signed the termination letters, but it is also uncontested that Berlingeri relied upon
27 the recommendations of Garcia and her subordinates Candelaria and Toro. (See Docket No. 143-9.)
28 Plaintiffs point to no evidence that indicates Garcia, Candelaria or Toro harbored any political

2 animus towards PDP affiliates. The evidence demonstrates that non-NPP employees remained at 3 La Fortaleza after Plaintiffs were terminated. Plaintiffs failed to demonstrate those who replaced
4 them were members of the NPP.

5 In order to successfully show political animus was a motivating factor, Plaintiffs must 6 demonstrate a causal connection between their terminations and the political animus held by the 7 decision makers. See Monroig, 963 F.2d at 5. In this case, Berlingeri ultimately terminated
8 Plaintiffs based on the recommendations of Garcia and her subordinates. In Peguero-Moronta v.
9 Santiago, the First Circuit faced a similar situation in which a supervisor “rubber-stamped” the 10 termination recommendation of a subordinate. 464 F.3d 29, 51 n.9 (1st Cir. 2006). After discussing 11 the lack of evidence implicating the supervisor acted with political animus, the circuit affirmed the 12 dismissal of claims against the supervisor. See id.

13 This is not a case in which the subordinates’ political animus can be imputed to Berlingeri.
14 Plaintiffs decided not to name Garcia, Candelaria and Toro as defendants to this action. They were 15 not deposed in connection with this action. There is no testimony from these individuals on the 16 record before the court. This may be due to Plaintiffs failure to schedule depositions for these 17 witnesses before the discovery deadline. The court notes Magistrate Judge Arenas’ Order denying 18 Plaintiffs’ request to extend the discovery deadline in order to schedule additional depositions. (See 19 Docket No. 118.) Plaintiffs’ failure to adduce evidence of political animus by Berlingeri or her 20 subordinates is critical to their case. Without this evidence, the court is unable to infer that political 21 discrimination was a substantial or motivating factor behind their terminations.

22 Ultimately, it is Plaintiffs’ burden to demonstrate a causal connection between their 23 terminations and political animus on the part of Berlingeri. Plaintiffs have failed to do so. The facts
24 adduced by Plaintiffs, read in the light most favorable to them, simply do not permit a rational fact-
25 finder to conclude that political animus was a motivating factor in their terminations. In light of the 26 above, the court finds Plaintiffs have failed to establish the fourth prong of their prima facie case,
27 and therefore summary judgment in Berlingeri’s favor is appropriate. (See Docket No. 145.)

Plaintiffs’ claims pursuant to Law 131 and Articles 1802 and 1803 are state law political discrimination claims identical to Plaintiffs’ federal political discrimination claims in this case. Therefore, for the reasons stated above, the court DISMISSES these claims against Berlinger.

IV. Conclusion

For the foregoing reasons, the court GRANTS Defendant’s motion for summary judgment (Docket No. 145).

SO ORDERED

In San Juan, Puerto Rico this 14th day of September, 2012.
