Jurisdiction

18. This Court has jurisdiction of this matter pursuant to the provisions of the federal Driver's Privacy Protection Act, 18 U.S.C. §§ 2721-2725 ("DPPA"), and 28 U.S.C. § 1331.

19. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1391(b) and (c) because: (i) the Defendants' conduct giving rise to the claim that is the subject of this action occurred throughout the State of Florida including the Southern District of Florida; (ii) each Defendant transacts business, committed an illegal or tortious act in, maintains agents or representatives in, or is otherwise found, in this District; and (iii) millions of licensed drivers and owners of registered motor vehicles residing in this District have suffered and will continue to suffer the same harm and damages as the named Plaintiffs as a result of Defendants' wrongful conduct in violation of the DPPA.

Allegations Regarding the Class Representative Plaintiffs

20. The Plaintiffs each has "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" in "motor vehicle records," within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

21. From April 1, 1998 to the present, Defendants have knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used Plaintiffs' and the Class Members' personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA.

22. None of the Plaintiffs has given his or her express consent as defined in 18 U.S.C. § 2725, to obtain, use, or disclose any personal information or highly restricted personal information from their motor vehicle records.

23. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, Defendants are liable to Plaintiffs for liquidated damages and have standing to seek injunctive relief there under.

Class Representation Allegations

24. This suit is properly maintained as a class action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23. From April 1, 1998, through and including the present date, each Defendant knowingly obtained, used, or disclosed personal information, and/or highly restricted personal information, of Plaintiffs and the Class Members for purposes not permitted by the DPPA. Upon information and belief, millions of individuals whose "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" is contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725, have had such information knowingly obtained, used or disclosed by each Defendant in violation of the DPPA.

25. The "Class" or "Class Members" consist of:

All persons whose Personal Information or Highly Restricted Personal Information was obtained, used, or disclosed by any of the Defendants from April 1, 1998 through Final Judgment.

All federal judges and members of their families within the first degree of consanguinity, and officers and directors of the Defendants, are excluded from the class definition.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

26. The number of Class Members exceeds several million, making separate joinder of each member extremely impracticable if not impossible.

27. The claims of Plaintiffs raise questions of law or fact common to the questions of law or fact raised by the claims of each Class Member. The principal question is whether the Defendants' conduct in knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information or highly restricted personal information contained in motor vehicle records was prohibited by, and therefore violated, the DPPA. The interests of the Plaintiffs are coextensive with the Class Members on the question of the Defendants' liability pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724 concerning violations of the DPPA.

28. Whether a Class Member's personal information or highly restricted personal information was knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used in violation of DPPA can be determined by ministerial inspection of the Defendants' records.

29. The claims of Plaintiffs are typical of the claims of each Class Member which arise from the same operative facts and are based upon the same legal grounds. The particular facts and circumstances that show that Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of each Class Member are that between June 1, 1998, to the present, Plaintiffs' personal information, including highly restricted personal information, was contained in motor vehicle records. Such information has been knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used by Defendants without the consent of Plaintiffs for purposes not permitted by the DPPA. Likewise, during the same time period, each Class Member's personal information, including highly restricted personal information was knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used by Defendants without the consent of the Class Members for purposes not permitted by the DPPA. The requirement of typicality is satisfied because proof of the elements of Plaintiffs' claims will demonstrate the Defendants' liability to all Class Members.

Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

30. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class. They are committed to vigorously pursuing this matter. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect and represent the interests of each Class Member. Plaintiffs' interests are coextensive with the interests of the Class Members, with whom they share a common right of recovery based upon the same essential facts. Plaintiffs have retained attorneys competent and experienced in class action and complex civil litigation.

31. Plaintiffs' claims are maintainable on behalf of the class under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3) because questions of law or fact common to the Plaintiffs' claim and the claim of each Class Member predominate over any question of law or fact affecting individual Class Members, and class representation is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy. The assertion of separate individual claims is impractical and cost prohibitive not only for the individual claimant, but for the Defendants and the court system itself. The interest of Class Members in individually controlling the prosecution of separate claims against Defendants is small because the minimum amount of statutory damages in an individual action is $2,500.00, and it is unlikely that any Class Member's actual damages will exceed the statutory amount. In addition, this matter can also proceed as a class action pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2) because Defendants' actions in violation of the DPPA generally affect all members of the class in the same way, to-wit, such actions invade the Class Members' privacy rights, expose them to potential criminal conduct in the form of identity theft, stalking, and other crimes, and subject them to being inundated with unwanted "junk mail." Thus, injunctive relief for the Class as a whole is an appropriate remedy to prevent further harm and may be granted pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724(b)(4). Maintaining this action as a class action in this forum is desirable as it will permit the claims of the Plaintiffs and the Class Members to be adjudicated efficiently, based upon a common right of recovery arising from the same set of facts. Management of this class action is likely to present significantly fewer difficulties than those presented in other class actions.

Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

COUNT I

(CLAIM AGAINST AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS, INC.)

32. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

33. AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS is a technology development and marketing research firm with products and services designed to help automotive retailers target consumers in order to find, sell and keep customers. AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

34. From April 1, 1998, to the present, AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS has regularly, and knowingly, obtained Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information, and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS' customers, and/or re-disclosure to AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS' affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Baudstra

35. The acts and practices of AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and
- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations, without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

36. AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998. to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

37. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually, and on behalf of the Class Members, request this Honorable Court to enter judgment against Defendant, AUTOMOTIVE DIRECTIONS, INC. for damages, including reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

COUNT II

(CLAIM AGAINST EXPERIAN INFORMATION SOLUTIONS, INC.)

38. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

39. EXPERIAN is an information service provider that helps its clients target, acquire, manage, and develop customer relationships by combining its support and outsourcing services with information on consumers, businesses, motor vehicles and property. EXPERIAN has a national vehicle database that contains information of more than 335 million vehicles. EXPERIAN provides its customers with an online tool to enable them to create and approve direct mail marketing piece content for direct mail campaigns. EXPERIAN provides address information for more than 20 billion promotional mail pieces to more than 100 million households per year. EXPERIAN knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

40. From April 1, 1998 to the present, EXPERIAN has regularly, and knowingly, obtained Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to EXPERIAN's customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, EXPERIAN and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

41. The acts and practices of EXPERIAN violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and
- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations, without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

42. EXPERIAN has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998 to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, EXPERIAN is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

43. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

COUNT III

44. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

45. POLK collects and interprets automotive market data to help its clients target customers. POLK compiles data from motor vehicle departments in the United States, including Florida, and analyzes registration statistics in order to advise its clients regarding market share in their targeted areas, as well as demand forecasts for vehicles, services, parts, and components. POLK also sells names, addresses, and other personal information to businesses engaged in direct mail marketing, telephone solicitations and other forms of mass marketing and advertising. POLK knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

46. From April 1, 1998 to the present, POLK has regularly, and knowingly, obtained Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to POLK's customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, POLK and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

47. The acts and practices of POLK violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and
- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations, without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

48. POLK has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998 to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, POLK is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

49. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually, and on behalf of the Class Members, request this Honorable Court to enter judgment against Defendant, R.L. POLK & CO. for damages, including reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

COUNT IV

(CLAIM AGAINST CHOICEPOINT PUBLIC RECORDS, INC.)

50. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

51. CHOICEPOINT PUBLIC RECORDS advertises itself as a leading provider of organized online public records data and decision-making intelligence to businesses and government agencies. Through products like AutoTrackXP, and AutoTrack Investigator, CHOICEPOINT PUBLIC RECORDS offers its customers Internet access to more than 14 billion current and historical records on individuals and businesses, including driver's license and databases and systems contain "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" from "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

70. From April 1, 1998 to the present, CHOICEPOINT MARKETING has regularly, and knowingly, obtained, either directly, or through an affiliated entity or strategic partner, Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information, and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to CHOICEPOINT MARKETING 's customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, CHOICEPOINT MARKETING and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

71. The acts and practices of CHOICEPOINT MARKETING violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and
- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations, without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

72. CHOICEPOINT MARKETING has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998 to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, CHOICEPOINT MARKETING is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

73. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually, and on behalf of the Class Members, request this Honorable Court to enter judgment against Defendant, CHOICEPOINT PRECISION MARKETING, INC. for damages, including reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

COUNT VIII

(CLAIM AGAINST KNOWX LLC)

74. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

75. KNOWX, a wholly owned subsidiary of CHOICEPOINT, provides Internet access to national public records. Its goal is to make public record information accessible to all

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

Web users, from the professional researcher to the novice user. Through products such as its "360 Report," KNOWX, among other information, provides customers with motor vehicle records and driver's license information, cross-referenced to show drivers at a particular address. These consumer databases and reports contain "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" from "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

76. From April 1, 1998 to the present, KNOWX has regularly, and knowingly, obtained, either directly, or through an affiliated entity or strategic partner, Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information, and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to KNOWX's customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, KNOWX and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

77. The acts and practices of KNOWX violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and
- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations,

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

78. KNOWX has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to the Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998 to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, KNOWX is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

79. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually, and on behalf of the Class Members, request this Honorable Court to enter judgment against Defendant, KNOWX, LLC for damages, including reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

COUNT IX

(CLAIM AGAINST SEISINT, INC.)

80. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

81. SEISINT claims to maintain a multi-billion record repository of information on U.S. individuals and businesses. SEISINT's products include "Accurint," which it advertises as a family of information products sold commercially to organizations with legitimate business uses throughout the United States. According to SEISINT, Accurint has the most in-depth information on U.S. individuals and businesses, and its data are deeper and more comprehensive than other commercially available database systems presently on the market. SEISINT obtains and uses tens of billions of data records on individuals and businesses throughout the United States, including personal information pertaining to the Plaintiffs and the Plaintiff Class from the DHSMV. SEISINT knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

82. From April 1, 1998 to the present, SEISINT has regularly, and knowingly, obtained Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information, and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to SEISINT's customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, SEISINT and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

83. The acts and practices of SEISINT violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and,

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.

- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations, without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

84. SEISINT has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998 to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, SEISINT is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

85. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually, and on behalf of the Class Members, request this Honorable Court to enter judgment against Defendant, SEISINT INC. for damages, including reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

COUNT X

(CLAIM AGAINST REED ELSEVIER, INC.)

86. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

87. ELSEVIER, through its tradename and trademark Lexis/Nexis, provides its customers with a variety of data from public records, and other sources, including personal information, and highly restricted personal information from the DHSMV. ELSEVIER advertises that its "LexisNexis Document Solutions" can perform many types of motor vehicle searches and retrievals, including ownership history, registration history, and title search. ELSEVIER acknowledges that it traffics in "personally identifiable information contained in public records," which it defines as "those records created and maintained by government agencies and are open for public inspection," giving as an example of same, "motor-vehicle registrations." ELSEVIER states that its "data privacy policy" takes into account its legal position that "individuals cannot opt-out of public records unless authorized by law or court order (and that) LexisNexis does not offer consumers the opportunity to opt-out of public records offered through LexisNexis online services because doing so would significantly impair the utility of those databases for legal and business transactions." ELSEVIER markets its personally identifiable information taken from public records, including DHSMV, to direct marketing companies who use the information for advertising and marketing purposes, including bulk mail and solicitations.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

88. ELSEVIER knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

89. From April 1, 1998 to the present, ELSEVIER has regularly, and knowingly, obtained Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information, and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to ELSEVIER's customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, ELSEVIER and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

90. The acts and practices of ELSEVIER violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and,
- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations, without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

91. ELSEVIER has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998 to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, ELSEVIER is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

92. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually, and on behalf of the Class Members, request this Honorable Court to enter judgment against Defendant, REED ELSEVIER INC., for damages, including reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

COUNT XI

(CLAIM AGAINST ACXIOM CORPORATION)

93. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

94. ACXIOM develops and maintains databases containing information about most individuals and households in the U.S., including public records such as historical and current driver's license information, and historical and current motor vehicle information. ACXIOM sells the information from its databases to business customers to use in their marketing and customer service programs. ACXIOM assists its business clients maximize customer relationships by building a customer information infrastructure to support marketing and decision-making efforts. ACXIOM claims to manage hundreds of large-scale prospect and customer marketing database systems and operational data stores to support real-time, front-office customer and information management.

95. ACXIOM knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

96. From April 1, 1998 to the present, ACXIOM has regularly, and knowingly, obtained Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information, and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to ACXIOM's customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, ACXIOM and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

97. The acts and practices of ACXIOM violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and,

Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

COUNT XII

(CLAIM AGAINST eFUNDS CORPORATION)

100. The Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations of paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were fully set forth herein.

101. eFUNDS provides electronic transaction processing, ATM management, risk management and professional services to financial institutions, retailers, electronic funds transfer networks, government agencies and others. eFunds also regularly discloses and sells information culled from billions of public records and millions of households for marketing purposes, promotions, and marketing list "enrichment." Among the services eFunds markets from the compilations of information that it creates, maintains, and distributes from various sources, is "Decision Support." According to eFunds, "Decision Support" products provide retailers, financial services companies, financial institutions and other companies with ways to improve customer acquisition and retention and can also offer new account representatives up to nine targeted ways to cross-sell other products. "Decision Support" provides users access to "DebitBureau," a national database of information on more than 3 billion consumers. The database includes data on demographics, lifestyle, credit bureau information, drivers' licenses and proprietary insurance and financial attributes. The information in "DebitBureau" is conveniently linked together for targeted direct mail efforts, customer database appends, niche market discovery, telemarketing screening and potential alliance partner identification. The records eFunds compiles to create their "Decision Support" described above include personal information, and highly restricted personal information, eFunds obtains from motor vehicles records. Further, eFunds has obtained such personal information for years through public records requests to DHSMV and, in turn, disclosed such information and made it available for marketing purposes or eFunds has obtained such personal information, and highly restricted personal information, for other purposes not permitted under the DPPA.

102. eFUNDS knowingly obtained, disclosed, or used "personal information" or "highly restricted personal information" contained in "motor vehicle records" within the meaning of 18 U.S.C. § 2725.

103. From April 1, 1998 to the present, eFUNDS has regularly, and knowingly, obtained Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal information, and highly restricted personal information, contained in motor vehicle records for the purposes of resale and/or re-disclosure to eFUNDS' customers, affiliates and strategic partners. During that same time period, eFUNDS and/or its affiliates and strategic partners have repeatedly sold said information to customers, many of whom have utilized the information for marketing purposes.

104. The acts and practices of eFUNDS violate the DPPA in one or both of the following ways:

- (a) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for resale and/or re-disclosure without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains for purposes not permitted by the DPPA; and,
- (b) by knowingly obtaining, using, or disclosing personal information and highly restricted personal information from motor vehicle records for bulk distribution for surveys, marketing or solicitations,

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

without the express consent of the persons to whom the information pertains.

105. eFUNDS has violated the DPPA by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted by the DPPA from April 1, 1998 to the present. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, eFUNDS is liable to Plaintiffs and the Class Members for knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using such personal information and highly restricted personal information for impermissible purposes for their actual damages, and liquidated damages, plus reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

106. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs, individually, and on behalf of the Class Members, request this Honorable Court to enter judgment against Defendant, eFUNDS CORPORATION for damages, including reasonable attorneys fees' and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.

COUNT XIII

(CLAIM AGAINST ALL DEFENDANTS FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF)

107. Plaintiffs incorporate the allegations contained in paragraphs 1 through 31 above as if same were more fully set forth herein.

108. The Defendants violated cognizable legal rights of Plaintiffs and the Class under the DPPA, by knowingly obtaining, disclosing, or using personal information and highly restricted personal information pertaining to Plaintiffs and the Class Members from motor vehicle records for impermissible purposes from April 1, 1998 to the present.

Fresco, et al vs. Automotive Directions, et al.
Case No. 03-61063-Civ-Martinez/Bandstra

109. Plaintiffs believe that the Defendants will continue their acts and practices in violation of the DPPA unless they are restrained by injunctive order of this Court.

110. This Court is empowered by 18 U.S.C. § 2724(b)(4) to grant equitable relief as the Court determines to be appropriate, including, but not limited to, injunctive relief.

111. Plaintiffs and the Class Members have suffered irreparable injury and have no adequate remedy at law for the injury Defendants caused them. Any injury Defendants may incur by means of an injunction is outweighed by the injury Plaintiffs and the Class will continue to suffer if Defendants are not enjoined.

112. An injunction against Defendants will not be adverse to the public interest.

113. Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of the undersigned attorneys to prosecute this action and have become obligated to them to pay reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred in this action. Pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 2724, Defendants are liable to the Plaintiffs and all others similarly situated to pay them reasonable attorneys' fees and costs of this action.

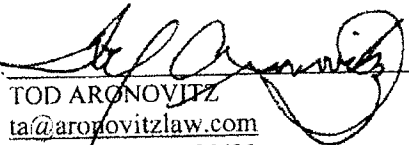

WHEREFORE, in this count, Plaintiffs request that this Honorable Court enter final judgment permanently enjoining and restraining the Defendants from further violating the DPPA and to cease and desist from obtaining, disclosing or using personal information and highly restricted personal information from the motor vehicle records for purposes not permitted under the DPPA, and for an award of reasonable attorneys' fees and all other litigation costs reasonably incurred.
