TO PLAINTIFF’S CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

Defendant Google Inc. (“Google” or “Defendant”) files this Answer and Affirmative Defenses to Class Action Complaint (the “Complaint”) of Plaintiff FPX, LLC d/b/a Firepond (“Plaintiff”). Defendant denies all allegations made in the Complaint, whether express or implied, that are not specifically admitted below.¹

PARTIES

- a. Plaintiff, FPX, LLC (“Firepond”) is a Texas limited liability company with its principal place of business at 207C N Washington Street, Marshall, TX.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 1.a., and therefore denies the same.

- b. Firepond was founded in 1983 as Clear with Computers, Inc. to develop and manufacture software assisting a variety of businesses in all aspects of the sales process and in the configuration, pricing and quotation of a variety of products. At the time of its founding, Firepond's only assets were the computer program and strong desire to distribute the program to salespeople, so the company's first headquarters was a small building on the lot of a local Ford dealership. The intention was to sell its software directly to farm equipment manufacturers and to automotive dealers.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 1.b., and therefore denies the same.

- c. Firepond owns the trademarks "Firepond" and "Firepond CPQ," (collectively the "Firepond Marks").

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 1.c., and therefore denies the same.

- d. Firepond offers and provides a number of software products and online non-downloadable software for assisting a variety of businesses in all aspects of the sales process and in the configuration, pricing and quotation of a variety of products as well as corresponding consulting services, analysis and maintenance (collectively the "Firepond Products and Services") under the Firepond Marks.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 1.d., and therefore denies the same.

- e. The Firepond Marks are unique and distinctive, and, as such, designate a single source of origin.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 1.e., and therefore denies the same.

- f. Firepond's main Internet website using the Firepond Marks and featuring information on many of the products and services of Firepond can be accessed via the domain name "www.firepond.com" which has been registered and continuously used since 1999.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 1.f., and therefore denies the same.

- g. The Firepond Marks are valid and enforceable trademarks. Firepond owns the following United States trademark registrations for the Firepond Marks:

Trademark: Firepond;
Registration No. 2,968,557

Class 9: Computer software for creating sales presentations, for creating two and three dimensional models of product configurations, for creating marketing data libraries, for drafting sales proposals and for sales training, for use in the financial, insurance, manufacturing, transportation, and retail sales and marketing industries.

First Use in commerce: August 2005

Registration Date: June 3, 2008

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 1.g., and therefore denies the same.

- h. Plaintiff Firepond has been personally injured in its business and property as a direct and proximate result of the violations set forth herein. The injury and damage suffered is economic and non-economic in nature and includes, but is not limited to: diversion of business; confusion; loss of revenue; loss of goodwill, and other such related injury and damage.

RESPONSE: Denied.

2. The Putative Class Members

- a. Plaintiff brings this action on its individual behalf and as Class Representative on behalf of a class (the “Class”) consisting of the following:

Any and all individuals and/or entities (excluding governmental entities, Defendants, and Defendants’ parents, predecessors, subsidiaries, affiliates, and agents) domiciled within the state of Texas that own a mark that has been registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office (“USPTO”) that has been sold by defendant Google as a keyword and/or an Adword during the period May 11, 2005 through the present.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.a., and therefore denies the same.

- b. Each member of the Class owns certain registered United States trademarks (collectively the “Class Marks”).

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.b., and therefore denies the same.

- c. Excluded from the Class are Defendants, any entity in which Defendants have a controlling interest or are a parent or subsidiary of, or any entity that is controlled by Defendants and any of its officers, directors, employees, affiliates, legal representatives, heirs, predecessors, successors and assigns.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.c., and therefore denies the same.

- d. The Class Period is May 11, 2005, through the date of filing of this Complaint (the “Class Period”).

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.d., and therefore denies the same.

- e. There are thousands of geographically dispersed putative members of the Class within the state of Texas. Accordingly, the Class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.e., and therefore denies the same.

- f. The Class is ascertainable, as the names and addresses of all Class Members can be identified in business records maintained by Defendants and the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.f., and therefore denies the same.

- g. Defendants have acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to the Class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the Class.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- h. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class and have no interests adverse to, or which directly and irrevocably conflict with, the interests of other Class Members.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.h., and therefore denies the same.

- i. Plaintiff is represented by counsel experienced and competent in the prosecution of complex class action litigation.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 2.i., and therefore denies the same.

- j. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class which predominate over any questions affecting only individual Class Members. Such common questions include, but are not limited to, the following:
 - i. Whether one or more of the Defendants' actions as alleged herein violate the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1051 et seq.;
 - ii. Whether one or more of the Defendants' actions, as alleged herein, constitute trademark infringement under 15 U.S.C. § 1114(1);
 - iii. Whether one or more of the Defendants' actions, as alleged herein, constitute false designation of origin or unfair competition under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a);
 - iv. Whether one or more of the Defendants' actions, as alleged herein, constitute contributory or vicarious trademark infringement, false designation of origin, or unfair competition under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114(1) or 1125(a).

- v. Whether one or more of the Defendants' actions, as alleged herein, constitute Texas state statutory, and/or common law trademark infringement;
- vi. Whether one or more of the Defendants' actions, as alleged herein, constitute contributory, vicarious, state statutory, and/or common law trademark infringement;
- vii. Whether Defendants were unjustly enriched as a result of their unlawful conduct, as alleged herein;
- viii. Whether any of the Defendants' actions are continuing in nature;
- ix. Whether Plaintiff and the Class are entitled to declaratory and/or injunctive relief to rectify the alleged violations of law and, if so, what is the appropriate nature of the equitable and injunctive relief to which Plaintiff and the Class may be entitled;
- x. Whether any of the Defendants' conduct is willful and/or intentional;
- xi. Whether the conduct of any of the Defendants, as alleged in this Complaint, caused damages to the Plaintiff or to the other members of the Class;
- xii. Whether the Defendants should be ordered to disgorge the profits derived from their conduct; and
- xiii. The appropriate measure of damages sustained by Plaintiff and other members of the Class.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- k. Plaintiff's claim is typical of the claims of the Class Members because they originate from the same illegal policy and practices of Defendants, and because Defendants have acted in the same way toward Plaintiff and the Class.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- l. Defendants' operations are Internet-based/automated and technology-based. Defendants' actions toward the Class are identical or substantially similar, and arise out of a uniform policy and common course of illegal conduct, because Defendants effectuate the Deceptive Trademark Practice, as defined herein below, and all of the actions alleged herein, through the implementation of a uniform policy using a common, systemic, uniform, electronic and largely automated process that causes injury and damage to Plaintiff and the Class in a common and consistent manner.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- m. Plaintiff will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the members of the Class. Plaintiff is committed to the vigorous prosecution of this action, has retained counsel competent and experienced in class litigation, and have no interests antagonistic to or in conflict with those of the Class. As such, Plaintiff is an adequate Class Representative.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- n. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy. Class treatment will permit a large number of similarly situated persons to prosecute their claims in a single forum simultaneously and without unnecessary duplication and effort that would result from numerous individual actions.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- o. Individual litigation of the facts of thousands of cases would unduly burden the courts. Individual litigation would further present a potential for inconsistent or contradictory judgments, and would increase the delay and expense to all parties and the court system. Further, the expense and burden of individual litigation make it impossible for Class Members to individually redress the wrongs alleged herein. By contrast, a class action presents far fewer management difficulties and provides the benefit of single adjudication under the comprehensive supervision of a single court. Notice of pendency of the action and any resolution thereof can be provided to proposed class members by publication and/or other means.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- p. This action is maintainable as a class action under Rule 23(b)(2) since the unlawful actions of Defendants, as alleged herein, have been taken on grounds equally applicable to all members of the class, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief with respect to the class as a whole.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- q. This action is also maintainable as a class action under Rule 23(b)(3), as common questions of law and fact described above predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and a class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of the controversy.

RESPONSE: Denied.

- r. All allegations and claims are plead in the alternative to the extent required for proper construction under applicable state or federal law.

RESPONSE: Paragraph 2.q. states a legal conclusion to which no response is required. To the extent that a response is required to such allegations, Defendant denies all allegations of this paragraph as they relate to Google. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief about the truth of the allegations contained in paragraph 2.q. as they relate to the other defendants, and on that basis denies them.

3. The Plaintiff and the Class Members have registered trademarks and trade names (the “Class Marks”);

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 3, and therefore denies the same.

4. On information and belief, Defendant Google Inc. (“Google”) is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 1600 Amphitheater Parkway, Mountain View, California 94043. This Defendant has appointed The Corporation Trust Company, Corporation Trust Center, 1209 Orange Street, Wilmington, Delaware 19801 as its agent for service of process.

5. On information and belief, Defendant YouTube, LLC (“YouTube”) is a Delaware corporation. YouTube is a wholly owned and controlled subsidiary of Defendant Google Inc., a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 1600 Amphitheater Parkway, Mountain View, California 94043. This Defendant has appointed The Corporation Trust Company, Corporation Trust Center, 1209 Orange Street, Wilmington, Delaware 19801 as its agent for service of process.

RESPONSE: Defendant denies YouTube is a corporation and denies the allegations in the second sentence of paragraph 5. Defendant admits the remaining allegations contained in paragraph 5.

6. On information and belief, Defendant AOL, LLC (“AOL”) is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 22000 AOL Way, Dulles, Virginia 20166. This Defendant has appointed Corporation Service Company, 701 Brazos St., Suite 1050, Austin, Texas 78701 as its agent for service of process.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 6, and therefore denies the same.

7. On information and belief, Defendant Turner Broadcasting System, Inc. (“TBS”) is a Georgia corporation with its principal place of business at One CNN Center, 100 International Blvd., Atlanta, Georgia 30303. This Defendant has appointed CT Corporation System, 818 W. 7th St., Los Angeles, CA 90017-3407 as its agent for service of process.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 7, and therefore denies the same.

8. On information and belief, Defendant MySpace, Inc. (“MySpace”) is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 8391 Beverly Boulevard, Suite 349, Los Angeles, California 90048. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

10. This Court has original federal question jurisdiction over this action. This Complaint is brought against Defendants under the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1051 et seq.; trademark infringement under 15 U.S.C. § 1114(1); false designation of origin and unfair competition under 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a), to recover treble damages and the costs of this suit, including reasonable attorney’s fees, for injunctive and equitable relief, and for the damages sustained by Plaintiff and the Class Members by reason of Defendants’ violations of federal law as more fully set forth hereunder.

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that this Court has federal question jurisdiction over the claims Plaintiff asserts. The second sentence of paragraph 10 states a legal conclusion to which no response is required. To the extent that a response is required to such allegations, Defendant denies all allegations of this paragraph as they relate to Google. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief about the truth of the allegations contained in paragraph 10 as they relate to the other defendants, and on that basis denies them.

11. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1337, and 1338, and other applicable federal statutes.

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that this Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1337 and 1338, but denies Plaintiff's allegation as to other unnamed federal statutes.

12. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction over the claims in this Complaint that arise under state statutory and common law pursuant to 28 U.S.C. 1367(a) because the state law claims are so related to the federal claims that they form part of the same case or controversy and derive from a common nucleus of operative facts.

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that this Court has supplemental jurisdiction over the state law claims Plaintiff purports to assert to the extent provided under 28 U.S.C. § 1367. Defendant denies any remaining allegations contained in paragraph 12.

13. This Court has in personam jurisdiction over each of the Defendants, as each was engaged in federal trademark infringements that were directed at and/or caused damages to persons and entities residing in, located in, or doing business throughout the United States, including the Eastern District of Texas.

RESPONSE: Defendant does not contest personal jurisdiction for purposes of this case only, but denies that such personal jurisdiction is proper here. Defendant denies the remaining allegations of paragraph 13 as they relate to Google. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief about the truth of the allegations contained in this paragraph as they relate to the other defendants, and on that basis denies them.

14. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 22, and 28 U.S.C. 1391(b) and (c) because, during the Class Period, Defendants resided, transacted business, were found, or had agents in this district, and because a substantial part of the events giving rise to Plaintiff's and the Class Members' claims occurred, and a substantial portion of the affected interstate trade and commerce described below has been carried out, in the Eastern District of Texas.

RESPONSE: Defendant does not contest venue for purposes of this case only but denies that venue is proper in this judicial district under 15 U.S.C. § 22 and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b). Defendant denies any remaining allegations contained in paragraph 14. Defendant reserves its right to move to transfer this action to a more convenient forum.

15. No other forum would be more convenient for the parties and witnesses to litigate this action.

RESPONSE: Paragraph 15 states a legal conclusion to which no response is required. To the extent that a response is required to such allegations, Defendant denies all allegations of this paragraph as they relate to Google. Defendant lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief about the truth of the allegations contained in paragraph 15 as they relate to the other defendants, and on that basis denies them.

16. On information and belief, Defendants are subject to this Court's specific and general personal jurisdiction pursuant to due process and/or the Texas Long Arm Statute, due at least to their substantial business in this forum, including: (i) at least a portion of the infringements alleged herein; and (ii) regularly doing or soliciting business, engaging in other persistent courses of conduct, and/or deriving substantial revenue from goods and services provided to individuals in Texas and in this Judicial District.

RESPONSE: Defendant does not contest personal jurisdiction for purposes of this case only but denies that it is subject to the personal jurisdiction of this Court. Defendant denies any remaining allegations contained in paragraph 16.

SUMMARY OF THE CLASS ACTION

17. Defendant Google operates for its own profit an Internet search engine which is claimed by Defendant Google to be the most popular method Internet Users employ to obtain information and shop for goods and services on the Internet.

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that it operates an Internet search engine that users can use to find information on the Internet, and denies the remaining allegations in paragraph 17.

18. Defendants YouTube, AOL, TBS, MySpace, and ASK.com utilize the Google search engine and the Google AdWords advertising service within each such Defendant's proprietary website.

RESPONSE: Admitted.

19. Upon information and belief, through its Google AdWords advertising service, Defendant Google sells search terms, including registered trademarks (including the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks) to advertisers who are not affiliated with, sponsored by, or authorized by the trademark owners. It is Google's policy and practice to display the advertisements of those who buy the keywords on the top or right side of the first page of results when an Internet User uses the Google search engine to search for the trademark as a search term. It is Google's policy that it will sell any trademark to any advertiser, regardless of whether the advertiser is affiliated with, sponsored by, or authorized by the trademark owner. Further, it is Google's policy that it will not remove or disable any link to any advertisement, even after receiving actual notice that the advertisement is infringing a registered trademark, unless the advertisement actually uses the trademark in the text of the ad. If the trademark does not appear in the text of the ad, Google's policy is that it will not remove or disable any link, even after receiving actual notice of infringement. Google's policy and practice of selling registered trademarks as keywords and/or adwords to competitors of the trademark holders shall be referred to herein as the "Deceptive Trademark Practice."

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that Google's AdWords program allows advertisers to select words or phrases that they want to "trigger" their advertisements, and that advertisements placed through the AdWords program are plainly labeled as "Sponsored Links." Defendant admits that Defendant displays such Sponsored Links above or alongside natural search results. Defendant admits that its policies regarding trademarks can be located at <http://adwords.google.com/support/bin/topic.py?topic=10615>. Defendant denies the remaining allegations in paragraph 19.

20. Defendant Google has improperly infringed upon the Plaintiff's Firepond Marks by selling, for example, Plaintiff's trademark "Firepond" to Plaintiff's competitors as a keyword so that when an Internet User searches for "Firepond" on Defendant Google's Internet search engine, the competitor's advertisement hyperlink will appear at the very top of and/or on the right side of the first page of the search results. This enables Google and Plaintiff's competitors to use the "Firepond" trademark to place their advertising hyperlinks in front of consumers who specifically search for the Plaintiff, thereby confusing Internet Users and diverting a percentage of such Users from Plaintiff and enjoying and benefitting from all of the goodwill and "buyer's momentum" associated with Plaintiff's valuable trademark. An example of Google's improper use of the Firepond Mark is set forth below:

RESPONSE: Denied.

21. Defendant YouTube has improperly infringed upon the Plaintiff's Firepond Marks by selling, for example, Plaintiff's trademark "Firepond" to Plaintiff's competitors as a keyword so that when an Internet User searches for "Firepond" on Defendant Google's Internet search engine which is available on the YouTube website, the competitor's advertisement hyperlink will appear at the very top of and/or on the right side of the first page of the search results. This enables YouTube, Google and Plaintiff's competitors to use the "Firepond" trademark to place their advertising hyperlinks in front of consumers who specifically search for the Plaintiff, thereby confusing Internet Users and diverting a percentage of such Users from Plaintiff and enjoying and benefitting from all of the goodwill and "buyer's momentum" associated with Plaintiff's valuable trademark. An example of YouTube's improper use of the "Firepond" trademark is set forth below:

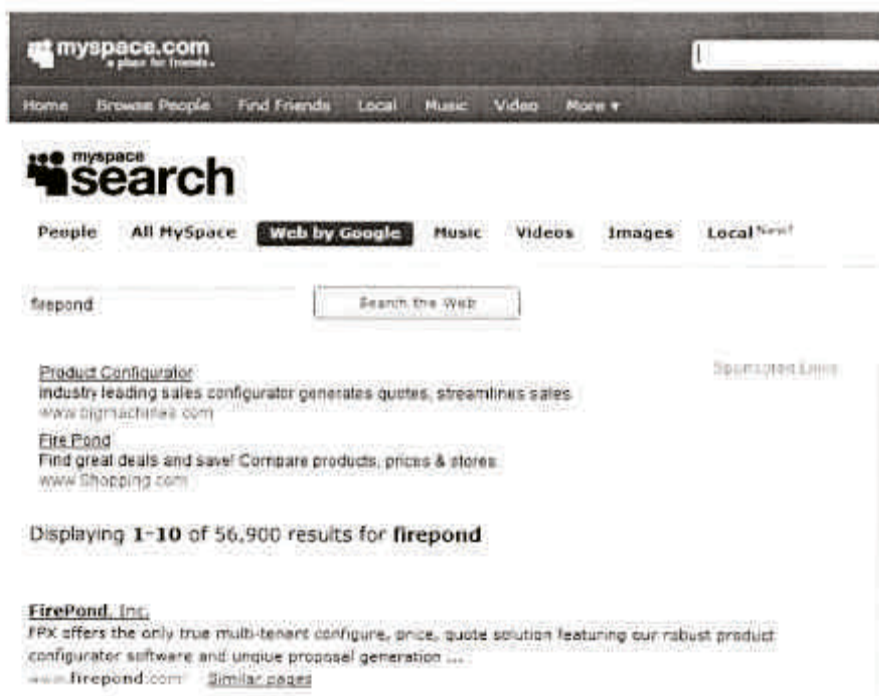

RESPONSE: Denied.

22. Defendant TBS has improperly infringed upon the Plaintiff's Firepond Marks by selling, for example, Plaintiff's trademark "Firepond" to Plaintiff's competitors as a keyword so that when an Internet User searches for "Firepond" on Defendant Google's Internet search engine which is available on the CNN.com website, the competitor's advertisement hyperlink will appear at the very top of and/or on the right side of the first page of the search results. This enables TBS, Google and Plaintiff's competitors to use the "Firepond" trademark to place their advertising hyperlinks in front of consumers who specifically search for the Plaintiff, thereby confusing Internet Users and diverting a percentage of such Users from Plaintiff and enjoying and benefitting from all of the goodwill and "buyer's momentum" associated with Plaintiff's valuable trademark. An example of TBS's improper use of the "Firepond" trademark is set forth below:

RESPONSE: Denied.

23. Defendant MySpace has improperly infringed upon the Plaintiff's Firepond Marks by selling, for example, Plaintiff's trademark "Firepond" to Plaintiff's competitors as a keyword so that when an Internet User searches for "Firepond" on Defendant Google's Internet search engine which is available on the MySpace website, the competitor's advertisement hyperlink will appear at the very top of and/or on the right side of the first page of the search results. This enables MySpace, Google and Plaintiff's competitors to use the "Firepond" trademark to place their advertising hyperlinks in front of consumers who specifically search for the Plaintiff, thereby confusing Internet Users and diverting a percentage of such Users from Plaintiff and enjoying and benefitting from all of the goodwill and "buyer's momentum" associated with Plaintiff's valuable trademark. An example of MySpace's improper use of the "Firepond" trademark is set forth below:

RESPONSE: Denied.

24. Defendant ASK.com has improperly infringed upon the Plaintiff's Firepond Marks by selling, for example, Plaintiff's trademark "Firepond" to Plaintiff's competitors as a keyword so that when an Internet User searches for "Firepond" on Defendant Google's Internet search engine which is available on the ASK.com website, the competitor's advertisement hyperlink will appear at the very top of and/or on the right side of the first page of the search results. This enables ASK.com, Google and Plaintiff's competitors to use the "Firepond" trademark to place their advertising hyperlinks in front of consumers who specifically search for the Plaintiff, thereby confusing Internet Users and diverting a percentage of such Users from Plaintiff and enjoying and benefitting from all of the goodwill and "buyer's momentum" associated with Plaintiff's valuable trademark. An example of ASK.com's improper use of the "Firepond" trademark is set forth below:

RESPONSE: Denied.

25. Defendants have improperly infringed upon the Class Members' respective Class Marks by selling, for example, Class Marks to the respective Class Members' competitors as keywords so that when an Internet User searches for a particular Class Mark on Defendant Google's Internet search engine at one of Defendants' websites, the competitor's advertisement hyperlink will appear at the very top of and/or on the right side of the first page of the search results. This enables Defendants and the respective Class Members' competitors to use a particular Class Mark to place their advertising hyperlinks in front of consumers who specifically search for the particular Class Member, thereby confusing Users and diverting a percentage of such Internet Users from such Class Member and enjoying and benefitting from all of the goodwill and "buyer's momentum" associated with Class Member's valuable trademark.

RESPONSE: Denied.

26. Defendants have improperly infringed upon the Class Members' respective Class Marks by making available the Google search engine on their respective websites and thus benefiting from Google's selling, for example, Class Marks to the respective Class Members' competitors as keywords so that when an Internet User searches for a particular Class Mark on Defendant Google's Internet search engine at one of Defendants' websites, the competitor's advertisement hyperlink will appear at the very top of and/or on the right side of the first page of the search results. This enables Defendants and the respective Class Members' competitors to use a particular Class Mark to place their advertising hyperlinks in front of consumers who specifically search for the particular Class Member, thereby confusing Users and diverting a percentage of such Internet Users from such Class Member and enjoying and benefitting from all of the goodwill and “buyer’s momentum” associated with Class Member’s valuable trademark.

RESPONSE: Denied.

27. Defendants profit financially from infringing upon Plaintiff’s and each Class Member’s protected trademarks and assisting and encouraging third parties to do so as well. Moreover, upon information and belief, Defendants further profit financially from infringing upon Plaintiff’s and each Class Member’s protected marks by collecting fees from the advertiser for each “click-through”. Thus, Defendants profit from the initial interest confusion of having the Internet Users diverted to competitors’ sites, regardless of whether such Internet Users consummate a sale with the competitor or not.

RESPONSE: Denied.

BACKGROUND OF THE CLASS ACTION

28. The Plaintiff is a software development business that is headquartered in Marshall, Texas, but offers franchises nationwide. The Plaintiff has approximately 50 employees nationwide and in Europe.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 28, and therefore denies the same.

29. The Class Members are individuals and/or entities (excluding governmental entities, Defendants, and Defendants’ parents, predecessors, subsidiaries, affiliates, and agents) domiciled within the state of Texas that own a mark that has been registered with the USPTO that has been sold by defendant Google as a keyword and/or an Adword during the period May 11, 2005 through the present.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 29, and therefore denies the same.

30. Defendant Google has as its primary business the operation of an Internet search engine located at Google.com. Google claims to be the most popular Internet search engine available on the World Wide Web, and purports to maintain proprietary, patented software which lists websites in order of relevance to the search terms input by an internet user.

RESPONSE: Defendant denies the allegations of paragraph 30, except admits that Defendant operates an Internet search engine available at <http://www.google.com>, that Defendant employs proprietary software, and that Defendant’s software tries to deliver search results that are relevant to a search query.

31. An Internet search engine is a website which allows the Internet User to type in a search term, and responds with a list of websites which relate to that search term. The list is usually in order of relevance, with the most relevant websites appearing first, and are also often voluminous, often listing thousands of websites (hereafter “Search Results”).

RESPONSE: Defendant denies the allegations of paragraph 31, except that Defendant denies knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations concerning how third party Internet search engines operate, and admits that Defendant’s Internet search engine allows Internet users to enter queries in the form of search terms or phrases and responds to those queries by returning relevant search results.

32. The Internet is a global network of millions of connected computers which over the last ten to fifteen years has revolutionized how individuals and businesses operate and communicate. The World Wide Web is a portion of the Internet which is designed to display information visually on “websites” which are collections of connected “webpages”. Websites are located and identified by their “domain names”, which is the name of the website, followed by the appellation .com or .org or .biz, etc. For example, Defendant Google’s Internet search engine is located at the domain name Google.com. The Plaintiff’s main website appears at “Firepond.com.”

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 32, and therefore denies the same, except that Defendant admits that the Internet is a global network of computers, that the World Wide Web includes web pages, that related web pages might be organized or collected into websites, that some websites and their affiliated web pages might be identified by their domain names, and that Defendant’s search engine can be accessed at <http://www.google.com>.

33. Among Internet Users, there are two primary ways of attempting to find the website of a particular company. First, Internet Users may guess that the website of a particular company will use the company’s name or trademark as a “domain name”, and input that domain name into an Internet Browser which will display the contents of such website.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 33, and therefore denies the same.

34. The second primary way an Internet User may attempt to find the website of a particular company is to type in that company's known trademarks or name into an Internet search engine.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 34, and therefore denies the same.

35. Google claims, and upon information and belief most Internet Users who perform searches on Google believe, that the results given by Google's Internet search engine are listed in order of relevance to the search terms input to the Search Engine, with the most relevant websites appearing first.

RESPONSE: Defendant denies the allegations of paragraph 35, except admits that Defendant's software tries to deliver search results that are relevant to a search query.

36. Google offers a program called "AdWords" which allows advertisers to bid for their advertising hyperlinks to appear in response to particular search terms input by Internet Users (hereafter, "Keywords"). The advertising hyperlinks, called "Sponsored Links", appear either to the right of the Search Results, or immediately above the Search Results. A Sponsored Link is a hyperlink to the advertiser's ad, and allows the Internet User to use their mouse to "click" on the Link, which brings the Internet User directly to the advertiser's commercial website. The advertisers pay Defendant Google based upon the number of "clicks" on these Sponsored Links. Advertisers bid for placement of their advertisements for each possible variation of a Keyword, as there is limited space on Defendant Google's Search Results Page.

RESPONSE: Defendant denies the allegations of paragraph 36, except admits that Defendant's AdWords program allows advertisers to select words or phrases that they want to "trigger" their advertisements, that advertisements placed through the AdWords program are plainly labeled as "Sponsored Links," that Defendant displays such Sponsored Links above or alongside natural search results, that Defendant's policies regarding trademarks can be located at <http://adwords.google.com/support/bin/topic.py?topic=10615>, and that some advertisers pay Defendant on a "cost-per-click" (CPC) basis.

37. Defendants YouTube, AOL, TBS, MySpace and ASK.com, use the Google Internet search engine and the Google AdWords advertising service within each such Defendant's proprietary website.

RESPONSE: Admitted.

38. Upon information and belief, Defendants derive significant revenue from individuals and companies who pay for sponsored links and hyperlinks using the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks.

RESPONSE: Denied.

39. According to Google's policy, anyone can buy Adwords and therefore show up in "Sponsored Links." For example, Trademark Holders can, and often do, bid on adwords so that their results show up in Sponsored Links. Similarly, authorized users of a Trademark (such as authorized distributors, retailers, resellers, etc.) ("Authorized TM Users"), often purchase Adwords and are listed among the Sponsored Links. In addition, competitors of Trademark Holders can also bid on Adwords and be listed among the Sponsored Links when an Internet User searches for a Trademark that has been purchased as an Adword.

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that Google's AdWords program allows advertisers to select words or phrases that they want to "trigger" their advertisements, and that advertisements placed through the AdWords program are plainly labeled as "Sponsored Links." Defendant admits that Defendant displays such Sponsored Links above or alongside natural search results. Defendant admits that information about the AdWords program can be found at <https://www.google.com/accounts/ServiceLogin?service=adwords&cd=null&hl=en-US<mpl=adwords&passive=true&iffr=false&alwf=true&continue=https%3A%2F%2Fadwords.google.com%2Fselect%2Fgaiaauth%3Fapt%3DNone%26ugl%3Dtrue> and that Defendant's policies regarding trademarks can be located at <http://adwords.google.com/support/bin/topic.py?topic=10615>. Defendant denies the remaining allegations in paragraph 39.

40. As a result of Google's policy, Internet Users are conditioned to expect the Sponsored Links to include Trademark Holders and authorized users of such Trademarks. Moreover, because the Authorized TM Users will often have domain names that do not include the Trademark, Internet Users searching for a particular Trademark cannot tell by looking at the domain name whether a given Sponsored Link is associated or authorized with the Trademark Holder or not. The Internet User who is searching for the Trademark Holder or an Authorized TM User is thereby duped into clicking through to a competitor's Sponsored Link.

RESPONSE: Denied.

41. Moreover, the so-called “Sponsored Links” do not always clearly identify themselves as advertisements, and Google’s layout of the ads does not conspicuously identify them as such. This is particularly true of the Sponsored Links which appear at the top of the Search Results. These ads at the top of the Search Results are designed by Google to look like part of the “non-sponsored” Search Results, and by virtue of the fact that they appear at the top of the list of Search Results, a significant portion of Internet Users are confused into thinking they are the most relevant websites on the Search Results page. In addition, because of Defendant Google’s deceptive practice of calling the advertisements “Sponsored Links,” a significant portion of Internet Users are confused into believing that the Sponsored Links are sponsored by the trademark owner.

RESPONSE: Denied.

42. A number of individuals and entities (including the competitors of the Plaintiff and the Class Members) also advertise their services on the Internet, and through Google’s AdWords advertising program. Many such competitors have submitted the Firepond Marks (including the name “Firepond”) and the Class Marks as Keywords to Google either alone, or in conjunction with other words, such that when an Internet User searches on Google.com for a Firepond Mark or a Class Mark the competitor’s advertising Sponsored Link also appears either to the immediate right or on top of the Search Results page.

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that a number of individuals and entities advertise their services on the Internet. Defendant admits that a number of individuals and entities participate in the AdWords program. Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the remaining allegations in paragraph 42, and therefore denies the same.

43. Google utilizes an online program called a “Keyword Suggestion Tool” to suggest to one or more of Plaintiff’s and Class Members’ competitors that they should use the Firepond Marks or Class Marks (as applicable) as a Keyword for their advertising. Google’s suggestion is designed to make such competitors’ advertising more successful and therefore more profitable for Google, by intercepting and diverting customers and potential customers of Plaintiff and Class Members to others.

RESPONSE: Denied.

44. Google’s policy is that it will not remove or otherwise disable a Sponsored Link, even after receiving notice by a trademark owner that the Sponsored Link is infringing a registered trademark, unless the Sponsored Link uses the trademark in the text of the advertisement.

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that its policies regarding trademarks can be located at <http://adwords.google.com/support/bin/topic.py?topic=10615>. Defendant denies the remaining allegations in paragraph 44.

45. Google sells advertising using the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks as Keywords for the specific purpose of intercepting consumers and customers of the Plaintiff and the Class Members and those who are specifically looking for Plaintiff or a Class Member and diverting them to their respective competitors.

RESPONSE: Denied.

46. Upon information and belief, Defendant Google, in cooperation with Plaintiff's and the Class Members's competitors, uses the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks respectively in Google AdWords Internet advertising for several improper purposes, including the following:

- a. Intentionally confusing and diverting potential customers who are actively looking for the Plaintiff or a Class Member to one or more competitor's websites and services;
- b. Taking advantage of and trading upon and receiving the benefits of the goodwill and good reputation associated with the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks;
- c. Giving a competitor's goods and services appeal, credibility and marketability by association with the Plaintiff or a Class Member;
- d. Falsely indicating to potential customers that a competitor is sponsored, endorsed, affiliated with or approved by Plaintiff or a Class Member;
- e. Falsely implying that the competitor's services are as good as, or a credible substitute for, those goods and services offered by Plaintiff or a Class Member; and
- f. Hijacking the Firepond mark or a Class mark by diverting the goodwill associated with any such trademark and diverting it to Defendant Google's own benefit and the benefit of others, without authorization or compensation to the Plaintiff or Class Members.

RESPONSE: Denied.

47. Defendant Google's use of the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks via its AdWords advertising program does the following:

- a. causes confusion in the marketplace that a competitor's goods and services are affiliated with or otherwise approved or "sponsored" by the Plaintiff or a Class Member (as applicable);

- b. allows Defendants and Plaintiff's and Class Members' competitors to financially benefit from and to trade off of the goodwill of Plaintiff and the Class Members.

RESPONSE: Denied.

48. When an Internet User searching on Defendant Google's Internet search engine for a Firepond Mark or a Class Mark is presented with a Search Results Page which contains multiple Sponsored Links, Internet Users may click on one of the Sponsored Links for a competitor, believing that it is related to, or sponsored by Plaintiff or a Class Member. Even if the Internet User ultimately realizes that the website they have been taken to is not Plaintiff's or a Class Member's website or a website authorized by Plaintiff or a Class Member, the damage to Plaintiff or such Class Member has been done. A percentage of such Internet Users may either stay at the competitor's website, or may otherwise discontinue their search for Plaintiff or such Class Member because of the initial confusion. An Internet User may associate the quality of goods and services offered on such competitor's website with those offered by Plaintiff or such Class Member, and if dissatisfied with such goods or services, may ascribe such bad feelings to the Plaintiff or Class Member, thereby causing loss of goodwill, or may discontinue their search for such services entirely. Defendants profit from such infringement because they get paid for each click-through.

RESPONSE: Denied.

49. Defendant Google has sold the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks as Keywords, and profited thereby, with full intent and awareness of claims that such practice violates trademark laws.

RESPONSE: Denied.

50. Defendant Google stated in their own prospectus as follows:

Companies have also filed trademark infringement and related claims against us over the display of ads in response to user queries that include trademark terms. The outcomes of these lawsuits have differed from jurisdiction to jurisdiction. A court in France has held us liable for allowing advertisers to select certain trademarked terms as keywords. We have appealed this decision. We were also subject to two lawsuits in Germany on similar matters where one court preliminarily reached a similar conclusion as the court in France, while another court held that we are not liable for the actions of our advertisers prior to notification of trademark rights. We are litigating similar issues in other cases in the U.S., France, Germany and Italy. In order to provide users with more useful ads, we have recently revised our trademark policy in the U.S. and Canada. Under our new policy, we no longer disable ads due to selection by our advertisers of trademarks as keyword triggers for the ads. As a result of this change in policy, we may be subject to more trademark infringement lawsuits. Defending these lawsuits could take time and resources. Adverse results in these lawsuits may result in, or even compel, a change in this practice which could result in a loss of revenue for us, which could harm our business.

(emphasis added)

RESPONSE: Defendant admits that the quoted language can be found in Defendant's Form S-1/A Amended Prospectus, dated August 13, 2004, and respectfully refers the Court to that document and to Defendant's other securities filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission relating to its initial public offering of August 19, 2004 for their complete and accurate contents.

51. By reason of the above, Defendant Google's actions are deliberate, willful and with full knowledge of the requirements of trademark law and were taken upon advice of counsel and for the purpose of its own profit by means of selling Plaintiff's and the Class Members' registered and protected trademarks, and exploiting and trading upon and diverting the benefit of the goodwill associated with Plaintiff and the Class without permission or compensation. This constitutes a willful violation of Plaintiff's and the Class Members' trademark rights.

RESPONSE: Denied.

52. Internet Users who search for Plaintiff and Class Members by using the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks as a search term, or in combination with other search terms, are manipulated into believing that the Sponsored Links of Plaintiff's and Class Members' competitors are related to Plaintiff and the Class Members, by their placement on the Search Results page, their appearance and similarity to the Search Results, and/or their content. Nothing on the Search Results page communicates to an Internet User that such Sponsored Links have no relationship whatsoever to the Plaintiff and the Class Members, and are in fact paid advertisements by competitors to Leads Plaintiff and the Class Members. Nor could Defendants provide such a communication because Defendants sell Adwords to Trademark Holders and Authorized TM Users as well as competitors. Thus, Defendants have intentionally developed a practice and policy that results in confusion as to whether the Sponsored Links are sponsored or affiliated with the Trademark Holders for the purpose of causing Internet Users to click-through the Sponsored Links to see if they are associated with the Member for which they were searching, all to the benefit of Defendants, who collect revenue for each click-through.

RESPONSE: Denied.

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF THE LANHAM ACT – 15 USC § 1114(1)

53. Plaintiff, on behalf of itself and each Class Member, repeats and realleges each and every allegation made above as if more fully set forth at length herein.

RESPONSE: Defendant hereby incorporates by reference and realleges each and every response in the foregoing Paragraphs as if fully set forth herein.

54. This Count is brought by Plaintiff in its individual and representative capacity, against all Defendants.

RESPONSE: Paragraph 54 states a legal conclusion to which no response is required. To the extent that a response is required to such allegations, Defendant denies all allegations of this paragraph.

55. Firepond is the owner of the Firepond Marks, which marks are valid, enforceable trademarks registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 55, and therefore denies the same.

56. The Class Members are the respective owners of the Class Marks, which marks are valid, enforceable trademarks registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

RESPONSE: Defendant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the allegations in paragraph 56, that “Class Members” own marks that “are valid, enforceable trademarks registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office,” and therefore denies the same. Defendant denies the remaining allegations of paragraph 56.

57. Defendant Google has violated Plaintiff’s and the Class Members’ exclusive rights to the Firepond Marks and Class Marks, respectively, and contributed to the violation of such rights by others, by using and suggesting and encouraging the use by its AdWords advertisers of the Firepond Marks and Class Marks as Keywords as a means of advertising and selling the goods and services of Firepond’s and Class Members’ competitors through Google’s AdWords advertising service.

RESPONSE: Denied.

58. Defendants YouTube, AOL, TBS, MySpace, ASK.com and Google have violated Plaintiff’s and Class Members’ exclusive rights to the Firepond Marks and Class Marks, and contributed to the violation of such rights by others, by using the Google search engine and the Google AdWords advertising service within each such Defendants’ proprietary website.

RESPONSE: Denied.

59. Defendants' use of the Firepond Marks and Class Marks constitutes a use in commerce in connection with the sale, offering for sale, distribution and advertising of goods and services, though it be for the goods and services of third parties.

RESPONSE: Denied.

60. The goods and services offered by one or more of Firepond's or Class Members' competitors which participated in Defendant Google's AdWords service by using the Firepond Marks or Class Marks as a Keyword are substantially similar to the goods and services offered by Plaintiff or Class Members.

RESPONSE: Denied.

61. Upon information and belief, Defendants' use of the Firepond Marks and Class Marks causes at least some consumers actively seeking to find and do business with Firepond and Class Members to be diverted to one or more Sponsored Links linking to the webpages of Firepond's and Class Members' competitors. Such use of the Firepond Marks and Class Marks wrongfully diverts potential revenue associated with the Firepond Marks and Class Marks to Defendants.

RESPONSE: Denied.

62. Defendants are promoting, encouraging, enabling and profiting from Firepond's and Class Members' competitors' intentional confusion and "free-riding" on Plaintiff's and Class Members' goodwill and the name recognition they enjoy in the marketplace.

RESPONSE: Denied.

63. Upon information and belief, some Internet Users who search for Firepond or a Class Member on Defendants' websites using the Google Internet search engine by inputting any Firepond Mark or Class Mark thereafter click upon a competitor's Sponsored Link by mistake or confusion, or because they are deceived into believing it is related to the Firepond Mark or Class Mark, and thereafter do not continue their search for Firepond or the Class Member.

RESPONSE: Denied.

64. Upon information and belief, after being diverted from their search for Firepond or the Class Member, some Internet Users lose the initial "momentum" generated by the goodwill associated with the Firepond Marks or Class Marks, or are otherwise presented with purchasing barriers associated with making a choice between competing providers of services, and causes Firepond or Class Member to lose one of the key benefits of its Firepond Marks and Class Marks.

RESPONSE: Denied.

65. By reason of the above, Defendants have violated the exclusive rights of the Plaintiff and each Class Member in and to its use of the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks, and have contributed to the violation of such rights by others by enabling, cooperating with, suggesting and encouraging the use of Firepond Marks and Class Marks by others, and may be held liable in a civil action under 15 U.S.C. § 1114 (1).

RESPONSE: Denied.

66. Defendant Google's policy regarding the use of trademarks as a Keyword in association with Sponsored Links applies to the website of each Defendant insofar as each such website is utilizing the Google Internet search engine.

RESPONSE: Admitted.

67. Defendant Google has refused to alter its policy permitting companies other than Firepond or the Class Member, including their competitors, from using the Firepond Marks and Class Marks as Keywords in association with Sponsored Links, even after due demand; therefore, its violation of Plaintiff's and each Class Member's trademark rights under the Lanham Act is a willful and intentional violation of Plaintiff's and each Class Member's exclusive rights.

RESPONSE: Denied.

68. Upon information and belief, Defendant Google used and encouraged third parties to use the Firepond Marks and Class Marks with the intention of benefitting from the goodwill associated with such trademarks in that such use was intended to cause confusion and to deceive potential customers, and to divert customers from Firepond and each Class Member to third parties, or otherwise improperly benefit from the goodwill associated with the Firepond Marks and Class Marks.

RESPONSE: Denied.

69. Upon information and belief, Defendant Google has deliberately altered its policy regarding trademark violations through its Internet search engine and its AdWords advertising program for the express purpose of profiting from the sale of such additional Keywords and the advertising benefit it provides to Firepond's and each Class Member's competitors. This change in policy was made with the intent of increasing Defendant Google's advertising revenues.

RESPONSE: Denied.

RESPONSE: Denied.

74. By reason of Defendants' acts, Plaintiff and the Class have suffered damage to the goodwill associated with the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks.

RESPONSE: Denied.

78. By reason of Defendants' willful acts, Plaintiff and the Class are entitled to damages, and that those damages be trebled under 15 U.S.C. § 1117.

RESPONSE: Denied.

79. This is an exceptional case, making Plaintiff and the Class eligible for an award of attorneys' fees under 15 U.S.C. § 1117.

The placement of such competing Sponsored Links in response to a search by an Internet User using the Firepond Mark or a Class Mark as one or more of the search terms constitutes a false designation of origin, affiliation, connection or association of such competitor with Plaintiff Firepond or such Class Member, or a false description of origin, sponsorship or approval of the goods or services or activities of such competitor by Firepond or such Class Member, and a contribution to the false designations by others by enabling, cooperating with, suggesting and encouraging the use of the Firepond Mark or Class Mark by others.

RESPONSE: Denied.

92. Defendants' use in commerce of the Firepond Marks and the Class Marks, as alleged herein is likely to cause confusion and deception.

RESPONSE: Denied.

the claims made in the Complaint would constitute the imposition of a criminal fine or penalty without the substantive or procedural safeguards guaranteed by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution and by Article I, Sections 3, 3a, 10, 13, 15 and 19 of the Texas Constitution; (iii) the imposition of any punitive or exemplary damages in this lawsuit would constitute an excessive fine or penalty under Article I, Sections 13 and 19 of the Texas Constitution; (iv) any such award is precluded or limited pursuant to Chapter 41 of the Texas Civil Practice & Remedies Code or the United States Constitution and the due process clause; and (v) punitive damages would violate the United States and Texas Constitutions and common law because such an award is based from procedures that are vague, open-ended, unbound in discretion, arbitrary and without sufficient constraints or protection against arbitrary and excessive awards.
