 Claim Chart Regarding Infringement of U.S. Patent 7,441,196 by Apple

U.S. PATENT NO. 7,441,196	ACCUSED INSTRUMENTALITIES ^{1,2,3}
Claim 1
A method of navigating the Internet, comprising:	Apple provides a machine readable medium having instructions stored therein, which when executed cause a machine to perform a set of operations comprising the limitations below.
displaying on-line content accessed via the Internet, the on-line content reformatted from a webpage in a hypertext markup language (HTML) format into an extensible markup language (XML) format to generate a sister site, the sister site including a portion or a whole of content of the web page reformatted to be displayed and navigable through a simplified navigation interface on any one of a television, web appliance, console device, handheld device, wireless device or cellular phone, the simplified navigation interface displayed in a form of a two-dimensional layer of cells from a plurality of layers and a plurality of cells, the two-dimensional layer in a form of a navigation matrix, each cell is a	The instructions are stored on the following mediums, for example: the internal memories inside the iPhone, including RAM, ROM and Flash memories, that store the Apple provided iPhone operating system (“operating system”) in its totality, which includes the mobile Apple Safari web browser (“Safari” web browser); and all discs and storage devices in computers used to develop, transport, store, install, and update the Apple provided iPhone operating system. See claim 58, below.

¹Unless otherwise noted, the term “iPhone” applies to any and all versions of the Apple iPhone as well as to any and all versions of the Apple iPod touch.

division of a screen and exclusive to a separate single navigation option associated with a specific unique input, the on-line content formatted to be displayed in one or more of the plurality of cells and formatted to be selected for navigation by one or more of the unique inputs, navigation options to change between layers of the simplified navigation interface from general to more specific in each deeper layer;
receiving a user selection of one of the navigation options;	See claim 58, below.
forwarding the selected navigation option across the internet to a server providing the simplified navigation interface;	See claim 58, below.
receiving a next deeper navigation layer of the simplified navigation interface corresponding to the selected navigation option; and	See claim 58, below.
manipulating a region of the screen for viewing and zooming and/or scrolling of the displayed on-line content.	See claim 58, below.
Claim 2
The method of claim 1, further comprising:
displaying one or more advertisements on the screen;	See claim 59, below.
receiving a user selection of a displayed advertisement; and	See claim 59, below.
displaying second content accessed via the Internet, wherein the second content is associated with the selected advertisement, and wherein the second content accessed via the Internet is formatted for navigation with the unique inputs.	See claim 59, below.
Claim 3

Claim Chart Regarding Infringement of U.S. Patent 7,441,196 by Apple

The method of claim 1, wherein the on-line content is selected based, at least in part, on a navigation path of a user.	See claim 60, below.
Claim 4
The method of claim 1, wherein the user selection of one of the navigation options is received any one of a remote control, a pointer device, a keypad, and a keyboard.	See claim 61, below.
Claim 6
The method of claim 1, wherein the screen includes individual regions adapted to be brought into focus and further adapted such that the on-line content can be manipulated within a selected one of the regions.	See claim 63 54, below.
Claim 9	Apple provides a machine readable medium having instructions stored therein, which when executed cause a machine to perform a set of operations comprising the limitations below. The instructions are stored on the following mediums, for example: the internal memories inside the iPhone, including RAM, ROM and Flash memories, that store the Apple provided iPhone operating system (“operating system”) in its totality, which includes the mobile Apple Safari web browser (“Safari” web browser); and all discs and storage devices in computers used to develop, transport, store, install, and update the Apple provided iPhone operating system.

receiving a first input, the first input received as the specific unique input that is uniquely coupled with an associated cell in the navigation matrix;	The iPhone provides receiving a first input, the first input received as the specific unique input that is uniquely coupled with an associated cell in the navigation matrix. The iPhone comprises a screen that is activated by touch. A first input is received by the operating system and stored in memory resident on the iPhone. The operating system estimates the location of each touch and reports the one or more touches to the current iPhone application, such as Safari. With respect to web pages displayed by Safari, Safari determines the appropriate action, for example, receiving the specific unique input that is uniquely coupled with an associated cell in the navigation matrix. For example, when the advertisement in Exhibit A, Figure 1, which reads: “175+ ETF SOLUTIONS”, is touched by the user’s finger, first input is received, the first input received as the specific unique input that is uniquely coupled with that cell in the navigation matrix. Alternatively, when the cell corresponding to “NEWS BY REGION” in Exhibit A, Figure 1, is touched by the user’s finger, first input is received, the first input received as the specific unique input that is uniquely coupled with that cell in the navigation matrix.
forwarding the first input across the internet to a server providing the simplified navigation interface;	The iPhone forwards the first input across the internet to a server providing the simplified navigation interface. For example, an HTTP GET request is forwarded across the internet to a server

manipulating a selected region of the screen for viewing and zooming and/or scrolling of the displayed online content.	The iPhone provides manipulating a selected region of the screen for viewing and zooming and/or scrolling of the displayed online content. For example, see Exhibit A, Figures 4 and 5.
Claim 26
The machine readable medium of claim 25, having further instructions stored therein, which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations, comprising: customizing the display of the simplified navigation interface based on a navigation path of the user.	The iPhone further provides customizing the display of the simplified navigation interface based on a navigation path of the user. For example, code on the iPhone identifies the URL navigation path of a user, and also selects and/or displays content based on a navigation path of the user. See Exhibit S.
Claim 27
The machine readable medium of claim 25, wherein the first input selects a primary navigation option.	The iPhone further provides wherein the first input selects a primary navigation option. See, for example, Exhibits A, D, and E, which show navigation options that necessarily change between successive matrix layers, changing from general to more specific with increases in depth in the matrix.
Claim 28
The machine readable medium of claim 25, having further instructions stored therein,	The iPhone further provides for displaying the first content simultaneous with the first advertisement.

Claim 59
The machine readable medium of claim 58, having further instructions stored therein, which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations, comprising: displaying one or more advertisements on the screen;	The iPhone further provides displaying one or more advertisements on the screen. Without limitation, the Safari web browser is designed to cause the iPhone to display web pages with one or more advertisements on the iPhone screen. For example, see Exhibit A, Figures 1, 2, 3, 4 and 7.
receiving a user selection of a displayed advertisement; and	The iPhone further provides receiving a user selection of a displayed advertisement. The iPhone comprises a screen that is activated by touch. A user selection of a displayed advertisement is received by the operating system and stored in memory resident on the iPhone. The operating system estimates the location of each touch and reports the one or more touches to the current iPhone application, such as Safari. With respect to web pages displayed by Safari, Safari determines the appropriate action, for example, receiving a user selection of a displayed advertisement. For example, when the advertisement in Exhibit A, Figure 1, which reads: “175+ ETF

displaying second content accessed via the Internet, wherein the second content is associated with the selected advertisement, and wherein the second content accessed via the Internet is formatted for navigation with the unique inputs.	The iPhone further provides displaying second content accessed via the Internet, wherein the second content is associated with the selected advertisement, and wherein the second content accessed via the Internet is formatted for navigation with the unique inputs. For example, the Safari web browser integrated with the iPhone is designed to cause the iPhone to display second content accessed via the Internet, wherein the second content is associated with the selected advertisement, and wherein the second content accessed via the Internet is formatted for navigation with the unique inputs. For example, see Exhibit A, Figure 2.
Claim 60
The machine readable medium of claim 58, wherein the on-line content is selected based, at least in part, on a navigation path of a user.	The iPhone further provides wherein the on-line content is selected based, at least in part, on a navigation path of a user. For example, code on the iPhone identifies the URL navigation path of a user, and also selects and/or displays content based on a navigation path of the user. See Exhibit S.
Claim 61
The machine readable medium of claim 58, wherein the user selection of one of the navigation options is received from any one of a remote control, a pointer device, a keypad, and a keyboard.	The iPhone further provides the machine readable medium of claim 58, wherein the user selection of one of the navigation options is received from any one of a remote control, a pointer device, a keypad, and a keyboard. The iPhone touch sensitive screen includes a keypad, a keyboard, and/or a pointer device. See also disclosure in claim 67, below.
Claim 66
The machine readable medium of claim 58, wherein at least some of the plurality of cells correspond to primary navigation options.	The iPhone further provides the machine readable medium of claim 58, wherein at least some of the plurality of cells correspond to primary navigation options. See, for example, Exhibits A, D, and E, which show navigation options that necessarily

Claim 67
The machine readable medium of claim 58, having further instructions stored therein, which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations, comprising:	The iPhone provides the machine readable medium of claim 58, having further instructions stored therein which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations as set forth below.
using a pointer device to select one or more of the plurality of cells and/or to manipulate the screen.	The iPhone further provides using a pointer device to select one or more of the plurality of cells and/or to manipulate the screen. The iPhone touch sensitive screen is a pointer device. See “iPhone Human Interface Guidelines for Web Applications”, at p. 13: “Users use their fingers to operate the iPhone user interface, tapping, flicking, and pinching to select, navigate, and read web content and use built-in applications. There are real advantages to using fingers to operate a device: They are always available, they are capable of many different movements, and they give users a sense of immediacy and connection to the device that’s impossible to achieve with an external input device, such as a mouse.” See also “iPhone User’s Guide”, at p. 17: “When viewing photos, web pages, email, or maps, you can zoom in and out. You can double-tap (tap quickly twice) to zoom in, then double-tap again to zoom out. Or just pinch to zoom in or out.” See also “iPod touch Features Guide”, at p. 18: “When viewing photos, web pages, email, or maps, you can zoom in and out. Pinch your fingers together or apart. For photos and web pages, you can double-tap (tap twice quickly) to zoom in, then double-tap again to zoom out. For maps, double-tap to zoom in and tap once with two fingers to zoom out.” See also “iPod touch User Guide”, at p. 22: “When viewing photos, webpages, email, or maps, you can zoom in and out. Pinch your fingers together or apart. For photos and webpages, you can double-tap (tap twice quickly) to zoom in, then double-tap again to zoom out. For maps, double-tap to zoom in and tap once with two fingers to zoom out.”
The machine readable medium of claim 58,	The iPhone provides the machine readable medium of claim 58, having further having further instructions stored therein, which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations, comprising:	instructions stored therein which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations as set forth below.

displaying the on-line content concurrently with one or more advertisements.	The iPhone provides displaying the on-line content concurrently with one or more advertisements. For example, the Safari web browser integrated with the iPhone is designed to cause the iPhone to display the on-line content concurrently with one or more advertisements. For example, see Exhibit A, Figures, 1, 2, 3, 4, and 7.
Claim 71
The machine readable medium of claim 58, wherein the simplified navigation interface includes a search form.	The iPhone provides the machine readable medium of claim 58 wherein the simplified navigation interface, for example provided by the Safari browser, further includes a search form. For example, see Exhibit C.
Claim 72
The machine readable medium of claim 58, wherein the simplified navigation interface includes an email form.	The iPhone provides the machine readable medium of claim 58 wherein the simplified navigation interface, for example provided by the Safari browser, further includes an email form. For example, see Exhibit D.
Claim 73
The machine readable medium of claim 58, having further instructions stored therein, which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations, comprising:	The iPhone provides the machine readable medium of claim 58, having further instructions stored therein which when executed cause the machine to perform further operations as set forth below.
displaying a purchasing interface in response to receiving the selection of the first navigation option.	The iPhone further provides for displaying a purchasing interface in response to receiving the selection of the first navigation option. For example, the Safari web browser integrated with the iPhone is designed to cause the iPhone to display a purchasing interface in response to receiving the selection of the first navigation option. For example, see Exhibit E and Exhibit BB.
