PLAINTIFFS' REPLY TO DEFENDANT J.C. PENNEY CORPORATION, INC.'S
ANSWER AND COUNTER CLAIMS TO PLAINTIFF'S THIRD AMENDED COMPLAINT

Plaintiffs The Regents of the University of California ("Regents") and Eolas Technologies Incorporated ("Eolas") (collectively "Plaintiffs") hereby reply to the counterclaims set forth in J.C. Penney Corporation, Inc.'s ("JCP") Answer to Plaintiffs' Third Amended Complaint (dkt. 1248, hereinafter "Answer and Defenses") as follows:

DEFENSES

38.   Paragraph 38 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

FIRST DEFENSE

39.   Paragraph 39 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

SECOND DEFENSE

40.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 40 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

THIRD DEFENSE

41.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 41 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

FOURTH DEFENSE

42.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 42 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

FIFTH DEFENSE

43.   Paragraph 43 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

44.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 44 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

SIXTH DEFENSE

45.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 45 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

SEVENTH DEFENSE

46.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 46 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

EIGHTH DEFENSE

47.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 47 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

NINTH DEFENSE

48.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 48 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

TENTH DEFENSE

49.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 49 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

50.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 50 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

51.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 51 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

52.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 52 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

53.   Plaintiffs admit that Charles E. Krueger was a patent prosecutor for U.S. Patent Nos. 5,838,906 and 7,599,985.   Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 53 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

54.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 54 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

55.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 55 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

56.   The allegations in paragraph 56 of JCP's Answer and Defenses contain statements and/or conclusions of law which do not warrant an affirmance or denial.   To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

57.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 57 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

58.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 58 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

59.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle worked at the University of California, San Francisco and that he and the other named inventors conceived of the inventions claimed in the '906 and '985 patents. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 59 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

60.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 60 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

61.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 61 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

62.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 62 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

63.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 63 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

64.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle left his job at the University of California prior to founding Eolas. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 64 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

65.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle has had and has a financial interest in Eolas. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 65 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

66.   Plaintiffs admit that there exists a license agreement between Eolas and The Regents of the University of California. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 66 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

67.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle was involved in some aspects of the prosecution of the '906 patent, some aspects of the reexaminations of the '906 patent, and some aspects of the prosecution of the '985 patent. Plaintiffs also admit that Doyle has had and has a financial interest in Eolas. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 67 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

68.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 68 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

69.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 69 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

70.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 70 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

71.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 71 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

72.   Plaintiffs admit that the application for the '906 patent was filed on October 17, 1994. The remaining allegations in paragraph 72 of JCP's Answer and Defenses contain statements and/or conclusions of law which do not warrant an affirmance or denial. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

73.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 73 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

74.   Plaintiffs admit that the District Court issued a publicly available ruling (Docket Number 491) in the action (N.D.Ill. 1:99-cv-626) which states:

On May 20, 1994, Michael Doyle received an email from David Raggett which said:

The EMBED tag was dropped after the WWW workshop in Boston, late last July. It was felt by most browser writers that further study was needed on how best to implement object level embedding in Web browsers. This feature is still on most people's agenda though.

You might want to look at Viola which I seem to remember takes advantage of the tk tool kit to provide a level of embedding. You can find a point to viola off the CERN WWW project page.

Beyond this ruling, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 74 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

75.   Plaintiffs admit that the District Court issued a publicly available ruling (Docket Number 491) in the action (N.D.Ill. 1:99-cv-626) which states:

Beyond this ruling, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 75 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

76.   Plaintiffs admit that David Martin was one of Doyle's colleagues at the University of California in San Francisco and that the '906 patent lists "David C. Martin" as one of the inventors. Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Fri May 20 09:00:35 1994"; "David Martin", "Pei Wei";

> "In order to do better testings and support of ViolaWWW, I would like to solicit donations for guest accounts on the major Unix platforms. (excuse me for asking this on the list, but…)

Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 76 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

77. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 77 of JCP's Answer and Counterclaims.

78.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 78 of JCP's Answer and Counterclaims.

79.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 79 of JCP's Answer and Counterclaims.

80.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Tue, 30 Aug 1994 23:15:10 -0700"; "FYI . . . press release"; "Researchers at the U. of California have created software for embedding interactive program objects within hypermedia documents. Previously, object linking and embedding (OLE) has been employed on single machines or local area networks using MS Windows-TM-. This UC software is the first instance where program objects have been embedded in documents over an open and distributed hypermedia environment such as the World Wide Web on the Internet." Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 80 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

81.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 81 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

82.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following statement: "Been meaning to propose something for VRML ever since the Geneva W3 conf. But anyway, any body interested in learning more about how violaWWW does this embedded objects thing can get a paper on it from ftp://ora.com/pub/www/viola/violaIntro.ps.gz" Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 82 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

83.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 83 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

84.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 84 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

85.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 85 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

86.   Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1330 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

> Michael D. Doyle (Doyle), one of the inventors of the '906 patent, knew of Viola yet did not disclose any information regarding that reference to the United States Patent and Trademark Office (PTO). On August 31, 1994, Doyle issued a press release to an e-mail list indicating that researchers at the University of California had "created software for embedding interactive program objects within hypermedia documents." That same day, Wei contacted Doyle via e-mail in response to the press release. Wei alleged that his May 1993 demonstration of Viola (version DX34) to Sun Microsystems engineers exhibited a way to embed interactive objects and transport them over the web. Wei directed Doyle to his paper about Viola (the Viola paper), which was available on the Internet at least by August 13, 1994. Doyle downloaded and read the paper. In a later email exchange, Doyle attempted to get Wei to concede that he was not the first to invent. Additionally, Doyle told Wei the inventions were different.

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

87.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Wed, 31 Aug 1994 21:06:17 -0700"; "Doyle"; "Pei Wei"; "I don't think this is the first case of program objects embedded in docs and transported over the WWW. ViolaWWW has had this capabilities for months and months now"; "How many months and months? We demonstrated our technology in 1993". Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 87 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 88 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

89.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 89 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

90.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 90 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

91.   Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

> In sum, with respect to the district court's prior art rulings, this court finds: the district court erred in finding as a matter of law that DX34 was abandoned, suppressed or concealed within the meaning of section 102(g); Wei's May 7, 1993 demonstration to two Sun Microsystems employees without confidentiality agreements was a public use under section 102(b); and the district court erred in its JMOL that DX37 did not as a matter of law anticipate or render the '906 patent obvious. As a result, this court remands for additional proceedings on these issues.

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

92.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Wed, 31 Aug 1994 23:13:47 -0700", "Doyle", "Pei Wei". Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 92 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

93.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 93 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

94.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted:

> As Pei's paper on Viola states, that package did not support what it calls "embeddable program objects" until 1994. As our WWW server shows (http://visembryo.ucsf.edu/), we demonstrated a fully functional volume visualization application embedded within a WWW document in 1993. Furthermore, Viola merely implements an internal scripting language that allows one to code "mini application" scripts that are transferred to the local client, and then interpreted and run locally on the client machine. As Pei correctly notes in this paper, this is similar to the use of EMACS' internal programming capabilities.

Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 94 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

95.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Wed, 31 Aug 1994 23:36:55 -0700"; "Doyle"; "Pei Wei"; "Out of curiosity, did you publicly demonstrate this or publish any results before 1994? I remember talking to people from ORA at the first SIG-WEB meeting in November of 1993 and they said that no such features were yet publicly demonstrable in Viola. I seem to remember that they hinted at the time that someone was trying to get something to work, but it wasn't ready to show yet." Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 95 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

Right, this is the basic approach in viola. The mention of OLE had me suspect that your system does not sue a scripting language. That's fine. It's just another way of doing it.

Actually, you could do it different ways. You could have the viola object running entirely locally, or have the object act as a front-end to a remote back-end.

There's no reason why Viola's model can't also do a client-server application (thou, OK not now quite the way you do it). The chat-drawing demo in the paper shows this. That mini app starts up, then makes a connection to a message relay server.

And, as for the plotting demo, it actually is really just a front-end that fires up a back-end plotting program (and the point is that that back-end could very well be running on a remote super computer instead of the localhost). For that demo, there is a simple protocol such that the front-end app could pass an X window ID to the back-end, and the back-end draws the graphics directly onto the window ViolaWWW has opened for it. (Viola scripts are compiled to byte-codes for speed's sake, but no, it's not fast enough to do the computation necessary for the plotting!)

Anyway, it sounds like what you have is a really defined standard interface (akin to the OLE API), where as Viola's model doesn't have a one (yet :-) -- Viola uses scripting rather than a stardard API for the glues.

Yup. No arguments here… There seems to be a few different ways to do VRML. I was more interested in offering yet another piece of what it might take to realise VRML.

Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 98 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

99.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 99 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

100.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle was living in Northern California on or about August 31, 1994. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 100 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

101.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 101 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

102.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 102 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

103.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 103 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

104.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 104 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

105.   Plaintiffs admit that the '906 patent contains the following statement: "An example of a browser program is the National Center for Supercomputing Application's (NCSA) Mosaic software developed by the University of Illinois at Urbana/Champaign, Ill. Another example is "Cello" available on the Internet at http://www.law.cornell.edu/." The remainder of the publicly available application for the '906 patent speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

106.   Plaintiffs admit that the application for the '906 patent included at least one information disclosure statement. The publicly available information disclosure statement(s) speaks for itself/themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

107.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a declaration signed by Doyle dated November 22, 1994 which contains the information included in quotes in paragraph 107 of JCP's Answer and Defenses. Except, as otherwise admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations of paragraph 107 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

108.   Plaintiffs admit that the prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The publicly available prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

109.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 09 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

110.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which contains the following contents as quoted: "Mon, 21 Aug 1995", "Doyle",

>> 8/21/95 CHICAGO: Eolas Technologies Inc. announced today that it has >> completed a licensing agreement with the University of California for the >> exclusive rights to a pending patent covering the use of embedded program >> objects, or 'applets,' within World Wide Web documents.

Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 110 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

111.   Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Mon, 21 Aug 1995"; "Doyle", "Pei Wei";

>I sincerely hope this patent isn't going to stick, for the good of >the web as a whole. . .

>existence occured [sic] before '93

Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 111 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

112. Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Mon, 21 Aug 1995 13:14:59 -0700", "Doyle"; "Pei Wei"; "We've had this discussion before (last September, remember?). You admitted then that you did NOT release or publish anything like this before the Eolas demonstrations." Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 112 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

113. Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Mon, 21 Aug 1995 16:09:46 -0700"; "Doyle"; "Pei Wei";

Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 113 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

114.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 114 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

115.   Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

> In sum, with respect to the district court's prior art

128.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 128 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

129.   The prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The publicly available prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

130.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 130 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

131.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 131 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

132.   The prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The publicly available prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

133.   Plaintiffs admit that the District Court issued a publicly available ruling (Docket Number 491) in the action (N.D.Ill. 1:99-cv-626) which states:

> Doyle created a file to hold all the information he found in 1998

Actually, you could do it different ways. You could have the viola object running entirely locally, or have the object act as a front-end to a remote back-end.

There's no reason why Viola's model can't also do a client-server application (thou, OK not now quite the way you do it). The chat-drawing demo in the paper shows this. That mini app starts up, then makes a connection to a message relay server.

And, as for the plotting demo, it actually is really just a front-end that fires up a back-end plotting program (and the point is that that back-end could very well be running on a remote super computer instead of the localhost). For that demo, there is a simple protocol such that the front-end app could pass an X window ID to the back-end, and the back-end draws the graphics directly onto the window ViolaWWW has opened for it. (Viola scripts are compiled to byte-codes for speed's sake, but no, it's not fast enough to do the computation necessary for the plotting!)

Anyway, it sounds like what you have is a really defined standard interface (akin to the OLE API), where as Viola's model doesn't have a one (yet :-) -- Viola uses scripting rather than a stardard API for the glues.

> That demo wasn't very hard to do because by that time the basic capability was already in place for violaWWW to fetch viola objects over HTTP (or whatever) and plug them into documents. Of course, our wire-frame plotting demo isn't anywhere as comphrehensive as yours. But, the point was that there was a way to embed programmable & interactive objects into HTML documents.
> You see, the basic object/interpreter engine has been in viola from day one of the old ViolaWWW from mid 1992. So basically it just had to wait until the second (current) incarnation of ViolaWWW for the HTML widget (as it were) to get good enough such that it was feasible to embed such interactive objects inside of a document.
> If I dig more and harder into my archives I might find more earlier evidence of having shown this to outside parties (we do these demos to interested parties some times)… Unfortunately I don't remember when it was (definitely earlier than May 93) that we showed Time Bernners-Lee a very early demo of the second ViolaWWW with embedded interactive objects.
> I don't know how your system works (maybe you could post or send me some detailed info or URLs), but I should mention that Viola's basic approach is to use an interpreter to run the "program objects" (as opposed to linked-in executables).

I have say, thou [sic], that lots of this stuff is still in the Research & Demo stage, and there's still lots of details to work out.

Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the following contents as quoted: "Mon, 21 Aug 1995 16:09:46 -0700"; "Doyle"; "Pei Wei";

That date (May 93), at least, predates your demo if I'm not mistaken. Then around August 93, it was shown to a bunch of attendees at the first Web Conference in Cambridge. So, it was shown, just not with lots of publicity and noise.
I'm sure I could find more evidence if I spent/waste the time of digging thru archives.
If you're talking about any display code transferred over network, look at a number of predating systems, including say net-transmitted postscript (NeWS).
For transmitted interactive applications, even the early Viola (started around 88, relased [sic] 1991) had a viola-app net transfer tool (the idea is to have something like a Hypercard like environment on the scale of the net).
If you're talking about interactive apps specifically on the web, ie applets in-lined into HTML documents etc., and with bidirectional communications, then look at ViolaWWW as it existed around late '92 early '93.

BY MR. STROY: Q. Did you or how did you first become aware of it?

A. I received a fax with a bunch of documents related to Viola.

Q. Who was the fax from?

A. I'm not sure.

Q. Did the -- was there a cover letter on the fax?

A. I don't remember.

Q. So did you have any idea when you got the fax why you had received it?

A. Yes. We were going to have a telephone conversation about it. So I was supposed to look at those documents before the telephone conversation.

Q. So when you say "we," who was -- who do you mean was going to have a conversation?

A. I think it was someone from Robins Kaplan. There was an attorney from Baker & McKenzie, and I'm not sure if Mike Doyle was on the conversation or not. I just can't remember.

Q. And just to clarify, Robins Kaplan was then Eolas' counsel?

A. They were the litigation counsel on the Microsoft side.

Q. What was the -- so was the conversation you were going to have about Viola related to the Microsoft case?

MR. AYERS: And I'll object as calling for attorney-client privilege communication.

You can -- if you can answer the question without revealing the substance of -- the purpose of your conversation, you may do so.

THE WITNESS: What was the question again?

BY MR. STROY: Q. Was the conversation that you had planned to have related to the fax that you received containing the Viola information, was that conversation related to the Viola's versus Microsoft litigation?

A. No.

Q. Was it related to the prosecution of the '906 patent?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember, was there an outcome of that conversation with respect to your opinion as to the Viola browser?

A. I do.

Q. What was the outcome?

33

A. I made the decision not to submit those reference to the patent office.

Q. Why did you make that decision?

A. I decided they weren't prior art.

Q. Do you remember what the basis was for that?

A. Not completely, but I went through the documents and evaluate each one, decided they weren't prior art.

Q. Was that based on a technical view in terms of the disclosures in the Viola references? Or was that based on a timing -- timing aspects?

A. It could have been both, but I'm not sure which one -- which way was which.

Q. Did you come to that conclusion on your own?

A. We had a discussion.

Q. Well, so I guess what I mean was, was it initially your suggestion after having reviewed the documents that the Viola references were not prior art?

A. It was my decision at the end that they were not.

June 14, 2011, Deposition of Charles Krueger 58–61. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 162 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

163. Plaintiffs admit that Krueger previously testified in his deposition:

Q. Are you familiar with something called the Viola browser?

A. I've heard of it.

Q. Do you know what it is?

A. It's software that was developed by a man named Pei Wei.

Q. Do you know when it was developed?

A. No.

Q. When did you first become aware of it?

A. I think --

MR. AYERS: Objection. Form.

THE WITNESS: I think it was in late summer of 1998.

BY MR. STROY: Q. Did you or how did you first become aware of it?

A. I received a fax with a bunch of documents related to Viola.

Q. Who was the fax from?

A. I'm not sure.

Q. Did the -- was there a cover letter on the fax?

A. I don't remember.

Q. So did you have any idea when you got the fax why you had received it?

A. Yes. We were going to have a telephone conversation about it. So I was supposed to look at those documents before the telephone conversation.

Q. So when you say "we," who was -- who do you mean was going to have a conversation?

A. I think it was someone from Robins Kaplan. There was an attorney from Baker & McKenzie, and I'm not sure if Mike Doyle was on the conversation or not. I just can't remember.

Q. And just to clarify, Robins Kaplan was then Eolas' counsel?

A. They were the litigation counsel on the Microsoft side.

June 14, 2011, Deposition of Charles Krueger 58–61. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 167 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

168. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 168 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

169. Paragraph 169 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 169 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

170. Plaintiffs admit that the publicly available The Manual of Patent Examining Procedure (5th edition, 16th Revision) contains the following statement:

> The term "information" as used in *>37 CFR< 1.56 means all of the kinds of information required to be disclosed and includes any information which is "material to >patentability<." Materiality is defined in >37 CFR< 1.56(>b<) and discussed herein at >MPEP< § 2001.05. In addition to prior art such as patents and publications, *>37 CFR< 1.56 includes, for example, information on possible prior public uses, sales, offers to sell, derived knowledge, prior invention by another, inventorship conflicts, and the like.

The Manual of Patent Examining Procedure speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

171.   Plaintiffs admit that the publicly available The Manual of Patent Examining Procedure (8th edition, 7 revision) contains the following statement as quoted:

> The term "information" as used in 37 CFR 1.56 means all of the kinds of information required to be disclosed and includes any information which is "material to patentability." Materiality is defined in 37 CFR 1.56(b) and discussed herein at MPEP § 2001.05. In addition to prior art such as patents and publications, 37 CFR 1.56 includes, for example, information on >enablement,< possible prior public uses, sales, offers to sell, derived knowledge, prior invention by another, inventorship conflicts, and the like. >"Materiality is not limited to prior art but embraces any information that a reasonable examiner would be substantially likely to consider important in deciding whether to allow an application to issue as a patent." Bristol-Myers Squibb Co. v. Rhone-Poulenc Rorer, Inc., 326 F.3d 1226, 1234, 66 USPQ2d 1481, 1486 (Fed. Cir. 2003) (emphasis in original) (finding article which was not prior art to be material to enablement issue).

The Manual of Patent Examining Procedure speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

172.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 172 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

173.   Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

> In addition, this court vacates the district court's JMOL that DX37 did not anticipate the '906 patent. To anticipate, a single reference must teach each and every limitation of the claimed invention. See EMI Group N. Am., Inc. v. Cypress Semiconductor Corp., 268 F.3d

1342, 1350 (Fed. Cir. 2001). When viewed in "a light most favorable" to Microsoft, the testimony by Microsoft's expert, Dr. Kelly, presents a question of fact as to whether DX37 anticipates the '906 patent. See Mahurkar v. C.R. Bard, Inc., 79 F.3d 1572, 1576 (Fed. Cir. 1996)

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

174. Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit

Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

In sum, with respect to the district court's prior art rulings, this court finds: the district court erred in finding as a matter of law that DX34 was abandoned, suppressed or concealed within the meaning of section 102(g); Wei's
May 7, 1993 demonstration to two Sun Microsystems employees without confidentiality agreements was a public use under section 102(b); and the district court erred in its JMOL that DX37 did not as a matter of law anticipate or render the '906 patent obvious. As a result, this court remands for additional proceedings on these issues.

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

175. Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit

Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

The district court also erred in its granting JMOL on obviousness. Dr. Kelly's testimony provided sufficient evidence to survive JMOL. In his testimony, Dr. Kelly discussed: (1) the scope of DX34 and DX37; (2) the potential differences between DX34 and DX3 7 and the claimed invention; and (3) the state of the art and the level of skill in the art in 1993. Dr. Kelly's testimony could also be read to provide a suggestion to use a browser in a distributed hypermedia environment as in the claimed invention. Although Microsoft's direct examination of Dr. Kelly focused on anticipation, the information solicited from Dr. Kelly might also support an argument of obviousness in the alternative. In light of this court's determination that DX34 was not abandoned > or concealed, Microsoft should also have the opportunity > to present DX34 as part of its obviousness defense. See > Panduit Corp. v. Dennison Mfg. Co., 810 F.2d 1561, > 1568 (Fed. Cir. 1987) (indicating that a key preliminary > legal inquiry in obviousness analysis is: "what is the prior > art?"). Weighing the facts in favor of the non-moving > party, as required by Rule 50, a reasonable jury should > have the opportunity to determine whether the > claimed invention would have been obvious at the time of > invention based on the record.

40

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

176. Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit

Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1336 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

> This court also vacates the district court's decision on > inequitable conduct. Again the district court based its > inequitable conduct finding on the misunderstanding that > Viola could not possibly constitute prior art. Relying on > that erroneous determination, the district court concluded > that Viola could not be material to patentability. As > discussed above, the district court erred in determining > that DX34 was abandoned, suppressed or concealed > within the meaning of section 102(g). Further, > the district court did not explain a reason for declining to > consider DX37, also created prior to Doyle's invention, as > immaterial to patentability of the '906 patent. In respect > to potential prior art software under section 102(b), this > court has explained that the software product constitutes > prior art, not necessarily the later published abstract > associated with that software product. In re Epstein, 32 > F.3d 1559, 1567-68 (Fed. Cir. 1994). Similarly, in the > case at bar, the Viola browser itself, not the later > developed Viola paper or "Viola stuff" file, constitutes > prior art. On remand, the district court will have an > opportunity to include this potential prior art in its > inequitable conduct inquiry. At the same time, the district > court may reconsider its findings on Doyle's intent to deceive the PTO.

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

177.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 177 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

178.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 178 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

179.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 179 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

180.   Plaintiffs admit that during the reexamination of the '906 patent, the Patent Office issued an office action on or about July 30, 2007. Plaintiffs admit that the office action contains but is not limited to the following statement as:

> Thus, while the Viola DX37 source code files were not effective in expressly teaching each of the limitations of independent claims 1 and 6, as noted above in the previous reexamination proceedings, the examiner notes that a new reference regarding Viola, noted as "A Brief Overview of the VIOLA Engine, and its applications", written by Pei Wei, pages TT 05441 - TT 05600, which include the "Viola in a Nutshell: the Viola World Wide Web Toolkit, being included on the Information Disclosure Statement dated 8/24/06, can be interpreted as teaching each of the limitations. A full discussion of the reference follows below.

Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 180 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

181.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations that "Pei Wei had told Doyle on August 31, 1994, about the Viola paper dated August 16, 1994 and Doyle had downloaded and read that paper on the same day." The prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The publicly available prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

182.   The allegations in paragraph 182 of JCP's Answer and Defenses contain statements and/or conclusions of law which do not warrant an affirmance or denial. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

183.   Plaintiffs admit that the application for the '906 patent was filed on October 17, 1994. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 183 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

184. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 184 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

185. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 185 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

186. Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

> In sum, with respect to the district court's prior art rulings, this court finds: the district court erred in finding as a matter of law that DX34 was abandoned, suppressed or concealed within the meaning of section 102(g); Wei's May 7, 1993 demonstration to two Sun Microsystems employees without confidentiality agreements was a public use under section 102(b); and the district court erred in its JMOL that DX37 did not as a matter of law anticipate or render the '906 patent obvious. As a result, this court remands for additional proceedings on these issues.

Plaintiffs also admit that the prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The opinion and prosecution history speak for themselves and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

187. Plaintiffs admit that the Manual of Patent Examining Procedure section 2258 (8th edition, 7 revision) is entitled "Scope of Ex Parte Reexamination" and that section 2258 contains the following statement:

> Rejections will not be based on matters other than patents or printed publications, such as public use or sale, inventorship, 35 U.S.C. 101, *>conduct issues<, etc. In this regard, see In re Lanham, 1 USPQ2d 1877 (Comm'r Pat. 1986), and Stewart Systems v. Comm'r of Patents and Trademarks, 1 USPQ2d 1879 (E.D. Va. 1986). A rejection on prior public use or sale, insufficiency of disclosure, etc., cannot be made even if it relies on a prior art patent or printed publication. Prior art patents or printed publications must be applied under an appropriate portion of 35 U.S.C. 102 and/or 103 when making a rejection.

Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 187 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

188. Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 188 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

189. Plaintiffs admit that the application for the '906 patent was filed on October 17, 1994. The prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The publicly available prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied. To the extent that the remaining allegations in paragraph 189 of JCP's Answer and Defenses contain statements and/or conclusions of law, no affirmance or denial is required.

190. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 190 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

191. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 191 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

192. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 192 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

193. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 193 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

194. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 194 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

195. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 195 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

196. Plaintiffs admit that Doyle has had and has a financial interest in Eolas. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 196 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

197. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 197 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

198. Plaintiffs admit that Doyle was involved in some aspects of the prosecution of application number 08/324,443, which became the '906 patent. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 198 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

199.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle signed a declaration on or about November 22, 1994. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

200.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle signed a declaration on or about January 2, 1997. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

201.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger participated in an examiner interview on or about February 24, 1997. The publicly available interview summaries speak for themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

202.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle signed a declaration on or about May 27, 1997 and that the declaration was submitted to the Patent Office. Plaintiffs admit that the declaration contains approximately 28 pages. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

203.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle signed a declaration on or about October 29, 1997 and that the declaration was submitted to the Patent Office. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

204.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger participated in an examiner interview on or about November 6, 1997. The publicly available interview summaries speak for themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

205.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle participated in certain aspects of the prosecution of the '906 patent. Plaintiffs admit that the '906 patent lists the following as quoted: "Attorney, Agent, or Firm—Townsend and Townsend and Crew LLP". Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 205 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

206.   Plaintiffs admit the Doyle reviewed and approved at least some papers submitted to the Patent Office during the prosecution of the '906 patent. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 206 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

207.   Plaintiffs admit that the application for the '906 patent included at least one information disclosure statement. The prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The publicly available prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

208.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 208 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

209.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 209 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

210.   Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action on or about May 6, 1996. The publicly available office action speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

211.   Plaintiffs admit that on or about August 6, 1996, a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office. The publicly available response speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

212.   Plaintiffs admit that on or about August 6, 1996, a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office. Plaintiffs admit that Doyle reviewed and approved at least part of the response. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 212 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

213. Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 213 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

214. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 214 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

215. Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action and that the office action contains but is not limited to the following content as quoted: "Date Mailed: 03/26/97". The publicly available Office Action speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

216. Plaintiffs admit that a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office on or about June 2, 1997. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 216 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

217. Plaintiffs admit that a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office on or about June 2, 1997. Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger reviewed and approved at least part of the response. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 217 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

218. Plaintiffs admit that a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office on or about June 2, 1997 and that the response contains but is not limited to the following statement: "Thus, there is no suggestion in Khoyi of modifying Mosaic so that an external application, by analogy to Khoyi the source document manager, is invoked to display and interactively process the object within the document window while the document is displayed by Mosaic in the same window." Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 218 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

219. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 219 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

220.   Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action on or about August 25, 1997. The publicly available office action speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

221.   Plaintiffs admit that a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office on or about December 23, 1997. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 221 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

222.   Plaintiffs admit that a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office on or about December 23, 1997 and that Doyle and Krueger reviewed and approved at least part of the response. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 222 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

223.   Plaintiffs admit that a response to an office action was submitted to the Patent Office on or about December 23, 1997 and that the response contains but is not limited to the following statement:

> The first part of the argument demonstrates that the cited art does not disclose or suggest several of the elements and limitations recited in claim 1. The second part of the argument demonstrates that the purpose, functions, and technology utilized in Mosaic and Koppolu are so different that, even if the missing features were disclosed in isolation, it would not have been obvious or even feasible for a person of skill in the art to combine the teachings of the reference to realize the claimed invention.
> Turning to the first part of the argument, there is no disclosure or suggestion in Mosaic or Koppolu of automatically invoking an external application when an embed text format is parsed. Each of those references require user input, specifically clicking with a mouse pointer, to activate external applications to allow display and interaction with an external object.

Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 223 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

224.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 224 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

225.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 225 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

226.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 226 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

227.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 227 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

228.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle signed a declaration on or about May 27, 1997 and that the declaration was submitted to the Patent Office. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

229.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle signed a declaration on or about May 27, 1997 and that the declaration was submitted to the Patent Office. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

230.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 230 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

231.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 231 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

232.   Plaintiffs admit that a litigation involved the validity of the '906 patent and that Doyle was involved in some aspects of the litigation. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 232 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

233.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 233 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

234.   Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement as block quoted:

> In sum, with respect to the district court's prior art > rulings, this court finds: the district court erred in finding > as a matter of law that DX34 was abandoned, suppressed or concealed within the meaning of section 102(g); Wei's May 7, 1993 demonstration to two Sun Microsystems employees without confidentiality agreements was a public use under section 102(b); and the district court erred in its JMOL that DX37 did not as a matter of law anticipate or render the '906 patent obvious. As a result, this court remands for additional proceedings on these issues.

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

235. Plaintiffs deny the allegation that "the plotting demo involving the ViolaWWW browser anticipated the asserted claims of the '906 patent." Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth regarding the remaining allegations in paragraph 235 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

236. Plaintiffs admit that there is a document which purports to contain the information included in quotes in paragraph 236 of JCP's Answer and Defenses. Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the quote(s), the purported date on the document, the identity of the sender(s)/recipient(s), the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 236 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

237. Plaintiffs admit that Dr. Kelly testified at trial. Plaintiffs do not admit to the veracity of his testimony. The publicly available trial testimony speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

238. Plaintiffs admit that Pei Wei testified at trial. Plaintiffs do not admit to the veracity of his testimony. The publicly available trial testimony speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

239.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 239 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

240.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 240 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

241.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 241 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

242.   Paragraph 242 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

243.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 243 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

244.   Plaintiffs admit that the application for the '906 patent was filed on October 17, 1994. The allegations in paragraph 244 of JCP's Answer and Defenses contain statements and/or conclusions of law which do not warrant an affirmance or denial. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

245.   Plaintiffs admit that Dr. Kelly testified at trial. Plaintiffs do not admit to the veracity of his testimony. The publicly available trial testimony speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

246.   Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

The district court also erred in its granting JMOL on obviousness. Dr. Kelly's testimony provided sufficient evidence to survive JMOL. In his testimony, Dr. Kelly discussed: (1) the scope of DX34 and DX37; (2) the potential differences between DX34 and DX37 and the claimed invention; and (3) the state of the art and the level of skill in the art in 1993. Dr. Kelly's testimony could also be read to provide a suggestion to use a browser in a distributed hypermedia environment as in the claimed invention. Although Microsoft's direct examination of Dr. Kelly focused on anticipation, the information solicited from Dr. Kelly might also support an argument of obviousness in the alternative. In light of this court's determination that DX34 was not abandoned or concealed, Microsoft should also have the opportunity to present DX34 as part of its obviousness defense. See Panduit Corp. v. Dennison Mfg. Co., 810 F.2d 1561, 1568 (Fed. Cir. 1987) (indicating that a key preliminary legal inquiry in obviousness analysis is: "what is the prior art?"). Weighing the facts in favor of the non-moving party, as required by Rule 50, a reasonable jury should have the opportunity to determine whether the claimed invention would have been obvious at the time of invention based on the record.

The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

247.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 247 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

248.   Plaintiffs admit that Dr. Kelly testified at trial. Plaintiffs do not admit to the veracity of his testimony. The publicly available trial testimony speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

249.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle attended portions of the trial. Plaintiffs deny the remaining allegations in paragraph 249 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

250.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 250 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

251.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 251 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

252.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 252 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

253.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 253 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

254.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle has had and has a financial interest in Eolas. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 254 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

255.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 255 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

256.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger were involved in some aspects of the re-examination. Plaintiffs deny the remaining allegations in paragraph 256 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

257.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger participated in an examiner interview on or about April 27, 2004 and that the interview involved a presentation containing approximately 22 slides. The publicly available interview and the presentation speak for themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

258.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle signed a declaration on or about May 6, 2004 and that the declaration was submitted to the Patent Office. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

259.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger participated in an examiner interview on or about August 18, 2005. Plaintiffs admit that the Interview Summary contains but is not limited to the following statement: "The issues were discussed in connection with a set of slides which are attached hereto." Plaintiffs admit that the presentation included some slides. The publicly available interview summaries and the publicly available presentation speak for themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

260.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 260 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

261. Plaintiffs admit that an information disclosure statement was submitted to the Patent Office on or about December 30, 2003. The publicly available information disclosure statement speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

262. Plaintiffs admit that an information disclosure statement was submitted to the Patent Office on or about December 30, 2003. The publicly available information disclosure statement speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

263. Plaintiffs admit that an information disclosure statement was submitted to the Patent Office on or about December 30, 2003. The publicly available information disclosure statement speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

264. Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 264 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

265. Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 265 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

266. Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 266 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

267. Paragraph 267 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

268. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 268 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

269.   The prosecution history for the reexamination of the '906 patent is publicly available. The prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

270.   The prosecution history for the reexamination of the '906 patent is publicly available. The prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

271.   The prosecution history for the reexamination of the '906 patent is publicly available. The prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

272.   Plaintiffs admit that a publicly available opinion issued by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals cited as 399 F.3d 1325, 1335 (Fed. Cir. 2005) contains the following statement:

> The district court also erred in its granting JMOL on obviousness. Dr. Kelly's testimony provided sufficient evidence to survive JMOL. In his testimony, Dr. Kelly discussed: (1) the scope of DX34 and DX37; (2) the potential differences between DX34 and DX3 7 and the claimed invention; and (3) the state of the art and the level of skill in the art in 1993. Dr. Kelly's testimony could also be read to provide a suggestion to use a browser in a distributed hypermedia environment as in the claimed invention. Although Microsoft's direct examination of Dr. Kelly focused on anticipation, the information solicited from Dr. Kelly might also support an argument of obviousness in the alternative. In light of this court's determination that DX34 was not abandoned or concealed, Microsoft should also have the opportunity to present DX34 as part of its obviousness defense. *See Panduit Corp. v. The opinion speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

273.   The prosecution history for the '906 patent is publicly available. The prosecution history speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

274.   Plaintiffs admit that an examiner issued a statement for reasons of patentability on or about September 27, 2005 and that the statement for reasons of patentability confirmed the patentability of claims 1-10 of the '906 patent. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 274 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

275.   Plaintiffs admit that an examiner issued a statement for reasons of patentability on or about September 27, 2005. The publicly available statement for reasons of patentability speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

276.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 276 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

277.   Plaintiffs admit that the examiner issued a statement for reasons of patentability. Plaintiffs admit that the statement includes but is not limited to the following statement: "The Examiner used the "dtSearch" program to index and text search all DX7 files that contained textual content. See http://www.dtsearch.com/". Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 277 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

278.   Paragraph 278 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

279. Plaintiffs deny the allegation that "Doyle knew precisely what to look for, but he never told the examiner." Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in paragraph 279 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

280. Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 280 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

281. Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 281 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

282. Plaintiffs admit that an examiner issued a statement for reasons of patentability. The publicly available statement of reasons of patentability speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

283. Plaintiffs deny that the examiner "thus erroneously confirmed the patentability of the asserted claims of the '906 patent." Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the remaining allegations in paragraph 283 of JCP's Answer and Defenses that and, on that basis, deny them.

284. Plaintiffs admit that the examiner issued a statement for reasons of patentability and that the statement for reasons of patentability contains but is not limited to the following statement:

> The Viola system uses "C-like" Viola scripts that must be INTERPRETED by the browser and then TRANSLATED or CONVERTED into binary native executable machine code that can be understood by the CPU. Alternately, the Viola script is precompiled into intermediate byte-code form and the byte-code is interpreted (i.e., translated) into binary native executable machine code at runtime. This extra step of translation results in an unavoidable performance penalty, as interpreted applications run much slower than compiled native binary executable applications.

Accordingly, the "C-like" Viola scripts (or corresponding bytecode representations) are not "executable applications" From the perspective of the CPU, which is the only perspective that really matters at runtime. A conventional CPU is only capable of processing binary machine language instructions from its own native instruction set.

Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 284 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

285.   Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 285 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

286.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 286 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

287.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 287 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

288.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 288 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

289.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 289 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

290.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 290 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

291.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 291 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

292.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle has had and has a financial interest in Eolas. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 292 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

293.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 293 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

294.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger were involved in some aspects of the 2005 re-examination of the '906 patent. Plaintiffs deny the remaining allegations in paragraph 294 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

295.   Plaintiffs admit that Doyle and Krueger participated in an examiner interview on or about September 6, 2007. The publicly available interview summaries speak for themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

296. Plaintiffs admit that a declaration was submitted to the Patent Office on or about October 1, 2007 and that Doyle signed the declaration. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

297. Plaintiffs admit that an examiner interview occurred on or about May 9, 2008. The publicly available interview summaries speak for themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

298. Plaintiffs admit that an examiner interview took place on or about June 3, 2008. The publicly available interview summaries speak for themselves, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

299. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 299 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

300. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 300 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

301. Plaintiffs admit that an information disclosure statement was submitted to the Patent Office on or about August 21, 2006. Plaintiffs admit that the publicly available information disclosure statement includes but is not limited to the following reference as quoted: "Pei Wei, "A Brief Overview of the VIOLA Engine, and its applications"". Plaintiffs lack information regarding the accuracy of the document, the purported date on the document, the identity of the author, the authenticity of the document, etc. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 301 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

302. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 302 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

303. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 303 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

304.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 304 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

305.   Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action on or about July 30, 2007. The publicly available office action speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

306.   Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action on July 30, 2007. The publicly available office action speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

307.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 307 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

308.   Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action on April 18, 2008 which includes the following statements:

> 4. The Patent Owner submitted arguments on 10/1/07 and submitted a Declaration under 37 CFR 1.131, which establishes the invention prior to August 16, 1994, being the date utilized as the publication date of the Viola reference noted above.
> 5. With this, the Declaration filed on 10/1/07 under 37 CFR 1.131 is sufficient to overcome the Viola reference utilized in the rejection noted in the Office action dated 7/30/07. The examiner notes that the Viola reference lists on the first page, titled "The Viola Home Page" (being TT 05441), that "Vintage Viola screendumps" are included from "applications of the old viola (1991)". However, the examiner cannot find any other documents in the record that disclose the specific teachings of the Viola browser, as described in the previous Office action dated 7/40/07, that establish a date prior to August 16, 1994. Therefore, the rejection of claims 1-10, as indicated in the previous Office action under 35 U.S.C. 102(e), as being anticipated by Viola, has been withdrawn.

Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 308 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

309.   Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action on April 18, 2008. The publicly available office action speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

310. Plaintiffs lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in paragraph 310 of JCP's Answer and Defenses and, on that basis, deny them.

311. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 311 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

312. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 312 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

313. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 313 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

314. Plaintiffs admit that a declaration was submitted to the Patent Office on or about June 2, 1997. Plaintiffs admit that the declaration was executed on or about May 27, 1997. The publicly available declaration speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a further response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

315. Plaintiffs admit that a declaration was signed by Doyle. Plaintiffs admit that the declaration includes but is not limited to the following statement as quoted: "Further, in my opinion secondary considerations, including, in part, commercial success of products incorporating features of the claimed invention and industry recognition of the innovative nature of these products, demonstrate that the claimed invention is not obvious over the cited references." Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 315 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

316. Plaintiffs admit that a declaration was signed by Doyle. Plaintiffs admit that the declaration includes but is not limited to the following:

> The three exemplary products which incorporate the features of the claimed invention include Netscape Navigator 2.0 (or newer versions), Java, from Sun Microsystems, and ActiveX, from Microsoft. One need only open the pages of any major business publication to see that these three products have been tremendously successful in the marketplace. Appendix A of this declaration presents a collection of excerpts from prestigious Industry publications which support the contention that the success of these products is directly attributable to the claimed features of the invention.

Approximately 12 to 18 months after the applicants initially demonstrated the first Web plug-in and applet technology to the founders of Netscape and engineers employed by Sun Microsystems in November and December of 1993, as described in reference #4 from Appendix A (Dr. Dobb's Journal, 2/96), both Netscape and Sun released software products that incorporated features of the claimed invention, including an embed text format that is parsed by a Web browser to automatically invoke an external executable application to execute on the client workstation in order to display an external object and enable interactive processing of that object within a display window created at the embed text format's location within the hypermedia document being displayed in the browser-controlled window. Sun released the Java applet programming environment and the HotJava applet-capable Web browser in May of 1995, and Netscape release [sic] version 2.0 of their Navigator Web browser, which incorporated both Java technology and a plug-in API, in October of 1995.

Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 316 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

317.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 317 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

318.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 318 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

319.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 319 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

320.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 320 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

321.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 321 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

322.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 322 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

323.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 323 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

324.	Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 324 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

325.	The allegations in paragraph 325 of JCP's Answer and Defenses contain statements and/or conclusions of law which do not warrant an affirmance or denial. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

326. The allegations in paragraph 326 of JCP's Answer and Defenses contain statements and/or conclusions of law which do not warrant an affirmance or denial. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

327. Plaintiffs admit that the '985 patent is a "[c]ontinuation of application No. 09/075,359, filed on May 8, 1998, now abandoned, which is a continuation of application No. 08/324,443, filed on Oct. 17, 1994, now Pat. No., 5,838,906." Plaintiffs further admit that the '906 and '985 patents share nearly identical specifications. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

328. Plaintiffs admit that the Patent Office issued an office action on or about July 20, 2004. The publicly available office action speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

329. Plaintiffs admit that a terminal disclaimer was filed in "Application No.: 10/217,955." The publicly available disclaimer speaks for itself, and thus no further response is required. To the extent a response is required, Plaintiffs answer as follows: denied.

330. Plaintiffs admit that there is an actual and justiciable controversy between Plaintiffs and JCP. Except as so admitted, Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 330 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

ELEVENTH DEFENSE

331. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 331 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

TWELFTH DEFENSE

332. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 332 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

THIRTEENTH DEFENSE

333. Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 333 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

FOURTEENTH DEFENSE

334.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 334 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

FIFTEENTH DEFENSE

335.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 335 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

SIXTEENTH DEFENSE

336.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 336 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

SEVENTEENTH DEFENSE

337.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 337 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

EIGHTEENTH DEFENSE

338.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 338 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

COUNTERCLAIMS

339.   Paragraph 339 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

340.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 340 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

341.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 341 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

342.   Plaintiffs admit the allegations in paragraph 342 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

343.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 343 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

344.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 344 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

345.   Plaintiffs deny the allegations in paragraph 345 of JCP's Answer and Defenses.

346.   Paragraph 346 of JCP's Answer and Defenses does not contain a statement which warrants an affirmance or denial. To the extent any response is warranted, Plaintiffs respond as follows: denied.

JCP'S REQUESTED RELIEF

Plaintiffs deny that JCP is entitled to the relief requested in paragraphs 347-352 of its Answer and Defenses or any other relief on its Counterclaims.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs The Regents of the University of California and Eolas Technologies Incorporated, pray for the following relief against Defendant J.C. Penney Corporation, Inc.:

A.   that all relief requested by Plaintiffs in their Complaint be granted;

B.   that all relief requested by JCP in its Answer and Defenses be denied and that JCP take nothing by way of its Counterclaims;

C.   that JCP be ordered to pay the costs of this action (including all disbursements) and attorney fees as provided by 35 U.S.C. § 285 and all other applicable statutes, rules, and common law; and

D.   such other and further relief as the Court deems just and equitable.

AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

As affirmative defenses, Plaintiffs allege as follows:

FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

JCP has failed to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, with respect to its Counterclaims set forth in paragraphs 339-346 of its Answer and Defenses.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE

JCP has failed to state facts and/or a legal basis sufficient to permit recovery of its attorneys' fees and/or expenses for defending this suit.

OTHER AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

Plaintiffs hereby give notice that they intend to rely upon any other defense that may become available in this case and hereby reserve the right to amend this Answer to assert any such defense.

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiffs demand a trial by jury of any and all issues triable of right before a jury.

Dated: February 1, 2012.
