The application is automatically invoked while a browser loads and displays an HTML-based search page from a CDW server from a URL such as http://www.cdw.com. The browser running on the client workstation and remote CDW Web servers communicate via the World Wide Web, a distributed hypermedia network environment. The CDW AutoSuggest application provides to a user a list of suggested search terms as a user enters a search string into the search string field of the CDW search form. The suggested search strings are shown as a menu below the search field. For example, for the search string "las", the CDW
