Case No. A-15-CA-1043-SS

BRENT STROMAN, MANUEL CHAVEZ,
ABELINO "ABEL" REYNA, and JOHN DOE, Defendants.

ORDER

BE IT REMEMBERED on this day the Court reviewed the file in the above-styled cause, and specifically Defendants Brent Stroman, Manuel Chavez, and Abelino "Abel" Reyna's (collectively, Defendants) Joint Motion to Transfer Venue [#11]; Plaintiff Noe Adame's (Plaintiff) Response [#18] in opposition; and Defendants' Reply [#19] in support. Having considered the aforementioned documents, the case file as a whole, and the applicable law, the Court enters the following opinion and order.

Background

This is a § 1983 action arising from a violent incident at a Twin Peaks restaurant in Waco, Texas on May 17, 2015. See First Am. Compl. [#27] ¶ 1. That day hundreds of motorcycle club members gathered at the restaurant for a Texas Confederation of Clubs & Independents (COC) meeting. See id. ¶ 9. During the COC meeting, shooting broke out between some of the bikers. See id. ¶ 10. Law enforcement officers responded to the violence with their own gun fire. See id. Once the shooting ceased, nine individuals lay dead and at least twenty were injured. See id. ¶ 19. Based on a single affidavit, law enforcement officials arrested 177 persons, including Plaintiff, and detained a number of other bikers. See id. ¶ 31; Resp. [#18] at 3. Later, a grand jury in McLennan County indicted Plaintiff and 105 others for the felony of Engaging in Organized Criminal Activity with the Intent to Commit or Conspire to Commit Murder, Capital Murder, or Aggravated Assault. See First Am. Compl. [#27] ¶ 52.

Plaintiff brought this suit against Defendants Stroman, the Chief of the Waco Police Department, Chavez, a Waco police officer, and Reyna, the District Attorney of McLennan County, Texas, claiming he was wrongfully arrested in violation of his Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights and alleging Defendants conspired to deprive him of those rights.¹ See id. ¶¶ 85–112. Specifically, Plaintiff argues the arrest warrant Defendants obtained was based on a “template” affidavit which failed to provide any particularized facts, contained false and materially misleading statements, and conflicted with evidence showing Plaintiff was not involved in the violence. See id. ¶¶ 40–44. Instead of particularized facts, Plaintiff states his arrest was based on his “motorcycle club association and/or clothing, patches, key chains, etc. that Defendants arbitrarily decided reflected ‘support’” for two of the rival biker clubs involved in the shooting. Id. ¶ 30. Plaintiff also claims the grand jury indictment was tainted by Defendant Chavez’s testimony regarding the affidavit. See id. ¶ 55–56.

¹ Six other individuals have brought identical lawsuits against Defendants in the Austin Division. See Civil Action No. 1:15-CV-01040-SS, Bucy v. Stroman, et al.; Civil Action No. 1:15-CV-01041-SS, Clendennen v. Stroman, et al.; Civil Action No. 1:15-CV-01042-SS, Bergman v. Stroman, et al.; Civil Action No. 1:15-CV-01044-SS, Salinas v. Stroman, et al.; Civil Action No. 1:15-CV-01045-SS, Vensel v. Stroman, et al.; and Civil Action No. 1:16-CV-00575-SS, Obledo v. Stroman, et al. Three defendants who have not yet been indicted have also brought suit against Defendants in the Austin Division. See Civil Action No. 1:16-CV-00599-SS, Terwilliger, et al. v. Stroman, et al.; Civil Action No. 1:16-CV-00648-SS, Rhoten v. Stroman, et al.; and Civil Action No. 1:16-CV-00871-SS, Eaton v. Stroman, et al.

Defendants now move to transfer venue from the Austin Division of the Western District of Texas to the Waco Division. See Mot. [#11] at 1. In support, Defendants allege the following venue facts:

- All Defendants work and reside within McLennan County, Texas, which the Waco Division serves. See id. [#11-1] Ex. D-1 (Reyna Affidavit); id. [#11-2] Ex. D-2 (Stroman Affidavit).
- The Twin Peaks restaurant is located in McLennan County. See id. [#11] ¶ 1.05.
- The bikers' arrests, detention, prosecution, and Grand Jury indictments occurred in McLennan County. See id.
- All of the records and evidence retained and/or considered by the Waco Police Department, McLennan County Criminal District Attorney's Office, the state courts, and the McLennan County Grand Jury are located in Waco. See id. ¶ 1.07.
- The "vast majority of potential witnesses reside in McLennan County," including law enforcement officials, prosecutors, judicial personnel, and residents of McLennan County. See id. ¶ 1.08.
- The federal courthouse in Waco is approximately 100 miles closer to the Waco Police Department and the Criminal District Attorney's Office than the Austin federal courthouse. See id. ¶¶ 1.09–1.10.
- Proceedings in the Austin Division would burden Defendants, witnesses, and the offices they serve, both in terms of time and expense. See id. ¶ 1.11.
- Keeping the cases in the Austin Division interferes with Defendants' counsels' ability to effectively represent their clients. See id.

In response, Plaintiff asserts the following facts relevant to venue:

- Potential witnesses reside across Texas. See Resp. [#18] Ex. P-1 (Uribe Affidavit) ¶¶ 2, 8. In particular, of the 244 bikers arrested or detained, only 53 are from Waco; the rest reside in a number of different cities and regions throughout Texas. See id. Similarly, the law enforcement personnel involved in the investigation included Department of Public Safety (DPS) officers from its Austin headquarters and surrounding cities. See id. ¶¶ 2, 7.

- Significant evidence is located in Austin and in other parts of Texas other than Waco. See Resp. [#18] at 4–5. DPS officers obtained video recordings of the incident which are likely kept at DPS headquarters in Austin. See id. Both DPS and the Attorney General’s Office of Texas maintain gang databases, which, along with personnel familiar with the databases, are likely located in the agencies’ Austin headquarters. See id. at 5–6. Other law enforcement officials from across Texas may be involved in cell phone and computer analysis. See id. at 5.
- The Waco community has been saturated with articles and statements prejudicing Plaintiffs. See id. at 6–8.

Analysis

I. Standard for Transfer Under § 1404(a)

Defendants move to transfer this case for the convenience of parties and witnesses under 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a). Section 1404(a) provides: “For the convenience of the parties and witnesses, in the interest of justice, a district court may transfer any civil action to any other district or division where it might have been brought” 28 U.S.C. § 1404(a). “Section 1404(a) is intended to place discretion in the district court to adjudicate motions for transfer according to an ‘individualized, case-by-case consideration of convenience and fairness.’” Stewart Org., Inc. v. Ricoh Corp., 487 U.S. 22, 29 (1988) (quoting Van Duren v. Barrack, 376 U.S. 612, 622 (1964)). Because a plaintiff has the privilege of choosing the venue in which to file, the defendant bears the burden of proving a transfer of venue would be “clearly” more convenient for the parties and witnesses and in the interest of justice. See In re Volkswagen of Am. Inc., 545 F.3d 305, 315 (5th Cir. 2008) (“In re Volkswagen II”); Schexnider v. McDermott Int’l, Inc., 817 F.2d 1159, 1163 (5th Cir. 1987) (“[T]here is ordinarily a strong presumption in favor of the plaintiff’s choice of forum that may be overcome only when the private and public interest factors clearly point towards trial in the alternative forum.”).

The preliminary question under § 1404(a) is whether the action “might have been brought” in the destination venue. In re Volkswagen II, 545 F.3d at 312. After determining the suit could have been filed in the destination venue, the Court weighs the parties’ private interests in convenience and the public interest in the fair administration of justice. Gulf Oil Corp. v. Gilbert, 330 U.S. 501, 508 (1974). The private interest factors are: “(1) the relative ease of access to sources of proof; (2) the availability of compulsory process to secure the attendance of witnesses; (3) the cost of attendance for willing witnesses; and (4) all other practical problems that make trial of a case easy, expeditious and inexpensive.” In re Volkswagen AG, 371 F.3d 201, 203 (5th Cir. 2004) (“In re Volkswagen F”) (citing Piper Aircraft Co. v. Reyno, 454 U.S. 235, 241 n.6 (1981)). The public interest factors include: “(1) the administrative difficulties flowing from court congestion; (2) the local interest in having localized interests decided at home; (3) the familiarity of the forum with the law that will govern the case; and (4) the avoidance of unnecessary problems of conflict of laws” Id. Although these private and public factors apply to most transfer cases, “they are not necessarily exhaustive or exclusive,” and no single factor is dispositive. In re Volkswagen II, 545 F.3d at 315.

II. Application

A. Destination Venue

The Court turns first to the preliminary question of whether the suit could have been filed originally in the destination venue. Id. at 312. An action may be brought in the district in which a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred. 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2). There is no dispute the events leading to Plaintiff’s claim arose within the Western District of Texas.

Thus, as Plaintiff acknowledges, this case could have properly been brought in any division, including the Waco Division, within the Western District of Texas. See Resp. [#18] at 9.

B. Private Interest Factors

1. Relative Ease of Access to Sources of Proof

To demonstrate transfer will result in more convenient access to sources of proof, a movant must identify the sources of proof with specificity. J2 Glob. Commc 'ns, Inc. v. Protus IP Sols., Inc., No. CIV A 6:08-CV-211, 2009 WL 440525, at *2 (E.D. Tex. Feb. 20, 2009) (citing examples of movants identifying “sensitive [and bulky] physical evidence and a crash site”). Further, this factor is not generally given much weight in the § 1404 analysis given the ease in which information can be transferred with today’s technology. See Mateos v. Select Energy Servs., L.L.C., 919 F. Supp. 2d 817, 822 (W.D. Tex. 2013).

Defendants do not identify specific evidence, stating instead that “[t]he records, information, evidence, and documentation of the Waco Police Department, McLennan County Criminal District Attorney’s Office, the state courts, and the McLennan County Grand Jury are all located in Waco” Mot. [#11] ¶ 1.07; see J2 Glob., 2009 WL 440525, at *2 (“[O]ther than generally referring documents, [Defendants] have not identified any specific evidence, physical or otherwise.”). Defendants’ general statement fails to show transfer would make access to these sources of proof more convenient.²

² Plaintiff, on the other hand, does reference specific sources of proof located in Austin: video evidence obtain by DPS—which allegedly shows Plaintiff did not participate in the violence—and evidence related to gang databases maintained by DPS and the Attorney General’s Office. See Resp. [#18] at 4–6. This evidence will likely be kept and maintained at the respective agencies’ Austin headquarters. See id.

Because Defendants have not specified any reason why transferring this case to the Waco Division would make access to particular sources of proof more convenient, the Court finds this factor is neutral.

2. Availability of Compulsory Process

The second factor refers to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 45, which addresses the court's subpoena power. Under that Rule, the court can compel a person to attend a trial, hearing, or deposition within 100 miles of where the person resides, is employed, or regularly transacts business. FED. R. CIV. P. 45(c)(1)(A). The court can also require parties or party officers to attend a trial, hearing, or deposition anywhere in the state where the person resides, is employed, or regularly conducts business. FED. R. CIV. P. 45(c)(1)(B)(I). Finally, the court can require a nonparty witness to travel more than 100 miles within the state where they reside, are employed, or regularly transact business only if they would not, as a result, incur "substantial expense." FED. R. CIV. P. 45(c)(1)(B)(ii).

Defendants argue transfer is warranted because Defendants and potential nonparty witnesses, including "law enforcement officers, prosecutors, . . . judicial personnel," and eye-witnesses, reside in McClennan County within the Waco Division's subpoena power. Mot. [#11] ¶ 1.08. But Plaintiff claims the majority of potential nonparty witnesses do not reside in the Waco area. See Resp. [#18] at 3–4. Rather, of the 244 bikers who were arrested or detained, 24 reside in counties served by the Austin Division and 159 reside in counties served by the Southern District of Texas, the Northern District of Texas, and the Eastern District of Texas. See id. at 3. Plaintiff also alleges law enforcement officials involved in the investigation came from around the state, including Austin. See id. at 4, 10 ("DPS officers from Austin outnumber Waco DPS officers almost 2 to 1").

Party witnesses fall within both the Austin and Waco Divisions' subpoena power under Rule 45(c)(1)(B)(I): Plaintiff and Defendants reside in Texas and thus can be required to attend a trial anywhere in Texas. See FED. R. CIV. P. 45(c)(1)(B)(I). Similarly, the scale is likely balanced with regard to nonparty witnesses. The Waco and Austin Division will both have power to compel some nonparty witnesses who live within 100 miles or who will not incur "substantial expense," but not others.³ See FED. R. CIV. P. 45(c)(1)(A), (B)(ii). Thus, the Court finds this factor is neutral.

3. Cost of Attendance for Willing Witnesses

"When a movant claims that transfer is warranted for the convenience of witnesses, the movant must specifically identify the key witnesses and outline the substance of their testimony." Mateos, 919 F. Supp. 2d at 823 (internal quotations and citation omitted). Courts generally apply the 100-mile rule when evaluating this factor: "[w]hen the distance between an existing venue for trial of a matter and a proposed venue under § 1404(a) is more than 100 miles, the factor of inconvenience to witnesses increases in direct relationship to the additional distance to be traveled." In re Volkswagen I, 371 F.3d at 204–05. Yet this factor can be neutral if the transferee division is not a convenient forum for all witnesses. J2 Glob., 2009 WL 440525, at *4.

Neither party submitted a list of key witnesses with summaries of those witnesses' relevant knowledge. Defendants broadly state, "Defendants and many witnesses reside within the Waco Division and will have to travel to Austin from the Waco area each day to attend trial, and/or incur the expense of lodging to stay in Austin" Mot. [#11] ¶ 3.04. But Plaintiff has alleged the majority of potential nonparty witnesses reside outside of Waco in counties across the state. See Resp. [#18] at 3–4. Many of these witnesses will be similarly inconvenienced if this case is heard in Waco. Either forum, then, will be inconvenient for some witnesses. For these reasons, the Court finds Defendants have failed to show transfer to the Waco Division will be more convenient for the witnesses than the Austin Division. This factor is neutral.

4. All Other Practical Problems

Defendants assert appearances in the Austin Division of Defendants and Waco law enforcement officers will burden and impair the activities of the Waco Police Department and the Waco Criminal District Attorney’s Office. See Mot. [#11] ¶¶ 1.11, 3.05. This same argument, however, also applies to the law enforcement officer witnesses who reside in Austin and across Texas. See Resp. [#18] at 3–4. The Court finds this argument does not weigh in favor of transfer.

Plaintiffs suggest a jury pool in the Waco Division will be unfairly biased due to the publicity surrounding the shooting. See id. at 6–8, 13, 15. Indeed, there is no denying the extensive public coverage of this incident, especially with regard to the underlying criminal case.⁴ The Court agrees with Defendants, however, that this is not the appropriate time for the Court to determine whether pretrial publicity has unfairly prejudiced or tainted the jury. See Broussard v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 523 F.3d 618, 631 (5th Cir. 2008) (describing district judge’s decision to reserve ruling on motion to transfer venue until he conducted voir dire to determine if publicity unfairly prejudiced the jury.); Davis v. City of Fort Worth, No. 3:14-CV-1698-D, 2014 WL 2915881, at *5 (N.D. Tex. June 25, 2014) (finding a tainted jury was not a reason to decline to transfer the case); Thurmond v.

⁴ It is likely that no court will be able to determine the impartiality of a jury pool until the underlying criminal proceeding has been resolved.

Compaq Computer Corp., No. 1:99-CV-0711(TH), 2000 WL 33795090, at *13 (E.D. Tex. Mar. 1, 2000) (“[V]oir dire is the cure for any [jury] ‘bias’ that may result from exposure to pre-trial publicity.”) (internal citation omitted). Thus, the Court finds the existence of pretrial publicity does not weight in favor or against transfer.

In sum, Defendants have failed to show any of the private factors weight in favor of transfer to the Waco Division.

C. Public Interest Factors

1. Administrative Difficulties Flowing from Court Congestion

Defendants state, “[t]his factor is unknown to neutral.” Mot. [#11] ¶ 3.06. The Court agrees data is not available to compare administrative difficulties between divisions within the Western District of Texas. Cf. Rosemond v. United Airlines, Inc., No. CIV.A. H-13-2190, 2014 WL 1338690, at *4 (S.D. Tex. Apr. 2, 2014) (comparing the median time interval from filing of case to disposition between district courts). Thus, the Court finds this factor is neutral.

2. Local Interest in Having Localized Interests Decided at Home

Both the Austin and Waco Divisions have a local interest in adjudicating a case that involves and affects residents from both cities as well as other parts of the state. The tragic events at the Twin Peaks restaurant have undoubtedly impacted communities throughout Texas where detained or arrested bikers and the law enforcement officials involved in the investigation reside. See Resp. [#18] at 3–4. Some of these areas are served by the Austin Division, some by the Waco Division, and some by neither. Because both divisions have an interest in adjudicating this case, this factor is neutral.

3. Familiarity of the Forum with the Law that Will Govern the Case

Neither division is more or less familiar with the law that will govern this case. This factor is also neutral.

4. Avoidance of Unnecessary Problems of Conflict of Laws

This case does not involve any conflict of laws issues that would make this case better suited for either the Austin or Waco Division. This factor is neutral.

Conclusion

The Court finds, based on its analysis of both private and public interest factors, the Austin Division is just as convenient to the parties and witnesses than the Waco Division. Because Defendants have not shown the Waco Division would be a clearly more convenient forum or transfer is in the interest of justice, Plaintiff's initial choice of venue in the Austin Division will be respected. The Court finds Defendants' Joint Motion to Transfer Venue should be denied.

Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that Defendants' Joint Motion to Transfer Venue [#11] is DENIED.

SIGNED this the 23rd day of September 2016.
