Mr. DeGidio,

Thank you for the actions you have taken in response to my last message included below. The lens.com sponsored advertisement on Google that was triggered by searches for 1800contacts has been removed.

However, the sponsored advertisements for Lens.com are still present on search.aol.com. Again, we appreciate the prompt action you have taken in the past in resolving these situations with your affiliates. We hope for a continued amicable relationship in resolving these situations. Please reply to this message with a confirmation of its receipt and a detail of the actions you plan to take to remedy the situation.

Thank you in advance for your prompt attention to this matter. Please feel free to contact me with any questions you may have.

Thank You,

RADER,

Mr. DeGidio,

I was recently contacted by my client 1-800 Contacts and informed that Lens.com is again showing up as a sponsored advertisement on Google and Yahoo triggered by the search terms 1-800contacts and 1-800contacts.com. I have attached the screen shots of the sponsored advertisements for your records.

We appreciate the prompt action you have taken in the past in resolving these situations with your affiliates. We hope for a continued amicable relationship in resolving these situations. Subject: Re: Unauthorized use of 1800 CONTACTS Trademark (Our Matter No. 40302-0012)

Mr. Pratt,

Mr. Zeidner from 1-800-CONTACTS was advised that Lens.com Inc. is represented by counsel yet you persist in contacting my client. He further has declined to return my phone calls to him. Please take note that I represent Lens.com Inc. with respect to its intellectual property protection and litigation. To this end cease your communications to my client and Mr. Samourkachian. If you are interested in resolving the problems outlined in your letter please contact me directly.

We have looked into this matter and have determined that some of our affiliates appear to be involved in the problems you outlined. Upon identifying the appropriate individuals we will advise them to cease purchasing 1-800-CONTACTS from Google.
