Magistrate Judge Brooke Wells

Pro se Plaintiff Vergil Ann Jackson (“Plaintiff”), proceeding in forma pauperis filed the Complaint in this case on January 20, 2015.<sup>1</sup> On February 9, 2015, District Judge Ted Stewart referred this case to Magistrate Judge Brooke C. Wells pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §636(b)(1)(B).<sup>2</sup> Before the Court is Plaintiff’s Motion to Appoint Counsel<sup>3</sup> and Motion for Service of Process.<sup>4</sup> The Court has carefully reviewed these Motions and for the reasons set forth more fully below, DENIES Plaintiff’s Motion to Appoint Counsel and GRANTS Plaintiff’s Motion for Service of Process.

ANALYSIS

While it is somewhat difficult to parse, Plaintiff’s Complaint brings this case her former employer, RGIS Inventory Services alleging employment discrimination.

A. Plaintiff's Motion to Appoint Counsel

Generally, as a civil litigant, Plaintiff has no constitutional right to counsel.<sup>5</sup> 28 U.S.C. § 1915, which pertains to proceedings in forma pauperis (“IFP Statute”), provides “[t]he court may request an attorney to represent any person unable to afford counsel.”<sup>6</sup> However, the appointment of counsel under this statute is within the discretion of the court.<sup>7</sup> “The burden is upon the applicant requesting counsel to convince the court that there is sufficient merit to his [or her] claim to warrant the appointment of counsel.”<sup>8</sup> When deciding whether to appoint counsel, a court should consider a variety of factors, “including ‘the merits of the litigant’s claims, the nature of the factual issues raised in the claims, the litigant’s ability to present his [or her] claims, and the complexity of the legal issues raised by those claims.’”<sup>9</sup>

At the outset, the Court notes Plaintiff’s motion does not provide any reasons as to why this Court should appoint counsel in this case. However, in undertaking the analysis of the foregoing factors with regard to appointment of counsel under the IFP Statute, the Court is mindful that Plaintiff is proceeding pro se and that “[a] pro se litigant’s pleadings are to be construed liberally and held to a less stringent standard than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers.”<sup>10</sup>

In considering the foregoing factors, including the nature of the factual issues presented in Plaintiff’s Complaint, the Court concludes for purposes of proceeding at this preliminary juncture, Plaintiff has presented an adequate legal and factual basis to persuade the Court that

Plaintiff's claims are at least plausible and rise above the speculative level.<sup>11</sup><sup>12</sup> However, the nature of the factual issues contained in Plaintiff's Complaint are not overly complex and the Court does not find Plaintiff to be incapacitated or unable to adequately pursue this matter at this stage in the litigation. Therefore, on balance, the Court finds Plaintiff has not persuaded the Court that counsel is required at this time and DENIES Plaintiff's Motion for Appointment of Counsel.

B. Plaintiff's Motion for Service of Process

When a case is proceeding under the IFP statute, the officers of the Court are required to issue and serve all process and perform all duties related to service of process.<sup>13</sup> Based upon review of the Complaint, and the Court's finding that the Complaint has presented plausible causes of action, the Court concludes that official service of process is warranted and GRANTS Plaintiff's Motion.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

- 1) Plaintiff's Motion to Appoint Counsel<sup>14</sup> is DENIED. However, if, after the case develops further, it appears that counsel may be needed, without further prompting from Plaintiff, the Court will ask an attorney to appear pro bono on Plaintiff's behalf.

No further motions for appointed counsel shall be accepted by the Court.
