 7. At the times relevant to this action and to date, defendant Janet Shih Hajek (hereinafter "Hajek") served as a lawyer with Defendant Greenberg Traurig. Hajek perpetrated and aided and abetted the actions giving rise to this cause of action.

8. At the times relevant to this action and to date, defendant Steve Wadyka (hereinafter "Wadyka") served as a lawyer with Defendant Greenberg Traurig. Wadyka perpetrated and aided and abetted the actions giving rise to this cause of action.

FACTS

Defendants acted under color of law

9. Upon information and belief, on or about December 4, 2006, defendants, working on behalf of Diane von Furstenberg Studio (hereinafter "DVF"), obtained an ex parte seizure order from the U.S District Court for the Eastern District of Virginia (Alexandria division) (hereinafter "seizure Order") to search for and seize particularly identified items from Plaintiffs' home.
10. The seizure Order provided that "the United States Marshall for the Eastern District of Virginia and any federal, state, country or local law enforcement officers, assisted by one or more attorneys or agents of DVF" would execute and conduct the seizure for the identified items from Plaintiffs' home. See also 15 U.S.C. 1117(d)(9)(mandating that law enforcement officers "shall carry out the seizure under the order").
11. Upon information and belief, on or before December 8, 2006, defendants contacted the Herndon Police Department, Herndon, Virginia, to serve and execute the seizure order.
12. Upon information and belief, on or before December 8, 2006, defendants and the Herndon Police Department agreed that defendants would carry out the ordered search and seizure for items in Plaintiffs' home.

13. On the morning of December 8, 2006, Defendant Lewin accompanied by defendants, Hajak, Wadyka and two other then unidentified people arrived at Plaintiffs home. With the aforementioned defendants were three officers of the Herndon Police Department.
14. Defendant Lewin told Plaintiff Richard Snyder, who answered the door on December 8, 2006, that he and the non-officers with him represented DVF and were there to conduct a search of Plaintiffs' home.
15. After hearing of Defendant Lewin's intent, Plaintiff Richard Snyder asked the officers if he was obligated to let the defendants into Plaintiffs' home to execute the seizure Order. One officer answered that, since the defendants had the seizure Order, Plaintiffs had to allow defendants to search Plaintiffs' home for purposes of a seizure. The officer told Plaintiff Richard Snyder that he and the other officers were present to "keep the peace."
16. Other than Wadyka, Defendant Lewin did not identify or introduce the other non-officers who entered Plaintiffs' home, nor did any of the non-officers who entered Plaintiffs' home introduce themselves to Plaintiffs at any time during the search.
17. Prior to conducting the search, Plaintiffs were not provided with a copy of the seizure Order by any of the Defendants or by the Herndon Police officers. At some point, someone did leave a copy of the seizure Order on a kitchen counter in Plaintiffs' home.

18. At all times, the search of Plaintiffs' home was controlled, orchestrated and directed by defendant Lewin, who also participated, aided and abetted the search and seizure with defendants Hajek and Wadyka.

19. As a result of the seizure Order, the agreement between defendants and the Herndon Police, the Police's delegation or ceding of authority to defendants and their joint efforts, defendants acted under color of law in controlling, directing, perpetrating and aiding and abetting the search and seizure at Plaintiffs' home.

The reporter

20. Accompanying defendants into Plaintiffs' home on December 8, 2006 was an unidentified woman, who Plaintiffs' reasonably believed was a lawyer, employee or agent of defendants or DVF. For example, when Plaintiff Catherine Snyder wanted to step outside to her front porch, the woman cautioned her "not to go outside." At no time during the search and seizure did defendants or the Herndon police officers identify or introduce the woman. Neither defendants nor the Herndon police officers sought Plaintiffs' consent for the woman to be present.

21. On information and belief, the woman was brought to Plaintiffs' home by defendants and not the Herndon Police officers, although the latter did know her identity and occupation prior to their arrival at Plaintiffs' home.

22. Approximately five months later in April 2007, Plaintiffs learned that the woman who accompanied defendants on December 8, 2006 was Larissa Macfarquar, a reporter for the New Yorker magazine.

23. Upon information and belief, defendants, and particularly defendant Lewin, orchestrated the events that resulted in Macfarquar's unlawful trespass of Plaintiffs' home on December 8, 2006. The seizure Order was used by defendants as the premise and pretext by which Macfarquar gained access to Plaintiffs' home on December 8, 2006.
24. Upon information and belief, the impetus for Macfarquar's unlawful presence in Plaintiffs' home was an article she was writing for the New Yorker profiling defendant Lewin's escapades as an attorney for defendant Greenberg Traurig.
25. On or about March 19, 2007, the New Yorker published an article, under Macfarquar's byline, entitled "Bag Man." The article is a profile of defendant Lewin and recounts, among other things, his actions and practices in executing seizure Orders, including defendants December 8, 2006 search and seizure at Plaintiffs' home.
26. Defendant Lewin republished the New Yorker article on his biography page on the Greenberg Traurig firm website. Upon information and belief, defendants Lewin and Greenberg Traurig use the New Yorker article to market for new business for their trademark litigation practice.
27. Upon information and belief and as recounted in the New Yorker article, in connection with the December 8, 2006 search and seizure, defendant Lewin took MacFarquar on a tour of Plaintiffs' home and allowed himself to be interviewed about the search and seizure.
28. Defendant Lewin made statements to MacFarquar about Plaintiffs' family stability and lifestyle, which statements were false, defamatory and made with the intention to injure Plaintiffs' reputation. MacFarquar published defendant Lewin's statements in the New Yorker article, to wit that there was "something very wrong in that [Plaintiffs'] house" and that Plaintiffs would not have "adult toys ... unless they couldn't spend their money any other way."

The search

29. The seizure Order limited the items to be seized from Plaintiffs' home to the following:

- a. any and all unauthorized and unlicensed merchandise bearing the DVF marks, as well as the means for making the same;
- b. the books and records relating thereto, including but not limited to records and data contained in electronic format on computers, servers, hard drives, zip drives and disks;
- c. the containers or vehicles in which the same are held or transported, which Defendants sell, attempt to sell or hold for sale; and
