Re: I/P Engine's Infringement Contentions

Dear Emily:

In your March 13, 2012 letter regarding I/P Engine's infringement contentions, Google claims that it is "left with no option but to seek intervention from the Court." During yesterday's meet and confer, however, we discussed the parties' positions with regard to supplementing the parties' various contentions. To be clear, I/P Engine intends to supplement its infringement contentions. From I/P Engine's perspective, there is nothing to compel on this issue. If Google disagrees, please advise, as we remain willing to further meet and confer.

Best regards,
