Jonathan Lee Riches,

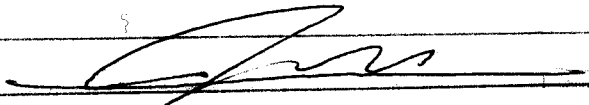

Plaintiff

v.

Sherwin-Williams Co., FCI Williamsburg,

Defendants

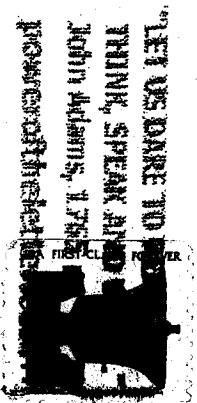

28 USC 2241 / The manner in which my sentence has been executed and the horrible conditions at FCI Williamsburg. Plaintiff is at FCI Williamsburg. Inside plaintiffs cell along the wall is a texture that is painted by Sherwin-Williams dutch boy paint, the paint keeps chipping away on 1-10-08, 12-16-07, 11-5-07, 8 times chips of paint went in Plaintiffs eyes causing them red and itchy. The walls also feel like sandpaper, if you rub against them you get scraped, this causes staph infections. Plaintiff seeks a transfer to a new facility and compel FCI Williamsburg to get a new brand of paint which does not cause Plaintiff serious bodily harm.
