1 Defendant's counter-statement of facts pursuant to LR 56.1(c).

2
3 PRELIMINARY OBSERVATIONS

4 The Defendant has included with its response what purports to be a "motion"
5 to strike. The Plaintiff has responded to this in a separate paper, filed concurrently
6 herewith. Not included in its' listing of facts, but included within its' narrative, the 7 Defendant has alleged that the Plaintiff has "refused to provided (sic) Defendant
8 with any emails he allegedly received that he claims violate Washington law." The 9 Plaintiff has never refused to provide the emails, as the Defendant has never asked 10 to inspect them.

13 The Plaintiff's Rule 26 Disclosures

14 Within the Defendant's narrative, the Defendant has also alleged that a series
15 of "questions" need to be resolved prior to deciding the motion for summary
16 judgment. The Defendant then repeats these same "questions" in the Defendant's
17 response to Plaintiff's facts 4, 6, 8, 9-12, 14, 16-18 and 24, where the Defendant
18 repeatedly asserts that the Plaintiff's Rule 26 disclosures in a prior lawsuit raise 19 these same "questions," and thereby create an issue of material fact.
20

22 At the outset, all the Plaintiff's rule 26 disclosure says is that the Third Party
23 Defendants "may" have discoverable information about emails sent to them by the 24 Defendant at a Gordonworks.com address. This statement does not even begin to 25
26

1 establish that either the Third Party Defendants or the Plaintiff did anything except 2 receive email. The mere act of receiving an email does not provide the basis for 3 any of the Defendant's counterclaims or Third Party Claims, nor does it begin to 4 establish any of the remaining facts necessary to support the Defendant's
5 counterclaims and Third Party Claims.
6

8 Rather than repeat a series of identical responses to each of these "questions"
9 for each of Plaintiff's facts individually, the Plaintiff believes that a single 10 explanation applying to all of the Defendant's repeated assertions concerning
11 Plaintiff's facts 4, 6, 8, 9-12, 14, 16-18 and 24 would provide a more economical
12 showing of how none of these "questions" raise any issue of material fact. In order,
13 the Defendant's "questions," and the Plaintiff's responses, are as follows:
14
15

- 16
17 a) The Defendant repeatedly asserts that the Plaintiff's Rule 26 disclosures
18 in a prior lawsuit raise a question of material fact about "Whether or not 19 Gordon, Third Party Defendants, or anyone else allegedly received the 20 commercial emails at issue."
21
22

23
24 This allegation is irrelevant to the Defendant's counterclaims and Third Party
25 claims because the Defendant's counterclaims and Third Party claims are not 26

1 predicated on an allegation that Gordon, Third Party Defendants, or anyone else did
2 or didn't receive the commercial emails at issue. Nevertheless, contrary to the 3 Defendant's allegation, Gordon has testified to the fact that he did, in fact, receive
4 the emails. Plaintiff's Fact #12, Gordon Declaration, ¶ 12. The Defendant has not 5 entered any evidence to contest this fact, and therefore has admitted this fact.
6
7

8
9 b) The Defendant repeatedly asserts that the Plaintiff's Rule 26 disclosures
10 in a prior lawsuit raise a question of material fact about "Whether or not 11 the Defendant transmitted the alleged emails at issue."
12

13
14 This allegation is irrelevant to the Defendant's counterclaims and Third Party
15 claims because the Defendant's counterclaims and Third Party claims are not 16 predicated on an allegation that the Defendant did or didn't send the emails at issue.
17 While this allegation is not material to any of the Defendant's counterclaims or 18 Third Party Claims, the Plaintiff notes that the Defendant has entered evidence that 19 flatly contradicts its own allegation. Specifically, Exhibit E of the declaration of 20 Phil Huston is a "Website Development and Marketing Services Agreement"
21 between the Defendant and CMG that provides that the Defendant undertook 22 responsibility to "provide various marketing services designed to drive traffic to 23
24
25
26

1 CMG's USA Gold Card Website." See paragraph 2. This agreement shows that it
2 was the Defendant, and not CMG, who sent the emails.
3

- 4
- 5 c) The Defendant repeatedly asserts that the Plaintiff's Rule 26 disclosures
6 in a prior lawsuit raise a question of material fact about "Whether or not
7 the emails at issue violated Washington law."
8

9

10 This allegation is irrelevant to the Defendant's counterclaims and Third Party
11 claims because the Defendant's counterclaims and Third Party claims are not
12 predicated on an allegation that the emails at issue did or didn't violate Washington 13 law.
14

- 15
- 16
- 17 d) The Defendant repeatedly asserts that the Plaintiff's Rule 26 disclosures
18 in a prior lawsuit raise a question of material fact about "Whether Gordon
19 and/or Third Party Defendants provided Impulse, and/or its marketing 20 partners, with untruthful or inaccurate registration information."
21

22

23

24 This allegation is directly relevant and indeed forms the first half of the core of 25 the Defendant's counterclaims and Third Party claims. However, the Plaintiff's
26

1 Rule 26 disclosures do not remotely indicate that either Gordon and/or Third Party
2 Defendants provided Impulse, and/or its marketing partners, with “untruthful or 3 inaccurate registration information.” All they indicate is that people “may” have 4 received emails. Further, nowhere else in the record has the Defendant entered any 5 evidence whatsoever showing any “untruthful or inaccurate registration
6 information” was provided by Gordon, the Third Party Defendants, or anyone else.
7
8 Instead, the Defendant has asked the court to strike the Motion for Summary
9 Judgment to allow the Defendant to conduct discovery to find evidence to support
10 this allegation. However, if the Defendant’s allegations were true, evidence
11 supporting this allegation would already be in the Defendant’s possession. How 12 can the Defendant possibly maintain that it was provided with “untruthful or 13 inaccurate registration information” if it cannot produce this information? The fact
14 that the Defendant has not produced any such evidence demonstrates that it does
15 not exist, and the Defendant’s mere allegations to the contrary do not raise a
16 question of material fact.
17
18
19
20

- 21
22
23 e) The Defendant repeatedly asserts that the Plaintiff’s Rule 26 disclosures
24 in a prior lawsuit raise a question of material fact about “Whether Gordon
25 and/or Third Party Defendants misrepresented their identities to Impulse, 26

1 and/or its marketing partners.”

2
3 This allegation is also directly relevant and forms the second half of the core of
4 the Defendant’s counterclaims and Third Party claims. However, the Plaintiff’s
5 Rule 26 disclosures do not remotely indicate that either Gordon and/or Third Party
6 Defendants “misrepresented” their identities to Impulse, and/or its marketing
7 partners, nor has the Defendant entered any other evidence into the record that 8 supports that allegation. All the Plaintiff’s Rule 26 disclosures indicate is that 9 people “may” have received emails. Again, if the Defendant’s allegations were 10 true, evidence supporting this allegation would already be in the Defendant’s
11 possession. How can the Defendant possibly maintain that Gordon and/or Third
12 Party Defendants “misrepresented their identities to Impulse, and/or its marketing
13 partners” if it cannot produce any evidence of such misrepresentation? The fact
14 that the Defendant has not produced any such evidence demonstrates that it does
15 not exist, and the Defendant’s mere allegations to the contrary do not raise a
16 question of material fact.
17

18
19 Accordingly, the Plaintiff’s Rule 26 disclosures from the prior lawsuit do not 20 raise any issues of material fact that are relevant to the Defendant’s counterclaims
21 or Third Party claims which are the subject of this motion.

The Defendant’s Pleadings

With respect to Plaintiff’s facts 1-12, 14, 16-18, 24 and 25, the Defendant repeatedly asserts that its pleadings create an issue of material fact. However, FRCP 56(e) specifically provides that:

When a motion for summary judgment is made and supported as provided in this rule, an adverse party may not rest upon the mere allegations or denials of the adverse party's pleading, but the adverse party's response, by affidavits or as otherwise provided in this rule, must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue for trial.

The United States Supreme Court has generally stated that FRCP 56(e) means what it says. “Rule 56(e) permits a proper summary judgment motion to be opposed by any of the kinds of evidentiary materials listed in Rule 56(c), except the mere pleadings themselves, and it is from this list that one would normally expect the nonmoving party to make the showing to which we have referred.” Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 324 (1986). Accordingly, the Court should disregard the Defendant’s argument that the pleadings create an issue of material fact with respect to Plaintiff’s facts 1-12, 14, 16-18, 24 and 25.

The Remaining Disputed Facts

With the exception of Plaintiff’s facts 10, 11, 13, and 15, all of the Defendant’s contentions that an issue of material fact exists with respect to any of the remaining facts are either grounded in their pleadings, or the Plaintiff’s Rule 26

1 disclosures. As each of those issues have been addressed above, the Plaintiff now
2 turns to Plaintiff's facts 10, 11, 13, and 15.

3 With respect to Plaintiff's fact #10, the Defendant has alleged that a material
4 issue of fact exists. However, even if there is a dispute as to whether Mr. Gordon
5 was asked to give his consent to receive any commercial email from the Defendant,
6 there is no dispute that his consent was subsequently withdrawn. Gordon
7 Declaration, ¶¶ 13 and 14. Thus, for purposes of this summary judgment motion,
8 the question of whether Mr. Gordon was asked to give his consent to receive any 9 commercial email from the Defendant is rendered immaterial.

10 With respect to Plaintiff's fact #11, the Defendant has alleged that a material
11 issue of fact exists. However, even if there is a dispute as to whether Mr. Gordon
12 gave his consent to receive any commercial email from the Defendant, there is no
13 dispute of the fact that his consent was subsequently withdrawn. Gordon
14 Declaration, ¶¶ 13 and 14. Thus, for purposes of this summary judgment motion,
15 the question of whether Mr. Gordon originally gave his consent to receive any 16 commercial email from the Defendant is rendered immaterial.

17 With respect to Plaintiff's fact #13, the Defendant has alleged that a material
18 issue of fact exists, citing the Bodie Declaration at ¶ 35. However, ¶ 35 of the 19 Bodie declaration is not evidence. It states:

20
21 "Nevertheless, a question of fact arises as to if and when Gordon and/or his 22 family member's (sic) "opted-in" again after such "opt-out" occurred.

23
24 The Plaintiff notes that in making this statement, the Bodie declaration does
25 not allege that anything actually happened. It merely speculates that something

1 might have happened. As such, it is a combination of a legal conclusion and sheer 2 speculation, and it does not raise any issue of material fact.

3 With respect to Plaintiff's fact #15, the Defendant has alleged that a material
4 issue of fact exists, citing the Bodie Declaration at ¶¶ 32-35. However, while the 5 Bodie Declaration admits that Exhibit F of the Declaration of Phil Huston shows
6 that the Plaintiff "opted out" of receiving "some" but not "all" future commercial
7 emails from the Defendant, it is immaterial whether Gordon opted out of "some" or 8 "all" future commercial emails from the Defendant. Gordon's failure to opt out of 9 "some" or "all" future commercial emails from the Defendant does not give the 10 Defendant the right to send email that violates the law, nor does it give the 11 Defendant a cause of action if it is sued for doing so.

12 13 The Defendant's Motions to Strike

14
15 In addition to its "motion" to strike the Plaintiff's Statement of Facts
16 generally, the Defendant has also specifically asked the Court to strike Plaintiff's
17 Facts # 19, 20, 21, and 26. With respect to Fact # 19, it is not hearsay because it
18 falls within the exceptions of at least FRE 803(1), FRE 803(3) and FRE 803(8).
19 With respect to Facts # 20, 21, and 26, the Defendant's purported basis for striking 20 the statement is Rule 56.1(a). However, while Rule 56.1(a) sets forth the 21 requirement that facts be "set forth in serial fashion and not in narrative form," it
22 does not dictate the form or substance of such facts. Accordingly, Rule 56.1(a)
23 does not provide a basis to strike Plaintiff's facts # 20, 21, and 26, and the Plaintiff
24 respectfully requests that the Court deny the Defendant's motion to strike these 25 facts.
