18 Defendant.

No. CV06-1129JCC

REPLY IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO DISMISS OR TO STAY THIS LITIGATION

19 I. INTRODUCTION

20 In the motion at bar, Defendant SMARTBARGAINS.COM, LP ("SmartBargains")
21 moved to dismiss or stay this litigation. Plaintiffs' fail to address the arguments advanced
22 by SmartBargains in support of its motion to dismiss pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6).
23 SmartBargains asserts that Plaintiffs have failed to allege facts sufficient to confer
24 standing under CAN-SPAM Act of 2003, 15 U.S.C. § 7701 et seq. ("CAN-SPAM"),
25 because they are not an Internet access service adversely affected by emails from 26 SmartBargains. The grounds for SmartBargains' argument are not addressed by Plaintiffs 27 and, therefore, should be granted.

28 Additionally and in the alternative, the Court should enter a stay pending a final judgment in the related action before this Court, Gordon v. Virtumundo, NO.

REPLY IN SUPPORT OF
MOTION TO DISMISS OR STAY - 1
(CV06-1129JCC)

ATTORNEYS AT LAW, LLP

Seattle, Washington 98104
(206) 274-2800

1 CV06-0204JCC, W.Dist.Wa (Coughenour, J.). Plaintiffs do not oppose the stay. (See
2 Response, Dkt. # 14.) Accordingly, the stay should be granted. LR 7(b)(2) (providing
3 that “If a party fails to file papers in opposition to a motion, such failure may be
4 considered by the court as an admission that the motion has merit.”)

6 II. ARGUMENT

7 A. The Court should Dismiss Plaintiffs’ CAN-SPAM Claims because 8 Plaintiffs do not have standing.

9 The parties agree that, in order to have standing under CAN-SPAM, Plaintiffs
10 must be “provider(s) of Internet access service” who are “adversely affected by a
11 violation of section 7704 (a)(1), (b), or (d) of [the Act], or a pattern or practice that 12 violates paragraph (2), (3), (4), or (5) of section 7704 (a).” 15 U.S.C. § 7706(g)(1).
13 However, Plaintiffs have not alleged sufficient facts to satisfy the CAN-SPAM standing
14 requirement.

15 Plaintiffs seek to characterize SmartBargains’ arguments as form over substance.
16 (See Response at 4). In fact, the opposite is true. SmartBargains asserts that Plaintiffs do
17 not have standing because they do not allege facts which support their allegation that they
18 are providers of (i) Internet access service (“IAS”), or (ii) that they were adversely
19 affected by a violation of CAN-SPAM.

20 The IAS standing requirement in CAN-SPAM is a barrier to filing claims under 21 CAN-SPAM. The Act does not provide for a private right of action merely from the 22 receipt of email or from showing friends an interesting website. Rather, CAN-SPAM
23 provides a right of action to the FTC, state attorneys’ general and providers of an IAS that 24 is adversely affected by violative emails. Under CAN-SPAM, it is not sufficient to 25 confer standing merely because Plaintiffs allegedly “enabled computer access for multiple 26 users to a computer server that provides access to the Internet.” (See First Amended
27 Complaint (Dkt. #4) at ¶ 7.) As stated in SmartBargains’ moving papers, Plaintiffs’
28 broad allegation effectively confers standing on any anti-spam plaintiff and renders CAN-

1 SPAM's standing requirement a meaningless limitation to a private right of action.

2 Plaintiffs misstate SmartBargains' argument as somehow making a distinction
3 between the number of Internet servers that Plaintiffs to which the Plaintiffs provide
4 access. In fact, SmartBargains' emphasis on the use of the article "a" when referencing
5 the adversely affected computer server is that the allegations does not require that
6 Plaintiffs have ownership or control over the computer server. Because Plaintiffs merely
7 provide access to a computer server, rather than their computer server, the allegation does
8 not satisfy the standing requirement. If the Plaintiffs do not own or control the server that 9 enables computer access for users, then the allegedly improper emails could not have 10 caused Plaintiffs any material adverse affect. In fact, the alleged adverse effect would be
11 incurred by Plaintiffs' Internet service provider (e.g., GoDaddy) that manages the Internet
12 server in question and, therefore, is required to incur the effort to increase their Internet
13 bandwidth to accommodate the emails in question. If Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM claims
14 survive, then any individual that shows two friends a website is an IAS because that 15 individual has "enabled computer access for multiple users to a computer server that 16 provides access to the Internet."

17
18 B. Plaintiffs do not Oppose a Stay of this Litigation.

19 SmartBargains moved the Court stay this litigation pending resolution of a related
20 case brought by Plaintiffs testing their theories under CAN-SPAM and the Washington
21 Commercial Email Act. There is no case law supporting many, if not all, of Plaintiffs'
22 novel arguments. A stay is in all parties' interests and, therefore, it is not surprising that
23 it is unopposed by Plaintiffs. After the Court enters a final judgment in the related cases
24 brought by Plaintiffs before this Court and other United States District Courts in this 25 State, then there is likely to be collateral estoppel/issue preclusion effect on this case. To 26 avoid litigating the same unsettled questions of law in separate cases, it is in the best
27 interests of the Court and the litigants to stay the present lawsuit pending final judgment
28

1 in Gordon v. Virtumundo.

3 III. CONCLUSION

4 For the foregoing reasons, this Court should dismiss Plaintiffs' CAN-SPAM
5 claims as a matter of law for failure to assert facts sufficient to confer standing on
6 Plaintiffs. Additionally, the Court should stay all claims brought by Plaintiffs pending a
7 final judgment in Gordon v. Virtumundo.
