10 ROBERT ROBINSON,

11 Plaintiff,

12 v.

13 SWEDISH HEALTH SERVICES, et
14 al.,

15 Defendants.

CASE NO. C10-0113JLR

ORDER REMANDING CASE

16 This matter comes before the court on Plaintiff Robert Robinson's motion to 17 remand (Dkt. # 8). In their response, Defendants Bayer Corporation, Bayer Healthcare 18 LLC, and Bayer Healthcare Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (collectively, "Bayer") ask the court to 19 sever and remand Mr. Robinson's claims against the nondiverse Defendants Swedish 20 Health Services ("Swedish") and Carolyn Liu, M.D., and retain jurisdiction over the 21 claims against Bayer. (Dkt. # 11.) Having reviewed the notice of removal, the 22

1 | complaint, and the submissions of the parties, and deeming oral argument unnecessary,
2 | the court GRANTS Mr. Robinson’s motion to remand (Dkt. # 8).

3 | I. BACKGROUND

4 | On May 26, 2009, Mr. Robinson filed his original complaint in King County
5 | Superior Court. (Not. of Removal (Dkt. # 1), Ex. A, at 1.) In his original complaint, Mr.
6 | Robinson alleged that Swedish and Dr. Liu negligently misdiagnosed and failed to treat
7 | his wife Mary Robinson’s deep-vein thrombosis, and that their negligence caused Mrs.
8 | Robinson’s death. (Id. at 2.) Mr. Robinson alleged that he, Swedish, and Dr. Liu are
9 | residents of Washington. (Id. at 1.)

10 | On July 1, 2009, Mr. Robinson filed a first amended complaint, to which he added
11 | an allegation that Mrs. Robinson had been prescribed the oral contraceptive Yasmin. (Id.
12 | at 19 ¶ 5.) On August 6, 2009, Swedish and Dr. Liu answered the complaint, alleging as
13 | an affirmative defense that “[i]f it is determined that the plaintiff died from a pulmonary
14 | embolism, which this defendant does not admit at this point, then the manufacturer of
15 | Yasmin, The Bayer Corporation, is a possible non-party at fault.” (Id. at 39.)

16 | On December 2, 2009, Mr. Robinson filed his second amended complaint, adding
17 | claims against Bayer. (Declaration of Kristin Houser (“Houser Decl.”) (Dkt. # 9), Ex. 1
18 | (“2d Am. Compl.”) at 1.) Mr. Robinson alleged that Bayer manufactures Yasmin, that a
19 | component of Yasmin is “associated with significantly increased risk of clotting events”
20 | compared with other oral contraceptives, and that Bayer failed to disclose that Yasmin is
21 | associated with health risks that are not associated with other oral contraceptives. (Id. ¶¶
22 | 15, 18.) Mr. Robinson added state-law claims against Bayer for product liability, willful

1 or wanton misconduct, breach of warranty, concert of action, negligent and/or fraudulent
2 misrepresentation as to product safety, and the tort of outrage. (Id. ¶ 23.)

3 On January 19, 2010, Bayer filed a timely notice of removal. (Not. of Removal.)
4 Although Mr. Robinson, Swedish, and Dr. Liu are Washington residents, and although 5 Mr. Robinson brought only state-law claims, Bayer asserted that this court has diversity
6 jurisdiction over the action because Mr. Robinson did not properly join his claims against 7 Swedish and Dr. Liu with his claims against Bayer.¹ (Id. ¶¶ 6, 10-21.) Bayer noted that
8 on October 1, 2009, the Judicial Panel on Multidistrict Litigation (“JPML”) established 9 MDL No. 2100, In re Yasmin and YAZ (Drospirenone) Marketing, Sales Practices and
10 Products Liability Litigation, 655 F. Supp. 2d 1343 (J.P.M.L. 2009), in the United States
11 District Court for the Southern District of Illinois to coordinate federal products liability 12 litigation involving Yasmin and YAZ.² (Id. ¶ 7.) Bayer stated that it intended to identify 13 the instant action as a potential “tag along” to the multidistrict litigation. (Id.) Bayer 14 asked the court to sever Mr. Robinson’s claims against Swedish and Dr. Liu and retain 15 jurisdiction over the claims against Bayer. (Id. ¶¶ 17-21.) Neither Swedish nor Dr. Liu
16 joined in the notice of removal.

17
19 ¹ Bayer Corporation is an Indiana corporation with its principal place of business in 20 Pennsylvania; Bayer Healthcare LLC is a Delaware limited liability company whose sole
21 member is Bayer Corporation; and Bayer Healthcare Pharmaceuticals, Inc. is a Delaware
22 corporation with its principal place of business in New Jersey. (Not. of Removal ¶¶ 14-16.)

² As of February 18, 2010, there were 686 member cases and 679 plaintiffs involved in the Yasmin multidistrict litigation. See Buck v. Bayer Healthcare Pharmaceuticals, Inc., No.
1:10-cv-36, 2010 WL 623529, at *1 n.1 (N.D. Ind. Feb. 18, 2010).

1 On February 4, 2010, Mr. Robinson filed the instant motion to remand. (Mot.
2 (Dkt. # 8).)

3 II. ANALYSIS

4 A. Severance and Remand

5 “A civil case commenced in state court may, as a general matter, be removed by 6 the defendant to federal district court, if the case could have been brought there
7 originally.” Martin v. Franklin Capital Corp., 546 U.S. 132, 134 (2005) (citing 28
8 U.S.C. § 1441). “If it appears that the federal court lacks jurisdiction, however, ‘the case
9 shall be remanded.’” Id. (quoting 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c)). “The burden of establishing 10 federal jurisdiction is on the party seeking removal, and the removal statute is strictly 11 construed against removal jurisdiction.” Prize Frize, Inc. v. Matrix, Inc., 167 F.3d 1261,
12 1265 (9th Cir. 1999). Any doubts about removability are resolved in favor of remanding
13 the case to state court. Shamrock Oil & Gas Corp. v. Sheets, 313 U.S. 100, 108-09
14 (1941); Gaus v. Miles, Inc., 980 F.2d 564, 566 (9th Cir. 1992).

15 One instance in which the district courts of the United States have original 16 jurisdiction is where there is complete diversity between the parties and the amount in 17 controversy exceeds $75,000. 28 U.S.C. § 1332. As Mr. Robinson, Swedish, and Dr.
18 Liu are Washington residents, complete diversity between the parties does not exist on 19 the face of the complaint. (See 2d Am. Compl. ¶¶ 1-3.) Thus, it appears that the court
20 lacks jurisdiction over this case and must remand it pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c).
21 Bayer contends, however, that the court should sever Mr. Robinson’s claims against the 22 nondiverse defendants, retain jurisdiction over the claims against the diverse defendant

1 Bayer, and remand the claims against the nondiverse defendants to state court. (See
2 Resp. (Dkt. # 11) at 2.)

3 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 20, which governs permissive joinder of parties, 4 provides:

5 [P]ersons . . . may be joined in one action as defendants if: (A) any right to 6 relief is asserted against them jointly, severally, or in the alternative with 7 respect to or arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of 8 transactions or occurrences; and (B) any question of law or fact common to 9 all defendants will arise in the action.

10 Fed. R. Civ. P. 20. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 21, which governs misjoinder and 11 nonjoinder of parties, provides:

12 Misjoinder of parties is not a ground for dismissing an action. On motion
13 or on its own, the court may at any time, on just terms, add or drop a party.
14 The court may also sever any claim against a party.

15 Fed. R. Civ. P. 21. The Supreme Court has noted that “it is well settled that Rule 21
16 invests district courts with authority to allow a dispensable nondiverse party to be 17 dropped at any time, even after judgment has been rendered.” Newman-Green, Inc. v.
18 Alfonzo-Larrain, 490 U.S. 826, 832 (1989).³

19 Here, all of Mr. Robinson’s claims against all of the defendants arise out of the 20 same transaction or occurrence: Mrs. Robinson’s death, which allegedly resulted from 21 her ingestion of Yasmin and her misdiagnosed and mistreated deep-vein thrombosis.

22 (See 2d Am. Compl. ¶¶ 19-21.) In addition, there are common questions of fact among

³ The Court held in Newman-Green that a court of appeals has authority to grant a plaintiff’s request to dismiss a dispensable nondiverse party in order to preserve diversity jurisdiction, and is not required to remand the case to the district court for dismissal in the district court’s discretion. Newman-Green, 490 U.S. at 832-33.

1 the claims because all three Defendants’ liability will depend on whether Mrs.
2 Robinson’s death was caused in part by Yasmin. The court therefore finds that the 3 defendants were properly joined under Rule 20. The court also finds that, even if 4 Swedish and Dr. Liu are dispensable parties, Mr. Robinson would be harmed if the 5 nondiverse defendants were severed as he would be required to pursue his claims in two 6 separate lawsuits in two different courts. (See Mot. at 5; Reply (Dkt. # 13) at 4.) In light
7 of these findings, the court declines to sever the claims against the nondiverse
8 defendants.⁴ Thus, because Bayer has not met its burden to demonstrate that removal is 9 proper, the court grants Mr. Robinson’s motion to remand.

10 B. Attorney’s Fees

11 “An order remanding a removed case to state court ‘may require payment of just 12 costs and any actual expenses, including attorney fees, incurred as a result of the 13 removal.’” Martin, 546 U.S. at 134 (quoting 28 U.S.C. § 1447(c)). The Supreme Court 14 has held that, “absent unusual circumstances, attorney’s fees should not be awarded when 15 the removing party has an objectively reasonable basis for removal.” Id. at 141.

16 Here, the court finds that Bayer had an objectively reasonable basis for removal.
17 Although the court is not persuaded by the out-of-circuit authority cited by Bayer, the 18 court acknowledges that several of these cases suggest that severance to perfect removal

20
21
22 ⁴ Bayer cites numerous district court cases, nearly all of which are from the Northern District of Ohio, to support its contention that a court may grant a diverse defendant’s request to sever claims against nondiverse, properly-joined defendants in order to perfect diversity for removal. (See Resp. at 3-4.) Having reviewed the cited cases, the court nevertheless remains persuaded that severance is not appropriate in the action presently before it.

1 may be appropriate where product liability claims against a diverse pharmaceutical
2 defendant are the subject of a federal multidistrict litigation, even where the defendants
3 are properly joined. See, e.g., Joseph v. Baxter Int'l Inc., 614 F. Supp. 2d 868, 873-74
4 (N.D. Ohio 2009) (noting consistency with the JPML's decisions in the multidistrict 5 product liability litigation against Baxter International, Inc.). In addition, the court has 6 not identified any Ninth Circuit authority that would preclude severance in such a 7 situation.⁵ Accordingly, the court denies Mr. Robinson's request for attorney's fees.

8 III. CONCLUSION

9 For the foregoing reasons, the court GRANTS Mr. Robinson's motion to remand
10 and DENIES Mr. Robinson's request for attorney's fees (Dkt. # 9).

11 Dated this 4th day of March, 2010.

14 JAMES L. ROBART
15 United States District Judge

16 ⁵ Mr. Robinson argues that severance is foreclosed by Coughlin v. Rogers, 130 F.3d 1348
17 (9th Cir. 1997), which, he contends, requires both a finding of misjoinder under Rule 20 and a
18 finding that severance will not prejudice any substantial right before a court may sever. (Reply 19 at 4.) Mr. Robinson reads too much into Coughlin. Coughlin (1) clarifies how courts should 20 analyze permissive joinder of plaintiffs and (2) affirms that a court may sever misjoined parties
21 provided no substantial right is prejudiced by the severance. Coughlin, 130 F.3d at 1350-51.
22 The decision does not go so far as to hold that if a district court finds that the parties were properly joined the court cannot sever if severance would otherwise serve the interests of justice.
Such a holding would appear to be contrary to the Supreme Court's observation that "Rule 21 invests district courts with authority to allow a dispensable nondiverse party to be dropped at any time." Newman-Green, 490 U.S. at 832; see also 7 Charles A. Wright, Arthur R. Miller & Mary K. Kane, Federal Practice & Procedure § 1682 (3d ed.) ("The application of Rule 21 has not been limited to cases in which parties were erroneously omitted from the action or technically misjoined contrary to one of the party joinder provisions in the federal rules.").
