12 WEDI CORP.,

Plaintiff,

13 v.

14 BRIAN WRIGHT, et al.,

15 Defendants.

16 THIS MATTER comes before the Court on a motion for partial summary
17 judgment, docket no. 133, brought by Brian Wright (“Wright”), Sound Product Sales
18 L.L.C. (“Sound Product”), Hydro-Blok USA LLC (“Hydro-Blok”), and Hydroblok
19 International, Ltd. (“H-International”). Pursuant to agreements between wedi Corp.
20 (“wedi”) and Sound Product, the parties were directed to arbitrate wedi’s breach of 21 contract, breach of fiduciary duty, civil conspiracy, and unjust enrichment claims against 22 Wright and/or Sound Product. See Order (docket no. 26). The parties also arbitrated wedi's allegation that Wright violated Washington's Uniform Trade Secrets Act ("WUTSA"), which had been pleaded as a counterclaim in this matter, but only against H-International. See Am. Counterclaims at Count VII (docket no. 64); see also Counterclaims (C15-615 TSZ, docket no. 19). The arbitrator found against wedi and in favor of Wright and Sound Product on all claims other than breach of contract; on the contract claim, the arbitrator awarded to wedi $1.00 in nominal damages. See Order at 2 (docket no. 128); Order at 2 (docket no. 111); Award (docket no. 101-3). The Court confirmed the arbitral award, as modified by the Court, entered partial judgment in favor of wedi and against Wright on the breach of contract claim in the amount of $1.00, and dismissed with prejudice wedi's claims against Wright and/or Sound Product for breach of fiduciary duty, civil conspiracy, unjust enrichment, and violation of WUTSA. Orders (docket nos. 111 & 128); Judgment (docket no. 129). No party timely filed a notice of appeal, and the status of the claims that were arbitrated is as follows:

wedi's Claims	Against	Status
Breach of Contract	Wright	$1.00 Awarded
Breach of Fiduciary Duty	Wright	Dismissed
Civil Conspiracy	Wright	Dismissed
Unjust Enrichment	Wright and Sound Product	Dismissed
Violation of WUTSA	Wright	Dismissed

Wright and Hydro-Blok now seek partial summary judgment as to wedi's claim against them for tortious interference with prospective advantage. In addition, Wright and Hydro-Blok, as well as Sound Product, move to dismiss wedi's counter-counterclaim for abuse of process as having been untimely asserted. H-International requests partial

1 summary judgment as to wedi's counterclaims for tortious interference with contract, 2 aiding and abetting breach of fiduciary duty, conspiracy, tortious interference with 3 prospective economic advantage, and violation of WUTSA. None of these parties has 4 asked for dismissal of wedi's claims and counterclaims under the Lanham Act or 5 Washington's Consumer Protection Act ("CPA"), and those claims and counterclaims 6 will remain for trial regardless of the Court's ruling on the pending motion for partial 7 summary judgment. Also not at issue in the instant motion are the counterclaims asserted 8 by Wright, Hydro-Blok, and Sound Product against wedi for tortious interference with 9 prospective economic advantage and abuse of process.

10 Discussion

11 Except as to wedi's abuse of process claim, the current motion for partial summary
12 judgment relies on the doctrine of collateral estoppel, also known as "issue preclusion," 13 in seeking dismissal of claims or counterclaims that were not actually litigated in the 14 earlier arbitration. Collateral estoppel bars relitigation of an issue adjudicated in a prior 15 proceeding if (i) the issue was necessarily decided in the previous action and is identical 16 to the one now before the Court, (ii) the prior matter ended with a final judgment on the 17 merits, and (iii) the party against whom collateral estoppel is asserted was a party or in 18 privity with a party to the earlier case. Granite Rock Co. v. Int'l Bhd. of Teamsters,
19 Freight, Constr., Gen. Drivers, Warehousemen & Helpers, Local 287, 649 F.3d 1067, 20 1070 (9th Cir. 2011); Robi v. Five Platters, Inc., 838 F.2d 318, 322 (9th Cir. 1988). An 21 arbitral award can have collateral estoppel effect. Clark v. Bear Stearns & Co., 966 F.2d
22 1318, 1321 (9th Cir. 1992); see also MedChoice Risk Retention Group Inc. v. Katz, 2017

1 WL 3970867 at *9-*12 (W.D. Wash. Sep. 8, 2017). The party asserting preclusion bears 2 the burden of showing “with clarity and certainty” what was determined by the arbitrator.
3 See Clark, 966 F.2d at 1321. The question before the Court is whether the issue for 4 which preclusion is sought is “the only rational one” on which the arbitrator could have 5 based the decision, thereby foreclosing such issue even if no explicit finding was made,
6 or whether a rational factfinder could have reached a conclusion on the basis of an issue
7 other than the one for which collateral estoppel effect is asserted. See id.

8 A. Derivative Counterclaims

9 wedi’s counterclaims against H-International for aiding and abetting a breach of 10 fiduciary duty, conspiracy, and violation of WUTSA are all dependent on allegations 11 against Wright, on which wedi failed to carry its burden of proof in arbitration. wedi has 12 not sought review of the confirmation of the arbitral award, and the Court is satisfied that 13 the arbitrator’s decision operates to collaterally estop wedi from pursuing each of these 14 counterclaims against H-International.¹ Without deciding whether Wright owed any 15 fiduciary duty to wedi, the arbitrator concluded wedi failed to establish that any alleged 16 breach of fiduciary duty proximately caused an injury to wedi. Award at 13 (docket 17 no. 101-3). This finding precludes wedi from asserting that it suffered injury as a result 18 of any breach of fiduciary duty by Wright that H-International might have aided or 19 abetted. Without injury, wedi cannot prove the tort. See Arden v. Forsberg & Umlauf.

22 ¹ wedi argues that its counterclaims against H-International should not be dismissed before it has had an 23 opportunity to conduct certain depositions. wedi fails to explain how any person’s testimony could alter the underlying decision of the arbitrator concerning Wright’s lack of liability, which gives rise to “issue preclusion.”

1 P.S., 193 Wn. App. 731, 756, 373 P.3d 320 (2016). As to wedi's counterclaim against 2 H-International for aiding and abetting Wright in breaching a fiduciary duty, the motion
3 for partial summary judgment is GRANTED, and such counterclaim is DISMISSED with 4 prejudice.

5 Prior to the arbitration proceeding, wedi dismissed its civil conspiracy claim
6 against Wright, see Joint Status Report at ¶ 1 (docket no. 98), and having done so, it 7 cannot now proceed on such claim against H-International. wedi was required to 8 arbitrate its conspiracy claim against Wright, but chose not to do so, and the claim has 9 been dismissed with prejudice. A civil conspiracy requires that at least two people agree 10 to engage in activity to accomplish an unlawful purpose or to accomplish a lawful 11 purpose by unlawful means. See Wilson v. Wash., 84 Wn. App. 332, 350-51, 929 P.2d 12 448 (1996) (citing Corbit v. J.I. Case Co., 70 Wn.2d 522, 528-29, 424 P.2d 290 (1967)).
13 Because wedi's conspiracy counterclaim against H-International accuses only Wright and 14 H-International of entering into an improper agreement, and because wedi has failed as a 15 matter of law to prove that Wright engaged in any conspiracy, wedi cannot establish an 16 essential element of its conspiracy counterclaim, namely collusion between two or more 17 people. The motion for partial summary judgment is GRANTED as to the counterclaim 18 against H-International for civil conspiracy, and such counterclaim is DISMISSED with 19 prejudice.

20 With respect to wedi's claim against Wright under WUTSA, the arbitrator ruled 21 that wedi failed to prove (i) the existence of protectable trade secrets, which had been 22 shared with or misappropriated by Wright, see Award at 15 (docket no. 101-3), or (ii) any

1 lost profits as a result of any misuse of trade secrets, id. at 11-12, and such conclusion
2 bars wedi's counterclaim that H-International, through Wright, misappropriated wedi's 3 trade secrets. In arguing to the contrary, wedi does not identify any way in which the 4 arbitrator's decision leaves room for wedi to relitigate whether it had protectable trade 5 secrets or lost profits from a violation of WUTSA. Instead, wedi challenges the 6 arbitrator's analysis. The time for attacking the arbitrator's reasoning was before the 7 Court confirmed the arbitral award, and having not timely done so, wedi has waived such 8 argument. As to wedi's counterclaim against H-International for violation of WUTSA, 9 the motion for partial summary judgment is GRANTED, and the WUTSA counterclaim
10 is DISMISSED with prejudice.

11 B. Tortious Interference

12 With regard to wedi's counterclaim against H-International for tortious 13 interference with contract, as well as wedi's claim against Wright and Hydro-Blok, and 14 counterclaim against H-International, for tortious interference with prospective economic 15 advantage, the Court is not persuaded that the moving parties have shown "with clarity 16 and certainty" how the arbitrator's decision preempts such claim and counterclaims. The 17 arbitrator ruled in wedi's favor on the breach of contract claim against Wright and 18 awarded nominal damages. The moving parties fail to explain how such ruling prevents 19 wedi from pursuing its counterclaim against H-International for tortiously interfering with 20 its contract with Wright, or its claim and counterclaim for tortious interference with 21 prospective economic advantage. Thus, as to tortious interference, the motion for partial 22 summary judgment is DENIED.

1 C. Abuse of Process

2 With regard to wedi’s counter-counterclaim for abuse of process, the moving 3 parties argue that the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure do not recognize such pleading,
4 see Fed. R. Civ. P. 7(a) (enumerating the types of pleadings allowed) and that wedi’s
5 counter-counterclaim was, in essence, an untimely attempt to amend its amended 6 complaint without leave of the Court. These assertions might be true, but the time to 7 raise them was within twenty-one (21) days of the date the counter-counterclaim was 8 filed on November 17, 2016. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(a)(1)(B). Had the procedural 9 irregularity been identified earlier, wedi might have sought and been granted an extension 10 of time to amend its pleading. The moving parties have provided no basis for granting 11 summary judgment and dismissing the counter-counterclaim on the merits.

12 Conclusion

13 For the foregoing reasons, the pending motion for partial summary judgment, 14 docket no. 133, is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part as follows: (a) the motion is 15 GRANTED as to wedi Corp.’s counterclaims against Hydroblok International Ltd. for 16 aiding and abetting a breach of fiduciary duty, conspiracy, and violation of Washington’s 17 Uniform Trade Secrets Act, and such counterclaims are DISMISSED with prejudice; and 18 (b) the motion is otherwise DENIED. The matters remaining for trial are summarized
