Case No. C17-0106RSM

ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S
MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT
REGARDING FOURTH AMENDMENT
VIOLATION

16 I. INTRODUCTION

17 This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff's Motion for Summary Judgment On 18 Plaintiff's Fourth Amendment Claim. Dkt. #94. Plaintiff argues that there is no genuine dispute 19 as to any material fact regarding liability, and therefore judgment in his favor is appropriate with 20 respect to his claim. Id. Defendant Egbert asserts that summary judgment in his favor is 21 appropriate because Plaintiff impermissibly attempts to extend his *Bivens*¹ claims to a new 22 context, he was invited onto the subject property, he was given permission to conduct the search
23 at issue, and he is protected by qualified immunity in any event. Dkts. #102² and #131 (filed

27 ¹ Referring to Bivens v. Six Unknown Federal Narcotics Agents, 403 U.S. 388 (1971).

28 ² Although not styled as a cross-motion for summary judgment, Defendant Egbert has 29 moved for summary judgment on all claims. The Court resolves the Fourth Amendment 30 portion of Defendant Egbert's motion in this Order, and the remainder of his motion (Dkt.
#102) will be resolved by separate Order.

1 under seal).³ For the reasons set forth below, the Court disagrees with Plaintiff and DENIES his 2 motion.

3 4 II. BACKGROUND

5 Plaintiff initially filed this action on January 5, 2017. Dkt. #1. He filed an 6 Amended Complaint on September 6, 2017. Dkt. #22. The allegations arise from an 7 interaction with Defendant Erik Egbert, a United States Customs and Border Protection
8 (“CBP”) Officer, on March 20, 2014. Id.

10 Plaintiff resides in a house immediately adjacent to the U.S./Canada border. Dkt.
11 #99 at ¶ 4 (filed under seal)⁴. The house and its driveway are accessed by a one-lane
12 private dirt road that connects to a paved public street. Id. at ¶ 5. Plaintiff and Defendant
13 appear to agree that this property is in area known for cross-border smuggling of people,
14 drugs, illicit money and items of significance to criminal organizations. Id. at ¶ 7 and Dkt.
15 #108 at ¶ 10. In addition to living in the home, Plaintiff operates a bed and breakfast, 16 which is known as the Smuggler’s Inn. Dkts. #99 at ¶ 4 and #108 at ¶ 6.

19 Plaintiff has posted a sign at the intersection of the private dirt lane that leads to his 20 home and the paved public street that reads:

22 Welcome to Smuggler’s Inn
23 Guests Only
24 Private Property
25 No Trespassing

26 ³ A number of documents in this matter have been filed under seal, with redacted versions
27 available publicly. To the extent possible, the Court will reference only information 28 available in the public documents. For any citations to the sealed documents, the same information is located at the same reference in the public version of the document.

29 ⁴ While the Declaration of Robert Boule cited here was filed under seal, the information set 30 forth in this factual background was contained on the public docket in Plaintiff’s motion for summary judgment (Dkt. #99).

1 Dkt. #99 at ¶ 16 and Ex. 5 thereto. There is conflicting evidence in the record as to when 2 that sign was posted. Defendant Egbert asserts that the sign was not posted as of March 20,
3 2014. Dkts. #130 at ¶ 23 and #133 at ¶ 23 (filed under seal). A friend of Plaintiff's states
4 that the sign has been posted for the last six or seven years. Dkt. #148 at ¶ 11.

6 On March 20, 2014, Defendant Egbert drove down the dirt lane into Plaintiff's 7 driveway. Dkts. #108 at ¶ 29 and #130 at ¶ 24. A photo of Plaintiff's property depicts the 8 drive way immediately adjacent to Plaintiff's home, surrounded on to sides by a tall 9 wooden fence. Dkts. #98, Ex. 4 and #108, Ex. A. Earlier that day, Defendant Egbert had 10 learned through conversation with Plaintiff of a guest arriving from Turkey who had 11 booked a room at Smuggler's Inn for that evening. Dkt. #130 at ¶ 30. Plaintiff informed 12 Agent Egbert that the guest had arrived in New York via air from Turkey the night before, 13 and had then flown to SEA-TAC airport that day. Dkts. #94 at 4-5 and #99 at ¶ 10. Two 14 persons employed by Plaintiff had driven to SEA-TAC airport in one of Plaintiff's vehicles
15 to pick up the guest and transport him to Smugglers Inn. Dkt. #99 at ¶ 10. As the vehicle
16 returned, driving down the lane and coming to a stop in the Plaintiff's driveway, Defendant
17 Egbert followed in his Border Patrol vehicle, entering Plaintiff's driveway and parking
18 immediately behind the vehicle. Dkts. #108 at ¶ 29 and #130 at ¶ 24.

20
21 The driver exited while the guest remained seated in the vehicle. According to 22 Defendant Egbert, when he approached the vehicle, the driver gave him permission to talk 23 to the guest, Mr. Kaya. Dkts. #108 at ¶ 32 and #130 at ¶ 24. However, Plaintiff, who was 24 on a nearby porch, told Defendant Egbert he was trespassing and asked him to leave his 25 property. Dkts. #99 at ¶ 10 and #108 at ¶ ¶ 33-34. Defendant Egbert was "puzzled" by the 26 behavior. Dkt. #108 at ¶ 35.

1 What happened next is not largely in dispute. The parties agree that Agent Egbert
2 did not leave when asked to do so by Plaintiff. Dkt. #108 at ¶¶ 33-34. The parties also 3 agree that Plaintiff moved between Defendant and the vehicle in which the passenger was 4 seated. Id. Defendant Egbert states that he informed Plaintiff he (Egbert) wanted to speak
5 with the guest about his immigration status. Id. at ¶ 34. The parties dispute what level of 6 force, if any, was used for Agent Egbert to access the vehicle, but the parties agree that 7 Agent Egbert opened the vehicle door and asked the guest about his status in the country.
8 Id. at ¶¶ 37-38. The parties agree that Defendant Egbert confirmed that the guest was 9 legally in the country and then allowed Plaintiff to escort the guest into his home. Id. at ¶¶ 10 40-41. The instant action followed.

14 III. DISCUSSION

15 A. Legal Standard on Summary Judgment

16 Summary judgment is appropriate where “the movant shows that there is no genuine 17 dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.”
18 Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a); Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247 (1986). In ruling
19 on summary judgment, a court does not weigh evidence to determine the truth of the matter,
20 but “only determine[s] whether there is a genuine issue for trial.” Crane v. Conoco, Inc., 41
21 F.3d 547, 549 (9th Cir. 1994) (citing Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v. O’Melveny & Meyers, 22 969 F.2d 744, 747 (9th Cir. 1992)). Material facts are those which might affect the 23 outcome of the suit under governing law. Anderson, 477 U.S. at 248.

24 The Court must draw all reasonable inferences in favor of the non-moving party.
25 See O’Melveny & Meyers, 969 F.2d at 747, rev’d on other grounds, 512 U.S. 79 (1994).
26 However, the nonmoving party must make a “sufficient showing on an essential element of 27
28
29
30

1 her case with respect to which she has the burden of proof” to survive summary judgment.
2 Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986). Further, “[t]he mere existence of a 3 scintilla of evidence in support of the plaintiff’s position will be insufficient; there must be 4 evidence on which the jury could reasonably find for the plaintiff.” Anderson, 477 U.S. at 5 251.

7 B. Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment Claim

9 Plaintiff asks this Court to find as a matter of law that Agent Egbert violated
10 Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment Rights when he (Egbert) drove onto Plaintiff’s curtilage and 11 refused to leave when asked to do so by Plaintiff. Dkt. #94 at 8-10. Defendant Egbert 12 responds that summary judgment in his favor is appropriate because: 1) allowing his claim 13 to proceed would be an unwarranted extension of Bivens into a new context; 2) he was 14 authorized by federal law to enter onto Plaintiff’s property, and the driveway in front of 15 Smuggler’s Inn is not an area where Plaintiff had a reasonable expectation of privacy for 16 purposes of the Fourth Amendment; 3) Plaintiff does not have standing to assert a claim 17 relating to the alleged detention or search of another person; and 4) he is entitled to 18 qualified immunity. Dkt. #128. For the reasons discussed below, the Court agrees that 19 allowing Plaintiff’s claim to proceed would be an unwarranted extension of Bivens into a 20 new context.
21
22
23
24

25 1. Curtilage

26 As an initial matter, the Court examines whether the driveway outside Plaintiff’s
27 home/inn is protected curtilage. The Fourth Amendment’s protection of curtilage has long 28 been black letter law. “[W]hen it comes to the Fourth Amendment, the home is first among 29 equals.” Florida v. Jardines, 569 U. S. 1, 6, 133 S. Ct. 1409, 185 L. Ed. 2d 495 (2013).
30

1 “At the Amendment’s ‘very core’ stands ‘the right of a man to retreat into his own home
2 and there be free from unreasonable governmental intrusion.’” Ibid. (quoting Silverman v.
3 United States, 365 U.S. 505, 511, 81 S. Ct. 679, 5 L. Ed. 2d 734 (1961)). To give full
4 practical effect to that right, the U.S. Supreme Court considers curtilage – “the area
5 ‘immediately surrounding and associated with the home’” – to be “‘part of the home itself 6 for Fourth Amendment purposes.’” Jardines, 569 U. S. at 6 (quoting Oliver v. United 7 States, 466 U.S. 170, 180, 104 S. Ct. 1735, 80 L. Ed. 2d 214 (1984)). “The protection
8 afforded the curtilage is essentially a protection of families and personal privacy in an area
9 intimately linked to the home, both physically and psychologically, where privacy
10 expectations are most heightened.” California v. Ciraolo, 476 U.S. 207, 212-213, 106 S.
11 Ct. 1809, 90 L. Ed. 2d 210 (1986). When a law enforcement officer physically intrudes on 12 the curtilage to gather evidence, a search within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment has 13 occurred. Jardines, 569 U. S. at 11. Such conduct thus is presumptively unreasonable 14 absent a warrant.

15
17
18
19
20 Defining the extent of the “curtilage,” depends on four factors: “the proximity of the 21 area claimed to be curtilage to the home, whether the area is included within an enclosure 22 surrounding the home, the nature of the uses to which the area is put, and the steps taken by 23 the resident to protect the area from observation by people passing by.” Id. at 301. The 24 Supreme Court has noted that, “for most homes, the boundaries of the curtilage will be 25 clearly marked: and the conception defining the curtilage – as the area around the home to 26 which the activity of home life extends – is a familiar one easily understood from our daily
27 experience.” Oliver v. U.S., 466 U.S. 170, 182 n.12, 104 S. Ct. 1735, 80 L. Ed. 2d 214 28 (1984).
29
30

1 In this case, the Court agrees with Plaintiff that the driveway in front of his
2 house/inn is curtilage. According to photographs in the record, the driveway runs in a u-
3 shape, off of 99th St. SW, in front of the house/inn and alongside part of the front lawn past
4 the front perimeter of the house. Dkt. #98, Exs. 3 and 4. The top portion of the 5 driveway that sits behind the front perimeter of the house is enclosed on two sides by a
6 white, wooden fence that appears to be the height of a car. Id., Ex. 4. A visitor 7 endeavoring to reach the front door of the house/inn would have to enter the driveway and 8 park, before proceeding up a set of steps leading to the front porch. Id. When Defendant
9 Egbert followed the vehicle and encountered the person sitting inside, it was parked in the 10 driveway near the front steps to the house/inn.
11

12 The “‘conception defining the curtilage’ is . . . familiar enough that it is ‘easily 13 understood from our daily experience.’” Jardines, 569 U.S. at 7 (quoting Oliver, 466 U.S.
14 at 182, fn. 12). Just like the front porch, side garden, or area “outside the front window,” 15 Jardines, 569 U.S. at 6, the driveway enclosure where Defendant Egbert stopped the 16 vehicle and confronted the guest inside constitutes “an area adjacent to the home and ‘to 17 which the activity of home life extends,’” and so is properly considered curtilage. Id. at 7 18 (quoting Oliver, 466 U.S. at 182, fn. 12). In physically intruding on the curtilage of 19 Plaintiff’s home/inn to stop and search the vehicle, Defendant Egbert not only invaded 20 Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment interest in the item searched, i.e., the vehicle, but also 21 invaded Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment interest in the curtilage of his home/inn. Thus, the 22 question now before this Court is whether there is an exception that justifies the invasion of 23 the curtilage.

1 2. Bivens

2 Defendant Egbert first argues that this lawsuit is not recognized in the Bivens
3 context, and therefore should be dismissed. Dkt. #102 at 10-14 (filed under seal).
4 Specifically, Defendant argues that Plaintiff’s claims present a new Bivens context because 5 the Supreme Court has not previously recognized an action against Border Patrol agents
6 conducting immigration checks, an action arising out of the use of force to overcome a 7 bystander’s attempt to impede an investigation, or an action for alleged retaliation, and 8 therefore the claims are nothing like the Bivens actions the Supreme Court has previously 9 approved. Id.

10 In 1971 the United States Supreme Court decided Bivens. In that case, the Court 11 held that, even absent statutory authorization, it would enforce a damages remedy to 12 compensate persons injured by federal officers who violated the prohibition against 13 unreasonable search and seizures. Bivens, 403 U.S. at 397. The Court acknowledged that 14 the Fourth Amendment does not provide for money damages “in so many words.” Id. at 15 396. However, the Court noted that Congress had not foreclosed a damages remedy in 16 “explicit” terms and that no “special factors” suggested that the Judiciary should 17 “hesitat[e]” in the face of congressional silence. Id. at 396-97. The Court held that it could 18 authorize a remedy under general principles of federal jurisdiction. See id. at 392 (citing 19 Bell v. Hood, 327 U.S. 678, 684, 66 S. Ct. 773, 90 L. Ed. 939 (1946)).

20 Since then, the U.S. Supreme Court has made clear that expanding the Bivens 21 remedy is now a “disfavored” judicial activity, in recognition that it has “consistently 22 refused to extend Bivens to any new context or new category of defendants.” Correctional 23 Services Corp. v. Malesko, 534 U. S. 61, 68, 122 S. Ct. 515, 151 L. Ed. 2d 456 (2001). The 24

1 Court has recently set forth the proper test for determining whether a case presents a new
2 Bivens context. Ziglar v. Abbasi, ___ U.S. ___, 137 S. Ct. 1843, 1859-60, 198 L. Ed.2d 290
3 (2017).

5 If the case is different in a meaningful way from previous Bivens cases
6 decided by this Court, then the context is new. Without endeavoring to 7 create an exhaustive list of differences that are meaningful enough to 8 make a given context a new one, some examples might prove 9 instructive. A case might differ in a meaningful way because of the 10 rank of the officers involved; the constitutional right at issue; the 11 generality or specificity of the official action; the extent of judicial 12 guidance as to how an officer should respond to the problem or 13 emergency to be confronted; the statutory or other legal mandate under 14 which the officer was operating; the risk of disruptive intrusion by the 15 Judiciary into the functioning of other branches; or the presence of 16 potential special factors that previous Bivens cases did not consider.

17 Id. In determining whether a Bivens remedy should be recognized in that case, the Court in 18 Abbasi compared the respondents' claims to already recognized Bivens claims and noted
19 that a new context arises in cases where "even a modest extension" exists. Id. at 1864.

20 In the instant matter, the alleged conduct has the recognizable substance of Fourth
21 Amendment violations. Nevertheless, Defendant Egbert is a U.S. Border Patrol Agent, 22 rather than a traditional law enforcement officer, federal workplace supervisor, or prison
23 official, and was purporting to operate under a different "statutory or other legal mandate"
24 than the officials outlined in the "traditional" Bivens claims referenced in Abbasi. For these 25 reasons, the Court assumes that this case presents a "modest extension" in a "new context"
26 for the application of a Bivens remedy and must determine whether there are special factors 27 counseling against extension of Bivens into this area. Ziglar, 137 S.Ct. at 1857. The 28 Supreme Court's precedents "now make clear that a Bivens remedy will not be available if 29 there are 'special factors counselling hesitation in the absence of affirmative action by 30

1 Congress.” Id. Thus, “the inquiry must concentrate on whether the Judiciary is well 2 suited, absent congressional action or instruction, to consider and weigh the costs and 3 benefits of allowing a damages action to proceed.” Id. at 1857-58. This requires the Court 4 to assess the impact on governmental operations system-wide, including the burdens on 5 government employees who are sued personally, as well as the projected costs and 6 consequences to the government itself. Id. at 1858. In addition, “if there is an alternative
7 remedial structure present in a certain case, that alone may limit the power of the Judiciary
8 to infer a new Bivens cause of action.” Id.

11 Even assuming that Plaintiff had no other remedy than a Bivens claim for the 12 alleged Fourth Amendment violation, this Court cannot extend Bivens if a “special factor”
13 counsels hesitation. See Wilkie v. Robbins, 551 U.S. 537, 554, 562, 127 S. Ct. 2588, 168 L.
14 Ed. 2d 389 (2007). Thus, the Court must carefully weigh all the reasons Defendant Egbert
15 has offered for denying a Bivens cause of action. Here, for the reasons set forth by 16 Defendant, the Court agrees that Plaintiff’s claims raise significant separation-of-powers
17 concerns by implicating the other branches’ national-security policies. See Dkt. #143 at 4-18 5. “The Supreme Court has never implied a Bivens remedy in a case involving the military, 19 national security, or intelligence.” Hernandez, 885 F.3d at 818–19. This Court agrees that 20 the risk of personal liability would cause Border Patrol agents to hesitate and second guess 21 their daily decisions about whether and how to investigate suspicious activities near the 22 border, paralyzing their important border-security mission. See Abbasi, 137 S. Ct. at 1861.
23 Likewise, the Court agrees that Congress is in the best position to evaluate the costs and 24 benefits of a new legal remedy, particularly when it has already granted Border Patrol broad 25 authority to secure the international border without providing a damages remedy for claims
26
27
28
29
30

1 arising in that context. See Abbasi, 137 S. Ct. at 1857–58 and 1862. For all of these 2 reasons, the Court finds that Plaintiff attempts an impermissible Bivens claim in a new 3 context, and special factors preclude such a claim. The Court therefore declines to address
4 Defendant’s alternative arguments regarding Defendant’s authorization under federal law,
5 standing or qualified immunity.

7 8 IV. CONCLUSION

9 Having reviewed Plaintiff’s and Defendant’s motions for summary judgment, the 10 oppositions thereto and replies in support thereof, along with the supporting Declarations and 11 Exhibits and the remainder of the record, the Court hereby finds and ORDERS:
12

- 13 1. Plaintiff’s Motion for Summary Judgment on Plaintiff’s Fourth Amendment Claim 14 (Dkt. #94) is DENIED.
- 15 2. Defendant Egbert’s Motion for Summary Judgment on Plaintiff’s Fourth
16 Amendment Claim is GRANTED and the claim will be dismissed against Defendant
17 Egbert in its entirety.
- 18 3. The remainder of Defendant Egbert’s motion for summary judgment (Dkt. #102)
19 remains noted on the Court’s calendar and will be resolved by separate Order.
