1	TH	IE HONORABLE JOHN C. COUGHENOUR
2
3
4
5
6
7	UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
8	AT SEATTLE
9	In the Matter of the Application of	CASE NO. C17-1453-JCC
10	LUFTHANSA TECHNIK AG, Petitioner, for an Order Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1782 to Take	ORDER
11	Discovery, Pursuant to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, of Respondent PANASONIC
12	AVIONICS CORPORATION, for Use in
13	Foreign Proceedings, with ASTRONICS ADVANCED ELECTRONIC SYSTEMS
14	CORP. as Intervenor.
15	This matter comes before the Court on Astronics Advanced Electronic Systems Corp.'s
16	("AES") submission for in camera review of a sample of documents supporting the privilege log
17	(Dkt. No. 273-1) provided to Lufthansa Technik AG ("Lufthansa"), at issue presently before the

(Dkt. No. 273-1) provided to Lufthansa Technik AG ("Lufthansa"), at issue presently before the Court. (See Dkt. No. 265) (motion to enforce and compel production); (see also Dkt. No. 293) (minute order directing AES to provide the Court with a sample of documents withheld in accordance with its privilege log).

Based on the Court's in camera review, it largely concurs with AES's invocations as to the selected items. (See Dkt. No. 293.) The e-mails at issue, along with the attachments, are generally subject to the attorney-client privilege, work-product protections, or both. Given AES's general compliance with privilege rules, the Court sees no basis for in camera review of the entirety of AES's log (Dkt. No. 273-1). That being said, the Court did find, in a few instances, no 26 basis to withhold from production certain e-mail attachments. These are documents identified as

ORDER C17-1453-JCC PAGE - 1

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

numbers 360, 361, 654, 951, and 1146 (associated with privilege log group numbers 125, 225, 350 and 425). These documents have no direct bearing on the privilege or protection appropriately invoked in the associated e-mail.

Accordingly, AES is ORDERED to (a) produce these and similar documents, even if attached to otherwise-privileged communications, and (b) revise its privilege log for this production, within 14 days (and to notify the Court once that production is made). The Court STAYS further consideration of Lufthansa's motion to compel and enforce (Dkt. No. 265) until 7 days following this production, to afford Lufthansa an opportunity to revise and reconsider this portion of its motion.

The Clerk is DIRECTED to renote Lufthansa's motion to compel and enforce (Dkt. No. 265), along with the companion motion to seal (Dkt. No. 264) to September 13, 2024.

DATED this 23rd day of August 2024.

CCoyha

John C. Coughenour ' UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE

ORDER C17-1453-JCC PAGE - 2