HONORABLE RICHARD A. JONES

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
AT SEATTLE

GENE PALMER,

Plaintiff,

v.

TIENNEY MILNOR, et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:19-cv-00961-RAJ

ORDER GRANTING MOTIONS TO DISMISS

I. INTRODUCTION

On April 16, 2020, after receiving leave to amend weeks earlier, Dkt. # 31, Plaintiff Gene Palmer filed an amended complaint (“Amended Complaint”), Dkt. # 32.¹ What followed were several motions to dismiss filed by several defendants, some joining ¹ To be clear, the complaint located at Docket No. 32 is the operative complaint. It is mistitled “Plaintiff’s Second Amended Complaint.” Dkt. # 32. But it is not, in fact, Mr. Palmer’s second amended complaint. It is his first. This misnomer likely occurred when Mr. Palmer filed an “Amended Complaint” without leave, Dkt. # 15, which the Court later struck from the record, Dkt. # 18. Later, when Mr. Palmer was granted leave to amend, he filed this complaint, the operative complaint, and incorrectly named it his “Second Amended Complaint.” Dkt. # 32.

1 earlier-filed motions to dismiss. Dkt. ## 34, 35, 58. The Court lists them here.

2 On May 6, 2020, Defendants Washington and Northern Idaho District Council of 3 Laborers, Laborers' International Union of North America Local 292, Daniel J.
4 Christofferson et al., and Jamie Clark et al. (collectively, "Union Defendants") filed a 5 motion to dismiss. Dkt. # 34. Two days later, on May 8, 2020, several other defendants 6 joined the Union Defendants' motion and moved to dismiss in their own right. Dkt. # 35.
7 Those defendants included Defendants Tienney Milnor and Melanie Tratnik, Washington 8 State Office of the Attorney General, and Washington State Department of Labor and 9 Industries (collectively, "State Defendants"). Id. Several months later, on September 14, 10 2020, Defendant Francis Leaman joined both those motions. Dkt. # 58. Together, the 11 Court refers to Union Defendants, State Defendants, and Mr. Leaman as "Moving 12 Defendants."

13 Those three motions to dismiss are now before this Court. Dkt. ## 34, 35, 58.
14 Also before this Court is Mr. Palmer's Motion for Continuance of Defendants' Motions 15 to Dismiss. Dkt. # 44. Having considered the submissions of the parties, the relevant 16 portions of the record, and the applicable law, the Court finds that oral argument is 17 unnecessary. For the reasons below, the motions to dismiss (Dkt. ## 34, 35, 58) are 18 GRANTED in part and Mr. Palmer's Motion for Continuance (Dkt. # 44) is DENIED.
19 All remaining pending motions (Dkt. ## 37, 43, 55, 66, 68) are DENIED as moot.

20 II. LEGAL STANDARD

21 Under Rule 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, a court may dismiss 22 a complaint for failure to state a claim. The court must assume the truth of the 23 complaint's factual allegations and credit all reasonable inferences arising from those 24 allegations. Sanders v. Brown, 504 F.3d 903, 910 (9th Cir. 2007). The court "need not 25 accept as true conclusory allegations that are contradicted by documents referred to in the 26 complaint." Manzarek v. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 519 F.3d 1025, 1031 (9th Cir.
27 2008). Instead, the plaintiff must point to factual allegations that "state a claim to relief

1 that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 568 (2007). If 2 the plaintiff succeeds, the complaint avoids dismissal if there is “any set of facts 3 consistent with the allegations in the complaint” that would entitle the plaintiff to relief.
4 Id. at 563; Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009).

5 On a motion to dismiss, a court typically considers only the contents of the 6 complaint. However, a court is permitted to take judicial notice of facts that are 7 incorporated by reference in the complaint. United States v. Ritchie, 342 F.3d 903, 908 8 (9th Cir. 2003) (“A court may . . . consider certain materials documents attached to the 9 complaint, documents incorporated by reference in the complaint.”); Mir v. Little Co. of 10 Mary Hosp., 844 F.2d 646, 649 (9th Cir. 1988) (“[I]t is proper for the district court to 11 ‘take judicial notice of matters of public record outside the pleadings’ and consider them 12 for purposes of the motion to dismiss.”) (quoting MGIC Indem. Corp. v. Weisman, 803 13 F.2d 500, 504 (9th Cir. 1986)).

14 III. DISCUSSION

15 A. Motion to Continue Defendants’ Motions to Dismiss (Dkt. # 44)

16 Under Local Rule 7(j), a motion for relief from a deadline should be filed 17 “sufficiently in advance of the deadline to allow the court to rule on the motion prior to 18 the deadline.” Local Rules W.D. Wash. LCR 7(j). Though a party may seek relief, the 19 party “should not assume that the motion will be granted” and must comply with the 20 deadline unless ordered otherwise. Id.

21 On the day that his responses to Union Defendants’ and State Defendants’ motions 22 to dismiss to were due, Mr. Palmer filed a motion for a continuance. Dkt. # 44. He 23 sought to extend his response deadline by over a month. Id. He explained that there was 24 good cause because he had recently undergone surgery for his cancer. Id. The Court 25 construes Mr. Palmer’s motion for a continuance as a motion for relief from a deadline.

26 Surely, the Court is sympathetic to Mr. Palmer’s condition, but relief from his 27 response deadline is inappropriate. The motion for relief was not filed sufficiently in 1 advance of the deadline; it was filed on the deadline. Dkt. # 44. And given the 2 circumstances, the Court cannot find good cause. Mr. Palmer has long been on notice of 3 Union Defendants' arguments. Though the current version of Union Defendants' motion 4 to dismiss was filed in May 2020, a nearly identical version was filed several months 5 earlier in February 2020. Dkt. # 24. The previous version was mooted when this Court 6 granted leave to amend. Dkt. # 31. But when Union Defendants renewed their motion to 7 dismiss, the new motion was largely unchanged from the previous version. It raised the 8 same principal challenges as before, arguing that Mr. Palmer's claims were barred by 9 statutes of limitations and the Rooker-Feldman doctrine. Mr. Palmer was thus aware of 10 Union Defendants' arguments for almost four months before seeking this extension.

11 Lastly, as a practical matter, it has been more than nine months since Union Defendants 12 and State Defendants filed their motions to dismiss. In that time, Mr. Palmer has not 13 filed a response or otherwise challenged their arguments at all. Mr. Palmer's motion for 14 relief from a deadline is DENIED. Dkt. # 44.

15 B. Extrinsic Evidence

16 In ruling on a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, a court may not consider any material beyond 17 the pleadings. Lee v. City of Los Angeles, 250 F.3d 668, 688 (9th Cir. 2001). If it does, it 18 must normally convert the motion to dismiss into one for summary judgment under Rule 19 56. Ritchie, 342 F.3d at 907 (9th Cir. 2003); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(d). A court may, 20 however, consider certain materials without making such a conversion, such as 21 documents incorporated by reference into a complaint or matters of judicial notice.
22 Ritchie, 342 F.3d at 907.

23 Moving Defendants seek to dismiss the Amended Complaint under Rule 12(b)(6).
24 Dkt. ## 34, 35, 58. In support of their motions, they introduce copious extrinsic 25 evidence. Dkt. ## 34-1, 34-2. The evidence includes subpoenas, declarations, state court 26 filings, and state agency correspondence. Id. Yet the Moving Defendants ask the Court 27 to consider this evidence without converting the motions to dismiss into motions for 1 summary judgment, claiming that the evidence “forms the basis” of and is “integral to” 2 Mr. Palmer’s claims and is thereby incorporated by reference. Dkt. # 34 at 22-24. But 3 this view would stretch the incorporation-by-reference doctrine much too far.

4 “[I]ncorporation-by-reference is a judicially created doctrine that treats certain 5 documents as though they are part of the complaint itself.” Khoja v. Orexigen 6 Therapeutics, Inc., 899 F.3d 988, 1002 (9th Cir. 2018). “Even if a document is not 7 attached to a complaint, it may be incorporated by reference into a complaint if the 8 plaintiff refers extensively to the document or the document forms the basis of the 9 plaintiff’s claim.” Ritchie, 342 F.3d at 907-08. This prevents plaintiffs from selecting 10 only beneficial portions of documents, while omitting harmful portions. Khoja, 899 F.3d 11 at 1002. Examples of incorporated documents might include an allegedly defamatory 12 picture and caption in a case about defamation, an insurance contract in a case about 13 insurance coverage, or SEC filings in a case about stock fraud. See id.; see also Ritchie, 14 342 F.3d at 908. In such instances, incorporation is proper “because the claim 15 necessarily depend[s]” on those documents. Khoja, 899 F.3d at 1002.

16 Mr. Palmer’s § 1983 and state law tort claims do not necessarily rely on any of 17 Moving Defendants’ evidence. In pleading his claims, Mr. Palmer does not rely on any 18 particular document, as he might in, say, a breach of contract claim. Nor does he excerpt 19 self-serving portions of a larger document, while omitting damaging portions from that 20 same document. Moving Defendants are offering this evidence, then, not to provide 21 material already relied on or referenced in the complaint but to add extra facts for the 22 Court to consider, ultimately buttressing their defense.

23 For example, Mr. Palmer claims that certain Union Defendants and State 24 Defendants improperly coordinated to obtain Mr. Palmer’s “private information without a 25 warrant.” Dkt. # 32 ¶ 3.15. In their motions to dismiss, Moving Defendants seek to 26 incorporate an affidavit of probable cause from Mr. Palmer’s underlying criminal case 27 explaining how and why that coordination occurred. Dkt. # 34 at 4-5; Dkt. # 34-1 at 9-

1 11. Given Mr. Palmer’s confusing complaint, the affidavit may indeed be illuminating.
2 It may well provide the Court with much needed context and clarity. But it was certainly 3 not incorporated by reference and is certainly inappropriate to consider on a motion to 4 dismiss.

5 The Court cannot consider the affidavit and evidence like it without converting the 6 instant motions to dismiss into motions for summary judgment. The Court will not do so, 7 in part because that is what Moving Defendants expressly requested and in part because 8 the federal rules would require that Mr. Palmer have been given a “reasonable 9 opportunity to present all the material fact that is pertinent to the motion” before the 10 Court did so, which would not have been the case here. Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(d)

11 Incorporation by reference is but one way a court may look outside a complaint 12 without converting a motion to dismiss into a motion for summary judgment. Another is 13 through judicial notice. A court may, for example, take notice of “proceedings in other 14 courts, both within and without the federal judicial system, if those proceedings have a 15 direct relation to matters at issue.” U.S. ex rel. Robinson Rancheria Citizens Council v.
16 Borneo, Inc., 971 F.2d 244, 248 (9th Cir. 1992). But a court must not take judicial notice 17 “so as to supply, without formal introduction of evidence, facts essential to support a 18 contention in a cause then before it.” M/V Am. Queen v. San Diego Marine Const. Corp., 19 708 F.2d 1483, 1491 (9th Cir. 1983). Thus, when a court takes judicial notice of another 20 court’s opinion, it must not do so “for the truth of the facts recited therein, but for the 21 existence of the opinion, which is not subject to reasonable dispute over its authenticity.” 22 Lee, 250 F.3d at 690 (quoting Southern Cross Overseas Agencies, Inc. v. Wah Kwong 23 Shipping Group Ltd., 181 F.3d 410, 426-27 (3rd Cir. 1999)) (noting that a court may take 24 judicial notice of “matters of public record,” such as the fact of a court hearing or the fact 25 that a party signed a waiver).

26 Here, Moving Defendants refer to various cases that Mr. Palmer has been involved 27 in. See, e.g., Dkt. # 34 at 10-12; Dkt. # 35 at 14-22. The Court may indeed take judicial 1 notice of certain facts contained in those cases. And it does so as set forth below.

2 C. Statute of Limitations

3 Mr. Palmer asserts five causes of action, one federal (violation of § 1983), the rest 4 state (negligence, defamation, intentional infliction of emotional distress (“IIED”), and 5 “outrage”²). Dkt. # 32 ¶¶ 10-14. For all claims, no statute of limitations exceeds three 6 years.

7 “A claim may be dismissed as untimely pursuant to a [Federal Rules of Civil 8 Procedure] 12(b)(6) motion ‘only when the running of the statute [of limitations] is 9 apparent on the face of the complaint.’” United States ex rel. Air Control Techs., Inc. v.
10 Pre Con Indus., Inc., 720 F.3d 1174, 1178 (9th Cir. 2013) (second alteration in original) 11 (quoting Von Saher v. Norton Simon Museum of Art at Pasadena, 592 F.3d 954, 969 (9th 12 Cir. 2010)). Mr. Palmer’s § 1983 claim, negligence claim, and IIED claim are subject to 13 a three-year statute of limitations. Bagley v. CMC Real Estate Corp., 923 F.2d 758, 760 14 (9th Cir. 1991) (§ 1983); Woods View II, LLC v. Kitsap Cty., 352 P.3d 807, 816 (Wash.
15 Ct. App. 2015) (negligence); Cox v. Oasis Physical Therapy, PLLC, 222 P.3d 119, 127 16 (Wash. Ct. App. 2009) (IIED). On the other hand, his defamation claim is subject to a 17 two-year statute of limitations. Wash. Rev. Code Ann. § 4.16.100 (defamation).

18 Federal law determines when Mr. Palmer’s § 1983 claim began to accrue; state 19 law determines when his tort claims began to accrue. Dunn v. City of Seattle, 420 F.
20 Supp. 3d 1148, 1158 (W.D. Wash. 2019). That distinction, however, is of little 21 importance here. Id. “Under federal law, a claim accrues when the plaintiff knows or 22 has reason to know of the injury which is the basis of the action.” TwoRivers v. Lewis, 23 174 F.3d 987, 991 (9th Cir. 1999). Likewise, under Washington law, “[t]he general rule 24 in ordinary personal injury actions is that a cause of action accrues at the time the act or 25 omission occurs.” Matter of Estates of Hibbard, 826 P.2d 690, 694 (Wash. 1992). Yet,

26 _____
27 ² “‘Outrage’ and ‘intentional infliction of emotional distress’ are synonyms for the same 28 tort.” Kloepfel v. Bokor, 66 P.3d 630, 631 (Wash. 2003).

1 under Washington’s “discovery rule,” “a cause of action does not accrue until a party 2 knew or should have known the essential elements of the cause of action—duty, breach, 3 causation, and damages.” Green v. A.P.C. (Am. Pharm. Co.), 960 P.2d 912, 915 (Wash.
4 1998). Still, this does not mean that the action accrues when the plaintiff learns that he 5 has a legal cause of action. 1000 Virginia Ltd. P’ship v. Vertex Corp., 146 P.3d 423, 6 428 (Wash. 2006). Instead, the action accrues “when the plaintiff discovers the salient 7 facts underlying the elements of the cause of action.” Id.

8 Based only on the face of the complaint and judicially noticed facts, Mr. Palmer’s 9 claims are time-barred. In his Amended Complaint, Mr. Palmer describes the “crux” of 10 this matter as “Snohomish County’s involvement to pursue and collect on L[abor] and 11 I[n]dustries] claims against him.” Dkt. # 32 ¶ 3.1. His description is, admittedly, 12 confusing. From what the Court gathers, Defendant Francis Leaman, a representative of 13 Washington State Department of Labor and Industries, tried to obtain Mr. Palmer’s 14 employment records from Mr. Palmer’s labor union, Laborers International Union of 15 North America Local 292. Id. ¶¶ 3.15-3.16. Mr. Leaman was investigating Mr. Palmer 16 because he believed that Mr. Palmer was collecting certain welfare benefits even though 17 he was employed. Id. Mr. Palmer was later arrested. Id. ¶ 3.17.

18 Little as that may be, those are the facts that are clear from Mr. Palmer’s 19 complaint. The Court fills in the gaps by taking judicial notice from a decision rendered 20 by the appellate court in Mr. Palmer’s criminal case: State v. Palmer, 186 Wash. App.
21 1017 (2015). On March 3, 2007, Mr. Palmer was charged by information with one count 22 of theft in the first degree. Dkt. # 35 at 2-4. Many years later, on October 27, 2011, the 23 government filed an amended information charging Mr. Palmer with one count of false 24 information by a claimant. Id. That same day, Mr. Palmer pleaded guilty. Id. The trial 25 court set a restitution hearing to begin two weeks later, on November 10, 2011. Id. At 26 the hearing, the court ordered Mr. Palmer to pay restitution. Id. Nearly two years later, 27 on May 3, 2013, the clerk of the superior court filed a “declaration and notice of 1 community supervision violation and affidavit of probable cause,” claiming that Mr.

2 Palmer had not paid restitution. Id. In October 2013, there was a hearing to address Mr.
3 Palmer’s failure to pay restitution. Id. After that, the court entered an order, and Mr.
4 Palmer appealed. Id.

5 This chronology makes clear: all statutes of limitations have long since expired.
6 Mr. Palmer began this action on June 20, 2019. Dkt. # 1. The “crux” of his complaint—
7 the Department of Labor and Industries’ investigation of him and his union’s 8 involvement—clearly began sometime around March 3, 2007, when Mr. Palmer was 9 charged. That is more than a decade before he brought this action. The farthest-reaching 10 statute of limitations here is three years. Even if the Court assumed that Mr. Palmer’s 11 claims began to accrue when the Washington Court of Appeals affirmed his criminal 12 conviction, arguably when the saga ended, that would be March 9, 2015, more than four 13 years before this action was brought. The Court need not pinpoint exactly when each of 14 Mr. Palmer’s claims accrued because the Court can find no event in the Amended 15 Complaint that occurred within the three-year or two-year statutes of limitations window 16 at all. And the Court has no reason to think that the statutes should be tolled.

17 Drawing all reasonable inferences in Mr. Palmer’s favor, the Court determines that 18 his claims are time-barred. Because this issue is dispositive, the Court need not reach the 19 Moving Defendants’ other arguments at this time.

20 21 IV. CONCLUSION

22 For the reasons stated above, the Court GRANTS in part Moving Defendants’ 23 motions to dismiss (Dkt. ## 34, 35, 58), DENIES Mr. Palmer’s Motion to Continue 24 Defendants’ Motions to Dismiss (Dkt. # 44), and DENIES as moot all remaining 25 motions (Dkt. ## 37, 43, 55, 66, 68). Mr. Palmer’s Amended Complaint is dismissed.

1 The Court grants Mr. Palmer leave to file an amended complaint within thirty days
2 of the entry of this Order.
