Re: Aronson v. Dog Eat Dog Films, Inc.

Dear Mr. Emanuel:

You have been served, as registered agent for Dog Eat Dog Films, Inc., with a Complaint for Damages brought by my client, Ken Aronson. Mr. Aronson has authorized me to give Dog Eat Dog 30 days to consider a negotiated settlement before filing this matter in U.S. Federal District Court. If you, or the attorneys for Dog Eat Dog, would like to discuss this case with me I will be happy to oblige.

As you consider your position, I would like for you to have an idea of who Mr. Aronson is, and the irony of this case. Mr. Aronson suffered a severe and debilitating auto accident several years ago. The driver was uninsured, and Mr. Aronson fell victim to the health care deficiencies highlighted in Mr. Moore's film, Sicko. He is a man of humble means, and humble sensibilities. But he knows he has been wronged.

It is beyond reasonable dispute that Dog Eat Dog obtained a video and a song that Mr. Aronson had copyrights to, and used them in the movie Sicko. Dog Eat Dog had ample notice that Mr. Aronson authored the video, and was a co-author of the song "Oh England" used in the film Sicko. It is also undisputed that Sicko has generated tens of millions of dollars, and will continue to for years to come. Mr. Aronson is entitled to, at least, a percentage of the gross profits equal to the percentage of time his copyrighted material appeared in Sicko. In other words, approximately 1% of gross profits. I anticipate projected profits will be well in excess of $100 million within the life of Mr. Aronson's copyright. The 1% figure is arguably quite low: as Sicko Producer Anne Moore said of the clip, Mr. Aronson's humorous recording provided "much needed comic relief." A jury could reasonably conclude that Mr. Aronson's contribution to Sicko is far greater than 1% -- it is an awfully entertaining component to the movie.

September 17, 2009

Mr. Aronson has been much embarrassed by his unexpected appearance in an international film: he is shown singing his song, Oh England, in a manner that is not becoming to him, and undermines his reputation as a professional musician. He has no desire to shine more light on this embarrassment. No one, save conservative pundits, would benefit from the media attention this case risks generating. Mr. Aronson prefers a quiet and reasonable settlement, and I am happy to facilitate that up to a point. Mr. Aronson is in agreement that absent a fair settlement offer he will seek his relief from a jury. I look forward to your correspondence, if you are so inclined, but I will file suit on October 17, 2009, if this matter is not resolved by that date.

Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

II. THE PARTIES

2.1 Ken Aronson is a private individual with a residence in Hoquiam, Washington.

2.2 Upon information and belief, Dog Eat Dog Productions, Inc., (Defendant) is a Delaware corporation with its principle place of business at New York, New York. Upon information and belief, Defendant is engaged in the business of producing, advertising, marketing, and distributing documentary films created by Michael Moore. Upon information and belief, Defendant regularly transacts substantial business in this district, including distributing Michael Moore documentaries to movie theaters and as DVD rentals.

III. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

3.1 This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Plaintiff's claims for copyright infringement pursuant to 17 U.S.C. §501 and 28 U.S.C. §§1331 and 1338(a).

3.2 Venue in this district is proper under 28 USC §§1391 and 1400 because a substantial part of the events giving rise to the claims asserted herein arise in this district, and Defendants, upon information and belief, are and at all times were doing business in this district.

IV. JURY DEMAND

4.1 Plaintiff Ken Aronson requests that this matter be tried before a jury.

V. FACTS

5.1 Plaintiff Ken Aronson, and an individual named Eric Turnbow, traveled together to London, England approximately ten years ago. Plaintiff brought with him a video camera and recorded portions of his trip.

5.2 Plaintiff recorded a live performance of the copyrighted song, "Oh England," part of a compilation called "I'm Alive," which is copyrighted under the name Eric Turnbow. This

1 compilation has been mass produced as a CD which lists Aronson as a co-author of "Oh
2 England." The video recording includes Plaintiff's likeness.

3 5.3 Plaintiff also recorded a scene in which Eric Turnbow attempted to walk across Abby
4 Road on his hands, fell, injured his shoulder, received medical treatment at a local English
5 hospital, and was discharged. The video includes audio commentary by Plaintiff.

6 5.4 Upon returning to the United States, Turnbow offered to make a VHS copy of the 7 video footage for Plaintiff. The camera created a "Beta" tape, and Turnbow had the 8 appropriate conversion equipment. Turnbow kept a VHS copy for himself, unbeknownst to 9 Plaintiff.

10 5.5 Turnbow states that the video itself was Aronson's, as was the video camera used to 11 create the tape. Plaintiff is the sole videographer of this recording.

12 5.6 Around February of 2006, Michael Moore sent out to his fans, Turnbow included a
13 request for health care stories in preparation for his documentary film, Sicko. Turnbow
14 reports having had a medical problem years before in the United States where he found his 15 health care treatment inadequate. He contrasted that with the care he received in England ten
16 years earlier. Turnbow heard back from Moore's assistant Christine Fall and was told that 17 though they received 25,000 submissions, Turnbow's intrigued them.

18 5.7 Turnbow submitted a VHS tape to Dog Eat Dog Films, along with the CD "I'm Alive"
19 which included a jacket noting Ken Aronson as co-author of the song "Oh England."
20 Turnbow reports he was sent, and signed, a release permitting Moore to use his materials.
21 Turnbow further reports that he mentioned Ken Aronson, by name, as the individual in the 22 video who accompanied him to England.
23
24
25
26

1 5.8 Plaintiff was not contacted by any agent of Michael Moore, nor did he give his
2 permission to anyone to use his video tape, or the song "Oh England." Defendant was or 3 should have been aware that Ken Aronson was co-author of "Oh England." Defendant had in 4 its possession a CD jacket identifying Plaintiff as co-author. Defendant was or should have
5 been aware that Ken Aronson was the sole videographer of the footage used in their film.
6 Turnbow identified Aronson to Dog Eat Dog agents, and the footage clearly demonstrates that
7 Turnbow was not the videographer. His friend, identified to Dog Eat Dog as Aronson, clearly
8 was. Despite reasonable notice of Aronson's copyrights, consent was not obtained before 9 distribution.

11 5.9 Defendant Dog Eat Dog Films, Inc. generated substantial profits as a result of this 12 film, and profits are on-going.

Re: Aronson v. Dog Eat Dog Films, Inc.

Dear Messrs. Vertetis and Doran:

As you know, I am representing the defendant, Dog Eat Dog Films, Inc. in the above case.

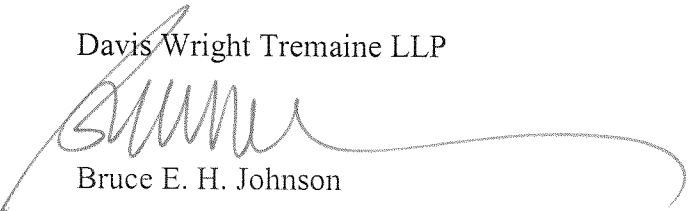

I will be getting married next week, and then going on a honeymoon to New Zealand, and will return to my office in Seattle on June 7, 2010.

Accordingly, I would appreciate an extension regarding the deadline or deadlines to file the Answer to Complaint and any Motion in response to the Complaint to June 9, 2010.

Please advise if there is any problem with this request. If there is not, I will submit a Stipulation to that effect.

Very truly yours,

Davis Wright Tremaine LLP

Synopsis as Enacted

Brief Description: Addressing lawsuits aimed at chilling the valid exercise of the constitutional rights of speech and petition.

Sponsors: Senate Committee on Judiciary (originally sponsored by Senators Kline, Kauffman and Kohl-Welles).

Senate Committee on Judiciary
House Committee on Judiciary

Background: Strategic lawsuits against public participation, or SLAPPs, are initiated to intimidate or retaliate against people who speak out about a matter of public concern. Typically, a person who institutes a SLAPP suit claims damages for defamation or interference with a business relationship resulting from a communication made by a person or group to the government or a self-regulatory organization that has been delegated authority by the government. A 2003 Gonzaga law review article describes most SLAPPs as occurring in the commercial context with the lawsuits being filed against people or groups alleging environmental or consumer protection violations.

In 1989 the Legislature addressed the use of SLAPPs by creating immunity from civil liability for people who in good faith communicate a complaint or information to an agency of the federal, state, or local government or to a self-regulatory organization that has been delegated authority by a government agency. In 2002 the anti-SLAPP statutes were amended to remove the requirement that the communication be in good faith and to allow statutory damages of $10,000 to a person who prevails against a lawsuit based on a communication to a government agency or organization. The 2002 legislation also included a policy statement recognizing the constitutional threat of SLAPP litigation.

Summary: The Legislature asserts that it is in the public interest for citizens to participate in matters of public concern and provide information to public entities and other citizens on public issues that affect them without fear of reprisal through abuse of the judicial process. The Legislature affirms its concern regarding lawsuits brought primarily to chill freedom of speech and petition, also known as strategic lawsuits against public participation.

An action involving public participation and petition is defined as including any oral or written statement submitted in connection with an issue under consideration by a legislative, executive, judicial, or other proceeding authorized by law. It also includes any oral or written statement that is reasonably likely to encourage or enlist public participation in the consideration or review of an issue in a legislative, executive, judicial, or other proceeding authorized by law. Any oral or written statement submitted in a public forum in connection with an issue of public concern is also an action involving public participation and petition. Any other lawful conduct in furtherance of the exercise of the constitutional right of free speech in connection with an issue of public concern is also considered to be an act involving public participation and petition.

A procedure is created for the speedy resolution of strategic lawsuits against public participation. The court is directed to hold a hearing with all due speed on any motion to deny a claim based on an action involving public participation and petition and to render its decision no later than seven days after the hearing is held. A person who is successful in pursuing a motion to deny a claim based on an action involving public participation and petition is awarded costs of litigation, reasonable attorneys' fees, and $10,000. The court may award additional relief such as sanctions upon the moving party and its attorneys if it determines they are necessary to deter repetition of the conduct. If the court finds the motion to deny a claim is frivolous or is intended to cause unnecessary delay, it will award costs of litigation, reasonable attorneys' fees, and an amount of $10,000.

The general purpose of the law to protect participants in public controversies from an abusive use of the courts is to be applied and construed liberally.
